Butte City, Montana.—The beautiful and spacious grounds formerly known as the Columbia Gardens, which are being entirely refitted at a cost of $15,000, will undoubtedly be one of the grandest amusement enterprises west of Chicago. The largest of the enclosures on the grounds will be a magnificent water proof rotunda capable of seating 3 000 people, with stage and other adjuncts, a museum building filled with curiosities from all parts of the globe; theatorium building in which it is intended to give half hour performances of various kinds during the day, an aquarium building which will contain rare specimens of fish, plants and marine curios from all quarters. There will be an elaborate fountain the basin of which will contain gold, silver and other rare species of fish. There will also be a grand music stand from which music will be dispensed by a first-class military band and a superb orchestra. A museum th bear pit, bear park, cages fragiest birds and animals of all kinds have also been provided. It is the intention of Gordon & Ritchie to have special attraction every Sunday and holiday, and these have already been provided for. Among the opening attractions are Professor Cosgrove, the Australian Punch and Judy performer. Koko, one of the survivors of the ill-fated Jeannette Arctic expedition, with his collection of Arctic relics; Madame Zulieta, the living half lady; the wonderful automatic wonder, the automatic Wilczka, containing thousands

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The Grand is coming to the front with a new line of attractions. McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, that are coming Westward, and have been figuring for San Francisco dates, go there for the week of April 15th. De Vivo takes the Mary Anderson dates off of Manager Hayman's hands and plays Albani and her concert troupe there weeks of April 22nd and 29th; and Gilmore's Twelve Temptations spectacle and other booked attractions follow.

Work on a magnificent new opera house at Spokane Falls has been commenced. The plans include a block 200 feet front, to cost $300,000, with a theatre with a seating capacity of 2,000. An effort will be made to have it ready for opening by October 30th. Harry Hayward, the present manager of the opera house, will manage it.

Last week we published the complete success of Miss Emma Eames in her debut in opera in Paris, and the fact that she had been secured by contract by her managers at a ridiculous low salary. The latest Paris dispatch to the Chronicle says: "The managers of the Opera have been guilty of an astounding generous act—doubling the salary of Miss Eames, though she was bound to them for one year at a contract price. Pitt & Gaillard evidently wish to be on the sunny side of the rising star, who is a native of China, her father being at the time of her birth United States Consul at Shanghai."

Boston is to have a new grand theatre to be called the Tremont, and elaborate preparations are being made for its commencement. Mary Anderson is to lay the corner-stone, if her health permits, in the presence of the Governor of the State, the Mayor and city authorities in a body. Hon. Levi Woodbury will deliver an address, followed by the Governor and distinguished members of the theatrical profession present.

Bustle-rustle W. M. Kelly, who has managed to bring Grace Hawthorne into such great prominence in London, is on his way to New York to arrange for her appearance in that city in a new play, written for her by W. G. Wills, called Josephine.

Thos. P. Getz is fast coming to the front as a musical composer. His latest new song, "The Picture of My Baby on the Wall," is a charming ballad.

Mrs. Langtry made her re-appearance on the stage in Philadelphia March 25th in Macbeth. Beyond a slight weakness she showed no sign of her recent illness.

The Irish harp embossed in gold on the back of Teddy's Japanese suit, when that sturdy Milesian gets himself up as a Japanese in The Tycoon, is a quaint conceit.

Miss Julia Marlowe, who was to have appeared at the Wieting Opera House, Syracuse, N. Y., March 25th, was unable to fulfill her engagement on account of sickness. Miss Marlowe's manager, Ariel Barney, is in New York arranging with Henry Abbey to fill a part of Mary Anderson's dates.

Effie Ellsler's Western tour opened with a boom at the Tabor Opera House in Denver March 11th to $845. After Denver she visited Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, and on April 8th will begin a 5 weeks' season in this city at the Alcazar where she is a great favorite. Frank Burbeck, late of the Possible Case Co.; O'Kane Hillis, recently with "Michael Strogoff;" Miss Judith Berolde, who played at Niblo's with Miss Claxton; James Wallis, who supported Miss Clayton at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, and Miss Jessie Stuart have been added to her already strong company.

"Now, That is What I Think, Don't You?" that R. E. Graham gets a great many recalls for his clever and cleverly sung topical song in The Little Tycoon.

This week we have The Duke's Motto, which will close the Grismer-Davies engagement at the Alcazar.

After seeing Fanny Davenport as Tosca one can recall the saying of Edwin Forrest and apply it, without much stretch of praise, to this actress: "I act Hamlet and Macbeth, but by God, sir, I am Lear!" Miss Davenport acted Fedora and Camille, but she is Tosca.—[Eddy's Squibs.

Tony Pastor has engaged the English specialists Millie Hylton and Ray and Volte for his traveling company.

The prettiest song of the day, "Love Comes Like a Summer Sigh," in The Little Tycoon, is charmingly sung by Miss Catherine Linyard.

Francis Wilson has been "fired" by Rudolph Aronson. Now both "comedians" are indulging in a war of words.

The question of the day—"Have you seen The Little Flycoon?"

Maurice Barrymore will be the leading man at Palmer's Theatre. He is under a five year's contract to Manager A. M. Palmer.

The Jefferson-Florence company open the next regular season of the Star Theatre in October, and play a return date there in March, 1890.

M. Coquelin plays his farewell engagement at the Star Theatre New York this week.

Twenty genuine Bedouin Arabs, secured by Mr. Geo. Starr for Barnum & Bailey's Circus, have arrived in New York.

A company styled Deckstader's Minstrels and pretending to come from New York have been troubling New Bedford mariners with chestnuts at ten cents a head for admission.

Mary Anderson's favorite game is chess.

Rudolph Aronson has engaged Blanche Marsden for one of his road companies.

Manager Rudolph Aronson has secured Sivak Guila's Austrian Court band of

THE NEW CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

The New California Theatre is to be hurried to completion by having day and night gangs at work finishing its interior decorations, so as to get it ready for opening on Monday evening, May 13th, with the Booth, Barrett and Modjeska combination. The theatre has been inclosed and roofed in for some weeks. The plastering is about completed, and many of the scenes—which will be all drop ones—are already finished.

The present condition of the interior of the new theatre presents a pandemoniacal aspect. Boards, planks, scroll and ornamental wood-work lay in every way for your feet to stumble over on the floor of the auditorium; and the floor itself, wherever it can be seen, is plaster stained or mudded over with dried plaster droppings. Everything is plaster bued. Pieces of plastering and frescoing debris patter down from time to time from the platform just under the ceiling, where the frescoers are at work, through a labyrinth of staging that makes their lofty platform hardly discernable, and gives to it an immensely fictitious height. Turning to the stage a great forrest drop is seen at the back of it, through another intricacy of staging, that looks too freshly green and too composed for its confused surroundings. At the right and left the dress-circle and balcony boxes are taking their graceful forms—round as globes—and busy carpenters are puncturing their decorative work thereon with constant salvos of hammering. But order will come out of all this chaos, and a beautiful theatre will evolve from it.

The decorations of the New California will be of the East Indian style. The four boxes will be of pagoda shape and design. The curtain will represent a scene in the Indies, with a party just ready to start out on a tiger hunt; with their elephants with the hoodahs on their backs; their Arab steeds; their attendants and servants, and all the surroundings of Oriental life presented on the canvas. The artist, Mr. Thomas Moses, of Chicago, is busy at his design. The drop curtain is made of asbestos, and the theatre will be lighted entirely by incandescent lights.

The New California will be a compact theatre with its auditorium close to the stage, and of great height. Its gallery gods will be throned high up, the walls of the new house being some ten feet higher than those of the old one. The seating capacity will be about the same.

A late London dispatch says: All things considered Mansfield's Richard has come off fairly well in the contests with the London critics, though the public has not given it the support it deserves. Still Manager Price feels sufficiently encouraged to book seats for the middle of May. The Globe Theatre was crowded to the doors to-night and 200 people were turned away. Mansfield got more applause and recalls than he did on the first night.

Enrico Tamberlick, the greatest tenor of this country, is dead, aged sixty-nine. He was the contemporary of Rubini and Mario, and has had no equal in such operas as "Il Poliuto" and "William Tell."

Janauschek will begin her engagement at the Alcazar April 1st. Effie Ellsler to follow.

Pauline Hall is no longer Mrs. White. She says marriage is a failure and wants no more of it.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Willard Spenser's everywhere successful comic opera success, The Little Tycoon; which has recorded runs of 463 nights in Philadelphia, 109 nights in New York, eleven weeks in Baltimore, four weeks in Boston, etc., is in its last week here.

The action of Little Tycoon occurs on an Atlantic steamer and at Newport; its characters are American. It is interpreted by one of the best of singing and acting companies on the stage, and its recorded runs attest its unrivaled popularity.

In costumes, scenery, and in stage effects the last act of The Little Tycoon surpasses any light opera on the stage. It is in this act that the famed quick transformation scene occurs from General Knickerbocker's drawing-room to the Japanese fete grounds. Done as if by magic. Flashing at once by the aid of electricity, with light, while a huge Japanese umbrella floats slowly down from the invisibe flies brilliant with its incandescent electric lights. The scene is one of rare beauty.

The Little Tycoon is a success. The Call says: "The Little Tycoon is essentially an American work, original in its conception, clever in its wording and sparkling with bright music. It is pleasant to witness so good a performance as that at Leavitt's popular new Bush-street Theatre last evening, heightened no doubt by the very large attendance, which filled all the seats with very little standing-room left, and what is more a fashionable house and warm-hearted assemblage comprising the upper ten of our city. From the commencement of the first bars of the overture to the finale the production was credited a 'go.'

All the papers have given it good words of indorsement.

—o—

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre next week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

Among the many attractions in the troupe are: The Valdis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire," and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance; the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; and Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, will be this week's attraction at the Baldwin.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy will be played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, who are both highly spoken of, and the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. TLe part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist who created a furore when he was here before with Mme Trebelli, and received at his farewell concert an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give three sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next three Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Hinrichs, Jr.

Manager Johnson announces the season tickets for orchestra and dress circle on sale only on the 26th and 27th at Kohler & Chase's music store. Sale of single night seats commences at the box office at the Baldwin on Thursday.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be The Duke's Motto, and it will also be the last week of the Grismer-Davies engagement. Phœbe Davies plays Blanche, J. R. Grismer De Legardere, In Legardere, Grismer has found another character that fits him well and he presents the character in an excellent manner. Phœbe Davies and Ethel Brandon do their best work; in fact, all the company are better in this than in any of the other plays presented by the Grismers, and their last week promises to be their best.

The piece is handsomely staged and it is given with all the accessories of music and dancing of the Gitani, and all the other stage effects that made the piece so popular when produced at the old California by Lawrence Barrett ten years or so ago.

Mme. Janauschek will follow the Grismers, opening in Meg Merrilies. The engagement is only for the week of April 1st.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Orpheum is running a double company at popular prices.

Pastor & Cantell's Madrid Spanish Opera Co. have been re-engaged by the Management of the Orpheum for their farewell nights in San Francisco. There is no question about the merits of this company or their thorough knowledge of the music and requirements of the operas in their repertoire.

The opera El Processo del Cancan and a grand concert will be the musical bill to-night.

The specialty artists are: Wilson & Cameron, Frank La Mondue, the wire-walker; Dunbar Brothers, sensational aerial artists, and the Dante Brothers, fire kings.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum next week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Neiman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns, and others.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco enters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden, the young California actor, commences an engagement this week as Jacob McCloskey in that picturesque American drama, The Octoroon, with its startling episodes of Southern life.

The company are well cast in the piece, the most important characters falling to Miss Essie Tittel, Jessie Norton, James M. Brophy, J. P. Craig and W. J. Elleford.

In addition the Eclipse Genuine Colored Quartette will make their first appearance at this theatre in jubilee songs, negro dances and specialties, depicting old-time plantation life.

Next week's attraction will be The Golden Giant.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The new people for this week are: Hayes & Marion, song and dance artists; Prof. Gustave Peterson, necromancer and magician; Miss Florence Clayton, vocalist; Miss Kittie Lillian and Miss Jennie Haywood. Two amusing comedy sketches, The Gripsack and Next Door Neighbors, round out the bill.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels are underlined to follow opening the week of April 1st.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342 1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, has been greatly improved in having its stage lowered, and in its supply of handsome new scenery from the brush of Chas. Morris.

This week's attraction will be The Pearl of Savoy, with Mr. B. Frank Dearborn as the Commander. Miss Lillian Lawrence will essay the role of Marie, the Pearl of Savoy, with good support from the rest of the company.

The People's has assumed a regular place on the theatre list. If has succeeded in making its claim heard, and the promises made by the managment on its re-opening have been faithfully kept.

Matinee on Sunday.

The beautiful melodrama of Crystal's Cross is underlined for next week.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: The Stanley Sisters, Bertha Warring, Fannie Kemble and Tobin & Lord. Chas. Reese will produce another eye-opener, entitled Venus and Adonis.

Wills & Barron, sketch team; Thatcher & Drew, Ada Clifton, Ida Chester, Burnell and Ned Barry present new specialties. The entertainment closes with Ned Barry's descriptive sketch, London Bridge.

Any amateur, male or female, wishing to show their ability can do so by giving in their names to the stage director. Prizes will be given to the best amateurs in his or her line of business every Friday evening.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Both houses are the rule here.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

More new stars for this week, and all of them artists of more than ordinary merit, in a bill bill which has not a weak point in it. The managers of the Cremorne have catered well to the tastes of their patrons.

This week the new people are: Conlon & Dougherty, acrobatic song and dance artists; the great Bursell, the dancing queen; Senor Antonio Martinez, the famous Spanish dancer; Shannon and Miln, rough Irish comedians; Fanny Sheldon, song and dance artiste, and Young Glover (of Charleston, S. C.) and Jem Smith (of London, Eng.), the only one-legged boxers in the world.

The two Irish thrushes, Billy McCoy and Miss Minnie McEvoy, Maude Cleveland, Ruby Everett, Alice Hamilton, Flora Hastings and Mabel Harrison are still reigning favorites.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with a few Nonsensical Novelties, with an original grand finale. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable farce, Sable Serenaders, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris and Matt Trayers, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Conglomeration, with all the company in the cast, conoludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum next week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in an extra programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

Jumbo, the big elephant, is on his feet again. Barnum has presented his skeleton to the Museum of Natural History, New York. From the showman's point of view it is worth $500 a week for exhibition purposes; and yet Barnum gave him away, notwithstanding the fact that there could be no possible danger of Jumbo eating his head off now if he should ever fail to pay as a drawing attraction. Barnum must be getting a little "off."

Manager Dan Sheehan, who made up a specialty company in 'Frisco and opened the Alcazar Theatre at Bakersfield, has skipped and left his company minus a week's salary. The owner of the place is playing them now, so that they will be able to make at least daily expenses.

Sacramento is to have a six-nights go as-you-please race—running time from 7:15 to 11:15, four hours every night—in the old Pavilion building, April 2nd to 7th inclusive. Hart, Moore, Howarth and Vint are among the entries, but not Guerrero. That is just the race Gus would get away with. Frank Hall will manage it.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

THE NEW CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

The New California Theatre is to be hurried to completion by having day and night gangs at work finishing its interior decorations, so as to get it ready for opening on Monday evening, May 13th, with the Booth, Barrett and Modjeska combination. The theatre has been inclosed and roofed in for some weeks. The plastering is about completed, and many of the scenes—which will be all drop ones—are already finished.

The present condition of the interior of the new theatre presents a panemonium of noise. Boards, planks, scroll and ornamental woodwork lay in every way for one's feet to stumble over on the floor of the auditorium; and the floor itself, wherever it can be seen, is plaster stained or mudded over with dried plaster droppings. Everything is plaster bedecked of plastering and frescoing debris pattered down from time to time from the platform just under the ceiling, where the frescoers are at work, through a labyrinth of staging that makes their lofty platform hardly discernable, and gives to it an immensely fictitious height. Turning to the stage a great forrest drop is seen at the back of it, through another intricacy of staging, that looks too freshly green and too composed for its confused surroundings. At the right and left the dress-circle and balcony boxes are taking their graceful forms—ouvid as globes—and busy carpenters are puncturing their decorative work thereon with constant sprays of hammerings. But order will come out of all this chaos, and a beautiful theatre will evolve from it.

The decorations of the New California will be of the East Indian style. The four boxes will be of pagoda shape and design. The curtain will represent a scene in the Indies, with a party just ready to start out on a tiger hunt; with their elephants with the howdahs on their backs; their Arab steeds; their attendants and servants, and all the surroundings of [illegible] presented on the canvas. The artist, Mr. Thomas Moses, of Chicago, is now at his design. The drop curtain is [illegible] of a bestow, and the theatre will be lighted entirely by incandescent lights. The New California will be a compact house with its auditorium close to the stage, and of great height. Its gallery gods will be tormented high up, the walls of the new house being some ten feet

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

At Washington, D. C., March 14, Chas. A. Davis, agent for Adam Forepaugh, filed contracts, accompanied with a bond, with Commissioner of Indian Affairs Oberly for fifty Indians of the Pine Ridge Agency, whom the showman intends to present with his circus the coming season in a series of performances illustrative of American pioneer life. Commissioner Oberly has signified his approval of the arrangement, and has named Capt. George J. Jackson, the scout and Indian fighter, to accompany and care for the Indians. The list includes Lone Feather, fighting chief of the Ogalalla Sioux, accompanied by his squaw, Mrs. Hailstones-in-her-Stomach, known as the Laugtry of the tribe, and papoose, Little Hailstones; Red Ears, Yellow Bull, Pot-in-the-Head, Yankton Charley, Old Shield, Good Elk, Good Boise Crow, Eagle Head, Bull Tail, Red Cross, Short Horn, Lone Elk, Looks Bad, Scares-a-Hawk, Wears-the Sheet, Go'-no-Horse, Charging Thunder, and Pretty-Boy-Joseph.

Austin's Australian Novelty Company, will open at the Orpheum sometime in April.

John H. Browne has left "A Possible" company, and has been engaged by Nat. C. Goodwin, Jr., to come to California.

G. M. Welty has arranged a California tour for Mattie Vickers. The 'Frisco engagement will be played at the Alcazar.

Lewis Morrison's production of "Faust" will be seen by New Yorkers for the first time April 1 at the Grand Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show will open at the New Bush Street Theatre Monday, April 1st. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

The Grand is coming to the front with a new line of attractions. McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, that are coming Westward, and have been figuring for San Francisco dates, go there for the week of April 15th. De Vivo takes the Mary Anderson dates off of Manager Haymao's hands and plays Albani and her concert troupe there weeks of April 22nd and 29th; and Gilmore's Twelve Temptations spectacle and other booked attractions follow.

Boston is to have a new grand theatre to be called the Tremont, and elaborate preparations are being made for its commencement. Mary Anderson is to lay the corner-stone, if her health permits, in the presence of the Governor of the State, the Mayor and city authorities in a body. Hon. Levi Woodbury will deliver an address, followed by the Governor and distinguished members of the theatrical profession present.

Mrs. Langtry made her re-appearance on the stage in Philadelphia March 25th in Macbeth. Beyond a slight weakness she showed no sign of her recent illness.

Miss Julia Marlowe, who was to have appeared at the Wieting Opera House, Syracuse, N. Y., March 25th, was unable to fulfill her engagement on account of sickness. Miss Marlowe's manager, Ariel Barney, is in New York arranging with Henry Abbey to fill a part of Mary Anderson's dates.

This week we have The Duke's Motto, which will close the Grismer-Davies engagement at the Alcazar.

Neil Burgess' real live race scene on the stage is a great success. A New York exchange says:—Now that the machinery used in the race scene in the Country Fair, at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, in which Neil Burgess has made so great a hit, is working perfect. The excitment over the race is beyond anything ever witnessed in a theatre. Three horses galloping like mad upon the revolving stage, and the revolving scenery, showing the country as it is passed, making the illusion so complete that when Abigail Prue's colt, Cold Molasses, wins the race, the applause is so long that the rest of the play is in dumb show.

J. W. Pigott's new play, The Bookmaker, has made a hit in London. Edward Terry proposes to take it to Paris. Augustin Daly telegraphed for its American rights, but too late, as Edwin Low has sailed bearing the refusal of the play for Nat Goodwin.

"Weren't you knocking at the side door a moment ago?" inquired St. Peter, as he cautiously opened the main entrance. "Yes, sir." "Well, you can't come in. We have no use for people who frequent side doors."

Philadelphian, in St. Louis — Will you kindly tell me where I can get a drink of water? Policeman — Mein frent, I haff been only three months on dis beat.

First Shopping Fiend — Madam, that's my muff? Second Shopping Fiend — Why, how inexcusable stupid of me to pick up an imitation monkey skin.

The horrible story comes from the East that Boston is becoming a great frog market. This is what comes from toadying to foreigners.

The dinner in the State Prison merely consists of three courses — coarse bread, coarse meat and coarse vegetables.

Tobacco-chewing Husband (after ascending the stairs) — I'm a little out of breath. Wife — Then kiss me, pussy.

Happy Thought — Suppose we put up a bounty of a cent a pound on woolen yarn, and darn the expenses.

New York has a successful woman architect. She is now at work on plans for a 12-story opera bonnet.

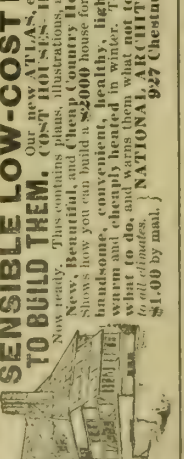
HOYT'S HOLE IN THE GROUND.

Essex Junction, in New Hampshire, is the place satirized by Hoyt in his railroad farcical comedy, A Hole in the Ground. Here no less than five local roads connect with the main system of the Vermont Central, the main line to Boston, New York and Canada. They are the southern and central divisions of the Vermont road; the Connecticut River Railroad, the Northern New Hampshire Railroad and the Woodstock Railroad. All these run to make connections with the through line, and when through trains are belated great disappointments and vexations occur at the dreary and ill appointed station. Indeed, the behavior here of victims to these delays often make the swearing-room suggested by Mr. Hoyt in his play more than necessary.



No one there ever heard of Hoyt's play, and knew nothing of how the station agent, the lunch-counter and its pretty guardian had been lampooned until some railroad men and drummers who had got onto the play and learned its application somehow began to come out of their way to guy the depot and its employers. For over a year the life of the latter unfortunates has been made miserable. Through travelers insisted on buying tickets by this road. They would take advantage of the brief train-stop to rush into the depot and ask Mr. H. E. Tinker, the station agent, "when he was going to be made superintendent of the road?" and in reply to his astonished gaze want'd to know if he would "check that cigar?" or if "that clock was right?" Several hundred passengers made his life an agony over that clock, either by questioning its correctness or trying to set it themselves, until he understood the cause of the pestering; and even after that his experience was much like his illustrious prototype in the play, for he had to take the clock down to get it out of the reach of his tormentors. He was also invited to whittle and strangers would rush in to ask which was the direction to New York.

Some honest, elderly farmer would be addressed as "Stranger," and asked if he would "sing the railroad song," and become dazed by the query. The girls at the lunch-counter could not hand a piece of pie to a traveler but the latter must grin and ask if it had been dusted. To sell an egg was sure to elicit a cackle or a suggestive crow from some bystander that reflected unpleasantly upon the respectability of the egg.

The poor girls were pointed out as "tailor made girls." Fun was poked at them all around, and several hilarious drummers barely escaped arrest for trying to kiss them. This persecution was kept up until the fair originals of Mr. Hoyt's pen were forced to leave, and the new girls suffered in turn.

Things came to such a pitch that the railroad men had to take some action in the matter, and they have made alterations that wipe away all remaining traces in the station to the scenes of the Hole in the Ground. The station is refitted, the lunch-counter turned into a handsome dining-room, the ticket office enlarged, the clock turned into a handsome electric affair and the baggage room enlarged. Such has been the alteration that Mr. Hoyt himself would not recognize the place, and the railroad people now hope for a little more peace in their lives. There is a burning desire all through that section of the country to witness the famous play, and if Hoyt would only bring his Hole to the Ground there he would reap a golden harvest or be tarred

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Willard Spenser's everywhere successful comic opera success, The Little Tycoon; which has recorded runs of 463 nights in Philadelphia, 109 nights in New York, eleven weeks in Baltimore, four weeks in Boston, etc., is in its last week here.

The action of Little Tycoon occurs on an Atlantic steamer and at Newport; its characters are American. It is interpreted by one of the best of singing and acting companies on the stage, and its recorded runs attest its unrivaled popularity.

In costumes, scenery, and in stage effects the last act of The Little Tycoon surpasses any light opera on the stage. It is in this act that the famed quick transformation scene occurs from General Knickerbocker's drawing-room to the Japanese fete grounds. Done as if by magic. Flashing at once by the aid of electricity, with light, while a huge Japanese umbrella floats slowly down from the invisible flies brilliant with its incandescent electric lights. The scene is one of rare beauty.

The Little Tycoon is a success. The Call says: "The Little Tycoon is essentially an American work, original in its conception, clever in its wording and sparkling with bright music. It is pleasant to witness so good a performance as that at Leavitt's popular new Bush-street Theatre last evening, heightened no doubt by the very large attendance, which filled all the seats with very little standing-room left, and what is more a fashionable house and warm-hearted assemblage comprising the upper-ten of our city. From the commencement of the first bars of the overture to the finale the production was credited a 'go.'

All the papers have given it good words of indorsement.

—o—

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre next week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

Among the many attractions in the troupe are: The Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire," and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance; the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; and Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, will be this week's attraction at the Baldwin.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist who created a furore when he was here before with Mme Trebelli, and received at his farewell concert an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give three sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next three Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Hinrichs, Jr.

Manager Johnson announces the season tickets for orchestra and dress circle on sale only on the 26th and 27th at Kohler & Chase's music store. Sale of single night seats commences at the box office at the Baldwin on Thursday.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be The Duke's Motto, and it will also be the last week of the Grismer-Davies engagement. Phœbe Davies [illegible] Blanche, J. E. Grismer De Legardere, In Legardere, Grismer has found another character that fits him well and he presents the character in an excellent manner. Phœbe Davies and Ethel Brandon do their best work; in fact, all the company are better in this than in any of the other plays presented by the Grismers, and their last week promises to be their best.

The piece is handsomely staged and it is given with all the accessories of music and dancing of the Gitani, and all the other stage effects that made the piece so popular when produced at the old California by Lawrence Barrett ten years or so ago.

Mme. Janauschek will follow the Grismers, opening in Meg Merrilies. The engagement is only for the week of April 1st.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Orpheum is giving its last nights of its present specialty company, consisting of Wilson & Cameron, Australian comiques and grotesque dancers; the celebrated Donaldson Bros., contortionists; Miss Tillie Morrissey, the popular soprano; the Zanfretta Family in their comic pantomime of Robert Macaire; Frank La Mondue, the wire-walker; Dunbar Brothers, sensational aerial artists, and the Dante Brothers, fire kings.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum next week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Neiman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns, and others.

See list of company in extra programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden, the young California actor, commences an engagement this week as Jacob McCloskey in that picturesque American drama, The Octoroon, with its startling episodes of Southern life.

The company are well cast in the piece, the most important characters falling to Miss Essie Tittel, Jessie Norton, James M. Brophy, J. P. Craig and W. J. Elleford.

In addition the Eclipse Genuine Colored Quartette will make their first appearance at this theatre in jubilee songs, negro dances and specialties, depicting old-time plantation life.

Next week's attraction will be The Golden Giant.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The new people for this week are: Hayes & Marion, song and dance artists; Prof. Gustave Peterson, necromancer and magician; Miss Florence Clayton, vocalist; Miss Kittie Lillian and Miss Jennie Haywood. Two amusing comedy sketches, The Gripsack and Next Door Neighbors, round out the bill.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels are underlined to follow opening the week of April 1st.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342-1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and has succeeded. Mr. Chas. J. Germer, the proprietor, can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

Standing room only is frequently hung out at the People's.

This week's attraction is The Pearl of Savoy, with Mr. B. Frank Dearborn as the Commander. Miss Lillian Lawrence essays the role of Marie, the Pearl of Savoy, with good support from the rest of the company. Among other things in its favor is the handsome costumes displayed in the play.

Matinee on Sunday.

The beautiful melodrama of Crystal's Cross is underlined for next week.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: The Stanley Sisters, Bertha Warring, Fannie Kemble and Tobin & Lord. Chas. Reese will produce another eye-opener, entitled Venus and Adonis.

Wills & Barron, sketch team; Thatcher & Drew, Ada Clifton, Ida Chester, Bursell and Ned Barry present new specialties. The entertainment closes with Ned Barry's descriptive sketch, London Bridge.

Any amateur, male or female, wishing to show their ability can do so by giving in their names to the stage director. Prizes will be given to the best amateurs in his or her line of business every Friday evening.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

More new stars for this week, and all of them artists of more than ordinary merit, in a bill bill which has not a weak point in it. The managers of the Cremorne have catered well to the tastes of their patrons.

This week the new people are: Conlon & Dougherty, acrobatic song and dance artists; the great Bursell, the dancing queen; Senor Antonio Martinez, the famous Spanish dancer; Shannon and Miln, rough Irish comedians; Fanny Sheldon, song and dance artiste, and Young Glover (of Charleston, S. C.) and Jem Smith (of London, Eng.), the only one-legged boxers in the world.

The two Irish thrushes, Billy McCoy and Miss Minnie McEvoy, Maude Cleveland, Ruby Everett, Alice Hamilton, Flora Hastings and Mabel Harrison are still reigning favorites.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with a few Nonsensical Novelties, with an original grand finale. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable farce, Sable Serenaders, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris and Matt Trayers, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Conglomeration, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

For full list of company of Rielly & Wood's Big Show, that comes to the Bush next week, see extra programme ad. in FIGARO.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society will hold its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on April 14th.

WANTED—At once. A colored quartette; must be able to play brass and string. Also, first-class specialty people, good salary and long engagement. Address FIGARO Agency, 532 Merchant St.

Fountain Theatre, Kansas City, March 25th: Haley & Flynn, J. G. Fletcher, Quigley Bros., John Donaldson, the Ahern Bros., Minnie Dunne, Cummings & O'Brien, Pickett & Primrose, the Lawrences, Clarke & Lorraine and the old favorite, Geo. H. Diamond.

Standard, Portland, March 25th: The Pavenelli Troupe and the Three Solitaires are the new faces.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum next week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in an extra programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

Jumbo, the big elephant, is on his feet again. Barnum has presented his skeleton to the Museum of Natural History, New York. From the showman's point of view it is worth $500 a week for exhibition purposes; and yet Barnum gave him away, notwithstanding the fact that there could be no possible danger of Jumbo eating his head off now if he should ever fail to pay as a drawing attraction. Barnum must be getting a little "off."

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

HERRMANN'S LATEST CARD.

A New York exchange says: "Prof. Herrmann has signed contracts with Ann O'Delia Diss Debar, the 'spook priestess,' of recent notoriety, who joins his company March 25th. She will make her debut in New York as a professional April 15th at the Grand Opera House, and will produce 'spirit pictures' and like phenomena."

Commenting on this peculiar engagement the New York Truth thus philosophises: "One of the curious revenges of time is the reappearance of Mme. Diss-Debar, of Luther Marsh-spirit-painting notoriety, with fame enhanced and a big contract signed. It is only a few months ago that she was execrated by the public, pursued with ribaldry by the press, arrested by the authorities and condemned by Judge Gildersleeve for her attempt to impose upon mankind by spirit pictures. Among others who offered to publicly prove that she was a fraud was Professor Herrmann, who published a challenge in the papers and offered to expose her. The moment this woman is released, Professor Herrmann signs a contract with her which agrees to pay her $1500 a week to exhibit her former 'fraudulency' in public. Does not this look as if Diss-Debar were not such a fraud after all? Professor Herrmann says she is the cleverest woman he ever met. I want now to see if she will be hailed in the new turn of the tide with acclamations of joy, and attended by crowds of admirers."

The ruling prices for chickens and eggs last year has increased the chicken-ranch business in the adjacent towns very greatly. We learn that the Petaluma Incubator Company have all they can do turning out their wholesale chicken hatchers to fill orders. Chicken ranches are easily managed, and raising eggs is proving more profitable than raising oranges

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Managers Wallenrod & Stockwell have sent us notice of the following attractions to appear in rapid succession at the Alcazar:

April 1st—Janauschek.
April 8th—Effie Ellsler, 5 weeks.
May 13th—Mattie Vickers, 2 weeks.
May 27th—Powers' "Ivy Leaf" Co., 2 weeks.
June 10th—Harry Lee.
June 17th—J. B. Polk, 2 weeks.
July 1st—Harrigan and his own Co., 8 weeks.
August 26th—T. J. Farron in Murphy's great success, "Help," 2 weeks.
Sept. 9th—Chanfrau, 2 weeks.
Sept. 23d—McKee Rankin, 3 weeks.
Oct 14th—Salsbury's Troubadours, 3 weeks.
Nov. 4th—Hoyt's latest, "A Texas Steer," 2 weeks.
Nov. 18th—Opening of the Stock Season with London and New York successes.
March 3, '90—Opening of the Combination Season, commencing with Hoyt's attractions, followed by Keller, the magician.

Wilkens, the scenic artist, is painting the new drop for the Grand Opera House. It is to be ready for the Albani concert season April 22nd.

Signor De Vivo, manager for Mme. Albani, will be here on Sunday.

Hudson & Bulkley, late of Hudson & Eckert's Juvenile Opera Co., will organize an adult company for the summer season, opening at Lincoln, Neb., May 1.

Mrs. Brown Potter will add Camille to her repertoire.

Ed Harrigan's New York season closes April 27th. He opens here at the Alcazar July 1st.

M. A. Kennedy, R. R. Graham, Sidney Armstrong and Rose Eytinge will be in the cast of The Red Rouble at Herrmann's N. Y. Theatre.

Katie Putnam closed her season at Chicago on the 23d. She is preparing for her Australian tour.

A Philadelphia dispatch of March 27th says: "Mary Anderson, the actress, went for a drive through Fairmount Park this afternoon. She is improving very rapidly now that she is enjoying perfect quiet and rest."

The wires tell us that Irving Bishop, the mind reader, after finding a needle hidden over a mile away by driving through the crowded streets of Minneapolis in his usual manner of performing such feats, blindfolded, immediately fell in a fit. His body became rigid and streams of perspiration poured from him. The doctors said the attack was something like catalepsy. At a late hour in the afternoon (March 27th) Bishop was in a very bad condition, coming out of one fit only to fall in another. A New York dispatch of the same date states that the court had granted the petition of his wife for an absolute divorce.

Mr. Neil Warner has opened a school for elocution and voice culture. Application for membership must be made at Mr. Warner's rooms, 21 Powell street.

Mrs. Langtry made her re-appearance on the stage in Philadelphia March 25th in Macbeth. Beyond a slight weakness she showed no sign of her recent illness.

This week we have The Duke's Motto, which will close the Grismer-Davies engagement at the Alcazar.

Manager Al Hayman has arranged with Gilmore & Tompkins for a three months' tour of Margaret Mather through the West. The engagement will begin in June, and the principal cities of California, Utah, Nebraska, Nevada and Oregon will be visited. By the terms of the contract Gilmore & Tompkins are to supply the company and all scenery and equipments.

The New California Theatre is to be hurried to completion by having day and night gangs at work finishing its interior decorations, so as to get it ready for opening on Monday evening, May 13th, with the Booth, Barrett and Modjeska combination. The theatre has been inclosed and roofed in for some weeks. The plastering is about completed, and many of the scenes—which will be all drop ones—are already finished.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show will open at the New Bush Street Theatre Monday, April 1st. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

The Grand is coming to the front with a new line of attractions. McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, that are coming Westward, and have been figuring for San Francisco dates, go there for the week of April 15th. De Vivo takes the Mary Anderson dates off of Manager Hayman's hands and plays Albani and her concert troupe there weeks of April 22nd and 29th; and Gilmore's Twelve Temptations spectacle and other booked attractions follow.

The decorations of the New California will be of the East Indian style. The four boxes will be of pagoda shape and design. The curtain will represent a scene in the Indies, with a party just ready to start out on a tiger hunt; with their elephants with the hoodahs on their backs; their Arab steeds; their attendants and servants, and all the surroundings of Oriental life presented on the canvas. The artist, Mr. Thomas Moses, of Chicago, is busy at his design. The drop curtain is made of asbestos, and the theatre will be lighted entirely by incandescent lights.

The New California will be a compact theatre, with its auditorium close to the

The People's Theatre,

1342 & 1344 Market Street.

(Opposite Odd Fellows' Hall).

Edwin Booth has been booked by Manager Henderson of the Chicago Opera House for the season of 1890-91. During that period Lawrence Barrett is also to give an elaborate production of The Last Days of Pompeii at the same house.

Sixty senior students of Yale College acted as supers in Othello for Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett one night last week in New Haven.

Robert Mantell closes his present tour May 5th in Milwaukee and begins his next season July 8th at the new California Theatre in this city.

Miss Edna Carey has been engaged to create the leading part in Hands across the Sea, the English melodrama, which will be produced in New York September 25th.

Lawrence Barrett has engaged Otis Skinner for next season.

Miss Fanny Davenport presents La Tosca in St. Louis this week.

W. J. Scanlan begins his next season of this country in New York at the Star Theatre.

Mrs. W. J. Florence denies the report that she intends permantly to retire from the stage.

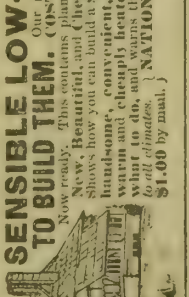
Neil Burgess' real live race scene on the stage is a great success. A New York exchange says:—Now that the machinery used in the race scene in the Country Fair, at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, in which Neil Burgess has made so great a hit, is working perfect. The excitment over the race is beyond anything ever witnessed in a theatre. Three horses galloping like mad upon the revolving stage, and the revolving scenery, showing the country as it is passed, making the illusion so complete that when Abigail Prue's colt, Cold Molasses, wins the race, the applause is so long that the rest of the play is in dumb show.

J. W. Pigott's new play, The Bookmaker, has made a hit in London. Edward Terry proposes to take it to Paris. Augustin Daly telegraphed for its American rights, but too late, as Edwin Low has sailed bearing the refusal of the play for Nat Goodwin.

At Washington, D. C., March 14, Chas. A. Davis, agent for Adam Forepaugh, filed contracts, accompanied with a bond, with Commissioner of Indian Affairs Oberly for fifty Indians of the Pine Ridge Agency, whom the showman intends to present with his circus the coming season in a series of performances illustrative of American pioneer life. Commissioner Oberly has signified his approval of the arrangement, and has named Capt. George J. Jackson, the scout and Indian fighter, to accompany and care for the Indians. The list includes Lone Feather, fighting chief of the Ogalalla Sioux, accompanied by his squaw, Mrs. Hailstones-in-her-Stomach, known as the Langtry of the tribe, and papoose, Little Hailstones; Red Ears, Yellow Bull, Pot-in-the-Head, Yankton Charley, Old Shield, Good Elk, Good Bois-Crow, Eagle Head, Bull Tail Red Cross, Short Horn, Lone Elk, Looks Bad, Scares-Hawk, Wears-the-Sheet, Go-no-Horse, Charging Thunder, and Pretty-Boy-Joseph.

Austin's Australian Novelty Company, will open at the Orpheum sometime in April.

Lewis Morrison's production of "Faust" will be seen by New Yorkers for the first time April 1 at the Grand Opera House.



Edwin Booth has presented the Players Club with a marble bust of Lawrence Barrett and himself.

Mrs. James Brown Potter appears at the Windsor Theatre New York, the week of April 22d, in a repertory of plays.

Denman Thompson and The Old Homestead continue to fill the big Academy of Music New York at every performance.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Willard Spenser's everywhere successful comic opera success, The Little Tycoon; which has recorded runs of 463 nights in Philadelphia, 109 nights in New York, eleven weeks in Baltimore, four weeks in Boston, etc., is in its last week here.

The action of Little Tycoon occurs on an Atlantic steamer and at Newport; its characters are American. It is interpreted by one of the best of singing and acting companies on the stage, and its recorded runs attest its unrivaled popularity.

In costumes, scenery, and in stage effects the last act of The Little Tycoon surpasses any light opera on the stage. It is in this act that the famed quick transformation scene occurs from General Knickerbocker's drawing-room to the Japanese fete grounds. Done as if by magic. Flashing at once by the aid of electricity, with light, while a huge Japanese umbrella floats slowly down from the invisible flies brilliant with its incandescent electric lights. The scene is one of rare beauty.

The Little Tycoon is a success. The Call says: "The Little Tycoon is essentially an American work, original in its conception, clever in its wording and sparkling with bright music. It is pleasant to witness so good a performance as that at Leavitt's popular new Bush-street Theatre last evening, heightened no doubt by the very large attendance, which filled all the seats with very little standing-room left, and what is more a fashionable house and warm-hearted assemblage comprising the upper-ten of our city. From the commencement of the first bars of the overture to the finale the production was credited a 'go.'

All the papers have given it good words of indorsement.

—o—

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre next week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

Among the many attractions in the troupe are: The Valdis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire," and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance; the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; and Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in extra programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, will be this week's attraction at the Baldwin.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist who created a furore when he was here before with Mme Trebelli, and received at his farewell concert an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give three sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next three Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Enrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be The Duke's Motto, and it will also be the last week of the Grismer-Davies engagement. Phœbe Davies in Legardere, Grismer has found another character that fits him well and he presents the character in an excellent manner. Phœbe Davies and Ethel Brandon do their best work; in fact, all the company are better in this than in any of the other plays presented by the Grismers, and their last week promises to be their best.

The piece is handsomely staged and it is given with all the accessories of music and dancing of the Gitani, and all the other stage effects that made the piece so popular when produced at the old California by Lawrence Barrett ten years or so ago.

Mme. Janauschek will follow the Grismers, opening in Meg Merrilies. The engagement is only for the week of April 1st.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Orpheum is giving its last nights of its present specialty company, consisting of Wilson & Cameron, Australian comiques and grotesque dancers; the celebrated Donaldson Bros., contortionists; Miss Tillie Morrissey, the popular soprano; the Zanfretta Family in their comic pantomime of Robert Macaire; Frank La Mondue, the wire-walker; Dunbar Brothers, sensational aerial artists, and the Dante Brothers, fire kings.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum next week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Nelman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns, and others

See list of company in extra programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden, the young California actor, commences an engagement this week as Jacob McCloskey in that picturesque American drama, The Octoroon, with its startling episodes of Southern life.

The company are well cast in the piece, the most important characters falling to Miss Essie Tittel, Jessie Norton, James M. Brophy, J. P. Craig and W. J. Elleford.

In addition the Eclipse Genuine Colored Quartette will make their first appearance at this theatre in jubilee songs, negro dances and specialties, depicting old-time plantation life.

Next week's attraction will be The Golden Giant.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The new people for this week are: Hayes & Marion, song and dance artists; Prof. Gustave Peterson, necromancer and magician; Miss Florence Clayton, vocalist; Miss Kittie Lillian and Miss Jennie Haywood. Two amusing comedy sketches, The Gripsack and Next Door Neighbors, round out the bill.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels are underlined to follow opening the week of April 1st.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342-1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the ouse as a regular place on the theatre list, and has succeeded. Mr. Chas. J. Germer, the proprietor, can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

Standing room only is frequently hung out at the People's.

This week's attraction is The Pearl of Savoy, with Mr. B. Frank Dearborn as the Commander. Miss Lillian Lawrence essays the role of Marie, the Pearl of Savoy, with good support from the rest of the company. Among other things in its favor is the handsome costumes displayed in the play.

Matinee on Sunday.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is underlined for next week, when Mr. Dearborn will appear in the character of Joe Henderson.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: The Stanley Sisters, Bertha Warring, Fannie Kemble and Tobin & Lord. Chas. Reese will produce another eye-opener, entitled Venus and Adonis.

Wills & Barron, sketch team; Thatcher & Drew, Ada Clifton, Ida Chester, Burnell and Ned Barry present new specialties. The entertainment closes with Ned Barry's descriptive sketch, London Bridge.

Any amateur, male or female, wishing to show their ability can do so by giving in their names to the stage director. Prizes will be given to the best amateurs in his or her line of business every Friday evening.

More new stars for this week, and all of them artists of more than ordinary merit, in a bill bill which has not a weak point in it. The managers of the Cremorne have catered well to the tastes of their patrons.

This week the new people are: Conlon & Dougherty, acrobatic song and dance artists; the great Bursell, the dancing queen; Senor Antonio Martinez, the famous Spanish dancer; Shannon and Miln, rough Irish comedians; Fanny Sheldon, song and dance artiste, and Young Glover (of Charleston, S. C.) and Jem Smith (of London, Eng.), the only one-legged boxers in the world.

The two Irish thrushes, Billy McCoy and Miss Minnie McEvoy, Maude Cleveland, Ruby Everett, Alice Hamilton, Flora Hastings and Mabel Harrison are still reigning favorites.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with a few Nonsensical Novelties, with an original grand finale. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable farce, Sable Serenaders, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris and Matt Trayers, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Conglomeration, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

Eureka Music

This is one of the neatest a theatres in the city, and good made it one of the most popu theatres for years past. Man runs a very strong company.

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....MARCH 29, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

There is a society for the aid of homeless dogs and friendless cats in London, and it is a fact that concerts for the benefit of homeless dogs have been given in that city. This suggests the idea that some one ought to get up a concert for Jake Lindo's deputies. They have less friends here than the homeless dogs.

Charley Selna, one of the Stockton Baseball Club, drank too much on their visit to this city last Sunday, and became fighting drunk on their trip home. He was fined and suspended by the Stockton captain, but was reinstated next day.

Miss Louise Novello, burlesque artiste and vocaliste, opens at Smith's Bijou, Seattle, April 1st.

Thorne & Carleton, Jessie Reed, the Miranda Sisters and Hughes & Oxford open at the Theatre Comique, Tacoma, April 1.

Manager Gustav Walter & Co have the page ad. in the last New York Clipper, a handsomely engraved half-page calling attention of combinations to the Orpheum, including an admirable likeness of Acting Manager John Morrissey blowing his trumpet for the Orpheum. That ad. is a blow to some purpose.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna next week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others, formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

For full list of company of Rielly & Wood's Big Show, that comes to the Bush next week, see extra programme ad. in FIGARO.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society will hold its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on April 14th.

WANTED—At once. A colored quartette; must be able to play brass and string. Also, first-class specialty people, good salary and long engagement. Address FIGARO Agency, 532 Merchant St.

Standard, Portland, March 25th: The Pavenelli Troupe and the Three Solitaires are the new faces.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum next week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The assisting company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in an extra programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayer's fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morton's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

Jumbo, the big elephant, is on his feet again. Barnum has presented his skeleton to the Museum of Natural History, New York. From the showman's point of view it is worth $500 a week for exhibition purposes; and yet Barnum gave him away, notwithstanding the fact that there could be no possible danger of Jumbo eating his head off now if he should ever fail to pay as a drawing attraction. Barnum must be getting a little "stuff."

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

U. M. Welty has arranged a California tour for Mattie Vickers. The 'Frisco engagement will be played at the Alcazar.

Joe Jefferson is engaged on an autobiography, to be published next fall.

The Grand is coming to the front with a new line of attractions. McNish, Ramsay & Arno's Minstrels, that are coming Westward, and have been figuring for San Francisco dates, go there for the week of April 15th. De Vivo takes the Mary Anderson dates off of Manager Hayman's hands and plays Albani and her concert troupe there weeks of April 22nd and 29th; and Gilmore's Twelve Temptations spectacle and other booked attractions follow.

The New California will be a compact theatre with its auditorium close to the stage, and of great height. Its gallery people will be throned high up, the walls of the new house being some ten feet higher than those of the old one. The

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The English papers have found out that the doorkeeper of Henry Irving's theatre has worked for him for thirteen years and has never seen him act. There is nothing very strange in that. The duties of doorkeepers keep them in front of the theatre all the time during performance, and they therefore have no chance of seeing anything on the stage. There is Bouton, doorkeeper of the Bijou, who never saw Emerson on the stage; and Salsbury, who was for twenty years doorkeeper at the California, and now of the Alcazar, who never saw any part of a play except the apotheosis scene at the close of Uncle Tom's Cabin one night. We used to stop and tell him all about the plays at the California, but he did not seem to take kindly to our efforts and we dropped out of the custom. We notice that Head Usher Peyser is fond of giving portions of the Alcazar plays to Mr. Salsbury lately, with interlarded dramatic recitations and recitals, but we fear that Salsbury does not take an appreciative interest in his kind intentions from the remark made the other night that he "had better go and spout them to the cat."

Miss Isabelle Coe's creation of the Schoolma'am in A Midnight Bell, which is doing a large business at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y., is a delicate and softened bit of work, full of gentleness and sympathy, and carrying many a person back to the days of childish simplicity when such a teacher formed the brightest spot in the little world encompassed by the four walls of some humble village school.

One of the peculiar things in Gotham is the large flat houses, each flat having a different owner. The prettiest one of this kind is the Gramercy Flat, opposite Gramercy Park, and in the place where the old Gramercy Park Hotel used to stand. Last week John R. Rogers, Minnie Palmer's husband, bought one of the twenty of these flats, for which it is said he paid $30,000. The Minnie Palmer flat is to be fixed up as uncomfortable as John himself looks, and then be advertised for all it is worth.

James Meade goes to Europe this week to look after "Blue Beard, Jr.," which Manager Henderson will produce at the Chicago Opera House during the Summer.

March was an unfortunate month for the dramatic profession. Mary Anderson's English company was disbanded, and Langtry could not appear in Philadelphia where, also, Ramsay Morris' "The Tigress" went to pieces. Fred Bryton's company was disbanded in Newark. Daniel Bandmann discharged his company while playing one night stands in Connecticut, and Minnie Maddern's company has collapsed. Lillian Lewis has also closed her season, but is soon to appear in New York.

W. H. Crane has a new play called The Balloon, in which he will be seen next season.

"Pretty as a Picture" is the unique title selected by Chas. Alfred Byrne and Archie Gordon for the new comedy which they are writing for handsome Della Fox, of the Comedy Opera Co., whose starring tour commences Sept. 9th in Trenton, N. J.

George Boniface, Jr., joins Katie Putnam for an Australian trip, commencing in April.

Edwin Booth has been booked by Manager Henderson of the Chicago Opera House for the season of 1890-91. During that period Lawrence Barrett is also to give an elaborate production of The Last Days of Pompeii at the same house.

Managers Wallenrod & Stockwell have sent us notice of the following attractions to appear in rapid succession at the Alcazar:

April 1st—Janauschek.
April 8th—Effie Ellsler, 5 weeks.
May 13th—Mattie Vickers, 2 weeks.
May 27th—Powers' "Ivy Leaf" Co., 2 weeks.
June 10th—Harry Lee.
June 17th—J. B. Polk, 2 weeks.
July 1st—Harrigan and his own Co., 8 weeks.
August 26th—F. J. Farron in Murphy's great success, "Help," 2 weeks.
Sept. 9th—Chanfrau, 2 weeks.
Sept. 23.—McKee Rankin, 3 weeks.
Oct 14th—Salsbury's Troubadours, 3 weeks.
Nov. 4th—Hoyt's latest, "A Texas Steer," 2 weeks.
Nov. 18th—Opening of the Stock Season with London and New York successes.
March 30—Opening of the Combination Season, commencing with Hoyt's attractions, followed by Keller, the magician.

Wilkens, the scenic artist, is painting the new drop for the Grand Opera House. It is to be ready for the Albani concert season April 22nd.

Signor De Vivo, manager for Mme. Albani, will be here on Sunday.

Hudson & Bulkley, late of Hudson & Eckert's Juvenile Opera Co., will organize an adult company for the summer season, opening at Lincoln, Neb., May 1.

Ed Harrigan's New York season closes April 27th. He opens here at the Alcazar July 1st.

M. A. Kennedy, R. R. Graham, Sidney Armstrong and Rose Eytinge will be in the cast of The Red Rouble at Herrmann's N. Y. Theatre.

Katie Putnam closed her season at Chicago on the 23d. She is preparing for her Australian tour.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show will open at the New Bush Street Theatre Monday, April 1st. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

This week we have The Duke's Motto, which will close the Grismer-Davies en-

The People's Theatre,

Paul Potter, at one time the dramatic editor of the New York Herald, and now a resident of Chicago, has written a play that just suits Donnelly & Girard. It is called the Directory, and will be produced in Chicago in May. The story hinges on the life of a granger who visits New York with a letter of introduction to John Smith. The letter is lost, and the granger hunts up the directory only to find some hundred by that name; so he decides to call upon all of them. The scenes are laid in a flat, and are said to be very funny. Donnelly & Girard will soon produce the play.

Lawrence Barrett has in contemplation an extravagant production of The Last Days of Pompeii. It will not be produced until 1891.

Ted. D. Marks, the well-known advance agent of Rice's Evangeline and Corsair Companies, is soon to marry Miss Helen Marlborough. Mr. Marks is a native of New Orleans and Miss Marlborough comes from San Francisco, her father being Professor of Astronomy in the University of California.

Sixty senior students of Yale College acted as supers in Othello for Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett one night last week in New Haven.

Robert Mantell closes his present tour May 5th in Milwaukee and begins his next season July 8th at the new California Theatre in this city.

Miss Edna Carey has been engaged to create the leading part in Hands across the Sea, the English melodrama, which will be produced in New York September 25th.

Lawrence Barrett has engaged Otis Skinner for next season.

Miss Fanny Davenport presents La Tosca in St. Louis this week.

W. J. Scanlan begins his next season of this country in New York at the Star Theatre.

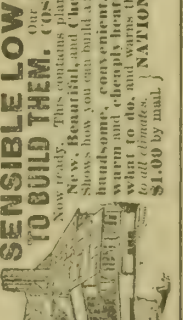
Mrs. W. J. Florence denies the report that she intends permantly to retire from the stage.

Edwin Booth has presented the Players Club with a marble bust of Lawrence Barrett and himself.

Mrs. James Brown Potter appears at the Windsor Theatre New York, the week of April 22d, in a repertory of plays.

Denman Thompson and The Old Homestead continue to fill the big Academy of Music New York at every performance.

Uncle Joe is the name of J. K. Emmet's new play which will be produced at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, on April 22d.



Manager Al Hayman has arranged with Gilmore & Tompkins for a three months' tour of Margaret Mather through the West. The engagement will begin in June, and the principal cities of California, Utah, Nebraska, Nevada and Oregon will be visited. By the terms of the contract Gilmore & Tompkins are to supply the company and all scenery and equipments.

The New California Theatre is to be hurried to completion by having day and night gangs at work finishing its interior decorations, so as to get it ready for opening on Monday evening, May 13th, with the Booth, Barrett and Modjeska combination. The theatre has been inclosed and roofed in for some weeks. The plastering is about completed, and many of the scenes—which will be all drop ones—are already finished.

A Philadelphia dispatch of March 27th says: "Mary Anderson, the actress, went for a drive through Fairmount Park this afternoon. She is improving very rapidly now that she is enjoying perfect quiet and rest."

Mr. Neil Warner has opened a school for elocution and voice culture. Application for membership must be made at

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Willard Spenser's everywhere successful comic opera success, The Little Tycoon; which has recorded runs of 463 nights in Philadelphia, 169 nights in New York, eleven weeks in Baltimore, four weeks in Boston, etc., is in its last week here.

The action of Little Tycoon occurs on an Atlantic steamer and at Newport; its characters are American. It is interpreted by one of the best of singing and acting companies on the stage, and its recorded runs attest its unrivaled popularity.

In costumes, scenery, and in stage effects the last act of The Little Tycoon surpasses any light opera on the stage. It is in this act that the famed quick transformation scene occurs from General Knickerbocker's drawing-room to the Japanese fete grounds. Done as if by magic. Flashing at once by the aid of electricity, with light, while a huge Japanese umbrella floats slowly down from the invisible flies brilliant with its incandescent electric lights. The scene is one of rare beauty.

The Little Tycoon is a success. The Call says: "The Little Tycoon is essentially an American work, original in its conception, clever in its wording and sparkling with bright music. It is pleasant to witness so good a performance as that at Leavitt's popular new Bush-street Theatre last evening, heightened no doubt by the very large attendance, which filled all the seats with very little standing-room left, and what is more a fashionable house and warm-hearted assemblage comprising the upper ten of our city. From the commencement of the first bars of the overture to the finale the production was credited a 'go.'

All the papers have given it good words of indorsement.

—o—

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre next week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

Among the many attractions in the troupe are: The Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire," and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre a thrilling and startling performance; the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; and Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in extra programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, will be this week's attraction at the Baldwin.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. TLe part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist who created a furore when he was here before with Mme Trebelli, and received at his farewell concert an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give three sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next three Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Henrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Alcazar Theatre.

This week's attraction will be The Duke's Motto, and it will also be the last week of the Grismer-Davies engagement. Phœbe Davies plays Blanche, J. H. Grismer De Legardere, Ethel Brandon Zillah and Fanny Young the Duchess.

In Legardere, Grismer has found another the character in an excellent manner. Phœbe Davies and Ethel Brandon do their best work; in fact, all the company are better in this than in any of the other plays presented by the Grismers, and their last week promises to be their best.

The piece is handsomely staged and it is given with all the accessories of music and dancing of the Gitani, and all the other stage effects that made the piece so popular when produced at the old California by Lawrence Barrett ten years or so ago.

Mme. Jonauschek will follow the Grismers, opening in Meg Merrilies. The engagement is only for the week of April 1st.

Orpheum Opera House.

The Orpheum is giving its last nights of its present specialty company, consisting of Wilson & Cameron, Australian comiques and grotesque dancers; the celebrated Donaldson Bros., contortionists; Miss Tillie Morrissey, the popular soprano; the Zanfretta Family in their comic pantomime of Robert Macaire; Frank La Mondue, the wire-walker; Dunbar Brothers, sensational aerial artists, and the Dante Brothers, fire kings.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum next week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Nelman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns, and others.

See list of company in extra programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden, the young California actor, commences an engagement this week as Jacob McCloskey in that picturesque American drama, The Octoroon, with its startling episodes of Southern life.

The company are well cast in the piece, the most important characters falling to Miss Essie Tittel, Jessie Norton, James M. Brophy, J. P. Craig and W. J. Elleford.

In addition the Eclipse Genuine Colored Quartette will make their first appearance at this theatre in jubilee songs, negro dances and specialties, depicting old-time plantation life.

Next week's attraction will be The Golden Giant.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The new people for this week are: Hayes & Marion, song and dance artists; Prof. Gustave Peterson, necromancer and magician; Miss Florence Clayton, vocalist; Miss Kittie Lillian and Miss Jennie Haywood. Two amusing comedy sketches, The Gripsack and Next Door Neighbors, round out the bill.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels are underlined to follow opening the week of April 1st.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342 1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and has succeeded. Mr. Chas. J. Germer, the proprietor, can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

Standing room only is frequently hung out at the People's.

This week's attraction is The Pearl of Savoy, with Mr. B. Frank Dearborn as the Commander. Miss Lillian Lawrence essays the role of Marie, the Pearl of Savoy, with good support from the rest of the company. Among other things in its favor is the handsome costumes displayed in the play.

Matinee on Sunday.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is and rlined for next week, when Mr. Dearborn will appear in the character of Joe [illegible]erson.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: The Stanley Sisters, Bertha Warring, Fannie Kemble and Tobin & Lord. Chas. Reese will produce another eye-opener, entitled Venus and Adonis.

Wills & Barron, sketch team; Thatcher & Drew, Ada Clifton, Ida Chester, Bursell and Ned Barry present new specialties. The entertainment closes with Ned Barry's descriptive sketch, London Bridge.

Any amateur, male or female, wishing to show their ability can do so by giving in their names to the stage director. Prizes will be given to the best amateurs in his or her line of business every Friday evening.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Full houses are the rule here.

Matinees every Sunday.

The new faces for next week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

More new stars for this week, and all of them artists of more than ordinary merit, in a bill bill which has not a weak point in it. The managers of the Cremorne have catered well to the tastes of their patrons.

This week the new people are: Conlon & Dougherty, acrobatic song and dance artists; the great Bursell, the dancing queen; Senor Antonio Martinez, the famous Spanish dancer; Shannon and Miln, rough Irish comedians; Fanny Sheldon, song and dance artiste, and Young Glover (of Charleston, S. C.) and Jem Smith (of London, Eng), the only one-legged boxers in the world.

The two Irish thrushes, Billy McCoy and Miss Minnie McEvoy. Maude Cleveland Ruby Everett, Alice Hamilton, Flora Hastings and Mabel Harrison are still reigning favorites.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with a few Nonsensical Novelties, with an original grand finale. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable farce, Sable Serenaders, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris and Matt Trayers, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Conglomeration, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

James McCabe (son of the veteran J. H. McCabe, the theatrical agent), a mute, was married to Matilda Schutz in the Deaf-Mute Asylum chapel at Berkeley on the 28th inst. It was the first wedding of the kind ever celebrated in the Asylum, and probably in the state. Both parties are graduates from the school of the institute, and at the conclusion of the ceremony genial congratulations were tendered to the newly married couple by their former schoolmates and all the inmates of the Asylum.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell 'tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

There is a society for the aid of homeless dogs and friendless cats in London, and it is a fact that concerts for the benefit of homeless dogs have been given in that city. This suggests the idea that some one ought to get up a concert for Jake Lindo's deputies. They have less friends here than the homeless dogs.

Neiman, the ventriloqui-t, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the greatest in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

Charley Seina, one of the Stockton Baseball Club, drank too much on their visit to this city last Sunday, and became fighting drunk on their trip home. He was fined and suspended by the Stockton captain, but was reinstated next day.

Miss Louise Novello, burlesque artiste and vocaliste, opens at Smith's Bijou, Seattle, April 1st.

Thorne & Carleton, Jessie Reed, the Miranda Sisters and Hughes & Oxford open at the Theatre Comique, Tacoma, April 1.

Manager Gustav Walter & Co. have the prize ad. in the last New York Clipper, a handsomely engraved half-page calling attention of combinations to the Orpheum, including an admirable likeness of Acting Manager John Morrissey blowing his trumpet for the Orpheum. That ad. is a blow to some purpose.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna next week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

For full list of company of Rielly & Wood's Big Show, that comes to the Bush next week, see extra programme ad. in FIGARO.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society will hold its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on April 14th.

WANTED—At once. A colored quartette; must be able to play brass and string. Also, first-class specialty people, good salary and long engagement. Address FIGARO Agency, 532 Merchant St.

Standard, Portland, March 25th: The Pavenelli Troupe and the Three Solitaires are the new faces.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum next week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in an extra programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The Grand is coming to the front with a new line of attractions. McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, that are coming Westward, and have been figuring for San Francisco dates, go there for the week of April 15th. De Vivo takes the Mary Anderson dates off of Manager Hayman's hands and plays Albani and her concert troupe there weeks of April 22nd and 29th; and Gilmore's Twelve Temptations spectacle and other booked attractions follow.

G. M. Welty has arranged a California

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The members of the defunct Katie Mayhew Co. are still sighing for Singer and the boodle which he is supposed to possess.

Carrie Godfrey is winning golden opinions from the Eastern critics for her admirable singing in Said Pasha.

The success which is attending the tour of The Crystal Slipper in the West, is said to be something phenomenal. The piece was played lately in Minneapolis two consecutive weeks, the first time such a thing has been attempted in that city by a traveling organization. At the Grand Opera House, where the first week was played, the receipts were $7 190; the second week, which was played at the Hennepin Ave. Theatre, netted $6,230.

Henry E. Abbey has leased the Porte St. Martin, Paris, during the Exhibition period, to give performances by Sarah Bernhardt and by M. Coquelin. He has also secured the Gaiety, London, and the Cairo, Egypt, theatres for the presentation of these artists.

Comic operas will constitute the attraction at the Casino, Palmer's, the Broadway, the Union Square and the Bijou, N. Y., during June, July and August.

During Booth and Barrett's performance of Julius Cæsar at Boston, a party of Harvard College students volunteered to act as the "mob." When the stage manager gave the signal for them to cheer during the scene between Brutus and Cassius, they responded with a "Rah! Rah! Rah! Harvard," and that official fell limp on a chair.

A "sarkastic" English statistician lately published a list of "young" American leading actresses, which included Lotta, Maggie Mitchell, Mrs. Florence, Janauschek, Modjeska, Kate Forsythe, Fanny Davenport and Louisa Eldridge.

The recent invention of an "opera hat" for ladies, which is destined to revolutionize the millinery business, is patented by an English lady, and consists of a hat made on a wire frame, trimmed with lace and flowers. It will close similar to a gentleman's evening hat, and can be sat upon without injury. It is also convertible into a fan.

The English papers have found out that the doorkeeper of Henry Irving's theatre has worked for him for thirteen years and has never seen him act. There is nothing very strange in that. The duties of doorkeepers keep them in front of the theatre all the time during performance, and they therefore have no chance of seeing anything on the stage. There is Bouton, doorkeeper of the Bijou, who never saw Emerson on the stage; and Salsbury, who was for twenty years doorkeeper at the California, and now of the Alcazar, who never saw any part of a play except the apotheosis scene at the close of Uncle Tom's Cabin one night. We used to stop and tell him all about the plays at the California, but he did not seem to take kindly to our efforts and we dropped out of the custom. We notice that Head Usher Peyser is fond of giving portions of the Alcazar plays to Mr. Salsbury lately, with interlarded dramatic recitations and recitals, but we fear that Salsbury does not take an appreciative interest in his kind intentions from the remark made the other night that he "had better go and spout them to the cat."

Miss Isabelle Coe's creation of the Schoolma'am in A Midnight Bell, which is doing a large business at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y., is a delicate and softened bit of work, full of gentleness and sympathy, and carrying many a person back to the days of childish simplicity when such a teacher formed the brightest spot in the little world encompassed by the four walls of some humble village school.

March was an unfortunate month for the dramatic profession. Mary Anderson's English company was disbanded, and Langtry could not appear in Philadelphia where, also, Ramsay Morris' "The Tigress" went to pieces. Fred Bryton's company was disbanded in Newark. Daniel Bandmann discharged his company while playing one night stands in Connecticut, and Minnie Maddern's company has collapsed. Lillian Lewis has also closed her season, but is soon to appear in New York.

W. H. Crane has a new play called The Balloon, in which he will be seen next season.

Joe Jefferson is engaged on an autobiography, to be published next fall.

George Boniface, Jr., joins Katie Putnam for an Australian trip, commencing in April.

Edwin Booth has been booked by Manager Henderson of the Chicago Opera House for the season of 1890-91. During that period Lawrence Barrett is also to give an elaborate production of The Last Days of Pompeii at the same house.

Managers Wallenrod & Stockwell have sent us notice of the following attractions to appear in rapid succession at the Alcazar:

April 1st—Janauschek.
April 8th—Effie Ellsler, 5 weeks.
May 13th—Mattie Vickers, 2 weeks.
May 27th—Powers' "Ivy Leaf" Co., 2 weeks.
June 10th—Harry Lee.
June 17th—J. B. Polk, 2 weeks.
July 1st—Harrigan and his own Co., 8 weeks.
August 26th—T. J. Farron in Murphy's great success, "Help," 2 weeks.
Sept. 9th—Chanfrau, 2 weeks.
Sept 23d—McKee Rankin, 3 weeks.
Oct 14th—Salsbury's Troubadours, 3 weeks.
Nov. 4th—Hoyt's latest, "A Texas Steer," 2 weeks.
Nov. 18th—Opening of the Stock Season with London and New York successes.
March 3, '90—Opening of the Combination Season, commencing with Hoyt's attractions, followed by Keller, the magician.

The New California will be a compact theatre with its auditorium close to the stage, and of great height. Its gallery gods will be throned high up, the walls of the new house being some ten feet

NO MORE HARRIGAN AND HART.

Tony Hart visited New York recently and during his stay there called on his old partner, Ned Harrigan. From this circumstance there immediately arose a rumor that the old and famous partnership of Harrigan and Hart was about to be revived, and that Hart would return to the stage and appear with Harrigan at the beginning of next season.

This is simple nonsense. Poor Tony Hart is still suffering from the malady that caused his retirement from the stage and his condition would preclude his playing even if the other conditions were much more favorable than they are.

It is gratifying to know that Hart has improved considerably since he has been staying in Worcester, but the imperfection in his speech remains, and the general symptoms displayed by him are such as to discourage any hope of his complete recovery, no matter how anxiously that end may be desired.

Wilkens, the scenic artist, is painting the new drop for the Grand Opera House. It is to be ready for the Albani concert season April 22nd.

Signor De Vivo, manager for Mme. Albani, will be here on Sunday.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is the attraction at the New Bush Street Theatre next week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

This week we have The Duke's Motto, which will close the Grismer-Davies engagement at the Alcazar.

Mr. Neil Warner has opened a school for elocution and voice culture. Application for membership must be made at Mr. Warner's rooms, 21 Powell street.

At a recent masquerade in New York a well-known and very thin actress said to her manager: "Oh! Billy, Billy, do tell me what to personate at the masquerade tomorrow night. It must be cheap, you know. Yes, something cheap, and in which I will look natural." "Well, my dear, gild your head and go as a pair of tongs."

A close friend of Mrs. Langtry says she is worth $700,000 in money, bonds and real estate. When she started on her tour of the English Provinces she had nothing. She cleared £10 003 however in that tour, and take my word for it, a pretty good slice has to be given up before she again marries.

Amy Ames has been engaged to appear in Woolson Morse's King Cole II, which is soon to be produced at Herrmann's Broad Street Theatre in Philadelphia.

An entire new eccentric comedy is being rehearsed at Daly's Theatre.

Princess Ann O'Delia Diss Debar, the spook medium, has been engaged by Herrmann at a salary of $1 500 a week. She is to travel and appear with the great magician on the road. She promises to work off a daub on virgin canvas every night.

The difference between M. B. Leavitt & Professor Herrmann have been amicably settled through the intervention of George W. Lederer, and Mr. Herrmann will play the Bush Street Theatre, in September next.

It seems to be settled that during June, July and August J. M. Hill will turn the

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Willard Spencer's everywhere successful comic opera success, The Little Tycoon, has its last performances here to-night and Sunday night.

All the papers have given it good words of endorsement, and The Little Tycoon has been here, as elsewhere, a success.

—o—

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre next week in Kelly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

Among the many attractions in the troupe are The Valdi's Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire," and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance; the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma the magician, in a number of new and original tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; and Pat Rooney, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest men on the boards. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in extra programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

The elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, will be this week's attraction at the Baldwin.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies, its charming touches, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Willie Edminger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra mat nee will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist who created a furore when he was here before with Mme Trebelli, and received at his farewell concert an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give three sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next three Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Henrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Alcazar Theatre

This week's attraction has been The Duke's Motto, and with it also came the last week of the Grismer-Davies engagement.

In Legardere, Grismer has found another character that fits him well and he presents the character in an excellent manner. Phoebe Davies as Ethel Brandon have done good work; in fact, all the company are better in this than in any of the other plays. The Grismers' eight weeks' season has been a markedly successful one.

Mme. Janauschek, the tragedienne, opens at the Alcazar next week in her impersonation of Meg Merrilies. Janauschek is the only actress on the stage that can wear the mantle of Charlotte Cushman worthily in this weirdly intense character. The engagement is only for one week of April 1st.

Orpheum Opera House.

Sunday night is the last night of the present specialty company, consisting of Wilson & Cameron, Australian comiques and grotesque dancers; the celebrated Donaldson Bros., contortionists; Miss Tillie Morrissey, the popular soprano; the Zanfretta Family in the comic pantomime of Robert Macaire; Frank La Mondue, the wire-walker; Dunbar Brothers, sensational aerial artists, and the Dante Brothers, fire kings.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum next week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Neiman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns, and others.

See list of company in extra programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden, the young California actor, commences an engagement this week as Jacob McCloskey in that picturesque American drama, The Octoroon, with its startling episodes of Southern life.

The company are well cast in the piece, the most important characters falling to Miss Essie Tittel, Jessie Norton, James M. Brophy, J. P. Craig and W. J. Elleford.

In addition the Eclipse Genuine Colored Quartette will make their first appearance at this theatre in jubilee songs, negro dances and specialties, depicting old-time plantation life.

Next week's attraction will be The Golden Giant.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The new people for this week are: Hayes & Marion, song and dance artists; Prof. Gustave Peterson, necromancer and magician; Miss Florence Clayton, vocalist; Miss Kittie Lillian and Miss Jennie Haywood. Two amusing comedy sketches, The Gripsack and Next Door Neighbors, round out the bill.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels are underlined to follow opening the week of April 1st, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew, Leonzo, the Olympic Trio and Miss Adele Purvis. The best bill that has been presented at the Vienna since its reopening.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342 1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and has succeeded. Mr. Chas. J. Germer, the proprietor, can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

Standing room only is frequently hung out at the People's.

This week's attraction is The Pearl of Savoy, with Mr. B. Frank Dearborn as the Commander. Miss Lillian Lawrence essays the role of Marie, the Pearl of Savoy, with good support from the rest of the company. Among other things in its favor is the handsome costumes displayed in the play.

Matinee on Sunday.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is underlined for next week, when Mr. Dearborn will appear in the character of Joe Henderson.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: The Stanley Sisters, Bertha Warring, Fannie Kemble and Tobin & Lord. Chas. Beese will produce another eye-opener, entitled Venus and Adonis.

Wills & Barron, sketch team; Thatcher & Drew, Ada Clifton, Ida Chester, Bursell and Ned Barry present new specialties. The entertainment closes with Ned Barry's descriptive sketch, London Bridge.

Any amateur, male or female, wishing to show their ability can do so by giving in their names to the stage director. Prizes will be given to the best amateurs in his or her line of business every Friday evening.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Full houses are the rule here.

Matinees every Sunday.

The new faces for next week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and Millie Stevens, seric-comic vocalist.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

More new stars for this week, and all of them artists of more than ordinary merit, in a bill bill which has not a weak point in it. The managers of the Cremorne have catered well to the tastes of their patrons.

This week the new people are: Conlon & Dougherty, acrobatic song and dance artists; the great Bursell, the dancing queen; Senor Antonio Martinez, the famous Spanish dancer; Shannon and Miln, rough Irish comedians; Fanny Sheldon, song and dance artiste, and Young Glover (of Charleston, S. C.) and Jem Smith (of London, Eng.), the only one-legged boxers in the world.

The two Irish thrushes, Billy McCoy and Miss Minnie McEvoy, Maude Cleveland, Ruby Everett, Alice Hamilton, Flora Hastings and Mabel Harrison are still reigning favorites.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Next week the new people are Wills & Barron, sketch artists; Jennie Heywood, vocalists; Hayes & Marion and Sadie Denway, seric-comic artists.

Big Bertha is underlined to appear in a comedy role April 8th.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with a few Nonsensical Novelties, with an original grand finale. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable farce, Sable Serenaders, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris and Matt Trayers, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Conglomeration, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

James McCabe (son of the veteran J. H. McCabe, the theatrical agent), a mute, was married to Matilda Schutz in the Deaf-Mute Asylum chapel at Berkeley on the 28th inst. It was the first wedding of the kind ever celebrated in the Asylum, and probably in the state. Both parties are graduates from the school of the institute, and at the conclusion of the ceremony genial congratulations were tendered to the newly married couple by their former schoolmates and all the inmates of the Asylum.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell 'tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the rotten in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

Charley Selna, one of the Stockton Baseball Club, drank too much on their way to this city last Sunday, and became fighting drunk on their trip home. He was fined and suspended by the Stockton captain, but was reinstated next day.

Miss Louise Novello, burlesque artiste and vocalist, opens at Smith's Bijou, Seattle, April 1st.

Thorne & Carleton, Jessie Reed, the Miranda Sisters and Hughes & Oxford open at the Theatre Comique, Tacoma, April 1.

Manager Gustav Walter & Co. have the prize ad. in the last New York Clipper, a handsomely engraved half-page calling attention of combinations to the Orpheum, including an admirable likeness of Acting Manager John Morrissey blowing his trumpet for the Orpheum. That ad. is a blow to some purpose.

Wilton & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna this week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

For full list of company of Rielly & Wood's Big Show, that comes to the Bush next week, see extra programme ad. in FIGARO.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society will hold its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on April 14th.

WANTED—At once. A colored quartette; must be able to play brass and string. Also, first-class specialty people, good salary and long engagement. Address FIGARO Agency, 532 Merchant St.

Standard, Portland, March 25th: The Pavenelli Troupe and the Three Solitaires are the new faces.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum this week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The Grand is coming to the front with a new line of attractions. McNish, Ramsa & Arno's Minstrels, that are coming Westward, and have been figuring for San Francisco dates, go there for the week of April 15th. De Vivo takes the Mary Anderson dates off of Manager Haymau's hands and plays Albani and her concert troupe there weeks of April 22nd and 29th; and Gilmore's Twelve Temptations spectacle and other booked attractions follow.

By careful nursing little Josef Hofmann has been removed from deaths' door, through which at one time he was likely to slip. He will make his re-appearance in London in September.

The popular Ex Revenant de-la-Revue Gend, M. Paulus Bordelais, recently gave a big supper in Paris in honor of his fortune reaching 1,000,000 francs. Only a few years ago he was a poor man and a rich singer;

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The members of the defunct Katie Mayhew Co. are still sighing for Singer and the boodle which he is supposed to possess.

Carrie Godfrey is winning golden opinions from the Eastern critics for her admirable singing in Said Pasha.

The success which is attending the tour of The Crystal Slipper in the West, is said to be something phenomenal. The piece was played lately in Minneapolis two consecutive weeks, the first time such a thing has been attempted in that city by a traveling organization. At the Grand Opera House, where the first week was played, the receipts were $7 190; the second week, which was played at the Hennepin Ave. Theatre, netted $6,230.

Henry E. Abbey has leased the Porte St. Martin, Parie, during the Exhibition period, to give performances by Sarah Bernhardt and by M. Coquelin. He has also secured the Gaiety, London, and the Cairo, Egypt, theatres for the presentation of these artists.

Comic operas will constitute the attraction at the Casino, Palmer's, the Broadway, the Union Square and the Bijou, N. Y., during June, July and August.

During Booth and Barrett's performance of Julius Cæsar at Boston, a party of Harvard College students volunteered to act as the "mob." When the stage manager gave the signal for them to cheer during the scene between Brutus and Cassius, they responded with a "Rah! Rah! Rah! Harvard," and that official fell limp on a chair.

A "sarkastic" English statistician lately published a list of "young" American leading actresses, which included Lotta, Maggie Mitchell, Mrs. Florence, Janauschek, Modjeska, Kate Forsythe, Fanny Davenport and Louisa Eldridge.

The recent invention of an "opera hat" for ladies, which is destined to revolutionize the milinery business, is patented by an English lady, and consists of a bat made on a wire frame, trimmed with lace and flowers. It will close similar to a gentleman's evening hat, and can be sat upon without injury. It is also convertible into a fan.

The English papers have found out that the doorkeeper of Henry Irving's theatre has worked for him for thirteen years and has never seen him act. There is nothing very strange in that. The duties of doorkeepers keep them in front of the theatre all the time during performance, and they therefore have no chance of seeing anything on the stage. There is Benton, doorkeeper of the Bijou, who never saw Emerson on the stage; and Salsbury, who was for twenty years doorkeeper at the California, and now of the Alcazar, who never saw any part of a play except the apotheosis scene at the close of Uncle Tom's Cabin one night. We used to stop and tell him all about the plays at the California, but he did not seem to take kindly to our efforts and we dropped out of the custom. We notice that Head Usher Peyser is fond of giving portions of the Alcazar plays to Mr. Salsbury lately, with interlarded dramatic recitations and recitals, but we fear that Salsbury does not take an appreciative interest in his kind intentions from the remark made the other night that he "had better go and spout them to the cat."

March was an unfortunate month for the dramatic profession. Mary Anderson's English company was disbanded, and Langtry could not appear in Philadelphia where, also, Ramsay Morris' "The Tigress" went to pieces. Fred Bryton's company was disbanded in Newark. Daniel Bandmann discharged his company while playing one night stands in Connecticut, and Minnie Maddern's company has collapsed. Lillian Lewis has also closed her season, but is soon to appear in New York.

W. H. Crane has a new play called The Balloon, in which he will be seen next season.

Joe Jefferson is engaged on an autobiography, to be published next fall.

George Boniface, Jr., joins Katie Putnam for an Australian trip, commencing in April.

Edwin Booth has been booked by Manager Henderson of the Chicago Opera House for the season of 1890-91. During that period Lawrence Barrett is also to give an elaborate production of The Last Days of Pompeii at the same house.

Managers Wallenrod & Stockwell have sent us notice of the following attractions to appear in rapid succession at the Alcazar:

April 1st—Janauschek.
April 8th—Effie Ellsler, 5 weeks.
May 13th—Mattie Vickers, 2 weeks.
May 27th—Powers' "Ivy Leaf" Co., 2 weeks.
June 10th—Harry Lee.
June 17th—J. B. Polk, 2 weeks.
July 1st—Harrigan and his own Co., 8 weeks.
August 26th—T. J. Farron in Murphy's great success, "Help," 2 weeks.
Sept. 9th—Chanfrau, 2 weeks.
Sept. 23d—McKee Rankin, 3 weeks.
Oct. 14th—Salsbury's Troubadours, 3 weeks.
Nov. 4th—Hoyt's latest, "A Texas Steer," 2 weeks.
Nov. 18th—Opening of the Stock Season with London and New York successes.
March 3, '90—Opening of the Combination Season, commencing with Hoyt's attractions, followed by Keller, the magician.

The New California will be a compact theatre with its auditorium close to the stage, and of great height. Its gallery gods will be throned high up, the walls of the new house being some ten feet higher than those of the old one. The seating capacity will be about the same.

Wilkens, the scenic artist, is painting the new drop for the Grand Opera House. It is to be ready for the Albani concert season April 22nd.

Signor De Vivo, manager for Mme. Albani, is in town.

G. M. Welty has arranged a California tour for Mattie Vickers. The 'Frisco engagement will be played at the Alcazar

The People's Theatre,

1342 & 1344 Market Street.

(Opposite Odd Fellows' Hall).

NO MORE HARRIGAN AND HART.

Tony Hart visited New York recently and during his stay there called on his old partner, Ned Harrigan. From this circumstance there immediately arose a rumor that the old and famous partnership of Harrigan and Hart was about to be revived, and that Hart would return to the stage and appear with Harrigan at the beginning of next season.

This is simple nonsense. Poor Tony Hart is still suffering from the malady that caused his retirement from the stage and his condition would preclude his playing even if the other conditions were much more favorable than they are.

It is gratifying to know that Hart has improved considerably since he has been staying in Worcester, but the imperfection in his speech remains, and the general symptoms displayed by him are such as to discourage any hope of his complete recovery, no matter how anxiously that end may be desired.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is the attraction at the New Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

Mr. Neil Warner has opened a school for elocution and voice culture. Application for membership must be made at Mr. Warner's rooms, 21 Powell street.

At a recent masquerade in New York a well-known and very thin actress said to her manager: "Oh! Billy, Billy, do tell me what to personate at the masquerade tomorrow night. It must be cheap, you know. Yes, something cheap, and in which I will look natural." "Well, my dear, gild your head and go as a pair of tongs."

A close friend of Mrs. Langtry says she is worth $700,000 in money, bonds and real estate. When she started on her tour of the English Provinces she had nothing. She cleared £10 003 however in that tour, and take my word for it, a pretty good slice has to be given up before she again marries.

Amy Ames has been engaged to appear in Woolson Morse's King Cole II, which is soon to be produced at Herrmann's Broad Street Theatre in Philadelphia.

An entire new eccentric comedy is being rehearsed at Daly's Theatre.

Princess Ann O'Delia Diss Debar, the spook medium, has been engaged by Herrmann at a salary of $1 500 a week. She is to travel and appear with the great magician on the road.

The difference between M. B. Leavitt & Professor Herrmann have been amicably settled through the intervention of George W. Lederer, and Mr. Herrmann will play the Bush Street Theatre, in September next.

It seems to be settled that during June, July and August, J. M. Hill will turn the Union Square Theatre into a variety house.

Mr. Richilieu's remark that The pen is mightier than the sword, will next season be evolved into: The type writer is more puissant than the gatling gun.

Fowler and Worrington will have The Corsair for next season playing a percentage. Mr Rice will also farm out Evangeline in the same way.

Sardou's new comedy Belle Maman, has proved a failure at the Paris Gynamse. This is the play that Augustin Daly paid $10 000 for the American rights.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre this week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

Among the many attractions in the troupe are: The Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire," and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance; the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; and Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, is in its second week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and its third week at box office.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. TLe part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist, whose first Sunday concert filled the Baldwin in all circles, and whose contributed numbers received an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give two sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next two Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Hinrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mme. Janauschek, the tragedienne, is at the Alcazar this week in her impersonation of Meg Merrilies. Janauschek is the only actress on the stage that can wear the mantle of Charlotte Chushman worthily in this weirdly intense character. In strong legitimate parts she stands at the head of the American stage to-day. The great roles of tragic characters in English are hers. She has no competitor with the exception of Mrs. Bowers, who appears so irregularly that she may be considered on the retired list.

The engagement is only for this week, and is announced as Janauschek's last visit to this coast.

Orpheum Opera House.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

This week's attraction will be The Golden Giant, with E. J. Holden as Jack Mason, James M. Brophy as Sandy Fairfax (the Golden Giant), Miss Essie Tittel taking the role of Bessie and Miss Harlow that of Ethel Wayne, the unfortunate wife. The piece is one of the most interesting of modern dramas, and it is a most ambitious effort on the part of Mr. Holden.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels this week, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew, Leonzo, the Olympic Trio and Miss Adele Purvis. The best bill that has been presented at the Vienna since its reopening.

When Wilson & Cameron gave their farewell performances at Melbourne the theatre was packed to suffocation. Their success at the Antipodes was phenomenal, and they are sure to repeat their triumph in this city. The minstrel season, also a new departure for the Vienna management, institutes a new order of entertainment. This week we shall have there the only minstrel entertainment in town. The selections for the minstrel part are excellent.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342 1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and has succeeded. Mr. Chas. J. Germer, the proprietor, can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

Standing room only is frequently hung out at the People's.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is the attraction for this week, when Mr. Dearborn will appear in the character of Joe Henderson.

Miss Lawrence and Miss Yantis are doing some very pretty playing and they both show marked improvement in their method.

Mr. Johnny Williams is another member of the company of whom meritorious words should be written. He has never failed to make all there was out of his lines, and he has become a favorite with the Peoples' patrons.

Matinee on Sunday.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces for this week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and Millie Stevens, serio-comic vocalist.

Chas. Reese puts on another new comedy this week, Midgets and No Pinafore. Mr. Reese believes in infinite variety, and he hits the popular taste every week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday until further notice.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Full houses are the rule here.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Wills & Barron, sketch artists; Jennie Heywood, vocalist; Hayes & Marion and Sadie Denway, serio-comic artists.

Signor Martinez and his wonderful troupe of Zig-Zag dancers, introducing the beautiful queen of all dancers, Bursell.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in their specialty, Coonville Courtship; Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, will claim first

Wills & Barron, America's comedy sketch artists, make their initial bow in a pleasing sketch; Bursell, the inimitable, and Conlon & Dougherty in a new musical acrobatic dance act roll up a programme hard to beat.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Big Bertha is underlined to appear in a comedy role April 8th.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

Miss Annie Braddon, vocalist, makes her first appearance this week.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters, in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable farce, Servants by Legacy, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Hot Night in 'Frisco, with all the company in the cast, conoludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Miss Eva Williams, Belle Lamont and Franks & Morrison are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

May Howard, Laura White, Lillie Howard, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Chas. Berkeley, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Berkeley & Howard are a fine team. For this week they present another of their musical sketches, "A Ruse de Guerre." Mr. Berkeley also puts on his version of the Parisian Can-Can.

Franks & Morrison produce their neat German sketch, "Fritz' Flirtation;" Geo. C. Dunham in oldman impersonations; the Howard Sisters in a new change specialty, The Spider and the Fly, and White and Walton in melodious duets. In the opening act they are all very good little children in Our Country School House.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P. M.

The asbestos curtain to be used by Manager J. M. Hill in his new fire-proof Union Square Theatre, New York, is being painted by Goatcher in imitation of tapestry. It will be very beautiful, and will hang seemingly in folds like silken stuff. The scaffolding is down and the house well bears out the claim that it will be the drawing room theatre of America.

Mr. James Brown Potter has commenced formal divorce proceedings against his wife on the ground of desertion and incompatibility of temper. Cleopatra proved too much for him.

Miss Isabelle Coe has made a great hit as the school-mistress in The Midnight Bell, now running in New York.

Last week Jefferson & Taylor received their patent on the tank which is used for the realistic water scenes in A Dark Secret.

Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett drew $4,107 in one performance last week in Hartford. This breaks the record in that city.

The Case Vidal from a French novel, by Stewart Isham, will shortly be produced by Mlle. Rhea. The play teems with sensation, yet is strictly one of life in society. The part to be assumed by the charming and lovely Rhea is one of exceeding strength and in which she hopes to make a great hit. The piece will have a strong cast and a liberal production.

Mary Anderson will start for the South of France in two weeks, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell feeling confident she will be able to travel by that time. She is at the Stratford, in Philadelphia.

Marie Van Zandt (plates a tour of the Un head of a grand English

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Arion Theatre, Gordon & Ritchie's new house in Butte City, is meeting with tremendous success. The company for the week of March 25th was the Healey Bros., Dolly Weston, Whitney & McCue, Mary Adams, Tom Ripley, Virgie Earle, Kittie Williams, Lydia York, Kittie Chapman, Chas. Green, Pete Brady, Burt St. Clair, Minnie Mearle, Steve Martin and Frank Binney.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell 'tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the acme in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

Miss Louise Novello, burlesque artiste and vocalist, opens at Smith's Bijou, Seattle, April 1st.

Thorne & Carleton, Jessie Reed, the Miranda Sisters and Hughes & Oxford open at the Theatre Comique, Tacoma, April 1.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna this week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society will hold its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on April 14th.

WANTED—At once. A colored quartette; must be able to play brass and string. Also, first-class specialty people, good salary and long engagement. Address FIGARO Agency, 532 Merchant St.

Standard, Portland, March 25th: The Pavenelli Troupe and the Three Solitaires are the new faces.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum this week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The Grand is coming to the front with a new line of attractions. McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, that are coming Westward, and have been figuring for San Francisco dates, go there for the week of April 15th. De Vivo takes the Mary Anderson dates off of Manager Hayman's hands and plays Albani and her concert troupe there weeks of April 22nd and 29th; and Gilmore's Twelve Temptations spectacle and other booked attractions follow.

Comic operas will constitute the attraction at the Casino, Palmer's, the Broadway, the Union Square and the Bijou, N. Y., during June, July and August.

During Booth and Barrett's performance of Julius Cæsar at Boston, a party of Harvard College students volunteered to act as the "mob." When the stage manager gave the signal for them to cheer during the scene between Brutus and Cassius, they responded with a "Rah! Rah! Rah! Harvard," and that official fell limp on a chair.

A "sarkastic" English statistician lately published a list of "young" American leading actresses, which included Lotta, Maggie Mitchell, Mrs. Florence, Januauschek, Modjeska, Kate Forsythe, Fanny Davenport and Louisa Eldridge.

The recent invention of an "opera hat" for ladies, which is destined to revolutionize the millinery business, is patented by an English lady, and consists of a hat made on a wire frame, trimmed with lace and flowers. It will close similar to a gentleman's evening hat, and can be sat upon without injury. It is also convertible into a fan.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Manager John Duff, of the Standard Theatre, New York, was stricken with apoplexy while seated in the box office of his theatre last Saturday during the matinee and died at 9 o'clock on the morning of March 31st. He was conscious to the last, but the apoplectic stroke had rendered him speechless, and he was powerless to communicate with those who stood at his bedside. Mr. Duff is a veteran in the theatrical business. He made his first money in the restaurant business, and some of it was spent in backing the early theatrical ventures of Augustin Daly, who married one of Duff's daughters. Mr. Duff's first step in theatrical business on his own account was made at the old Olympic Theatre, New York.

Mary Anderson sails for Europe tomorrow accompanied by her brother, Jos. Anderson, and his wife. Miss Anderson's condition is reported to be much improved and it is believed by her physician that the sea voyage will completely restore the actress to her former good health.

N. D. Roberts, the well known Eastern manager who was Emerson's manager in his season at the Bijou, left for New York to-day. He goes on theatrical business which will materialize here in the future.

Innumerable calves have appeared on the stage and acted their little parts, but it remained for Neil Burgess to place a cow thereon. One is never sure what the calf or the cow will do on the stage. This was illustrated lately at the New York Twenty-third St. Theatre, where Neil Burgess is playing Abigail Prue in The Country Fair. The comedian has made such a pet of his Jersey $1,000 beauty—no relation to Langtry—that he is the recipient of odd recognitions at times. One evening as Abigail (Burgess) was sitting on a stool near her cowship she began nosing around the old lady's neck very affectionately, and was patted on the nose in return—a very realistic bit of business at which the actor was tickled. Suddenly the cow reached forward and drew her tongue from Mr. Burgess' nose around to his neck, licking off all his make-up and nearly taking off his wig. His consternation and the laughter of the audience for an instant brought the play to a standstill. Mr. Burgess played the remainder of that scene with one side of his face to the audience. Now the comedian sits out of reach of her cowship in this scene. For once there was too much realism.

Clara Morris is in bad health again.

Emily Rigl is in New York waiting for an engagement.

Selena Fetter talks of starring in a version of The Scarlet Letter.

Captain Swift is in its fourth month at the N. Y. Madison Square Theatre.

John Wild will probably be back in Edward Harrigan's company next Fall.

A Dark Secret is in its last week at Niblo's, N. Y., where the attendance is very large.

Francis Wilson is to receive $600 for five more weeks with the N. Y. Casino Co.

Little Lord Fauntleroy continues to draw like a porous plaster in New York.

Victoria Vokes may return to the United States next season in an acrobatic farce-comedy.

Imre Kiralfy has arranged to produce Nero; or, The Fall of Rome, in Philadelphia next season.

Pauline Hall has been engaged for a season at the Casino. She will appear there in September.

Dockstader has secured from the Gilsey estate a renewal of his lease for three years from May 1st.

McKee Rankin is at the Windsor Theatre, N. Y., in The Runaway Wife this week.

Mrs. James Brown Potter appears at the Windsor Theatre, N. Y., the week of April 22nd in a repertory of plays. What a drop.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is the attraction at the New Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

The members of the defunct Katie Mayhew Co. are still sighing for Singer and the boodle which he is supposed to possess.

Carrie Godfrey is winning golden opinions from the Eastern critics for her admirable singing in Said Pasha.

The success which is attending the tour of The Crystal Slipper in the West, is said to be something phenomenal. The piece was played lately in Minneapolis two consecutive weeks, the first time such a thing has been attempted in that city by a traveling organization. At the Grand Opera House, where the first week was played, the receipts were $7 190; the second week, which was played at the Hennepin Ave. Theatre, netted $6 230.

Henry E. Abbey has leased the Porte St. Martin, Paris, during the Exhibition period, to give performances by Sarah Bernhardt and by M. Coquelin. He has also secured the Gaiety, London, and the Cairo, Egypt, theatres for the presentation of these artists.

Mr. Neil Warner has opened a school for elocution and voice culture. Appli-

The latest fad in Gotham are hair albums in which the locks of pretty actresses are labeled by their incense—rose, lavender, violet, and so forth, but the fad was nipped in the bud by Sol Berliner, who burrowed his nose in the amber wreath of a lady's Psyche knot and said that he could catch some of the odors of the South Pacific.

Prof. Herrmann has associated himself with George W. Lederer for the purpose of placing on the road the coming season a new entertainment to be styled Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Refined Vaudevilles. The tour will open at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, September 15th, and will only play in the first-class legitimate theatres. Sixteen weeks have been booked at various theatres in New York city.

At a recent masquerade in New York a well-known and very thin actress said to her manager: "Oh! Billy, Billy, do tell me what to personate at the masquerade tomorrow night. It must be cheap, you know. Yes, something cheap, and in which I will look natural." "Well, my dear, gild your head and go as a pair of tongs."

A close friend of Mrs. Langtry says she is worth $700,000 in money, bonds and real estate. When she started on her tour of the English Provinces she had nothing. She cleared £10 003 however in that tour, and take my word for it, a pretty good slice has to be given up before she again marries.

Amy Ames has been engaged to appear in Woolson Morse's King Cole II, which is soon to be produced at Herrmann's Broad Street Theatre in Philadelphia.

Princess Ann O'Delia Diss Debar, the spook medium, has been engaged by Herrmann at a salary of $1 500 a week. She is to travel and appear with the great magician on the road.

The difference between M. B. Leavitt & Professor Herrmann have been amicably settled through the intervention of George W. Lederer, and Mr. Herrmann will play the Bush Street Theatre, in September next.

It seems to be settled that during June, July and August, J. M. Hill will turn the Union Square Theatre into a variety house.

Mr. Richilieu's remark that The pen is mightier than the sword, will next season be evolved into: The type writer is more puissant than the gatling gun.

Fowler and Worrington will have The Corsair for next season playing a percentage. Mr. Rice will also farm out Evangeline in the same way.

Sardou's new comedy Belle Maman, has proved a failure at the Paris Gynamse. This is the play that Augustin Daly paid $10,000 for the American rights.

George Boniface, Jr., joins Katie Putnam for an Australian trip, commencing in April.

Edwin Booth has been booked by Manager Henderson of the Chicago Opera House for the season of 1890-91. During that period Lawrence Barrett is also to give an elaborate production of The Last Days of Pompeii at the same house.

Wilkens, the scenic artist, is painting the new drop for the Grand Opera House. It is to be ready for the Albani concert season April 22nd.

G. M. Welty has arranged a California tour for Mattie Vickers. The 'Frisco engagement will be played at the Alcazar.

It is stated that Edward Harrigan and Tony Hart have made up their long standing differences and will appear together next season.

The Jefferson-Florence combination, which will be under the personal direction of Charles B. Jefferson, begin their tour in New York at the Star Theatre on October 14th.

Mrs. Langtry is now called the Tiger Lily by reporters instead of the Jersey Lily. She has grown weary of being constantly pestered and falsified, and makes it very

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre this week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like, nickel-plated, steel, revolving machine, is suspended near the ceiling. It has two extended trapeze-bearing arms from which hang the Vaidis Sisters, revolving each on her own trapeze, and performing the most difficult feats, such as hanging from the bar by their teeth, the backs of their heads, their feet, or balancing themselves on their backs while in motion; every change being done with remarkable grace and with the utmost ease. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

In Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense. The daring girl is poised ready for the dive. Every face is upturned to her, every eye is on her. She inclines forward, places her hands fingertip to fingertip above her head and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense break into rounds of applause, and the greatest trapeze act of the world is over.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, is in its second week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and its third week at box office.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist, whose first Sunday concert filled the Baldwin in all circles, and whose contributed numbers received an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give two sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next two Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Hinrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mme. Janauschek, the tragedienne, is at the Alcazar this week in her impersonation of Meg Merrilies. Janauschek is the only actress on the stage that can wear the mantle of Charlotte Chushman worthily in this weirdly intense character. In strong legitimate parts she stands at the head of the American stage to-day. The great roles of tragic characters in English are hers. She has no competitor with the exception of Mrs. Bowers, who appears so irregularly that she may be considered on the retired list. Her Meg Merrilies is as vigorous an impersonation as ever and as fully impressive in its strong scenes.

George D. Chaplin gives the required manliness in look and action to Dandy Dinmont; Alice Crawford acts Mrs. McCandlish with spirit, and Col. Mannering, Dominie Sampson and the whole line of characters created by Scott in Guy Mannering have fair living representations in the dramatic version of the story.

The engagement is only for this week, and is announced as Janauschek's last visit to this coast.

Effie Ellsler commences her season here next week in her successful play of "Egypt."

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum this week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Nelman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns; Mlle. Forgardus, with a flock of trained birds and performing dogs; in short a programme which eclipses all former shows given at this house.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business, take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Nelman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle. Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

This week's attraction will be The Golden Giant, with E. J. Holden as Jack Mason, James M. Brophy as Sandy Fairfax (the Golden Giant), Miss Essie Tittel taking the role of Bessie and Miss Harlow that of Ethel Wayne the unfortunate wife. The piece is one of the most interesting of modern dramas, and it is a most ambitious effort on the part of Mr. Holden.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels this week, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew, Leonzo, the Olympic Trio and Miss Adele Purvis. The best bill that has been presented at the Vienna since its reopening.

When Wilson & Cameron gave their farewell performances at Melbourne the theatre was packed to suffocation. Their success at the Antipodes was phenomenal, and they are sure to repeat their triumph in this city. The minstrel season, also a new departure for the Vienna management, institutes a new order of entertainment. This week we shall have there the only minstrel entertainment in town. The selections for the minstrel part are excellent.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342-1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and he can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

Standing room only is frequently hung out at the People's.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is the attraction for this week, with Mr. Dearborn in the character of Joe Henderson.

Miss Lawrence and Miss Yantis are doing some very pretty playing and they both show marked improvement in their method.

Mr. Johnny Williams is another member of the company of whom meritorious words should be written. He has never failed to make all there was out of his lines, and he has become a favorite with the Peoples' patrons.

Matinee on Sunday.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces for this week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and Millie Stevens, serio-comic vocalist.

Chas. Reese puts on another new comedy this week, Midgets and No Pinafore. Mr. Reese believes in infinite variety, and he hits the popular taste every week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday until further notice.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Full houses are the rule here.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Wills & Barron, sketch artists; Jennie Heywood, vocalist; Hayes & Marion and Sadie Denway, serio-comic artists.

Signor Martinez and his wonderful troupe of Zig-Zag dancers, introducing the beautiful queen of all dancers, Bursell.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in their specialty, Coonville Courtship; Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, will claim first places in their various specialties.

Wills & Barron, America's comedy sketch artists, make their initial bow in a pleasing sketch; Bursell, the inimitable, and Conlon & Dougherty in a new musical acrobatic dance act roll up a programme hard to beat.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Big Bertha is underlined to appear in a comedy role April 8th.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

Miss Annie Braddon, vocalists, makes her first appearance this week.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable farce, Servants by Legacy, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Hot Night in 'Frisco, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coolest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Melville & Stetson's topical songs and dialect imitations catch their audiences.

Browne's Comique, Sacramento, April 1st: Dwyer & Buckley, Rosa Devere, Lillian Snow, Nibbe & Harrison, George Parker, Ruby Knight & Amelia Gererflo.

New people at Cort's Standard, Portland, April 1st; The Stirk Family, Mono & Rano, Ivor, Rano & Unis, King Sisters, Geo. R. Brooks, Kelly & Murphy, Kelly & Bertha, McKee & Franks, Jas. Gray and Maud Williams.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

Pleasure Theatre, Butte City, April 1: John J. Black, Lillie Gordon, Whitney & Johnson, Lillie Carroll, Coyne Bros., Jas. E. Black, Gyer & Lord, May Forrest, Marrellis, Everett & Stanley, Goodrich & Goodwin, Ella Summerton and Dollie Merton.

We have at the Bush in the Reilly & Wood Co. the best lady cornetist on the stage. Miss Bessie Gilbert won her fame in Theodore Thomas' Symphony Concert Co., and there are but Levy and one or two male cornetists that rank above her in artistic execution and volume.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the noted in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

Cort is running a big bill at the Standard, Portland, this week—45 people, and all strong attractions.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna this week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

Novelty Theatre, Leadville, April 1st: The Whalens, Ada Armour, Barrett Bros., Belle Chester, Vernon Sisters, the McDonalds, Jessie White, Agnes Clayton and Hattie Wescott.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum this week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramide and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell 'tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

It was the cat. A wildcat has made a veritable wreck of the South End saloon and museum, Boston, known as "Buckley's Lookout Exchange." Constable Vess appeared at the place to take charge of the premises on account of an attachment. Proprietor Buckley keeps a menagerie in the back room (something like Chris.' political one). By way of defending his saloon he let a full-blood wildcat out of its cage. Vess lit out, and then pandemonium reigned. The cat overturned bottles, decanters and jugs, howling in a blood-curdling fashion. Buckley joined in the tumult, rivaling the cat in his shouts and yells, firing his pistol in all directions. The cat was finally killed. Constable Vess dropped around somewhat later, but had to break in with an ax.

Mrs. Linguist (reading) — Professor Schliever, the inventor of Volapuk, is not dead yet. Mr. Linguist (absently)—Johnny, get yer gun, get yer gun.

When a woman can get $10,000 damages in a breach of promise case she is justified in reasoning that a promise of marriage is more honored in the breach than in the observance.

In progressive Placerville the other day a young fellow squeezed his girl so hard

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett are picnicing in the interior this week, playing in Scranton, Pa., 1st; Elmira, N. Y., 2nd; Rochester, 3d, and Buffalo, 4th, 5th and 6th, reaching Toledo, April 8th for two performances, and Detroit, April 10th, for four nights. On April 15th the tragedians begin an engagement of three nights in Cleveland, Ohio.

The Healys do a neat sketch. Their song, "Hear Them Bells" (new), and John Healy's novel dancing brings down the house.

Miss Rose Coghlan reappears in New York this week at the Star Theatre, the scene of her earliest and best successes as the leading lady of Wallack's company, and for the first time in that city in Chas. Coghlan's new romantic play of Jocelyn, for which new and handsome scenery and accessories are promised.

Miss Adelaide Moore has secured the American rights to The Love Story, a play by Pierre Leclercq, which is now making a successful run at the Vaudeville Theatre in London, and will present it in all of the large cities of this country next season. Miss Moore sails from England for New York June 1st and as soon as she arrives will secure a strong company to support her in the new play.

John P. Smith, the well known manager, has engaged A. Miner Griswold, the "Fat Contributor" and editor of Texas Siftings, to give his new entertainment, entitled "Griswold's Tour Around the World." The Fat Contributor provides his own fat for his lecture.

Delaur & Debrimont are the Paris contingent in Reilly & Wood's Big Show. Their opera bouffe selections are artistically given, and their Paris costume changes are in excellent taste and very beautiful.

Neil Burgess has put on sale tickets ten weeks in advance for his new piece, "A Country Fair," at Proctor's 23d St. Theatre, N. Y. The piece is up for a long run. The realistic race-course scene in the last act never fails to set the audience wild with enthusiasm.

W. J. Scanlan closes his season April 6th in Boston, and sails for England with his American company April 9th. On April 22d Mr. Scanlan begins a three months' tour of the large cities of Great Britain, returning to this country in time to open his next season in New York at the Star Theatre.

Lizzie Evans sails for Europe April 9th.

Clara Morris has closed her season on account of illness.

Frank McNish will play in Europe this Summer.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels are to be reorganized late in May, and come to San Francisco for a month's run at the Bush Street Theatre.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Mary Anderson sails for Europe today accompanied by her brother, Joseph Anderson, and his wife. Miss Anderson's condition is reported to be much improved and it is believed by her physician that the sea voyage will completely restore the actress to her former good health.

N. D. Roberts, the well known Eastern manager who was Emerson's manager in his season at the Bijou, left for New York Tuesday. He goes on theatrical business which will materialize here in the future.

Innumerable calves have appeared on the stage and acted their little parts, but it remained for Neil Burgess to place a cow thereon. One is never sure what the calf or the cow will do on the stage. This was illustrated lately at the New York Twenty-third St. Theatre, where Neil Burgess is playing Abigail Prue in The Country Fair. The comedian has made such a pet of his Jersey $1,000 beauty—no relation to Langtry—that he is the recipient of odd recognitions at times. One evening as Abigail (Burgess) was sitting on a stool near her cowship she began nosing around the old lady's neck very affectionately, and was patted on the nose in return—a very realistic bit of business at which the actor was tickled. Suddenly the cow reached forward and drew her tongue from Mr. Burgess' nose around to his neck, licking off all his make-up and nearly taking off his wig. His consternation and the laughter of the audience for an instant brought the play to a standstill. Mr. Burgess played the remainder of that scene with one side of his face to the audience. Now the comedian sits out of reach of her cowship in this scene. For once there was too much realism.

Clara Morris is in bad health again.

The Marquise is a failure at the Lyceum Theatre, New York.

Emily Rigl is in New York waiting for an engagement.

Selena Fetter talks of starring in a version of The Scarlet Letter.

Captain Swift is in its fourth month at the N. Y. Madison Square Theatre.

John Wild will probably be back in Edward Harrigan's company next Fall.

A Dark Secret is in its last week at Niblo's, N. Y., where the attendance is very large.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is the attraction at the New Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. THE FLORENCES.

There is not another married couple on the American stage that has had such a lengthy career of professional prosperity, or stands so well socially as the Florences. William J. Florence has elevated himself from an Irish comedian into a most artistic character and dialect actor. His Obenrizer in "No Thoroughfare" ranks in merit with that great actor, Fechter's; for whom the part was conceived and written by Dickens and dramatized by Wilkie Collins. Florence's Captain Cuttle is the best on the stage.

Mrs. Florence, it is reported, will shortly retire from the stage. Her maiden name was Malvina Pray, and she is a sister of Mrs. Barney Williams. When Mr. Florence married her, on January 1, 1853, she was a dancer, and used to appear between the acts in Wallack's Theatre. On June 8th of that year Mr. and Mrs. Florence made their first appearance together at the National Theatre in New York in a sketch called "The Irish Boy and Yankee Gal," which proved a great success, and in which they made a great deal of money through the country. They went to London in 1856, and played an engagement of fifty nights at Drury Lane, where they did a great business, making a tour afterward through the English provinces. Their position was now established on the American stage, and ever since they have been standard attractions at all the first-class theatres in this country.

Mrs. Florence's Yankee Gal was a fine piece of character acting, which is still remembered with pleasure by the old-time playgoers. Her Polly Eccles in "Caste" is remembered as a delicious piece of comedy acting. Of late years her greatest success has been won in the character of Mrs. Gillory, a modern adaptation of Mrs. Malaprop, in "The Mighty Dollar." Her husband, however, has outdistanced her in the race for histrionic honors, and, though they have continued to travel together, she has no part in some of his best plays.

Prof. Herrmann has associated himself with George W. Lederer for the purpose of placing on the road the coming season a new entertainment to be styled Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Refined Vaudevilles. The tour will open at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, September 15th, and will only play in the first-class legitimate theatres. Sixteen weeks have been booked at various theatres in New York city.

The difference between M. B. Leavitt & Professor Herrmann have been amicably settled through the intervention of George W. Lederer, and Mr. Herrmann will play the Bush Street Theatre, in September next.

Kate Castleton has a young and pretty sister, who is to go on the stage very soon. She will be known as Ada Freeman.

Sara Jewett will probably return to the stage next season in the Madison Square Captain Swift traveling company.

There appears to be an epidemic among the female stars this season. Now it is stated that Mrs. Potter is not feeling very well.

The Hanlons' Fantasma Company are making a successful tour of the West, where this handsome spectacle is said to be doing an exceedingly large business.

It is announced that Grace Hawthorne will positively make a tour of the United States next season.

George W. Wadleigh, for many years with Rice and Dixey, threatens next season to become a manager by taking a company on the road.

The trouble about Minnie Palmer's new play My Brother's Sister, has been settled, and John R. Rogers will have to settle with the author, Leonard Grover.

Frank Mordaunt is to play Crane's part next season in The Henrietta.

Miss Rose Coghlan closes her tour May 11th in Brooklyn and begins her next sea-

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre this week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like, nickel-plated, steel, revolving machine, is suspended near the ceiling. It has two extended trapeze-bearing arms from which hang the Vaidis Sisters, revolving each on her own trapeze, and performing the most difficult feats, such as hanging from the bar by their teeth, the backs of their heads, their feet, or balancing themselves on their backs while in motion; every change being done with remarkable grace and with the utmost ease. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

In Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense. The daring girl is poised ready for the dive. Every face is upturned to her, every eye is on her. She inclines forward, places her hands fingertip to fingertip above her head and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense break into rounds of applause, and the greatest trapeze act of the world is over.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, is in its second week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and its third week at box office.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. TLe part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist, whose first Sunday concert filled the Baldwin in all circles, and whose contributed numbers received an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give two sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next two Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. [illegible] assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Hinrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mme. Janauschek, the tragedienne, is at he Alcazar this week in her impersonation of Meg Merrilies. Janauschek is the only actress on the stage that can wear the mantle of Charlotte Chushman worthily in this weirdly intense character. In strong legitimate parts she stands at the head of the American stage to-day. The great roles of tragic characters in English are hers. She has no competitor with the exception of Mrs. Bowers, who appears so irregularly that she may be considered on the retired list. Her Meg Merrilies is as vigorous an impersonation as ever and as fully impressive in its strong scenes.

George D. Chaplin gives the required manliness in look and action to Dandy Dinmont; Alice Crawford acts Mrs. McCandlish with spirit, and Col. Mannering, Dominie Sampson and the whole line of characters created by Scott in Guy Mannering have fair living representations in the dramatic version of the story.

The engagement is only for this week, and is announced as Janauschek's last visit to this coast.

Effie Ellsler commences her season here next week in her successful play of "Egypt."

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum this week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Neiman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns; Mlle. Forgardus, with a flock of trained birds and performing dogs; in short a programme which eclipses all former shows given at this house.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business, take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Neiman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle. Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

This week's attraction will be The Golden Giant, with E. J. Holden as Jack Mason, James M. Brophy as Sandy Fairfax, (the Golden Giant), Miss Essie Tittel taking the role of Bessie and Miss Harlow that of Ethel Wayne the unfortunate wife. The piece is one of the most interesting of modern dramas, and Mr. Holden sustains the part of Jack Mason very ably. The picturesque drama is well staged and the support is good.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels this week, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew, Leonzo, the Olympic Trio and Miss Adele Purvis. The best bill that has been presented at the Vienna since its reopening.

When Wilson & Cameron gave their farewell performances at Melbourne the theatre was packed to suffocation. Their success at the Antipodes was phenomenal, and they are sure to repeat their triumph in this city. The minstrel season, also a new departure for the Vienna management, institutes a new order of entertainment. This week we shall have there the only minstrel entertainment in town. The selections for the minstrel part are excellent.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342-1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and he can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is the attraction for this week, with Mr. Dearborn in the character of Joe Henderson.

Miss Lawrence and Miss Yantis are doing some very good character work, and they both show marked improvement in their method.

Mr. Johnny Williams is another member of the company of whom meritorious words should be written. He has never failed to make all he could out of his lines, and he has become a favorite with the People's patrons.

Master Mechanic Kloos deserves words of credit for the way in which he has produced the wreck scene with the rocket and life-saving car effect.

Matinee on Sunday.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces for this week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and Millie Stevens, serio-comic vocalist.

Charles Reese puts on two new comedie this week, Midgets and No Pinafore. Mr. Reese believes in infinite variety, and he hits the popular taste every week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday until further notice.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Full houses are the rule here.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Wills & Barron, sketch artists; Jennie Heywood, vocalist; Hayes & Marion and Sadie Denway, serio-comic artists.

Signor Martinez and his wonderful troupe of Zig-Zag dancers, introducing the beautiful queen of all dancers, Bursell.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in their specialty, Coonville Courtship; Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, will claim first places in their various specialties

Wills & Barron, America's comedy sketch artists, make their initial bow in a pleasing sketch; Bursell, the inimitable, and Conlon & Dougherty in a new musical acrobatic dance act roll up a programme hard to beat.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Big Bertha is underlined to appear in a comedy role April 8th.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

Miss Annie Braddon, vocalists, makes her first appearance this week.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand [illegible] finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable farce, Servants by Legacy, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Hot Night in 'Frisco, with all the company in the cast, conoludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....APRIL 7, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The grand military out-door spectacle, Paine's Siege of Sebastopol, will open in this city on or about April 22nd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets. An artificial lake, 250 feet in length, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, and the immense stage on which the fortifications will be erected—and 500 people will be massed at one time during the action—will occupy the greater part of the block. The portion reserved for the audience will have seating capacity for 12,000 persons. Performances will be given every other night, and $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. Alf. Ellingnouse is paving the way for this spectacle.

Melville & Stetson's topical songs and dialect imitations catch their audience.

New people at Cort's Standard, Portland, April 1st: The Stirk Family, Mono & Rand, Ivor, Ross & Uno, King Sisters, Geo. R. Brooke, Kelly & Murphy, Kelly & Bertha, McKee & Franks, Jas. Gray and Maud Williams.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

We have at the Bush in the Reilly & Wood Co. the best lady cornetist on the stage. Miss Bessie Gilbert won her fame in Theodore Thomas' Symphony Concert Co., and there are but Levy and one or two male cornetists that rank above her in artistic execution and volume.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the noted in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

Cort is running a big bill at the Standard, Portland, this week—45 people, and all strong attractions.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna this week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum this week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morton and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and assorted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell 'tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

John Wild will probably be back in Edward Harrigan's company next Fall.

M. B. LEAVITT'S DENVER THEATRE.

The results of the joint visit to Denver of Manager M. B. Leavitt, of the Bush Street Theatre, and Colonel Wood, the theatre architect and the designer of the improvements thereon, and architect of the New California Theatre here, will be a magnificent "Broadway Theatre" in that city. It will be built by Colonel W. H. Bush of the Windsor Hotel, and will cost $250,000. Seating capacity, 1800. The plans have been completed by Col. Wood, and he is on his way back to this city. The new theatre will eclipse the Tabor Opera House in richness and will be supplied with all the latest accessories in theatre appointments. M. B. Leavitt will have the management of this new Denver theatre, and, it is reported, a proprietory interest in it. He will play all his attractions booked for his New Bush and the Pacific Coast in his Denver theatre, which will be the stepping stone to his Western circuit commencing with his Fall and Winter engagements. During the Spring, Summer and Fall Manager Leavitt will manage his business in New York, but will, as is his custom,

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Violinist Joachim's golden jubilee was celebrated in London March 17th. Viotti's Stradivarius was presented to him. The Germans will send him a $20,000 testimonial.

It is reported that Joseph R. Grismer and wife, Phoebe Davies, will be seen this season in "The Calthorpe Case" in New York.

John G. Ritchie is managing Washington Irving Bishop. Mr. Ritchie may yet discover that life is not without its sorrows and tribulations.

George Fortescue is the latest Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The celebrated Indian Basket Trick is Kellar's latest.

The Governor of Tennessee has pardoned the thief who stole Fanny Davenport's diamonds at the Gayoso House, Memphis, two years ago. After the Governor's came Miss Davenport's pardon, and it was accompanied by a snug sum of money.

Gerard Coventry will take out Gillette's She on Easter Monday for four weeks. He has secured the piece for next season.

Miss Victoria Vokes', (Rosina's Sister,) professional visit to this country next season is an assured fact. The final arrangements have been perfected, the repertoire selected, and Frank Dietz is now engaged with the booking. In all probability Miss Vokes will be seen in New York in the latter part of August.

Madam Furch Modi has recovered $11,000 from the National Opera Company.

The Healys do a neat sketch. Their song, "Hear Them Bells" (new), and John Healy's novel dancing brings down the house.

Miss Rose Coghlan reappears in New York this week at the Star Theatre, the scene of her earliest and best successes as the leading lady of Wallack's company, and for the first time in that city in Chas. Coghlan's new romantic play of Jocelyn, for which new and handsome scenery and accessories are promised.

John P. Smith, the well known manager, has engaged A. Miner Griswold, the "Fat Contributor" and editor of Texas Siftings, to give his new entertainment, entitled "Griswold's Tour Around the World." The Fat Contributor provides his own fat for his lecture.

Delaur & Debrimont are the Paris contingent in Reilly & Wood's Big Show. Their opera bouffe selections are artistically given, and their Paris costume changes are in excellent taste and very beautiful.

Neil Burgess has put on sale tickets ten weeks in advance for his new piece, "A Country Fair," at Proctor's 23d St. Theatre, N. Y. The piece is up for a long run. The realistic race-course scene in the last act never fails to set the audience wild with enthusiasm.

W. J. Scanlan closes his season April 6th in Boston, and sails for England with his American company April 9th. On April 22d Mr. Scanlan begins a three months' tour of the large cities of Great Britain, returning to this country in time to open his next season in New York at the Star Theatre.

Lizzie Evans sails for Europe April 9th.

Clara Morris has closed her season on account of illness.

Frank McNish will play in Europe this Summer.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels are to be reorganized late in May, and come to San Francisco for a month's run at the Bush Street Theatre.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

N. D. Roberts, the well known Eastern manager who was Emerson's manager in his season at the Bijou, left for New York Tuesday. He goes on theatrical business which will materialize here in the future.

Clara Morris is in bad health again.

The Marquise is a failure at the Lyceum Theatre, New York.

Captain Swift is in its fourth month at the N. Y. Madison Square Theatre.

A Dark Secret is in its last week at Niblo's, N. Y., where the attendance is very large.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is the attraction at the New Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

The Hanlons' Fantasma Company are making a successful tour of the West, where this handsome spectacle is said to be doing an exceedingly large business.

Miss Rose Coghlan closes her tour May 11th in Brooklyn and begins her next season in August, opening at the Baldwin Theatre.

It was the cat. A wildcat has made a veritable wreck of the South End saloon and museum, Boston, known as "Buckley's Lookout Exchange." Constable Vess appeared at the place to take charge of the premises on account of an attachment. Proprietor Buckley keeps a menagerie in the back room (something like Chris.' political one). By way of defending his saloon he let a full-blood wildcat out of its cage. Vess lit out, and then pandemonium reigned. The cat overturned bottles, decanters and jugs, howling in a blood-curdling fashion. Buckley joined in the tumult, rivaling the cat in his shouts and yells, firing his pistol in all directions. The cat was finally killed. Constable Vess dropped

EDWIN BOOTH PROSTRATED.

The wires vibrate with sadness in bringing the intelligence that Edwin Booth was prostrated while acting Iago at Rochester last night. A Rochester dispatch to the Chronicle says that Booth acted through the first act with his usual power.

"When the second act was preparing Mr. Booth, though uttering no complaint, is now known to have felt an approaching culmination of the oppressive heaviness that for several days has caused him no little discomfort. He went on, however, and played nearly through the act with his usual facility. He was urging his physical will, and at the call for the last scene in the second act the slight dizziness that for several days had tormented the great actor increased and darkness came upon him. His attendant and others observed something amiss, and sprang to his assistance. A physician was hurriedly called, and after a hasty examination expressed the fear that Mr. Booth had sustained a shock of partial paralysis." This so alarmed Mr. Barrett that he determined to dismiss the audience. Which he did with evident pathos.

Mr. Booth soon rallied and was able to enter and alight from the carriage on the way to his hotel with assistance. Later his physicians disclaimed any attack of paralysis, and say that he was suffering no pain. Further in the night Mr. Barrett requested the following dispatch sent to the press: "Since his return to the hotel Mr. Booth has been easier. The doctor gives assurance that a week of absolute rest will restore him to his usual health."

Mr. Booth will be taken to New York to-day. His dates for a week ahead have been canceled. From a list we published yesterday it will be seen that they include those at Buffalo, 4th, 5th and 6th, and Toledo April 8th and 9th. The dispatch adds that the dates at Detroit (April 10th, four nights) and subsequent ones at Cleveland (on the 15th) will be filled if Mr. Booth's condition will permit it. Let us hope it may.

Less than a month ago, on March 8th, Mary Anderson was prostrated in a similar manner while performing in "A Winter's Tale" in Washington, though she rallied sufficiently to finish the play. Her physicians pronounced it an attack of nervous prostration caused by overwork and anxiety, and promised to bring her around all right after a period of rest. Yesterday Miss Anderson had sufficiently recovered to take a health-seeking voyage to Europe.

The cases are analogous; though the difference we must admit is in favor of Miss Anderson. She is scarcely thirty, healthy, and of vigorous constitution. Booth is well advanced in years and on the declining plane of life. Yet it is to be most earnestly hoped that Booth, too, may conquer his prostration. His withdrawal from the stage would be a national loss. We have no one to fill his place. Let us trust that rest and recuperation will enable him to visit us in May in restored health and vigor.

Frank Mordaunt is to play Crane's part next season in The Henrietta.

Kate Castleton has a young and pretty sister, who is to go on the stage very soon. She will be known as Ada Freeman.

Sara Jewett will probably return to the stage next season in the Madison Square Captain Swift traveling company.

There appears to be an epidemic among the female stars this season. Now it is stated that Mrs. Potter is not feeling very well.

It is announced that Grace Hawthorne will positively make a tour of the United

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre this week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like, nickel-plated, steel, revolving machine, is suspended near the ceiling. It has two extended trapeze-bearing arms from which hang the Vaidis Sisters, revolving each on her own trapeze, and performing the most difficult feats, such as hanging from the bar by their teeth, the backs of their heads, their feet, or balancing themselves on their backs while in motion; every change being done with remarkable grace and with the utmost ease. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

In Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense. The daring girl is poised ready for the dive. Every face is upturned to her, every eye is on her. She inclines forward, places her hands fingertip to fingertip above her head and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense break into rounds of applause, and the greatest trapeze act of the world is over.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, is in its second week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and its third week at box office.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist, whose first San Francisco concert filled the Baldwin in all circles, and whose contributed numbers received an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give two sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next two Sunday evenings. In his company are Annie Louise Tanner and other artists in vocal and instrumental music, enumerated in programme announcement adjacent. He will have the assistance of a grand orchestra of thirty musicians, directed by August Hinrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Alcazar Theatre

Mme. Janauschek, the tragedienne, is at the Alcazar this week in her impersonation of Meg Merrilies. Janauschek is the only actress on the stage that can wear the mantle of Charlotte Chushman worthily in this weirdly intense character. In strong legitimate parts she stands at the head of the American stage to-day. The great roles of tragic characters in English are hers. She has no competitor with the exception of Mrs. Bowers, who appears so irregularly that she may be considered on the retired list. Her Meg Merrilies is as vigorous an impersonation as ever and as fully impressive in its strong scenes.

George D. Chaplin gives the required manliness in look and action to Dandy Dinmont; Alice Crawford acts Mrs. McCandlish with spirit, and Col. Mannering, Dominie Sampson and the whole line of characters created by Scott in Guy Mannering have fair living representations in the dramatic version of the story.

The engagement is only for this week, and is announced as Janauschek's last visit to this coast.

Effie Ellsler commences her season here next week in her successful play of "Egypt."

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum this week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Neiman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns; Mlle. Forgardus, with a flock of trained birds and performing dogs; in short a programme which eclipses all former shows given at this house.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business, take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Neiman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle. Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco enters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

This week's attraction will be The Golden Giant, with E. J. Holden as Jack Mason, James M. Brophy as Sandy Fairfax (the Golden Giant), Miss Essie Tittel taking the role of Bessie and Miss Harlow that of Ethel Wayne the unfortunate wife. The piece is one of the most interesting of modern dramas, and Mr. Holden sustains the part of Jack Mason very ably. The picturesque drama is well staged and the support is good.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels this week, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew, Leonzo, the Olympic Trio and Miss Adele Purvis. The best bill that has been presented at the Vienna since its reopening.

When Wilson & Cameron gave their farewell performances at Melbourne the theatre was packed to suffocation. Their success at the Antipodes was phenomenal, and they are sure to repeat their triumph in this city. The minstrel season, also a new departure for the Vienna management, institutes a new order of entertainment. This week we shall have there the only minstrel entertainment in town. The selections for the minstrel part are excellent.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342 1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and he can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is the attraction for this week, with Mr. Dearborn in the character of Joe Henderson.

Miss Lawrence and Miss Yantis are doing some very good character work, and they both show marked improvement in their method.

Mr. Johnny Williams is another member of the company of whom meritorious words should be written. He has never failed to make all he could out of his lines, and he has become a favorite with the People's patrons.

Master Mechanic Kloos deserves words of credit for the way in which he has produced the wreck scene with the rocket and life-saving car effect.

Matinee on Sunday.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces for this week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and Millie Stevens, serio-comic vocalist.

Charles Reese puts on two new comedies this week, Midgets and No Pinafore. Mr. Reese believes in infinite variety, and he hits the popular taste every week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday until further notice.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Full houses are the rule here.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Wills & Barron, sketch artists; Jennie Heywood, vocalist; Hayes & Marion and Sadie Denway, serio-comic artists.

Signor Martinez and his wonderful troupe of Zig-Zag dancers, introducing the beautiful queen of all dancers, Bursell.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in their specialty, Coonville Courtship; Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, will claim first places in their various specialties.

Wills & Barron, America's comedy sketch artists, make their initial bow in a pleasing sketch; Bursell, the inimitable, and Conlon & Dougherty in a new musical acrobatic dance act roll up a programme hard to beat.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Big Bertha is underlined to appear in a comedy role April 8th.

Original Theatre Comique.

Managers Burns & Travers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

Miss Annie Braddon, vocalistc, makes her first appearance this week.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable farce, Servants by Legacy, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Hot Night in 'Frisco, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coolest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Miss Eva Williams, Belle Lamont and Franks & Morrison are the new claimants of the popular favor this week.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Sells Bros. & Barrett's Circus paper is making the town picturesque.

Ned Barry becomes amusement director at the Bella Union April 8th. He puts on his great piece, The Nancy Lee.

The grand military out-door spectacle, Paine's Siege of Sebastopol, will open in this city on or about April 22nd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets. An artificial lake, 250 feet in length, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, and the immense stage on which the fortifications will be erected—and 500 people will be massed at one time during the action—will occupy the greater part of the block. The portion reserved for the audience will have seating capacity for 12,000 persons. Performances will be given every other night, and $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. Alf. Ellinghouse is paving the way for this spectacle.

Melville & Stetson's topical songs and dialect imitations catch their audiences.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

We have at the Bush in the Reilly & Wood Co. the best lady cornetist on the stage. Miss Bessie Gilbert won her fame in Theodore Thomas' Symphony Concert Co., and there are but Levy and one or two male cornetists that rank above her in artistic execution and volume.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the noted in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

Cort is running a big bill at the Standard, Portland, this week—45 people, and all strong attractions.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna this week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

Nelson's Great World Combination opens at the Orpheum this week, headed by the champion acrobatic family, the Nelsons, now seven in number, whose pyramids and other grouped acrobatic feats have made them famous. The associate company in the combination is varied and artistic and embraces a deal of popular talent outside of the Nelsons. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell 'tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

John Wild will probably be back in Edward Harrigan's company next Fall.

M. B. LEAVITT'S DENVER THEATRE.

The results of the joint visit to Denver of Manager M. B. Leavitt, of the Bush Street Theatre, and Colonel Wood, the theatre architect and the designer of the improvements thereon, and architect of the New California Theatre here, will be a magnificent "Broadway Theatre" in that city. It will be built by Colonel W. H. Bush of the Windsor Hotel, and will cost $250,000. Seating capacity, 1800. The plans have been completed by Col. Wood, and he is on his way back to this city. The new theatre will eclipse the Tabor Opera House in richness and will be supplied with all the latest accessories in theatre appointments. M. B. Leavitt will have the management of this new Denver theatre, and, it is reported, a proprietory interest in it. He will play all his attractions booked for his New Bush and the Pacific Coast in his Denver theatre, which will be the stepping stone to his Western circuit commencing with his Fall and Winter engagements. During the Spring, Summer and Fall Man-

BOOTH'S CONDITION HOPEFUL.

Booth arrived in New York at 7:30 last night much improved. He came from Rochester unaccompanied except by his valet. He walked from car to carriage unassisted and was driven to his rooms in the Players' Club. Neither in voice or action does he appear to be suffering from any serious malady, although he is paler than usual. To a near friend he said:

"I am very much better, and am practically all right again. I did not have a stroke of paralysis, but simply lost my voice temporarily, the effect of oversmoking. The same trouble has happened to me before, but never when acting. Now that I am here I will rest a few days and then join Barrett and the company at Cleveland a week from Monday."

Booth feels confident in himself, which looks very favorable, and is rather angry that he has permitted himself to be persuaded to return to New York. He thinks his friends have been unnecessarily alarmed, which is probably so.

It is more than probable that Booth's attack was only one of nervous prostration, arising from the unusual strain his system has been subjected to the few previous days, than from any other cause. Saturday must have been a very trying day to him. He played to two immense houses at the matinee and evening in Brooklyn. At the close of the evening performance he jumped into a carriage, was driven to the Players' Club headquarters in New York, and from thence to Delmonico's to the supper given in his honor by Palmer and Daly. The wires tell us that, "There he remained from 12 to 4. He retired extremely tired and very pale."

Only a broken rest could have followed such a period of exhaustion. On Monday he took cars with his company. Played in Scranton, Pa., Monday night; Elmira, N. Y., Tuesday; going from car to theatre and theatre to car in one night stands, with scarce a chance for rest or recuperation of nerve or body, and his condition, never very vigorous at the best, gave way under the excessive strain it had been subjected to while playing Iago at Rochester on Wednesday. Here is a programme of great mental strain, excitement and bodily exhaustion, without adequate opportunities for rest that might have prostrated the iron constitution of John McCullough in his prime, to say nothing of a man of Booth's physique. His physician is of the opinion that after a few days Booth will be able to resume his engagements, and his New York friends are sanguine that he will do so.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Harry Kennedy, who made the jump from New York to this city to join the Reilly & Wood's Big Show, is an ex-Exalted Ruler of the Brooklyn Lodge of Elks, and brings with him a handsome present from the Brooklyn Elks to the San Francisco Lodge. It will be presented at Sunday night's social of the Elks, when a great entertainment will be given.

Violinist Joachim's golden jubilee was celebrated in London March 17th. Viotti's Stradivarius was presented to him. The Germans will send him a $20,000 testimonial.

It is reported that Joseph R. Grismer and wife, Phoebe Davies, will be seen this season in "The Caithorpe Case" in New York.

John G. Ritchie is managing Washington Irving Bishop. Mr. Ritchie may yet discover that life is not without its sorrows and tribulations.

George Fortescue is the latest Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Gerard Coventry will take out Gillette's She on Easter Monday for four weeks. He has secured the piece for next season.

Miss Victoria Vokes', (Rosina's Sister,) professional visit to this country next season is an assured fact. The final arrangements have been perfected, the repertoire selected, and Frank Dietz is now engaged with the booking. In all probability Miss Vokes will be seen in New York in the latter part of August.

The Healys do a neat sketch. Their song, "Hear Them Bells" (new), and John Healy's novel dancing brings down the house.

Delaur & Debrimont are the Paris contingent in Reilly & Wood's Big Show. Their opera bouffe selections are artistically given, and their Paris costume changes are in excellent taste and very beautiful.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels are to be reorganized late in May, and come to San Francisco for a month's run at the Bush Street Theatre.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Captain Swift is in its fourth month at the N. Y. Madison Square Theatre.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is the attraction at the New Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

The Hanlons' Fantasma Company are making a successful tour of the West, where this handsome spectacle is said to be doing an exceedingly large business.

THE PRIMITIVE MARY ANDERSON.

Clara Belle, the New York correspondent of the Call, has been interviewing Manager Stephen Fiske about Mary Anderson:

"Yes, I was manager of the Fifth Avenue Theatre when Mary Anderson made her debut in New York," said Mr. Fiske, "and I well remember what a lovely young girl she was and what a strange party she made with her mother and her step-father, Dr. Griffin. Of all the greenhorns that ever landed in this city the Mary Anderson party were the most verdant at that time; but they had pluck and luck and talent and fully deserved their subsequent success. It was impossible not to be interested in the party—they were so friendless, so helpless and so ignorant of the world. She had no friends in New York. Nobody called upon her. She literally knew nobody out of the theatre, and the party were happy if they could stay in the theatre from early morning to bedtime. Everything was left for me to do; but they never appreciated this. On the contrary their ignorance made them suspicious. They were so afraid of being thought inexperienced that they appeared presumptious.

"When I came to talk about the costumes for The Lady of Lyons Mrs. Griffin seemed astonished that a man should know everything about what a lady should wear, and told me that she had always dressed her daughter correctly, and that I had better leave the costumes to her. Dr. Griffin proudly remarked that he did not intend to spend a cent upon new costumes; that what was good enough for Boston was good enough for New York. My offer to present Mary with a new dress for Pauline, if she should go to the store and order it, was indignantly refused. Mary looked like a tall scarecrow on the street, and people turned to laugh at her. Mrs. Griffin was always ladylike. In her youth she must have been even handsomer than her daughter.

"At last the night of her New York debut arrived. It was Monday, Nov. 12 1877. I had engaged a very good company to support her. Eben Plympton was the Claude, John Moore the Deschapples, Louise Eldridge the Madame Deschapples, Miss Mary Hill the Widow Melnotte, Edward Marble the Jabot. There was about $300 in money and a good paper house. Never was Pauline attired in such execrable taste. The ladies of the audience could not conceal their smiles; but in the cottage scene, after the marriage, Miss Anderson's fine voice and splendid physique captured everybody. Evadne, Guy Mannering and Ingomar followed.

"As Parthenia in Ingomar she made her first artistic success. She looked a picture in her simple costume, and her manner of saying 'I go to cleanse the cup' enchanted the audience. In Evadne she declaimed magnificently; but her sole idea of acting was to realize, in the statue scene the popular Picture, 'Simply to Thy Cross I Cling.' As Bianca in Fazio she wore modern costumes, and but for her youthful beauty would have been absurd. For her farewell benefit she played the sleep-walking scene from Macbeth, and was very stilted and declamatory. Indeed, throughout the whole engagement she played to the gallery and was most eager for applause."

FRIDAY.....APRIL 5, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre this week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like, nickel-plated, steel, revolving machine, is suspended near the ceiling. It has two extended trapeze-bearing arms from which bang the Vaidis Sisters, revolving each on her own trapeze, and performing the most difficult feats, such as hanging from the bar by their teeth, the backs of their heads, their feet, or balancing themselves on their backs while in motion; every change being done with remarkable grace and with the utmost ease. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

In Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense. The daring girl is poised ready for the dive. Every face is upturned to her, every eye is on her. She inclines forward, places her hands fingertip to fingertip above her head and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense break into rounds of applause, and the greatest trapeze act of the world is over.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, is in its second week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and its third week at box office.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Baldwin Theatre—Ovide Musin's Concerts.

Ovide Musin, the great violinist, whose first Sunday concert filled the Baldwin in all circles, and whose contributed numbers received an ovation rarely given to anyone, will give two sacred concerts at the Baldwin Theatre the next two Sunday evenings. In his com-tra of thirty musicians, directed by August Hinrichs, Jr.

Sale of seats for any of the concerts, at regular Baldwin Theatre prices, for sale at the box office of the theatre.

Irving Hall — Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

The famed Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston will give its farewell concert in this city at Irving Hall on Wednesday evening. The former concerts of this company have crowded the hall to its doors, and as there will in every probability be an overflow at their Farewell it would be wise to secure seats in advance. The seats are now on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store.

The artists composing the company are enumerated in the programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we are assured by Mr. Thomas Ryan, the founder and director of the Club, that the programme will introduce a selection of their very choicest numbers, to place every one at their best in their parting appearances.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mme. Janauschek, the tragedienne, is at the Alcazar this week in her impersonation of Meg Merrilies. Janauschek is the only actress on the stage that can wear the mantle of Charlotte Chushman worthily in this weirdly intense character. Her Meg Merrilies is as vigorous an impersonation as ever and as fully impressive in its strong scenes.

George D. Chaplin gives the required manliness in look and action to Dandy Dinmont; Alice Crawford acts Mrs. McCandlish with spirit, and Col. Mannering, Dominie Sampson and the whole line of characters created by Scott in Guy Mannering have fair living representations in the dramatic version of the story.

The engagement is only for this week, and is announced as Janauschek's last visit to this coast.

Effie Ellsler commences her season here next week in her successful play of "Egypt."

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum this week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Weme, the Sisters Coyne, Nelman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns; Mlle. Forgardus, with a flock of trained birds and performing dogs; in short a programme which eclipses all former shows given at this house.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Nelman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle. Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

This week's attraction will be The Golden Giant, with E. J. Holden as Jack Mason, James M. Brophy as Sandy Fairfax (the Golden Giant), Miss Essie Tittel taking the role of Bessie and Miss Harlow that of Ethel Wayne the unfortunate wife. The piece is one of the most interesting of modern dramas, and Mr. Holden sustains the part of Jack Mason very ably. The picturesque drama is well staged and the support is good.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

King o' the Mint will be next week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels this week, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew, Leonzo, the Olympic Trio and Miss Adele Purvis. The best bill that has been presented at the Vienna since its reopening.

When Wilson & Cameron gave their farewell performances at Melbourne the theatre was packed to suffocation. Their success at the Antipodes was phenomenal, and they are sure to repeat their triumph in this city. The minstrel season, also a new departure for the Vienna management, institutes a new order of entertainment. This week we shall have there the only minstrel entertainment in town. The selections for the minstrel part are excellent.

This presents a goodly array of talent in a diversified bill of attractions, by sketch, vocal and specialty artists.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342 1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and he can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is the attraction for this week, with Mr. Dearborn in the character of Joe Henderson.

Miss Lawrence and Miss Yantis and company are rendering good support.

Matinee on Sunday.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces for this week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and Millie Stevens, serio-comic vocalist.

Charles Reese puts on two new comedies this week, Midgets and No Pinafore. Mr. Reese believes in infinite variety, and he hits the popular taste every week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday until further notice.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Full houses are the rule here.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Wills & Barron, sketch artists; Jennie Heywood, vocalist; Hayes & Marion and Sadie Denway, serio-comic artists.

Signor Martinez and his wonderful troupe of Zig-Zag dancers, introducing the beautiful queen of all dancers, Bursell.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in their specialty, Coonville Courtship; Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, will claim first places in their various specialties

Wills & Barron, America's comedy sketch artists, make their initial bow in a pleasing sketch; Bursell, the inimitable, and Conlon & Dougherty in a new musical acrobatic dance act roll up a programme hard to beat.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Big Bertha is underlined to appear in a comedy role April 8th.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Charlotte Tittel has been engaged, through Al Hayman, for leading lady of Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre, New York. She is to open there August 15th, in "Lord Chumley." Miss Tittel is a native of San Francisco. Her grandfather was a California pioneer of '47, and for one so young she is an actress of rare ability. With Eastern tuitions and opportunities she will, we are sure, take her position as a popular actress in her new field. It will be "Our Charlotte" by-and-by.

Maggie Mitchell has been granted a divorce from her husband, Henry T. Paddock. The principal testimony was given by Minnie Moore. Maggie did not want any Moore.

Harry Kennedy, who made the jump from New York to this city to join the Reilly & Wood's Big Show, is High Exalted Ruler of the Brooklyn Lodge of Elks, and brings with him a handsome present from the Brooklyn Elks to the San Francisco Lodge. It will be presented at Sunday night's social of the Elks, when a great entertainment will be given.

Melville & Stetson's topical songs and dialect imitations catch their audiences.

It is reported that Joseph R. Grismer and wife, Phoebe Davies, will be seen this season in "The Calthorpe Case" in New York.

Delaur & Debrimont are the Paris contingent in Reilly & Wood's Big Show. Their opera bouffe selections are artistically given, and their Paris costume changes are in excellent taste and very beautiful.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels are to be reorganized late in May, and come to San Francisco for a month's run at the Bush Street Theatre.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Captain Swift is in its fourth month at the N. Y. Madison Square Theatre.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is the attraction at the New Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

This week the Hanlons' Le Voyage en Suisse company are playing in the largest cities of New York State. Next Monday they begin a brief tour of the large towns in Pennsylvania.

Neil Burgess placed the cow on the stage in New York. Wilson Barrett makes the horse the motive of his new play Nowadays which was produced at the Princess' Theatre, in London, and made a hit. It deals entirely with race-track matters, the hero being accused of stealing Thunderbolt, the favorite horse, at long odds for the Derby. The recovery of the horse and the winning of the race furnish two most picturesque acts. The scenes include a stable with the stolen horse in a box-stall, and some side buildings near the track at Epsom, where the jockey who had plotted to pull Thunderbolt in the race is stripped of his racing colors, which were given to another jockey, and where also a very stirring scene results from two welching bookmakers being mobbed by their victims. The play is very novel, picturesque and interesting.

Agnes Huntingdon, well known in the East was lately presented by her American admirers in London with the honorary insignia and badge of a captain in the United States Navy. Miss Huntingdon is a success as the Captain in Paul Jones.

Clara Morris, Julia Marlowe and Minnie Maddern are the latest additions to the feminine stellar sick list.

Duff's Trip to Africa company under J. W. Morrissey's management has closed its season owing to poor business.

Pauline Lucca is concertizing in Austria prior to her proposed departure for this country.

Gilbert and Sullivan have filed a bill in equity against a publishing house in New York to obtain damages for printing The Yeomen of the Guard without the authors' permission.

James Owen O'Connor, the well-known tragedian is already burnishing up his armor for the ensuing season. Mr. O'Connor is regarded as a draw by managers of combination theatres.

David M. Peyser has resigned from the [illegible] staff of Albaugh, Schoeffle and

BOOTH'S SICKNESS ONLY PROSTRATION.

This morning's dispatches say that Booth is resting quietly, and by the advice of his physician refuses to see the hundreds of callers that are anxious to congratulate him.

Manager Hayman, of the Baldwin, received the following dispatch yesterday:

Will resume work next week and we will fill our San Francisco dates.

LAWRENCE BARRETT.

FIGARO diagnosed Booth's case correctly in the following summoning up of its causes which we published on Friday:

"It is more than probable that Booth's attack was only one of nervous prostration, arising from the unusual strain his system has been subjected to the few previous days, than from any other cause. Saturday must have been a very trying day to him. He played to two immense houses at the matinee and evening in Brooklyn. At the close of the evening performance he jumped into a carriage, was driven to the Players' Club headquarters in New York, and from thence to Delmonico's to the supper given in his honor by Palmer and Daly. The wires tell us that, 'There he remained from 12 to 4. He retired extremely tired and very pale.'

"Only a broken rest could have followed such a period of exhaustion. On Monday he took cars with his company. Played in Scranton, Pa., Monday night; Elmira, N. Y., Tuesday; going from car to theatre and theatre to car in one night stands, with scarce a chance for rest or recuperation of nerve or body, and his condition, never very vigorous at the best, gave way under the excessive strain it had been subjected to while playing Iago at Rochester on Wednesday. Here is a programme of great mental strain, excitement and bodily exhaustion, without adequate opportunities for rest that might have prostrated the iron constitution of John McCullough in his prime, to say nothing of a man of Booth's physique."

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

There is a busy lot of workmen at the Grand Opera House. The whole interior of the immense theatre is being painted and renovated. Gangs of men are painting the ceilings, others are relaying the loosened marble tiles, and others renovating the chairs and their seats. A force of carpenters under the superintendence of Stage Machinist Tom Andrews is laying down a new stage, from wall to wall. On the bridge over the rear of the stage J. R. Wilkens is at work on his new drop curtain. It has taken form enough to show that it is a semi-birds-eye view of the City and Bay of Naples, taking in Mount Vesuvius and a broad waterscape of the blue Mediterranian—which looks very blue from the elevated point of view. The fountain in the foyer, that has been a dry fountain for several years and persistently refused to play at all lately, has met its deserts. It has been removed, banished to some dungeon cell beneath the stage or elsewhere, and the place that knew it is walled over with marble tiles. The work of renovation is being very thoroughly carried out, and the Grand will have a bright, span new look about it when it reopens on the 15th inst., with McNish, Ramo & Arno's Minstrels.

M. B. LEAVITT'S DENVER THEATRE.

The results of the joint visit to Denver of Manager M. B. Leavitt, of the Bush Street Theatre, and Colonel Wood, the theatre architect and the designer, will be a magnificent "Broadway Theatre" in that city. It will be built by Colonel W. H. Bush of the Windsor Hotel, and will cost $250,000. Seating capacity, 1800. The plans have been completed by Col. Wood, and he is on his way back to this city. The new theatre will eclipse the Tabor Opera House in richness and will be supplied with all the latest accessories in theatre appointments. M. B. Leavitt will have the management of this new Denver theatre, and, it is reported, a proprietory interest in it. He will play all his attractions booked for his New Bush and the Pacific Coast in his Denver theatre, which will be the stepping stone to his Western circuit commencing with his Fall and Winter engagements. During the Spring, Summer and Fall Manager Leavitt will manage his business in New York, but will, as is his custom, make San Francisco his business headquarters in Winter.

EUROPEAN MUSICIANS.

No Less Than Four Hundred Arrived at New York.

The Musical Union of New York, is endeavoring to prevent the landing of strolling bands from Europe, who are in the habit of coming here in the spring and returning in the fall with the money earned during the summer. When the steamer Western Land arrived April 31 from Antwerp Superintendent Simpson of the Landing Bureau at Castle Garden discovered that there were no less than 400 musicians on board, nearly all of them having spent the summer here for years past. Representatives of the Musical Union learned of the influx and immediately urged a strict investigation to be made. The suggestion is made that they can be held under the Pauper act if evidence is not forthcoming to warrant their return under the Foreign Contract Labor law. A representative of the Knights of Labor is interesting himself in the matter.

It is a shame. During many recent elections where women voted they tried to bribe voters not only with bewitching glances, but with doughnuts and coffee. Is this the

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Advance representatives in town: E. C. White, of Hoyt's "Bunch of Keys," which opens at the Bush April 15th—its first visit to 'Frisco since 1886; H. W. Williams, half owner of the Harry Kernell Co., who brings out a specialty company bearing his name to open at the Orpheum Monday week; and S. H. Barrett, who is engineering the coming of Sells Bros. & Barrett's Double Circus Co., that opens here April 26th.

Matt. Barry, manager of Katie Putnam, sails on the Australian steamer on Sunday to pave the way for her coming season in the Island Continent.

The Healys do a neat sketch. Their song, "Hear Them Bells" (new), and John Healy's novel dancing brings down the house.

Fountain Theatre, Kansas City, April 1st: Hazel Sisters, McCale & Daniels, De Veaux & Allen, Nester Bros., Murry & Murry, Haley & Flynn, Murdock & Dixon, Diamond & Hart, Prof. Burke and his educated dogs and Geo. H. Diamond.

The Twin Brothers Weme are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell 'tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

John Wild will probably be back in Edward Harrigan's company next Fall.

We have at the Bush in the Reilly & Wood Co. the best lady cornetist on the stage. Miss Bessie Gilbert won her fame in Theodore Thomas' Symphony Concert Co., and there are but Levy and one or two male cornetists that rank above her in artistic execution and volume.

Sells Bros. & Barrett's Circus paper is making the town picturesque.

Ned Barry becomes amusement director at the Bella Union April 8th. He puts on his great piece, The Nancy Lee.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels inaugurate a minstrel season at the Vienna this week. In the company are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

John P. Hogan, regarded by variety and minstrel managers as the most graceful fancy dancer in the profession, has just published a very valuable illustrated book entitled Dancing Made Easy which will undoubtedly will do what is claimed for it.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

Hat is Pond, a pretty variety actress, has been made co-respondent in the divorce suit of Mrs. Amos Ryerson, of Jersey City, against her husband.

Nelson's Great World Combination put in their last week at the Orpheum next week. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morrison's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the noted in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Manager Leavitt presents another great attraction at his elegant new theatre this week in Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like, nickel-plated, steel, revolving machine, is suspended near the ceiling. It has two extended trapeze-bearing arms from which hang the Vaidis Sisters, revolving each on her own trapeze, and performing the most difficult feats, such as hanging from the bar by their teeth, the backs of their heads, their feet, or balancing themselves on their backs while in motion; every change being done with remarkable grace and with the utmost ease. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

In Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense. The daring girl is poised ready for the dive. Every face is upturned to her, every eye is on her. She inclines forward, places her hands fingertip to fingertip above her head and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense break into rounds of applause, and the greatest trapeze act of the world is over.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe has been selected with special care and is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success in the East, is in its second week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and its third week at box office.

The play needs no particular introduction; its fame has preceded it. Its pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is up for its run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Alcazar Theatre.

Mme. Janauschek, the tragedienne, is at the Alcazar this week in her impersonation of Meg Merrilies. Janauschek is the only actress on the stage that can wear the mantle of Charlotte Chushman worthily in this weirdly intense character. Her Meg Merrilies is as vigorous an impersonation as ever and as fully impressive in its strong scenes.

George D. Chaplin gives the required manliness in look and action to Dandy Dinmont; Alice Crawford acts Mrs. McCandish with spirit and Col. Mannering, Dominie Sampson and the [illegible] line of characters created by Scott in Guy Mannering have fair living representations in the dramatic version of the story.

The engagement is only for this week, and is announced as Janauschek's last visit to this coast.

Miss Effie Ellsler commences her season here next week in Laura Don's successful play of "Egypt." Miss Ellsler has endeared herself to every theatre-goer by her performance of Hazel Kirke, of which character she was the creator. She shows the same womanly grace and feeling in her dual impersonation of Laura Don's play, with increased dramatic action in the broader scope that the play presents.

Irving Hall — Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

The famed Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston will give its farewell concert in this city at Irving Hall on Wednesday evening. The former concerts of this company have crowded the hall to its doors, and as there will in every probability be an overflow at their Farewell it would be wise to secure seats in advance. The seats are now on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store.

The artists composing the company are enumerated in the programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we are assured by Mr. Thomas Ryan, the founder and director of the Club, that the programme will introduce a selection of their very choicest numbers, to place every one at their best in their parting appearances.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven in number, open at the Orpheum this week. The company includes the Twin Brothers Wems, the Sisters Coyne, Neiman the ventriloquist and his minstrel troupe, Griffin & Langan, Richard Pitrot, the Brothers Obeine, French musical clowns; Mlle. Forgardus, with a flock of trained birds and performing dogs; in short a programme which eclipses all former shows given at this house.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business, take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Neiman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

The prices are 25 cents to all parts of the house; though a few reserved seats will be held at 50 cents. Matinees 25 cents all over the house.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this east-side theatre—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

This week's attraction will be The Golden Giant, with E. J. Holden as Jack Mason, James M. Brophy as Sandy Fairfax (the Golden Giant), Miss Essie Tittel taking the role of Bessie and Miss Harlow that of Ethel Wayne the unfortunate wife. The piece is one of the most interesting of modern dramas, and Mr. Holden sustains the part of Jack Mason very ably. The picturesque drama is well staged and the support is good.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

King o' the Mint will be next week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels this week, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew, Leonzo, the Olympic Trio and Miss Adele Purvis. The best bill that has been presented at the Vienna since its reopening.

The minstrel season, a new departure for the Vienna management, institutes a new order of entertainment. This week we have had there the only minstrel entertainment in town. The selections for the minstrel part are excellent. The attendance is large.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

The Zanfretta Family and Jas. Sutton are the new faces for next week. The Zanfrettas conclude the first part with The Dancing Master, and for the afterpiece one of the best of Alex Zanfretta's pantomimes, The Brigands, Alex. Zanfretta as the Postillion.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The People's Theatre.

The People's Theatre, 1342 1344 Market St., opposite Seventh, is presenting a series of standard plays, well staged, with fine scenery and appointments. Manager Frank Huffman has worked very assiduously to establish the house as a regular place on the theatre list, and he can congratulate himself on having a piece of theatrical property that will yield very profitable returns when the necessary changes will be made of an additional story and gallery to accommodate the patronage of the theatre.

The beautiful nautical drama of Crystal's Cross is the attraction for this week, with Mr. Dearborn in the character of Joe Henderson.

Miss Lawrence and Miss Yantis and company are rendering good support.

Matinee on Sunday.

Next week's attraction, Fanchon, the Cricket.

Prices: 10 cents; reserved, 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces for this week are: The Eclipse Quartette; Miss Ollie Singleton, vocalist; Brantford & Reynolds, Irish sketch artists, and Millie Stevens, serio-comic vocalist.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

The Bella Union next week comes to the front with the following new attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's version of the Trip of the Nancy Lee is the great feature of the bill.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Wills & Barron, sketch artists; Jennie Heywood, vocalists; Hayes & Marion and Sadie Denway, serio-comic artists.

Signor Martinez and his wonderful troupe of Zig-Zag dancers, introducing the beautiful queen of all dancers, Bursell.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in their specialty, Coonville Courtship; Sadie Denway, an Eastern artists of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, will claim first places in their various specialties.

Wills & Barron, America's comedy sketch artists, make their initial bow in a pleasing sketch; Bursell, the inimitable, and Conlon & Dougherty in a new musical acrobatic dance act roll up a programme hard to beat.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Big Bertha is underlined to appear in a comedy role April 8th.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Travers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Ravenna, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

Miss Annie Braddon, vocalists, makes her first appearance this week.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Travers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable farce, Servants by Legacy, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Travers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Hot Night in 'Frisco, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Mr. Fred. Graves, advance of H. W. Williams' Own Company, specialty, that opens at the Orpheum next week, arrived to-day.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels: Virginia City 8 9-10, Sacramento 12-13-14, Grand Opera House in this city for week of 15th. Thence the Southern circuit.

Matt. Barry, manager of Katie Putnam, sailed on the Australian steamer on Sunday to pave the way for her coming season in the Island Continent.

We have at the Bush in the Reilly & Wood Co. the best lady cornetist on the stage. Miss Bessie Gilbert won her fame in Theodore Thomas' Symphony Concert Co., and there are but Levy and one or two male cornetists that rank above her in artistic execution and volume.

Sells Bros. & Barrett's Circus paper is making the town picturesque.

Ned Barry becomes amusement director at the Bella Union this week. He puts on his great piece, The Nancy Lee.

John W. Vogel, advance manager of McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, arrived to-day. This is an Eastern company that travels a la Haverly with its brass band and street parades, etc. It only gives one week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House next week.

The Healys do a neat sketch. Their song, "Hear Them Bells" (new), and John Healy's novel dancing brings down the house.

Fountain Theatre, Kansas City, April 1st: Hazel Sisters, McCale & Daniels, De Veaux & Allen, Nester Bros., Murry & Murry, Haley & Flynn, Murdock & Dixon, Diamond & Hart, Prof. Burke and his educated dogs and Geo. H. Diamond.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels and Alex. Zanfretta's Pantomime Co. present a double attraction at the Vienna this week. In the minstrels are engrafted the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

Advance representatives in town: E. C. White, of Hoyt's "Bunch of Keys," which opens at the Bush April 15th—its first visit to 'Frisco since 1886; H. W. Williams, half owner of the Harry Kernell Co., who brings out a specialty company bearing his name to open at the Orpheum Monday next; and S. H. Barrett who is engineering the coming of Sells Bros. & Barrett's Double Circus Co., that opens here April 26th.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

John P. Hogan, regarded by variety and minstrel managers as the most graceful fancy dancer in the profession, has just published a very valuable illustrated book entitled Dancing Made Easy which will undoubtedly will do what is claimed for it.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is in its last week at the Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

Hattie Pond, a pretty variety actress, has been made co-respondent in the divorce suit of Mrs. Amos Ryerson, of Jersey City, against her husband.

Nelson's Great World Combination put in their last week at the Orpheum this week. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Travers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Morgan's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the acme in his line of business. He gives an entire minstrel show all by his lonesome.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Mr. Ed. Harrigan and his New York Comedy Co. commence their Summer season at Brooklyn at the Grand Opera House, May 6th, in Waddy Googan.

Theodore H. Hittel will deliver the seventh lecture of the Lick lecture course at Pioneer Hall to-morrow night. Subject, The Discoverers of Humboldt Bay.

Charlotte Tittel has been engaged, through Al Hayman, for leading lady of Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre, New York. She is to open there August 15th, in "Lord Chumley." Miss Tittel is a native of San Francisco. Her grandfather was a California pioneer of '47, and for one so young she is an actress of rare ability. With Eastern tuitions and opportunities she will, we are sure, take her position as a popular actress in her new field. It will be "Our Charlotte" by-and-by.

Maggie Mitchell has been granted a divorce from her husband, Henry T. Paddock. The principal testimony was given by Minnie Moore. Maggie did not want any Moore.

Harry Kennedy, who made the jump from New York to this city to join the Reilly & Wood's Big Show, is High Exalted Ruler of the Brooklyn Lodge of Elks, and brought with him a handsome present from the Brooklyn Elks to the San Francisco Lodge. It was presented at Sunday night's social of the Elks, when a great entertainment was given.

Melville & Stetson's topical songs and dialect imitations catch their audiences.

It is reported that Joseph R. Grismer and wife, Phoebe Davies, will be seen this season in "The Calthorpe Case" in New York.

Delaur & Debrimont are the Paris contingent in Reilly & Wood's Big Show. Their opera bouffe selections are artistically given, and their Paris costume changes are in excellent taste and very beautiful.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels are to be reorganized late in May, and come to San Francisco for a month's run at the Bush Street Theatre.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Captain Swift is in its fourth month at the N. Y. Madison Square Theatre.

John Wild will probably be back in Edward Harrigan's company next Fall.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

Neil Burgess placed the cow on the stage in New York. Wilson Barrett makes the horse the motive of his new play Nowadays which was produced at the Princess' Theatre, in London, and made a hit. It deals entirely with race-track matters, the hero being accused of stealing Thunderbolt, the favorite horse, at long odds for the Derby. The recovery of the horse and the winning of the race furnish two most picturesque acts. The scenes include a stable with the stolen horse in a box-stall, and some side buildings near the track at Epsom, where the jockey who had plotted to pull Thunderbolt in the race is stripped of his racing colors, which were given to another jockey, and where also a very stirring scene results from two welching bookmakers being mobbed by their victims. The play is very novel, picturesque and interesting.

Agnes Huntingdon, well known in the East was lately presented by her American admirers in London with the honorary insignia and badge of a captain in the United States Navy. Miss Huntingdon is a success as the Captain in Paul Jones.

Clara Morris, Julia Marlowe and Minnie Maddern are the latest additions to the feminine stellar sick list.

Duff's Trip to Africa company under J. W. Morrissey's management has closed its season owing to poor business.

Pauline Lucca is concertizing in Austria prior to her proposed departure for this country.

Gilbert and Sullivan have filed a bill in equity against a publishing house in New York to obtain damages for printing The Yeomen of the Guard without the authors' permission.

James Owen O'Connor, the well-known tragedian is already burnishing up his armor for the ensuing season. Mr. O'Connor is regarded as a draw by managers of combination theatres.

David M. Peyser has resigned from the executive staff of Abbey, Schoeffle and Grau.

The Buffalo Bill Wild West will open in Paris May 15th.

A floating Russian theatre and hotel is successfully touring the shore towns of the Volga river.

Adelaide Moore will star next season in a new play called The Love Story.

Catelin, a once popular French tenor and a pensioner of the Societe des Artistes, and noted of late for his squalid poverty, was lately discovered dead in his miserable garret in Paris. Over $7,000 was found by the police hidden in his wretched mattress.

Maurel, the baritone, is to receive $100,000 for forty performances in Buenos Ayres, while Patti is to be paid $180,000 for singing thirty times in South America.

Hoyt's Tin Soldier Company lately closed its tour at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

To Sarah Bernhardt the gentler sex is indebted for its thirty-two-button gloves, its Empire dress, its Directoire sash, the long bow so dear to their grandmothers, Theodora hairpins and Tosca hats.

The Two Johns Comedy Company will bring their remarkably successful season of ninety weeks to a close at Louisville, April 20th.

The City Opera House, Dover, N. H., was lately burned down.

John Kreling, proprietor of the Said Pasha Opera Company, was lately sued for $5,000 damages for having struck H. Q. Brooks while endeavoring to collect a bill from him at the Star Theatre in New

THE OLD MAID'S PRAYER.

An old maid knelt beneath a maple tree,
With feelings wonderfully queer;
She prayed both long and fervently

"King, Lord, consent my voice to hear,
Thou knowest my wish before my tongue
Can name it; but it doth belong
To me to ask if I'd receive;
So Thou hast taught, and I believe,
Thou knowest it's not wealth or power
My heart desireth every hour;
But 'tis a husband, Lord, I want.
Wilt Thou the gift in kindness grant:
Oh! give me one that's kind and clever,
And thine shall be the praise forever."

A hoot-owl sat on a maple tree,
A jovial, happy one was he!
He had been bid in the leaves all day,
Dozing and sleeping his time away;
But at the sound of the old maid's prayer
The bird awoke with a sullen stare.
Silent he sat till the prayer was through,
Then suddenly cried: "Whoo! Whoo! Whoo! Whoo!"

Down went the old maid on her face:
'And dost Thou show such wondrous grace,
As to grant Thy servant Thy voice to hear;
Which has not before greeted mortal ear
Since Sinai shook to its very base
At its terrible tones? Oh, wondrous grace!"

Thus to herself did the old maid speak,
So badly scared she was faint and weak,
And lay half senseless upon the ground
Till roused again by a terrible sound;
For once again she with wonder heard
The loud "Whoo! whoo!" of the ominous bird,
Then answered, "Dear me, I hardly know who:
In fact, most any one, Lord, will do!"

—[Saturday Gazette, Boston.

THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

There is a busy lot of workmen at the Grand Opera House. The whole interior of the immense theatre is being painted and renovated. Gangs of men are painting the ceilings, others are relaying the loosened marble tiles, and others renovating the chairs and their seats. A force of carpenters under the superintendence of Stage Machinist Tom Andrews is laying down a new stage, from wall to wall. On the bridge over the rear of the stage J. R. Wilkens is at work on his new drop curtain. It has taken form enough to show that it is a semi-birds-eye view of the City and Bay of Naples, taking in Mount Vesuvius and a broad waterscape of the blue Mediterranian—which looks very blue from the elevated point of view. The fountain in the foyer, that has been a dry fountain for several years and persistently refused to play at all lately, has met its deserts. It has been removed, banished to some dungeon cell beneath the stage or elsewhere, and the place that knew it is walled over with marble tiles. The work of renovation is being very thoroughly carried out, and the Grand will have a bright, span new look about it when it reopens on the 15th inst., with McNish, Ramo & Arno's Minstrels.

Von Bulow, at a recent rehearsal of Wagner's Tannhauser by his orchestra, is alleged to have stated that almost every phrase in the music was stolen. Der Freischutz is the source from which Wagner has borrowed the most melodious portions of the Tannhauser march, and that Euryanthe has supplied the structure for the score of Lohengrin. Wagner evidently knew where to look for his musical beauties.

EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....APRIL 3, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

This is the last week of the great attraction at the Bush; the last of Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing trial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like, nickel-plated, steel, revolving machine, is suspended near the ceiling. It has two extended trapeze-bearing arms from which hang the Vaidis Sisters, revolving each on her own trapeze, and performing the most difficult feats, such as hanging from the bar by their teeth, the backs of their heads, their feet, or balancing themselves on their backs while in motion; every change being done with remarkable grace and with the utmost ease. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

In Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium —for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense. The daring girl is poised ready for the dive. Every face is upturned to her, every eye is on her. She inclines forward, places her hands fingertip to fingertip above her head and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense break into rounds of applause, and the greatest trapeze act of the world is over.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be next week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success, is in its third week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and next week, its last week, at box office.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is having a great run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler commences her season here this week in Laura Don's successful play of "Egypt." Miss Ellsler has endeared herself to every theatre-goer by her performance of Hazel Kirke, of which character she was the creator. She shows the same womanly grace and feeling in her dual impersonation of Laura Don's play with increased dramatic action in the broader scope that the play presents.

Irving Hall — Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

The famed Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston will give its farewell concert in this city at Irving Hall on Wednesday evening. The former concerts of this company have crowded the hall to its doors, and as there will in every probability be an overflow at their Farewell it would be wise to secure seats in advance. The seats are now on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store.

The artists composing the company are enumerated in the programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we are assured by Mr. Thomas Ryan, the founder and director of the Club, that the programme will introduce a selection of their very choicest numbers, to place every one at their best in their parting appearances.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven, are in their last week at the Orpheum. The company have done a very fine business.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business, take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Neiman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle. Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be next week's attraction.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

King o' the Mint will be this week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake. King o' the Mint is a grand sensational melodrama, with a prologue and four acts, and it abounds in startling situations and effective stage pictures. This is the third week of Mr. E. J. Holden's engagement.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The Zanfretta Family and Jos. Sutton are the new faces for this week. The Zanfrettas conclude the first part with The Dancing Master, and for the afterpiece one of the best of Alex. Zanfretta's pantomimes, The Brigands, Alex. Zanfretta as the Postilion.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels continue, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew and Leonzo in new songs and specialties.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following new attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's version of the Trip of the Nancy Lee is the great feature of the bill.

Red Barry assumes the management of the stage this week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Big Bertha, Berkeley & Howard, sketch artists; Franks & O'Dell, the little giants of song and dance fame; the Howard Sisters and May Morrison, vocalists.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Wills & Barron continue this week.

Big Bertha appears in a sketch comedy, depicting scenes which have really transpired in her own life, notably her Pacific Coast experiences. In addition to the comedy, the famous Confidence Queen will appear in tights and present statue acts from the old masters—so reads the bill.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Braddon, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Gracerpanicia, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Gasoline, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Moreland & Nixon, sketch team; Miss Lulu Vernon, balladist, and Miss Laura Manning, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Eva Williams, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon return with a selection of new acts, songs and quaint sayings.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "This and That," and Geo C. Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P. M.

Mother (to daughter who is about to be married)—There is one thing I have forgotten to teach you, my dear. It is most important. Daughter — What's that, ma? Mother—I must show you where a man's pockets are situated.

In Japanese theatres females are not allowed to act with men, consequently the Ophelias, Juliets and Perditas are played with shrill falsetto voices, as in Shakespeare's day.

It is hard to understand why the photographer is so much more popular with the ladies than the dentist, when the former tells the dear creatures to shut their mouths, and the latter to open them, "please."

Bessie — It's a wonder Mrs. von Griff never had any children. Jennie — Indeed it's not. She is a society leader and would sooner have kids on her hands than in her arms.

A strike occurred at the new Union Square Theatre New York last Monday, and all work was stopped until the non-union workmen had been discharged.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show have dates for Fresno, 10th; Pasadena, 20th, and Los Angeles for week of 21st.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society holds its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on Sunday. A big bill will be given.

Nelson's Great World Combination show in Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento next week; take in Salt Lake, Ogden, Laramie and Cheyenne the week of the 22d. Then to Chicago to reorganize for a Summer tour among the great Northern lake. "Coming to California again next year, and don't you forget it," says Nelson's energetic business manager, Harrie Pierce.

A six days and six nights go as-you-please race for the championship of the world will start May 9th in the Mechanics' Pavilion. In addition to the gate receipts $2500 will be given for breaking the records from one hour to six days, and an additional purse to the California man who covers the greatest number of miles in the race. The race will be under the management of Frank Hall.

Mrs. Hannah Battersby, of Frankford, weighs 860 pounds, and has traveled all over the country as a circus attraction. She is now suffering from chills and fever, and when she has a chill she shakes the house.

New people, Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, April 8th: Lida Gardner and Female Burlesque Company, Billy Arnold, Kenyon Sisters, Lizzie Arnold, Lillie Bailey, Annie Whitney and Grant & Martin.

Cort's Standard, Portland, Or., April 8th, new people: Doyle & Leclaire, Leoni & Nelson, Lillie Carroll, McKee & Franks and Dolly Sharpe.

Novelty Theatre, Ogden, April 8th: Crimmins & Gus, the Oatley Sisters, Mabel Rivers, Duffy & Shelton, Mollie Lavake, Shannon & Haney, Flo. Bennett, Ada Haney and Dollie Merton; P.C. Foy, manager.

Elite Theatre, Tombstone, Arizona, April 8th: Lassard & Lucifer, Maggie Harris, Lillie Bailey, Rose Ashley, Tillie Bouton, Harry Conley, Ella Gardner and Chas. A. Keene.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels: Virginia City 8-9-10, Sacramento 12-13-14, Grand Opera House in this city for week of 15th. Thence the Southern circuit.

Matt. Barry, manager of Katie Putnam, sailed on the Australian steamer on Sunday to pave the way for her coming season in the Island Continent.

We have at the Bush in the Reilly & Wood Co. the best lady cornetist on the stage. Miss Bessie Gilbert won her fame in Theodore Thomas' Symphony Concert Co., and there are but Levy and one or two male cornetists that rank above her in artistic execution and volume.

Sells Bros. & Barrett's Circus paper is making the town picturesque.

Ned Barry becomes amusement director at the Bella Union this week. He puts on his great piece, The Nancy Lee.

Mr. Lee Williams, advance manager of McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, is here on deck. This is an Eastern company that travels a la Haverly with its brass band and street parades, etc. It only gives one week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House next week.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels and Alex. Zanfretta's Pantomime Co. present a double attraction at the Vienna this week. In the minstrels are segregated the Emerson Quartet, Raymon Moore and others formerly of Emerson's Minstrels.

Advance representatives in town: E. C. White, of Hoyt's "Bunch of Keys," which opens at the Bush April 15th—its first visit to 'Frisco since 1886; Mr. Fred Graves, advance of H. W. Williams' Own Company, specialty, that opens at the Orpheum next week; and S. H. Barrett who is engineering the coming of Sells Bros. & Barrett's Double Circus Co., that opens here April 26th.

The Twin Brothers Wems are as alike as two peas in a pod. You can't tell tother from which, and they are unrivalled song and dance artists.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Edward Sothern, who follows Little Lord Fauntleroy at the Baldwin, is not the inveterate practical joker his father was. He is grave and quiet. His Lord Chumley as a character has the Dundreary element of dialect drawl and dandyism in it.

J. B. Polk, who will tour the coast in Mixed Pickles (interiorward, it is to be hoped), is being relegated on the retired list of stars.

Miss Rillie Deaves, daughter of Ned Deaves (one of the San Francisco Birch & Backus Minstrels), has become a member of Frank Daniels' popular Little Puck Co. Rillie is a San Francisco born girl, and will be an improvement on the smartest of the "tailor-made girls" that Daniels had here in his company.

Effie Ellsler made her first appearance on the stage with Edwin Forrest, and comes from a family that have been connected with theatres for 150 years.

Lilly Clay's Adamless Eden Co. will appear at the Grand this Summer.

The Highest Bidder gave young Sothern his first big boost up the ladder of fame.

Chanfrau will be supported by L. R. Stockwell and the Alcazar Co. while here.

Effie Ellsler made a great success in a new play by E. J. Schwartz, entitled The Governess.

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels are to be reorganized late in May, and come to San Francisco for a month's run at the Bush Street Theatre.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Albani and her company give concerts April 22nd, 24th and 27th at the Grand Opera House. The latter concert is a matinee.

The Grismers go to Tacoma, W. T., next month, to give inaugural performances at J. P. Howe's new opera house.

Collier and Stephenson, who wrote Dorothy, have a new opera for April 27th called Dorcas. The titles are too much alike. Let us hope the music is not.

Rose Eytinge is getting ready to star again. She wants to come to San Francisco this Summer. That is as cool as our Summer climate.

Augustin Daly's Samson and Delilah has caught the New Yorkers. James Lewis is a legal Samson and Ada Rehan "a fashionable Circe" who "circumvents him." The papers praise both for their good work.

Delaur & Debrimont are the Paris contingent in Reilly & Wood's Big Show. Their opera bouffe selections are artistically given, and their Paris costume changes are in excellent taste and very beautiful.

George Jessop's play, "A Gold Mine," has panned out so well that Dan Frohman has contracted with him to write a new comedy for his New York Lyceum Theatre. Jessop was a San Francisco journalist and theatrical critic for several years, and knew something about gold mines and their manipulation.

The Little Lord Fauntleroy matinee tomorrow will begin a half-hour earlier than usual to accommodate an excursion train that is coming down from Santa Rosa and way places.

Effie Ellsler opened her season at the Madison Square Theatre, N. Y., in July last, and since then has given "Egypt" in Boston, Washington, Chicago, New Orleans and other cities, including Kansas City and Denver, on her way to California. Her tour has been very successful.

The prevailing colors of the newly decorated Grand Opera House will be maroon and old gold. This will give the auditorium a richer and more compact appearance than the former pale drab and light blue decorations.

Elleford & Brophy's company—W. J. Elleford, J. M. Brophy, Lottie Beaumont, Jessie Norton, Louise Martin and others—start out on their interior season on the 16th. This may be classified as the East side delegation to the interior swim, bearing Morosco's banner inland.

Mr. Ed. Harrigan and his New York Comedy Co. commence their Summer season at Brooklyn at the Grand Opera House, May 6th, in Waddy Googan.

Melville & Stetson's topical songs and dialect imitations catch their audiences.

Charlotte Tittel has been engaged, through Al Hayman, for leading lady of Daniel Frohman's Lyceum Theatre, New York. She is to open there August 15th, in "Lord Chumley." Miss Tittel is a native of San Francisco. Her grandfather was a California pioneer of '47, and for one so young she is an actress of rare ability. With Eastern tuitions and opportunities she will, we are sure, take her position as a popular actress in her new field. It will be "Our Charlotte" by-and-by.

Maggie Mitchell has been granted a divorce from her husband, Henry T. Paddock. The principal testimony was given by Minnie Moore. Maggie did not want any Moore.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

Maurel, the baritone, is to receive $100,000 for forty performances in Buenos Ayres, while Patti is to be paid $180,000 for singing thirty times in South America.

John Kreling, proprietor of the Said Pasha Opera Company, was lately sued for $5,000 damages for having struck H. Q. Brooks while endeavoring to collect a bill from him at the Star Theatre in New York.

Manager Charles Frohman came near killing himself recently by taking a double dose of a patent headache cure. It took two

A GRAND OPERA SEASON AHEAD.

M. B. Leavitt, lessee of the Bush St. sends the following dispatch to his manager:

Chicago, April 7th.

J. J. GOTTLOB: Have contracted with new American Grand Opera Company of eighty people for fifteen weeks' tour, commencing at Omaha August 19th next. Play in San Francisco during month of October. The company is the one formerly under Locke.

M. B. LEAVITT.

This insures us a season of veritable grand opera here in the Fall. The company is the reorganized National Opera Company. It has its own orchestra, and carries most of the magnificent scenery and beautiful costumes which were formerly used by the National Co.

Col. Wood, the architect of the elegant theatre that Millionaire Bush—formerly Senator Tabor's partner—is going to build for Manager Leavitt in Denver, returned from that city Monday. He states that Manager Leavitt's lease is for ten years from the opening, which is fixed for Oct. 1st. It does not take much calculation to devine that the American Opera Co. will be Manager Leavitt's opening attraction for his Broadway Theatre in Denver.

Notwithstanding that the English courts some time since granted Mrs. Boucicault an alimony allowance of £400 a year, Boucicault has failed as yet to produce any cash. An application will be made to the courts in London for an order to levy on a number of Boucicault's English copyrights.

General Cardenas, the well-known dwarf, died recently at Dexter, Michigan, of consumption. He was born in Mexico 51 years ago, and had been exhibited as a freak in all the principal cities in the United States. He was thirty-one inches in height and weighed but forty-six pounds.

Neiman, the ventriloquist, who is with Nelson's Great World Combination, is the noted in his line of business. He gives a minstrel show all by his lonesomeness.

Clara Morris, Julia Marlowe and Minnie Maddern are the latest additions to the feminine stellar sick list.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is in its last week at the Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show. Among its many stars are the Vaidis Twin Sisters, whose wonderful performance upon the revolving trapeze has created such a sensation both in Europe and America. Miss Lizzie makes a leap from the dome of the theatre. She has accomplished the most wonderful dives of any artist in the world. In Seville, Spain, 165 feet; London, 150 feet; Hippodrome, Paris, 148 feet; Music Hall, Buffalo, 115 feet, and the Academy of Music, N. Y., 95 feet.

Mrs. Potter proposes in conjunction with Kyrle Bellew, to manage her own road company next season.

Eunice Goodrich (Mrs. Pottle) will be absent from the stage for a short time for the rehearsal of a cradle song.

In Japanese theatres females are not allowed to act with men, consequently the Ophelias, Juliets and Perditas are played with shrill falsetto voices, as in Shakespeare's day.

Nelson's Great World Combination put in their last week at the Orpheum this week. The full list of the company appears in the programme advertisement on another page.

At the Bellini Theatre, Naples, during a recent performance of Gymez, the chorus singers fired a volley from their guns, when a dreadful cry was heard and one of the choristers fell dead with a bullet through his heart. A revengeful chorister had loaded a gun, and deliberately murdered his victim under the cover of stage business. The

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....APRIL 9, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

This is the last week of the great attraction at the Bush; the last of Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like, nickel-plated, steel, revolving machine, is suspended near the ceiling. It has two extended trapeze-bearing arms from which hang the Vaidis Sisters, revolving each on her own trapeze, and performing the most difficult feats, such as hanging from the bar by their teeth, the backs of their heads, their feet, or balancing themselves on their backs while in motion; every change being done with remarkable grace and with the utmost ease. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

In Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense. The daring girl is poised ready for the dive. Every face is upturned to her, every eye is on her. She inclines forward, places her hands fingertip to fingertip above her head and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense break into rounds of applause, and the greatest trapeze act of the world is over.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be next week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success, is in its third week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and next week, its last week, at box office.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. TLe part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is having a great run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler commences her season here this week in Laura Don's successful play of "Egypt." Miss Ellsler has endeared herself to every theatre-goer by her performance of Hazel Kirke, of which character she was the creator. She shows the same womanly grace and feeling in her dual impersonation of Laura Don's play, with increased dramatic action in the broader Egypt is a very imaginative, a very unconventional play, though it deals with several characters that are of the most conventional types. The charm of the play is nearly all in the character of Egypt and in the cleverness of the lines.

Miss Ellsler plays it with great force and feeling. She is at her best, however, in the last act. Orrin Johnson, the leading man, is good. As Katrina, Miss Brandon looks very handsome and, furthermore, plays the role better than any she has ever given us here. The other parts are well sustained.

Next week, Effie Ellsler in "Judge Not."

Irving Hall – Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

The famed Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston will give its farewell concert in this city at Irving Hall on Wednesday evening. The former concerts of this company have crowded the hall to its doors, and as there will in every probability be an overflow at their Farewell it would be wise to secure seats in advance. The seats are now on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store.

The artists composing the company are enumerated in the programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we are assured by Mr. Thomas Ryan, the founder and director of the Club, that the programme will introduce a selection of their very choicest numbers, to place every one at their best in their parting appearances.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors' Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven, are in their last week at the Orpheum. The company have done a very fine business.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business, take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Neiman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle. Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be next week's attraction.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampahtheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

King o' the Mint will be this week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake. King o' the Mist is a grand sensational melodrama, with a prologue and four acts, and it abounds in startling situations and effective stage pictures. This is the third week of Mr. E. J. Holden's engagement.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The Zanfretta Family and Jos. Sutton are the new faces for this week. The Zanfrettas conclude the first part with The Dancing Master, and for the afterpiece one of the best of Alex. Zanfretta's pantomimes, The Brigands, Alex. Zanfretta as the Postillion.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels continue, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew and Leonzo in new songs and specialties.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following new attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akerman. Ned Barry's version of the Trip of the Nancy Lee is the great feature of the bill.

Red Barry assumes the management of the stage this week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Big Bertha, Berkeley & Howard, sketch artists; Franks & O'Dell, the little giants of song and dance fame; the Howard Sisters and May Morrison, vocalists.

Big Bertha appears in a sketch comedy, depicting scenes which have really transpired in her own life, notably her Pacific Coast experiences. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Wills & Barron continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Braddon, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Cracerpaniola, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Gasoline, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Moreland & Nixon, sketch team; Miss Lulu Vernon, balladist, and Miss Laura Manning, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Eva Williams, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon return with a selection of new acts, songs and quaint sayings.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "This and That," and Geo. C. Dunham in a new sketch.

☞ Due Notice will be given concerning the

There will shortly be celebrated in Copenhagen, Denmark, the fiftieth anniversary of the advent of Gade as a musical composer. This venerable musician, who was born February 22, 1817, still appears in public, and during the exhibition last year he presided over the three matinee concerts and directed his own compositions when there were 200 string instruments in the orchestra and 250 voices. It was Gade, the Dane, who put to music the melodrama Aladdin, written by one of his own countrymen, Oehlensclagar. The golden celebration will be arranged on a magnificent scale at a great expense.

An adaptation from the French called Show Your Tickets is one of next season's new comedies.

Edwin Forrest Lodge, of the Actors' Order of Friendship, will have a benefit in aid of its fund at the Broadway Theatre, New York.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Nelson's Great World Combination show in Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento next week; take in Salt Lake, Ogden, Laramie and Cheyenne the week of the 22nd. Then to Chicago to reorganize for a Summer tour among the great Northern lakes. "Coming to California again next year, and don't you forget it," says Nelson's energetic business manager, Harrie Pierce.

A six days and six nights go as-you-please race for the championship of the world will start May 9th in the Mechanics' Pavilion. In addition to the gate receipts $2500 will be given for breaking the records from one hour to six days, and an additional purse to the California man who covers the greatest number of miles in the race. The race will be under the management of Frank Hall.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels: Virginia City 10th, Sacramento 12-13-14, Grand Opera House in this city for week of 15th. Thence the Southern circuit.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show have dates for Fresno, 19 h; Pasadena, 20th, and Los Angeles for week of 21st.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society holds its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on Sunday. A big bill will be given.

Cort's Standard, Portland, Or., April 8 h, new people: Doyle & Leclaire, Leona & Nelson, Lillie Carroll, McKee & Franks and Dolly Sharpe.

Novelty Theatre, Ogden, April 8th: Crimmins & Gore, the Oatley Sisters, Mabel Rivers, Duffy & Shelton, Mollie Lavake, Shannon & Haney, Flo. Bennett, Ada Haney and Dollie Merton; P.C. Foy, manager.

Ned Barry becomes amusement director at the Bella Union this week. He puts on his great piece, The Nancy Lee.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is in its last week at the Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show.

Mr. Lee Williams, advance manager of McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, is here on deck. This is an Eastern company that travels a la Haverly with its brass band and street parades, etc. It only gives one week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House next week.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels and Alex. Zanfretta's Pantomime Co. present a double attraction at the Vienna this week.

Advance representatives in town: E. C. White, of Hoyt's "Bunch of Keys," which opens at the Bush April 15th—its first visit to 'Frisco since 1886; Mr. Fred Graves, advance of H. W. Williams' Own Company, specialty, that opens at the Orpheum next week; and S. H. Barrett who is engineering the coming of Sells Bros. & Barrett's Double Circus Co., that opens here April 26th.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

A GRAND OPERA SEASON AHEAD.

M. B. Leavitt, lessee of the Bush St. sends the following dispatch to his manager:

Chicago, April 7th.

J. J. GOTTLOB: Have contracted with new American Grand Opera Company of eighty people for fifteen weeks' tour, commencing at Omaha August 19th next. Play in San Francisco during month of October. The company is the one formerly under Locke.

M. B. LEAVITT.

This insures us a season of veritable grand opera here in the Fall. The company is the reorganized National Opera Company. It has its own orchestra, and carries most of the magnificent scenery and beautiful costumes which were formerly used by the National Co.

Col. Wood, the architect of the elegant theatre that Millionaire Bush—formerly Senator Tabor's partner—is going to build for Manager Leavitt in Denver, returned from that city Monday. He states that Manager Leavitt's lease is for ten years from the opening, which is fixed for Oct 1st. It does not take much calculation to [illegible] that the American Opera Co. will be

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Katie Putnam will take a company to Australia in May. The Dramatic News commenting, says, "It is a long walk and requires the use of goloshes."

Harry Fisher, it is said, will leave Ed. Harrigan's company after this season.

The Burke Bros. (James and Daniel) will come with Mr. Harrigan's company to San Francisco.

Florence Roberts, a California graduated actress, has replaced Mabel Bert as Rachel in the Held by the Enemy Co. Miss Bert has gone back to McKee Rankin's company.

Robert Elsmere has been successfully produced by Charles Frohman and Harry Rockwood. The main points of its success, it is said, have been accomplished by the great amount of originality introduced, so that these managers have a play of importance independent of the story of Robert Elsmere itself.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the exponents of American humor and eccentric literature, will give their first lecture at the Metropolitan Temple in this city on May 6th.

Daniel Frohman has Mark Twain's book, "Priest and Painter," for dramatization, in which he will introduce little Elsie Leslie, who has signed for a term of years under his management. The piece will be given for the first time next November, directly after Mr. Frohman has introduced Mr. and Mrs. Kendal and Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., to New York.

Arrangements for Henry E. Dixey's appearance next season at the New York Standard Theatre in Faust are cut off by a contract between Duff and Edwards, of the London Gaiety Theatre, whereby the Standard will be occupied by the London Gaiety Burlesque Company. The present Gaiety Co. will not come over again, but a new company will be organized to produce the London success, "Faust Up to Date."

E. H. Sothern will leave New York on Sunday with his company for San Francisco direct. They open at the Baldwin Easter Monday.

Richard Stahl's new opera, The Sea King, is a most ambitious effort.

J. D. Fiske of the Fresno Opera House is advertising his various attractions largely in the Fresno Expositor. The Tennessee Minstrels, Josef Heine and Grand Concert Co., Conried's Opera Co., the Mendelssohn Quintette Club and Effie Ellsler are the recent attractions at the Opera House.

Kellar's Hindoo Basket Trick has created quite a sensation in New York, and as performed by Kellar and Nana Sahib, is a fine feature in East Indian necromancy. How the child gets out of the basket and suddenly appears in the audience calling, "Here I am, Mr. Kellar!" is a mystery that has set all Broadway guessing. Kellar has been a very busy man during his present metropolitan engagement. He has produced Astarte, the Basket Mystery and Clio, and he has exposed the Sawyer Spiritualistic seances. He opens at the Columbia Theatre, Chicago, April 15th.

Edward Sothern, who follows Little Lord Fauntleroy at the Baldwin, is not the inveterate practical joker his father was. He is grave and quiet. His Lord Chumley as a character has the Dundreary element of dialect drawl and dandyism in it.

J. B. Polk, who will tour the coast in Mixed Pickles (interiorward, it is to be hoped), is being relegated on the retired list of stars.

Miss Rillie Deaves, daughter of Ned Deaves (one of the San Francisco Birch & Backus Minstrels), has become a member of Frank Daniels' popular Little Puck Co. Rillie is a San Francisco born girl, and will be an improvement on the smartest of the "tailor-made girls" that Daniels had here in his company.

Effie Ellsler made her first appearance on the stage with Edwin Forrest, and comes from a family that have been connected with theatres for 150 years.

Lilly Clay's Adamless Eden Co. will appear at the Grand this Summer.

The Highest Bidder gave young Sothern his first big boost up the ladder of fame.

Chanfrau will be supported by L. R. Stockwell and the Alcazar Co. while here.

Effie Ellsler made a great success in a new play by E. J. Schwartz, entitled The Governess. When do we get The Governess?

The Haverly-Cleveland Minstrels are to be reorganized late in May, and come to San Francisco for a month's run at the Bush Street Theatre.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Albani and her company give concerts April 22nd, 24th and 27th at the Grand Opera House. The latter concert is a matinee.

Nelson's Great World Combination put in their last week at the Orpheum this week.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

The prevailing colors of the newly decorated Grand Opera House will be maroon and old gold. This will give the auditorium a richer and more compact appearance than the former pale drab and light blue decorations.

George Jessop's play, "A Gold Mine," has panned out so well that Dan Frohman has contracted with him to write a new comedy for his New York Lyceum Theatre. Jessop was a San Francisco journalist and theatrical critic for several years,

H. C. WYATT.....LESSEE AND MANAGER

This new and beautiful house was opened February 13th by W. T. Carleton's Opera Company to $1,067.50, and pronounced by entire press and public one of the most perfect houses in the United States. Seating capacity 1 100; Stage perfect in every respect. Only eight miles from Los Angeles Round Trip 50 cents. For terms, dates, etc., address H. C. WYATT, Box 118 Los Angeles, Cal.

N. B.—Time Filled on SOUTHERN CIRCUIT, if desired, by addressing as above, or Mr. A. M. PLATO, Business Manager of Circuit.

Geo. T. Krewolf, the brassy treasurer of Hoyt's "Brass Monkey" Company, has fled to Canada, leaving a deficit of some $4,000. Hoyt gave him $2,177 to Boston to deposit on Monday and he skipped out with it. Hoyt is kicking himself. He has swathed his bat with crape, swore off for a month, and feels like writing a tragedy.

Miss Dido Rankin, daughter of McKee Rankin, made her New York debut April 1st in the small part of Lillian Haye in The Runaway Wife.

Elleford & Brophy's company—W. J. Elleford, J. M. Brophy, Lottie Beaumont, Jessie Norton, Louise Martin and others—start out on their interior season on the 16th. This may be classified as the East side delegation to the interior swim, bearing Morosco's banner inland.

The Grismers go to Tacoma, W. T., next month, to give inaugural performances at J. P. Bowe's new opera house.

Collier and Stephenson, who wrote Dorothy, have a new opera for April 27th called Dorcas. The titles are too much alike. Let us hope the music is not.

Rose Eytinge is getting ready to star again. She wants to come to San Francisco this Summer. That is as cool as our Summer climate.

Augustin Daly's Samson and Delilah has caught the New Yorkers. James Lewis is a legal Samson and Ada Rehan "a fashionable Circe" who "circumvents him." The papers praise both for their good work.

Effie Ellsler opened her season at the Madison Square Theatre, N. Y., in July last, and since then has given "Egypt" in Boston, Washington, Chicago, New Orleans and other cities, including Kansas City and Denver, on her way to California. Her tour has been very successful.

Notwithstanding that the English courts some time since granted Mrs. Boucicault an alimony allowance of £400 a year, Boucicault has failed as yet to produce any cash. She asked that the payment be made from the proceeds of her former husband's British copyrights. Boucicault, in answer, averred that all the proceeds from these copyrights were assigned in 1886 to Mr. Cadogan of New York for the benefit of Boucicault's present wife. The presiding Judge expressed a doubt as to Cadogan's existence, and said that in any case the arrangement was fraudulent and void. He ordered that all such copyrights and moneys in possession of the Court be paid to the plaintiff.

Balfe, the London musician, established English opera when he composed "The Bohemian Girl," one of the most tuneful operas ever written, and one that has given more pleasure to the human race than all the benefices of the united crown heads of Europe. It is sad to read that the souvenirs of his genius have been knocked down to curiosity hunters under the auctioneer's hammer lately in London. They included a gold medal given to Balfe in 1843, by Louis Philippe; a silver medal from Alexander II of Russia, presented in 1869; a gold snuff-box from Balfe's Dublin friends; a silver-gilt box, the lid chased with the meeting of the Pickwick Club, presented to Balfe by Charles Dickens; the Cross of the Legion of Honor, from Napoleon in 1870; a silver tea service, and the original score of "Il Talismano" in the handwriting of the composer.

Daniel Frohman will have seven traveling companies on the road next season.

Charles Reed retires from Hoyt's Brass Monkey Company within a week.

Barry and Fay begin their next tour in September at the Bijou Theatre, New York.

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY..... .....APRIL 10, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

This is the last week of the great attraction at the Bush; the last of Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like revolving machine, on which the act is done, is suspended near the ceiling. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here, a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense as the daring girl inclines forward and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense they retire, satisfied they have witnessed the greatest trapeze act of the world.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be next week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect.

Box office now open for reserved seats.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success, is in its third week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and next week, its last week, at box office.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is having a great run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler commences her season here this week in Laura Don's successful play of "Egypt." Miss Ellsler has endeared herself to every theatre-goer by her performance of Hazel Kirke, of which character she was the creator. She shows the same womanly grace and feeling in her dual impersonation of Laura Don's play, with increased dramatic action in the broader scope that the play presents.

Egypt is a very imaginative, a very unconventional play, though it deals with several characters that are of the most conventional types. The charm of the play is nearly all in the character of Egypt and in the cleverness of the lines.

Feeling. She is at her best, however, in the last act. Orrin Johnson, the leading man, is good. As Katrina, Miss Brandon looks very handsome and, furthermore, plays the role better than any she has ever given us here. The other parts are well sustained.

Next week, Effie Ellsler in "Judge Not."

Grand Opera House—McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will give their only week in this city at the Grand next week. They come across the continent, a la Haverly, with a big show, including a full brass band for street parades, etc.

These minstels introduce here for the first time the elegantly character costumed Shakespearean First Part; the European novelties, Ramza & Arno, the greatest of pantomime comedians; Leopold & Fortune, famed comedy and musical duo; the Great Wingate, champion $10,000 bone soloist; and their great success, the Baseball Tableau Clog, costumed, arranged especially for this company. Besides, there is McNish's Silence and Fun act; the comedians, Spencer, Donnelly and others, in humorous minstrel acts; artistic songs and dances, the best of minstrel vocal talent, and all that goes to make up a first-class minstrel entertainment.

Popular prices: 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

See programme announcement on first page.

FIGARO furnishes the programme, of course.

Irving Hall—Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

The famed Mendelssohn Quintette Club of Boston will give its farewell concert in this city at Irving Hall on Wednesday evening. The former concerts of this company have crowded the hall to its doors, and as there will in every probability be an overflow at their Farewell it would be wise to secure seats in advance. The seats are now on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store.

The artists composing the company are enumerated in the programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we are assured by Mr. Thomas Ryan, the founder and director of the Club, that the programme will introduce a selection of their very choicest numbers, to place every one at their best in their parting appearances.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors' Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven, are in their last week at the Orpheum. The company have done a very fine business.

The Nelsons, in their neat and finished acrobatic business, take the cake, and their falling pillar act is startling in its great daring and precision of execution. Coleman's act is marked for its dancing. Neiman, the ventriloquist, voices cleverly his minstrel groupe of figures and gives a lively minstrel performance with them. The sketch teams are good; Campbell & Nibbe's act has a funny pyrotechnical finish. Mlle. Forgardus introduces a diversity of well trained and performing birds and animals. Pitrot's make-up and representations of famous characters are artistic and life-like, and Mlle Ancion's high trapeze act is graceful and taking. The whole performance is full and of good quality.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be next week's attraction.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

King o' the Mint will be this week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake. King o' the Mint is a grand sensational melodrama, with a prologue and four acts, and it abounds in startling situations and effective stage pictures. This is the third week of Mr. E. J. Holden's engagement.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here next week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The Zanfretta Family and Jos. Sutton are the new faces for this week. The Zanfrettas consist of the first pantomimes, The Brigands, Alex. Zanfretta as the Postilliton.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels continue, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew and Leonzo in new songs and specialties.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following new attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's version of the Trip of the Nancy Lee is the great feature of the bill.

Red Barry assumes the management of the stage this week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Big Bertha, Berkeley & Howard, sketch artists; Franks & O'Dell, the little giants of song and dance fame; the Howard Sisters and May Morrison, vocalists.

Big Bertha appears in a sketch comedy, depicting scenes which have really transpired in her own life, notably her Pacific Coast experiences. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Wills & Barron continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

Managers Burns & Travers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Braddon, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Oracerpanicis, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Gasoline, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Moreland & Nixon, sketch team; Miss Lulu Vernon, balladist, and Miss Laura Manning, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Eva Williams, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon return with a selection of new acts, songs and quaint sayings.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "This and That," and Geo. C. Dunham in a new sketch.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The chief attraction at the Wigwam next week will be Prof. Girard Geyer and his Amazon combatists. The ladies go through the short sword combat with the vigor and force of well drilled soldiers.

Grand glove contest between two well known boxers every Friday evening at the Cremorne.

Nelson's Great World Combination show in Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento next week; take in Salt Lake, Ogden, Laramie and Cheyenne the week of the 22nd. Then to Chicago to reorganize for a Summer tour among the great Northern lakes. "Coming to California again next year, and don't you forget it," says Nelson's energetic business manager, Harrie Pierce.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels: Sacramento 12-13-14, Grand Opera House in this city for week of 15th. Thence the Southern circuit.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show have dates for Fresno, 19th; Pasadena, 20th, and Los Angeles for week of 21st.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society holds its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on Sunday. A big bill will be given.

Ned Barry becomes amusement director at the Bella Union this week. He puts on his great piece, The Nancy Lee.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is in its last week at the Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will be the next. It travels a la Haverly with its brass band and street parades, etc. It only gives one week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House next week.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels and Alex. Zanfretta's Pantomime Co. present a double attraction at the Vienna this week.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

Robert Elsmere has been successfully produced by Charles Frohman and Harry Rockwood. The main points of its success, it is said, have been accomplished by the great amount of originality introduced, so that these managers have a play of importance independent of the story of Robert Elsmere itself.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the exponents of American humor and eccentric literature, will give their first lecture at the Metropolitan Temple in this city on May 6th.

E. H. Sothern will leave New York on Sunday with his company for San Francisco direct. They open at the Baldwin Easter Monday.

Richard Stahl's new opera, The Sea King, is a most ambitious effort.

Effie Ellsler made her first appearance on the stage with Edwin Forrest, and comes from a family that have been connected with theatres for 150 years.

Lilly Clay's Adamless Eden Co. will appear at the Grand this Summer.

Chanfrau will be supported by L. R. Stockwell and the Alcazar Co. while here.

Effie Ellsler made a great success in a new play by E. J. Schwartz, entitled The Governess. When do we get The Governess?

Katie Putnam will take a company to Australia in May. The Dramatic News commenting, says, "It is a long walk and requires the use of goloshes."

Harry Fisher, it is said, will leave Ed. Harrigan's company after this season.

The Burke Bros. (James and Daniel) will come with Mr. Harrigan's company to San Francisco.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Hallen and Hart have closed their season owing to the illness of Mr. Hart.

It must be very exciting for the insect

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Jane Hading was evidently much impressed with the extent of our unfinished country. On being interviewed she spoke in admiration of la gran America, and made a remark that in Paris actresses traveled in the intervals of acting for recuperation, but in America actresses played in the intervals of travel for purposes of rest. She was evidently much struck with the magnificent distances of this country; and related how, on reaching Denver, she said: "Thank God, I have got to the end of this country at last." She was much astonished when her manager dispelled her illusion, and told her they were only half way to California. That she should suffer with nervous exhaustion when she got back is quite reasonable, and that she should express her astonishment at the vastness of America as soon as she gets to Paris is allowable. Hading talks of writing a book embracing her experiences and observations.

John W. Vogel, manager of McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, who open at the Grand Opera House on Monday, is the latest managerial arrival from the East.

The New York papers are making Mary Anderson reminiscent and remissent to an unwonted degree. The New York Truth says one of them "recalls her debut in New York in The Lady of Lyons, when she wore a Kentucky ball dress with a sixteen-yard train, and when she swept round the small stage of the Fifth Avenue every member of the dramatis personæ had to make a jump over the train, and the general effect upon the audience was that of a walking match or a rat bait. When she made her exit, the train continued to disappear at the wing for five minutes, with much swish and rustle; and finally the audience saw a stalwart pair of arms reach out and gather up the last two yards and carry them off. Mary has outgrown all this now, and has learned the aesthetic lesson of the stage, which is not to overdress, but to underdress."

Referring to the breaking-down of actresses of late the Philadelphia Times says: "Under any well-regulated system, like that of the old local companies, an actress could live a rational life and take occasional rests, with the blessings of a home and home comforts around her. But now it is one unremitting grind with the fatigues of travel and the discomfort of homelessness added to the wear and tear of nightly work, from which prosperity brings no relief."

The New York Truth wants to be true to its name even in obituaries. It sees no reason why an obituary should always be a song of praise. In speaking of Manager Duff's death it says: "Mr. Duff may, therefore, be dismissed from public experience as a man of moderate capacity, of hard, aggressive personality, of whimsical and erratic temperament, of narrow views, of stubborn disposition and of limited knowledge. It is the custom, in the obituary columns of the day, to treat extinct personalities with flattery, and I have nowhere seen any attempt to do exact justice to this somewhat unique man. I, therefore, set down here my own convictions of him, with the firm belief that while they are not complimentary, they are at least true, and will be so recognized by the New York public that came in contact with Mr. Duff."

Augustin Daly's new play, called Samson and Delilah, is not a success. A New York exchange says: "It is a farce in three acts, depending entirely upon the fun which a Frenchman thinks is observable in matrimonial infelicity. A middle-aged lawyer treats his wife, who is also middle-aged, with neglect, brutal indifference and contumely, because she is old. He meets a younger woman who is a coquette, and he submits to her wiles, being led away from his loyalty and respect for his partner of years, and in doing so is supposed to furnish any amount of hilarity to an intelligent American audience. But the fact is, the process is not funny. The audience watched Mr. Lewis go through his clever monkeying, and did not smile. It asked itself where the fun of this proceeding was. He treated his wife with brutality, and the observers were asked to laugh at it. He showed an unscrupulous desire to carry on a flirtation with a young and pretty woman to the point of criminality, and this was thought to be sportive, but it was not. Throughout the piece there was a feeling of unkindness and a want of nicety in the motive that utterly ruined it for an intelligent community. Of course, Miss Rehan and Mr. Lewis as usual were clever, and did all that was possible to make that which was not funny in itself appear as funny as possible."

Albani and her company give concerts April 22nd, 24th and 27th at the Grand Opera House. The latter concert is a matinee.

Nelson's Great World Combination put in their last week at the Orpheum this week.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

The prevailing colors of the newly decorated Grand Opera House will be maroon and old gold. This will give the auditorium a richer and more compact appearance than the former pale drab and light blue decorations.

George Jessop's play, "A Gold Mine," has panned out so well that Dan Frohman has contracted with him to write a new comedy for his New York Lyceum Theatre. Jessop was a San Francisco journalist and theatrical critic for several years, and knew something about gold mines and their manipulation.

Frederick de Belleville will play the lead-

Grand Family Matinee Every Sunday.....

Mr. Wood, of Reilly & Wood's Big Show, has patented a safety net to facilitate escape from buildings in case of fire, and in order to give a lesson in its use, call the attention of the Fire Department to it and prove its practical working, he wanted the managers of the Palace Hotel to permit the experiment to be made in the court-yard of that edifice. Miss Lizzie Vaidis was quite ready and willing to leap from the topmost balcony of the tall structure into one of these safety nets spread below and so demonstrate the value of the invention. But the hotel people declined permission on account of the trouble it would cause. Thinking, doubtlessly, that such a matinee performance as that might draw an audience that would be rather inconvenient for even their large caravansary to accommodate.

Geo. T. Krewolf, the brassy treasurer of Hoyt's "Brass Monkey" Company, has fled to Canada, leaving a deficit of some $4,000. Hoyt gave him $2,177 in Boston to deposit on Monday and he skipped out with it. Hoyt is kicking himself. He has swathed his hat with crape, swore off for a month, and feels like writing a tragedy.

Miss Dido Rankin, daughter of McKee Rankin, made her New York debut April 1st in the small part of Lillian Haye in The Runaway Wife.

Elleford & Brophy's company—W. J. Elleford, J. M. Brophy, Lottie Beaumont, Jessie Norton, Louise Martin and others—start out on their interior season on the 16th. This may be classified as the East side delegation to the interior swim, bearing Morosco's banner inland.

Daniel Frohman will have seven traveling companies on the road next season.

Charles Reed retires from Hoyt's Brass Monkey Company within a week.

Barry and Fay begin their next tour in September at the Bijou Theatre, New York.

Prof. Bartholomew and his trained horses follow The Old Homestead at the Academy New York in June.

E. J. Buckley, has left A Gold Mine. Robert Hilliard takes his place.

It is just possible that Miss Viola Allen of the Boston Museum Company, will be a member of the Jefferson-Florence Combination next season.

Coston Light, Jessop and Teal's new melodrama, will be produced in New York next season by Klaw and Erlanger.

W. H. Powers will give The Fairies' Wall a special and elaborate production at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, September 9th.

In September Denman Thompson sends out a traveling Old Homestead Company with Archie Boyd as Joshua Whitcomb.

Richard Mansfield has eight weeks held for next season at the Union Square Theatre, New York, but as yet no contracts have been signed.

Miss Adelaide Moore, who comes to this country next season in a play called The Love Story, will probably be supported during her tour by an English company.

Minna K. Gale will have the leading female part in Ganelon, William Young's new play which Lawrence Barrett is to produce October 7th in Chicago.

Giannini, the tenor that was here with Mapleson, has been specially engaged to sing in Verdi's Othello at La Scala.

Dockstader has abandoned his contemplated trip to Paris this summer with his minstrel troup, and will open the Fall season at his theatre in New York, on September 1st.

Florence Roberts, a California graduated actress, has replaced Mabel Bert as Rachel in the Held by the Enemy Co. Miss Bert has gone back to McKee Ran-

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....APRIL 11, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

This is the last week of the great attraction at the Bush; the last of Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Vaidis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like revolving machine, on which the act is done, is suspended near the ceiling. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Vaidis' act—remain hushed in suspense as the daring girl inclines forward and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense they retire, satisfied they have witnessed the greatest trapeze act of the world.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Chas. F. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be next week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect.

Box office now open for reserved seats.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success, is in its third week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and next week, its last week, at box office.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is having a great run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler commences her season here this week in Laura Don's successful play of "Egypt." Miss Ellsler has endeared herself to every theatre-goer by her performance of Hazel Kirke, of which character she was the creator. She shows the same womanly grace and feeling in her dual impersonation of Laura Don's play, with increased dramatic action in the broader scope that the play presents.

Egypt is a very imaginative, a very unconventional play, though it deals with several characters that are of the most conventional types. The charm of the play is nearly all in the character of Egypt and in the cleverness of the lines.

Miss Ellsler is at her best, however, in the last act. Orrin Johnson, the leading man, is good. As Katrina, Miss Brandon looks very handsome and, furthermore, plays the role better than any she has ever given us here. The other parts are well sustained.

Next week, Effie Ellsler in "Judge Not."

Grand Opera House—McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will give their only week in this city at the Grand next week. They come across the continent, a la Haverly, with a big show, including a full brass band for street parades, etc.

These minstels introduce here for the first time the elegantly character costumed Shakespearean First Part; the European novelties, Ramza & Arno, the greatest of pantomime comedians; Leopold & Fortune, famed comedy and musical duo; the Great Kertz, champion $10,000 equilibrist; and their great success, the Baseball Tableau Clog, costumed, arranged especially for this company. Besides, there is McNish's Silence and Fun act; the comedians Spencer, Donnelly and others, in humorous minstrel acts; artistic songs and dances, the best of minstrel vocal talent, and all that goes to make up a first-class minstrel entertainment.

Popular prices: 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

See programme announcement on first page.

FIGARO furnishes the programme, of course.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors' Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven, are in their last week at the Orpheum. The company have done a very fine business.

The Nelsons, Neiman, the ventriloquist, Campbell & Nibbe, the Sisters Coyne, the twin Brothers Wems, Mlle. Forgardus, Pitrot, Mlle. Ancion and the entire company close on Sunday night.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be next week's attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on the ceiling of the house every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

King o' the Mint will be this week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake. King o' the Mint is a grand sensational melodrama, with a prologue and four acts, and it abounds in startling situations and effective stage pictures. This is the third week of Mr. E. J. Holden's engagement.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here next week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The Zanfretta Family and Jos. Sutton are the new faces for this week. The Zanfrettas conclude the first part with The Dancing Master, and for the afterpiece one of the best of Alex Zanfretta's pantomimes, The Brigands, Alex. Zanfretta as the Postillion.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels continue, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew and Leonzo in new songs and specialties.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following new attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's version of the Trip of the Nancy Lee is the great feature of the bill.

Red Barry assumes the management of the stage this week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Big Bertha, Berkeley & Howard, sketch artists; Franks & O'Dell, the little giants of song and dance fame; the Howard Sisters and May Morrison, vocalists.

Big Bertha appears in a sketch comedy, depicting scenes which have really transpired in her own life, notably her Pacific Coast experiences. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Wills & Barron continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Braddon, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Orac erpanicia, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Gasoline, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coolest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Moreland & Nixon, sketch team; Miss Lulu Vernon, balladist, and Miss Laura Manning, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Eva Williams, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon return with a selection of new acts, songs and quaint sayings.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "This and That," and Geo. C. Dunham in a new sketch.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Alf. Ellinghouse is a rancher now. He has five acres of land in the Western Addition with large gangs of workingmen planting things for the suburban production of the military spectacle of the Seige of Sebastopol.

Manager Walterstein, of the Eureka, left for an extended trip to Europe, taking in the Paris Exposition, yesterday, and had many friends to wish him bon voyage. His Brother will hold the managerial reins of the Eureka during his absence.

Raymon Moore, the tenor vocalist, will be missed from our stage for several months, as he starts in a few days to take a trip across the Atlantic.

Johnson & Slavin's Great Minstrel Co., very strongly organized, open at the New Bush April 29th.

Pleasure Theatre, Butte, Mont., April 8th: Allen & Forrest, Louis Dupont, Whitney & Johnson, John J. Black and Lillie Gordon, Crissie Morrell, Coyne Bros., Everett & Stanley, Geyer & Lord, Minnie Mearle, May Forrest (the legless wonder), James E. Black and Lydia York.

Pat Reilly doubles up in a very funny sketch with John G. Sparks at the Bush, in which his patter dancing is a marked feature. The finish is an original novelty.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are coming to California early in the Summer. They will follow the Booth and Barrett season at the California Theatre. Their season on the coast will be for eight weeks, two weeks of which will be given to San Francisco.

Harry Kennedy's ventriloquial turn in the Reilly & Wood programme never fails to set the house in a roar. What an admirable artist he is!

The chief attraction at the Wigwam next week will be Prof. Girard Geyer and his Amazon combatists. The ladies go through the short sword combat with the vigor and force of well drilled soldiers.

Grand glove contest between two well known boxers every Friday evening at the Cremorne.

Nelson's Great World Combination show in Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento next week; take in Salt Lake, Ogden, Laramie and Cheyenne the week of the 22nd. Then to Chicago to reorganize for a Summer tour among the great Northern lakes. "Coming to California again next year, and don't you forget it," says Nelson's energetic business manager, Harrie Pierce.

Harry Fisher, it is said, will leave Ed. Harrigan's company after this season.

McNish, Ranza & Arno's Minstrels: Sacramento 12-13-14, Grand Opera House in this city for week of 15th. Thence the Southern circuit.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show have dates for Fresno, 19 h; Pasadena, 20th, and Los Angeles for week of 21st.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society holds its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on Sunday. A big bill will be given.

Ned Barry becomes amusement director at the Bella Union this week. He puts on his great piece, The Nancy Lee.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is in its last week at the Bush Street Theatre this week. This is indeed a great show.

The Burke Bros. (James and Daniel) will come with Mr. Harrigan's company to San Francisco.

McNish, Ranza & Arno's Minstrels will be the next. It travels a la Haverly with its mule band and street parades, etc. It only gives one week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House next week.

Nelson's Great World Combination put in a fair last week at the Orpheum this week.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels and Alex. Zanfretta's Pantomime Troupe present a double attraction at the Alcazar this week.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Frayers' fine tenor and Miss Morton and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and assorted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are [illegible] with advantage in well selected

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Bobby Gaylor has been engaged to do his specialty in the Webster-Brady After Dark next season.

Kitty has nine lives. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell have started out on the road with her for another trial.

M. B. Leavitt will shortly have a magnificent new theatre in Denver. He is also negotiating for one in St. Louis and another in Chicago. He has made a big offer for a well known house in New York, which has not yet been accepted. His object is to acquire a complete chain of theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and what he undertakes he generally accomplishes.

Frank Mordaunt plays the role of the Baron de Montrichard in A Woman's Stratagem in support of Helen Barry at the Union Square Theatre, N. Y.

Modjeska is a grandma
And Edwin Booth's a grandpa,
Though on the stage they seem quite youthful yet;
But won't it cause a cackle
When these old people tackle
The play of "Romeo and Juliet"?
—Dramatic News.

Sol Smith Russell will appear at Augustin Daly's Theatre, N. Y., August 26th. He and Miss Rosina Vokes are the only persons to whom Mr. Daly will rent this year, although the house could readily be kept open for the whole Summer.

James Paine—of James Paine & Sons, of London and New York, originators and managers of out-door spectacles—arrived to-day with seven car-loads of scenery, military appointments, cannon, mechanical effects, etc., for the Seige of Sebastopol. Mr. Paine comes here to supervise the mounting of this grand spectacle, which will be produced April 23d on the block bounded by Hayes, Fell, Baker and Lyon streets. For further particulars read notice in our amusement columns.

Lawrence Barrett announced from the stage of the Opera House at Detroit, last night, that Mr. Booth would rejoin the company at Cleveland April 15th.

Mary Anderson has arrived in England with her health much improved.

McCaull's latest opera, The May Queen, has made a tremendous hit at Palmer's Theatre, N. Y., and will have a long and profitable career. The score is equal, if not superior, to the best comic opera music, and the book, brightened up by Harry B. Smith, is very lively and interesting.

John W. Vogel, manager of McNish, Ranza & Arno's Minstrels, who open at the Grand Opera House on Monday, is the latest managerial arrival from the East.

Referring to the breaking-down of actresses of late the Philadelphia Times says: "Under any well-regulated system, like that of the old local companies, an actress could live a rational life and take occasional rests, with the blessings of a home and home comforts around her. But now it is one unremitting grind with the fatigues of travel and the discomfort of homelessness added to the wear and tear of nightly work, from which prosperity brings no relief."

Effie Ellsler made a great success in a new play by E. J. Schwartz, entitled The Governess. When do we get The Governess?

The New York Truth wants to be true to its name even in obituaries. It sees no reason why an obituary should always be a song of praise. In speaking of Manager Duff's death it says: "Mr. Duff may, therefore, be dismissed from public experience as a man of moderate capacity, of hard, aggressive personality, of whimsical and erratic temperament, of narrow views, of stubborn disposition and of limited knowledge. It is the custom, in the obituary columns of the day, to treat extinct personalities with flattery, and I have nowhere seen any attempt to do exact justice to this somewhat unique man. I, therefore, set down here my own convictions of him, with the firm belief that while they are not complimentary, they are at least true, and will be so recognized by the New York public that came in contact with Mr. Duff."

The prevailing colors of the newly decorated Grand Opera House will be maroon and old gold. This will give the auditorium a richer and more compact appearance than the former pale drab and light blue decorations.

Katie Putnam will take a company to Australia in May. The Dramatic News commenting, says, "It is a long walk and requires the use of goloshes."

Albani and her company give concerts April 22nd, 24th and 27th at the Grand Opera House. The latter concert is a matinee.

Old San Francisco theatre-goers will remember Mrs. John Wood during her budding out at Maguire's old Opera House, on Washington street, as one of the most charming burlesque actresses and comediennes on the stage. She afterwards went to New York, thence to London, where she has been a reigning favorite and manageress for nearly twenty years. The New York Truth goes behind her professional life in its revelations, and says: "Mrs. John Wood was well taken care of by two ancient gentlemen of very different qualities and dispositions, agreeing only in admiration for the clever woman who had, at different times, and in different countries, attracted them. One was the great dry-goods merchant, A. T. Stewart, who settled upon Mrs. Wood a valuable house in New York, so tied up that the speculative lady was prevented from selling, mortgaging, or otherwise alienating it forever. The other was the philanthropist and merchant prince, George Peabody, who did likewise with a handsome residence in Gordon Square, London. The consequence of these prudent proceedings on the part of her ancient adorers, is that Mrs. Wood, despite her losses in the St. James Theatre and other ventures, matrimonial and dramatic.

Grand Family Matinee Every Sunday.....

In view of the fact that the New American Opera Company are under engagement to Manager Leavitt to appear in this city in October, the following extract from the letter of the Baltimore correspondent to the Dramatic News will be interesting: "Grand Opera House—The New American Opera Co. has done a very fair business, the size of the audiences increasing at each successive performance. Among the operas were Faust, La Traviata, Il Trovatore and Daughter of the Regiment. The company did creditable work, although in one or two operas there were vocal defects observed. Alida Varena, a native of this city, scored a distinct success, and displayed a well cultivated voice. Mlle. Natali was in fine voice and did some brilliant singing. Miss Macnichol made a very favorable impression with her sweet voice. Frank Vetta and Alonzo Stoddard evinced meritorious work and Director Hinrichs kept the orchestra well in hand."

Mr. Wood, of Reilly & Wood's Big Show, has patented a safety net to facilitate escape from buildings in case of fire, and in order to give a lesson in its use, call the attention of the Fire Department to it and prove its practical working, he wanted the managers of the Palace Hotel to permit the experiment to be made in the court-yard of that edifice. Miss Lizzie Vaidis was quite ready and willing to leap from the topmost balcony of the tall structure into one of these safety nets spread below and so demonstrate the value of the invention. But the hotel people declined permission on account of the trouble it would cause. Thinking, doubtlessly, that such a matinee performance as that might draw an audience that would be rather inconvenient for even their large caravansary to accommodate.

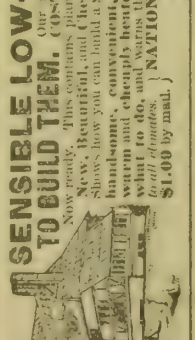
Florence Roberts, a California graduated actress, has replaced Mabel Bert as Rachel in the Held by the Enemy Co. Miss Bert has gone back to McKee Rankin's company.

Geo. T. Krewolf, the brassy treasurer of Hoyt's "Brass Monkey" Company, has fled to Canada, leaving a deficit of some $4 000. Hoyt gave him $2,177 in Boston to deposit on Monday and he skipped out with it. Hoyt is kicking himself. He has swathed his hat with crape, swore off for a month, and feels like writing a tragedy.

Elleford & Brophy's company—W. J. Elleford, J. M. Brophy, Lottie Beaumont, Jessie Norton, Louise Martin and others—start out on their interior season on the 16th. This may be classified as the East side delegation to the interior swim, bearing Morosco's banner inland.

Robert Elsmere has been successfully produced by Charles Frohman and Harry Rockwood. The main points of its success, it is said, have been accomplished by the great amount of originality introduced, so that these managers have a play of importance independent of the story of Robert Elsmere itself.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the exponents of American humor and eccentric literature, will give their first lecture at the Metropolitan Temple in this city on May 6th.



E. H. Sothern will leave New York on Sunday with his company for San Francisco direct. They open at the Baldwin Easter Monday.

A Chinese dramatic company will be one of the novelties in New York next season.

Hallen and Hart have closed their season owing to the illness of Mr. Hart.

Richard Mansfield has eight weeks held for next season at the Union Square Theatre, New York, but as yet no contracts have

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....APRIL 12, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

This is the last week of the great attraction at the Bush; the last of Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars.

First among the attractions in the troupe are the Valdis Twin Sisters in their astonishing aerial act, entitled "Trapezone Rotaire" and Miss Lizzie's great dive from the dome of the theatre, a thrilling and startling performance. The spider-web like revolving machine, on which the act is done, is suspended near the ceiling. It is the best trapeze act ever seen here; a great novelty, and a wonderful exhibition of grace, daring and equipoise.

Miss Lizzie's 45-foot dive from the dome of the theatre to the netting below follows. The audience on the stage and in auditorium—for the audience are invited on the stage to get a better view of the Valdis' act—remain hushed in suspense as the daring girl inclines forward and dives down headlong. A bright revolving body flashes through the air and falls on the board of its back in the net below, and rebounds upward alighting on its feet. She has calculated to a second the revolution of the fall. The audience sense it; relieved of their suspense they retire, satisfied they have witnessed the greatest trapeze act of the world.

The company includes among its specialty talent, the king of ventriloquists, Harry Kennedy, one of the best in his line living; Irma Fox, the magician, in a number of new and difficult tricks; John G. Sparks, the celebrated comedian, who was last here with Harrigan during his engagement at the Bush; witty Pat Reilly, the Irish humorist, one of the funniest of stage Irishmen; Napier & Marzello, very funny and very skillful on the horizontal bars, and others. The troupe is one of the best ever congregated together.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be next week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect.

Box office now open for reserved seats.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success, is in its third week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and next week, its last week, at box office.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. The part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is having a great run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler commences her season here this week in Laura Don's successful play of "Egypt." Miss Ellsler has endeared herself to every theatre-goer by her performance of Hazel Kirke, of which character she was the creator. She shows the same womanly grace and feeling in her dual impersonation of Laura Don's play, with increased dramatic action in the broader scope that the play presents.

Egypt is a very imaginative, a very unconventional play, though it deals with several characters that are of the most conventional types. The charm of the play is nearly all in the character of Egypt and in the cleverness of the lines.

Miss Ellsler plays it with great force and feeling. She is at her best, however, in the last act. Orrin Johnson, the leading man, is good. As Katrina, Miss Brandon looks very handsome and, furthermore, plays the role better than any she has ever given us here. The other parts are well sustained.

Next week, Effie Ellsler in "Judge Not."

Grand Opera House—McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will give their only week in this city at the Grand next week. They come across the continent, a la Haverly, with a big show, including a full brass band for street parades, etc.

These minstels introduce here for the first time the elegantly character costumed Shakespearean First Part; the European novelties, Ramza & Arno, the greatest of pantomime comedians; Leopold & Fortune, famed comedy and musical duo; the Great Kertz, champion $10,000 equilibrist; and their great success, the Baseball Tableau Clog, costumed, arranged especially for this company. Besides, there is McNish's Silence and Fun act; the comedians, Spencer, Donnelly and others, in humorous minstrel acts; artistic songs and dances, the best of minstrel vocal talent, and all that goes to make up a first-class minstrel entertainment.

Popular prices: 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

See programme announcement on first page.

FIGARO furnishes the programme, of course.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors' Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven, are in their last week at the Orpheum. The company have done a very fine business.

The Nelsons, Neiman, the ventriloquist, Campbell & Nibbe, the Sisters Coyne, the twin Brothers Weme, Mlle. Forgardus, Pitrot, Mlle. Ancion and the entire company close on Sunday night.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be next week's attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on the ceiling of the house every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

King o' the Mint will be this week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake. King o' the Mist is a grand sensational melodrama, with a prologue and four acts, and it abounds in startling situations and effective stage pictures. This is the third week of Mr. E. J. Holden's engagement.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here next week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Paine's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, is almost ready. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances will be given every night, and $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

James Paine, the manager, arrived to-day with seven car-loads of material, fireworks etc., for this great exhibition.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The Zanfretta Family and Jos. Sutton are the new faces for this week. The Zanfrettas conclude the first part with The Dancing Master, and for the afterpiece one of the best of Alex. Zanfretta's pantomimes, The Brigands, Alex. Zanfretta as the Postilliton.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels continue, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew and Leonzo in new songs and specialties.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following new attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's version of the Trip of the Nancy Lee is the great feature of the bill.

Red Barry assumes the management of the stage this week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Big Berths, Berkeley & Howard, sketch artists; Franks & O'Dell, the little giants of song and dance fame; the Howard Sisters and May Morrison, vocalists.

Big Bertha appears in a sketch comedy, depicting scenes which have really transpired in her own life, notably her Pacific Coast experiences. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Wills & Barron continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Moreland & Nixon, sketch team; Miss Lulu Vernon, balladist, and Miss Laura Manning, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Eva Williams, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon return with a selection of new acts, songs and quaint sayings.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "This and That," and Geo. C. Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P. M.

Sunday, April 14th, picnic and entertainment of the Cremorne Benevolent Association in a grand double bill of musical and specialty numbers by a host of volunteers.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Braddon, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Trayers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with a finale of The Needle, an or Trayers'. Charles Morrell v full of fun and Tommy Mor his amusing sketches fill i of the programme; the laugh erpanicle, follows after, t acters impersonated by Mo Trayers and Marie Morina. finale.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Alf. Ellinghouse is a rancher now. He has five acres of land in the Western Addition with large gangs of workingmen planting things for the suburban production of the military spectacle of the Seige of Sebastopol.

Manager Walterstein, of the Eureka, left for an extended trip to Europe, taking in the Paris Exposition, Thursday, and had many friends to wish him bon voyage. His Brother will hold the managerial reins of the Eureka during his absence.

Raymon Moore, the tenor vocalist, will be missed from our stage for several months, as he starts to-day to take a trip across the Atlantic.

Johnson & Slavin's Great Minstrel Co., very strongly organized, open at the New Bush April 29th.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are coming to California early in the Summer. They will follow the Booth and Barrett season at the California Theatre. Their season on the coast will be for eight weeks, two weeks of which will be given to San Francisco.

The chief attraction at the Wigwam next week will be Prof. Girard Geyer and his Amazon combatists. The ladies go through the short sword combat with the vigor and force of well drilled soldiers.

Nelson's Great World Combination show in Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento next week; take in Salt Lake, Ogden, Laramie and Cheyenne the week of the 22nd. Then to Chicago to reorganize for a Summer tour among the great Northern lakes. "Coming to California again next year, and don't you forget it," says Nelson's energetic business manager, Harrie Pierce.

Harry Fisher, it is said, will leave Ed. Harrigan's company after this season.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels: Sacramento 13-14, Grand Opera House in this city for week of 15th, Thence the Southern circuit.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show have dates for Fresno, 19th; Pasadena, 20th, and Los Angeles for week of 21st.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society holds its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on Sunday. A big bill will be given.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show is in its last week at the Bush Street Theatre this week. Take it in.

The Burke Bros. (James and Daniel) will come with Mr. Harrigan's company to San Francisco.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will be the next. It travels a la Haverly with its brass band and street parades, etc. It only gives one week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House next week.

Nelson's Great World Combination put in their last week at the Orpheum this week.

Wilson & Cameron's Melbourne Minstrels and Alex. Zanfretta's Pantomime Co. present a double attraction at the Vienna this week.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The new toy, Pigs in Clover, which is at present amusing full grown people in Gotham, has cost the rank and file of the professors a great deal of money, as the majority of them try to drive the pigs in the pen behind the scenes, forget their cues, and are consequently fined. Keller, the magician, has the pigs in the pen in one second. He has the box three times and in they go.

Alexandre Dumas and Victorien Sardou are at work upon a society drama. The first deposit necessary to purchase their consent to work together on a play, is said to reach six figures—in francs of course.

Mr. E. Marcy Raymond, one of McAllister's New York Four Hundred, and a member of the swellest Fifth Avenue gilt-edge coterie, has composed a comic opera called Dorette, which is to be seen for the first time at the Standard Theatre, April

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The Little Tycoon will be at the Oakland Theatre 18th and 19th. Manager Rosenthal has been in town paving its way and trying to get a return date in this city.

Frank Mayo resumes the coon cap, buckskin suit and dialect in Davy Crockett next season.

In a New York dispatch of the 12th inst., Edwin Booth is credited with saying: "I feel almost well. I shall start on Sunday morning to rejoin the company in Cleveland. I wanted rest, for I have now been working pretty steadily for several years. It is less acting than constant traveling that affects me." He speaks of his coming to California as a settled thing.

Jeffreys-Lewis is playing "Led Astray" at the Oakland Theatre. She will play a short season at the Bijou later on.

Billy Birch is not dead, as has been reported, but is $700 richer by his recent testimonial benefit.

E. M. Hall, the well known banjo player, is an inmate of the Kankakee, Ill., lunatic asylum.

Mr. Coates, an actor of the Alone in London Co. has just obtained a verdict at La Crosse, Wis., for $1,400 against Jas. Bigelow, of that city. Coates claims that Bigelow ran a faro bank where he lost that sum a year ago.

Almost a riot occurred when the doors of the Globe Theatre, London, were open recently at Richard Mansfield's first performance of Richard III. because four people were already seated in the pit. This was regarded as an undue interference by the manager with the rights of the public, hence the serious row.

James Owen O'Coner, the well known tragedian, is already burnishing up his armor for the ensuing season. O'Coner is regarded as a "draw" by managers of combination theatres.

Bobby Gaylor has been engaged to do his specialty in the Webster-Brady After Dark next season.

Kitty has nine lives. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell have started out on the road with her for another trial.

M. B. Leavitt will shortly have a magnificent new theatre in Denver. He is also negotiating for one in St. Louis and another in Chicago. He has made a big offer for a well known house in New York, which has not yet been accepted. His object is to acquire a complete chain of theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and what he undertakes he generally accomplishes.

Frank Mordaunt plays the role of the Baron de Montrichard in A Woman's Stratagem in support of Helen Barry at the Union Square Theatre, N. Y.

Sol Smith Russell will appear at Augustin Daly's Theatre, N. Y., August 26th. He and Miss Rosina Vokes are the only persons to whom Mr. Daly will rent this year, although the house could readily be kept open for the whole Summer.

James Paine—of James Paine & Sons, of London and New York, originators and managers of out-door spectacles—arrived to-day with seven car-loads of scenery, military appointments, cannon, mechanical effects, etc., for the Seige of Sebastopol. Mr. Paine comes here to supervise the mounting of this grand spectacle, which will be produced April 23d on the block bounded by Hayes, Fell, Baker and Lyon streets. For further particulars read notice in our amusement columns.

Lawrence Barrett announced from the stage of the Opera House at Detroit, last night, that Mr. Booth would rejoin the company at Cleveland April 15th.

Mary Anderson has arrived in England with her health much improved.

McCaull's latest opera, The May Queen, has made a tremendous hit at Palmer's Theatre, N. Y., and will have a long and profitable career. The score is equal, if not superior, to the best comic opera music, and the book, brightened up by Harry B. Smith, is very lively and interesting.

John W. Vogel, manager of McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels, who open at the Grand Opera House on Monday, is the latest managerial arrival from the East.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the exponents of American humor and eccentric literature, will give their first lecture at the Metropolitan Temple in this city on May 6th.

E. H. Sothern will leave New York on Sunday with his company for San Francisco direct. They open at the Baldwin Easter Monday.

A Chinese dramatic company will be one of the novelties in New York next season.

Hallen and Hart have closed their season owing to the illness of Mr. Hart.

Richard Mansfield has eight weeks held for next season at the Union Square Theatre, New York, but as yet no contracts have been signed.

Effie Ellsler made a great success in a new play by E. J. Schwartz, entitled The Governess. When do we get The Governess?

Charles Reed and Lavinia Shannon will play parts in Sol. Berliner's production of A Noble Son, at Niblos, New York, May 13th.

Herbert Hall Winslow, the author of Town Lots is writing a play for J. B. Polk. Mixed Pickles is to be shelved after the present season.

THE NEW AMERICAN PRIMA DONNA.

The most pronounced American success for many months, if not years, has been that of Miss Emma Eames, a Boston girl, in her recent debut in Gounod's Romeo et Juliett at the Grand Opera House, Paris. She had been a pupil of Mme. Marchesi for three years and graduated for Italian and French grand opera. A correspondent of the New York Dramatic News says:

"They tell me she is twenty years of age, and I shall not dispute it. She is tall without being thin, elegant, even distingue in appearance, has a pure oval face, that is lit up by expressive eyes, a delicate nose, good throat, and a graceful figure; but I cannot say for the life of me whether she is blonde or brunette. Her arms are beautiful. She is charming, and in appearance she is indeed an ideal Juliet. There was a sort of bloom about her beauty, and a poetry in her motions which is indescribable. She was the very impersonation of the character which Shakespeare created, but she was hardly up to Gounod's ideal. I freely admit all her charms and graces as a woman, but I am not willing to cry aloud from housetops that she is as yet a perfect artist, like some others. She is, however, an excellent actress, and it is true, too, that she sang without apparent effort, taking her notes with facility (her voice goes easily through two octaves), but it is uncertain and not so flexible as it might be. Her fault is she does not understand the art of shading, but, as she is highly intelligent, she will be able to acquire it with experience. Her faults may be set down solely to youth and experience, and I look to her overcoming them, particularly as she seems to have that calm and serene temperament which is sometimes spoken of as assurance, even as aplomb."

Old San Francisco theatre-goers will remember Mrs. John Wood during her budding out at Maguire's old Opera House, on Washington street, as one of the most charming burlesque actresses and comediennes on the stage. She afterwards went to New York, thence to London, where she has been a reigning favorite and manageress for nearly twenty years. The New York Truth goes behind her professional life in its revelations, and says: "Mrs. John Wood was well taken care of by two ancient gentlemen of very different qualities and dispositions, agreeing only in admiration for the clever woman who had, at different times, and in different countries, attracted them. One was the great dry-goods merchant, A. T. Stewart, who settled upon Mrs. Wood a valuable house in New York, so tied up that the speculative lady was prevented from selling, mortgaging, or otherwise alienating it forever. The other was the philanthropist and merchant prince, George Peabody, who did likewise with a handsome residence in Grosvenor Square, London. The consequence of these prudent proceedings on the part of her ancient adorers, is that Mrs. Wood, despite her losses in the St. James Theatre and other ventures, matrimonial and dramatic, is still very comfortably off in her old age."

One of the fads of the season is the whistling girl, and anything more uninteresting than a pretty girl puckering her pretty lips into a whistle is hard to imagine. Lord Byron said something about not liking to see a pretty woman eat. What would he have said if he had seen a pretty woman whistle?

The new American opera to be produced at the Union Square Theatre, New York, June 3d, is called Adrielle.

EVENING EDITION

SATURDAY.....APRIL 13, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Sunday is the last night of Reilly & Wood's New Big Show, a congregation of specialty talent that scintillates with stars. The last opportunity to see the great Vaidis leap from the dome of the theatre, the comicalities of the ventriloquist Kennedy, magician Fox, the comedians Reilly and Sparks, the funny bar-performers, etc., that all go to make up the full and diversified entertainment of this excellent specialty company.

See full list of company in programme announcement.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be next week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect.

Baldwin Theatre.

An elaborate production of Little Lord Fauntleroy, Mrs. Burnett's dramatic idyl that has achieved such a success, is in its third week at the Baldwin.

Seats now on sale for this and next week, its last week, at box office.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is played alternately by Wallie Eddinger and Flossie Ethyl, both, and give entire satisfaction; the remainder of the company contains some excellent material.

There is nothing very dramatic in the acting, but the situation all through is in the most delightful dramatic form. Willie Eddinger is a handsome boy who acts as if he knew and felt all he was doing and its meaning. TLe part touches every one. Miss Evesson as "Dearest" makes half the charm of the play. Frank Aiken plays the important part of the crusty old grandfather very finely, and both Mr. Bassett and Mr. Henderson give some very acceptable comedy parts.

Little Lord Fauntleroy is having a great run.

Extra matinees will be given on Wednesday during the run of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler commenced her season here this week in Laura Don's successful play of "Egypt."

Egypt is a very imaginative, a very unconventional play, though it deals with several characters that are of the most conventional types. The charm of the play is nearly all in the character of Egypt and in the cleverness of the lines.

Miss Ellsler plays it with great force and feeling. She is at her best, however, in the last act. Orrin Johnson, the leading man, is good. As Katrina, Miss Brandon looks very handsome and, furthermore, plays the role better than any she has ever given us here. The other parts are well sustained.

Next week, Effie Ellsler in "Judge Not."

Grand Opera House—McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will give their only week in this city at the Grand next week. They come across the continent, a la Haverly, with a big show, including a full brass band for street parades, etc.

These minstels introduce here for the first time the elegantly character costumed Shakespearean First Part; the European novelties, Ramza & Arno, the greatest of pantomime comedians; Leopold & Fortune, famed comedy and musical duo; the Great Kertz, champion $10,000 equilibrist; and their great success the Baseball Tableau Clog, costumed, arranged especially for this company. Besides, there is McNish's Silence and Fun act; the comedians, Spencer, Donnelly and others, in humorous minstrel acts; artistic songs and dances, the best of minstrel vocal talent, and all that goes to make up a first-class minstrel entertainment.

Popular prices: 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

See programme announcement on first page.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors' Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

Nelson's Great World Combination, headed by the famed pyramidical artists, the Nelson Brothers, now increased to seven, are in their last week at the Orpheum. The company have done a very fine business.

The Nelsons, Neiman, the ventriloquist, Campbell & Nibbe, the Sisters Coyne, the twin Brothers Wems, Mlle. Forgardus, Pitrot, Mlle Ancion and the entire company close on Sunday night.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be next week's attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on the ceiling of the house every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

King o' the Mint will be this week's attraction, Mr. E. J. Holden assuming the part of Richard Wildrake. King o' the Mint is a grand sensational melodrama, with a prologue and four acts, and it abounds in startling situations and effective stage pictures. This is the third week of Mr. E. J. Holden's engagement.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here next week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Paine's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, is almost ready. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances will be given every night, and $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

James Paine, the manager, arrived to-day with seven car-loads of material, fireworks, etc, for this great exhibition.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

The Zanfretta Family and Jos. Sutton are the new faces for this week. The Zanfrettas conclude the first part with The Dancing Master, and for the afterpiece one of the best of Alex Zanfretta's pantomimes, The Brigands, Alex. Zanfretta as the Postillion.

Wilson & Cameron's minstrels continue, with J. W. Wilson, J. F. Sully and Bob Harrison, bones; J. D. Green and Harry Orndorff, interlocutors; Wm. Cameron, Louis O'Dell and Geo. H. Wood, tambos; Raymon Moore, La Drew and Leonzo in new songs and specialties.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following new attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's version of the Trip of the Nancy Lee is the great feature of the bill.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Ballinan's Cremorne Theatre.

This week the new people are Big Bertha, Berkeley & Howard, sketch artists; Franks & O'Dell, the little giants of song and dance fame; the Howard Sisters and May Morrison, vocalists.

Big Bertha appears in a sketch comedy, depicting scenes which have really transpired in her own life, notably her Pacific Coast experiences. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Wills & Barron continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Moreland & Nixon, sketch team; Miss Lulu Vernon, balladist, and Miss Laura Manning, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Eva Williams, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franke, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon return with a selection of new acts, songs and quaint sayings.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "This and That," and Geo. C Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P. M

Sunday, April 14th, picnic and entertainment of the Cremorne Benevolent Association in a grand double bill of musical and specialty numbers by a host of volunteers.

Original Theatre Comique

Managers Burns & Trayers' popular vaudeville house is a success. Everything is bright and new. The company consists of Marie Morina, Josie Mayfield, Miss Braddon, Tommy Morris, Charles Morrell, and the popular comedians, Burns & Travers, in a varied and entertaining bill of attractions.

The entertainment commences with the Jolly Jesters in specialties, with an original grand finale of The Needle, an originality of Matt Trayers'. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Oracerpanicia, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Gasoline, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

My Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Miss Adelaide Moore, who comes to this country next season in a play called The Love Story, will probably be supported during her tour by an English company.

Minna K. Gale will have the leading female part in Ganelon, William Young's new play which Lawrence Barrett is to produce October 7th in Chicago.

Louis Harrison is the only American actor that Chinamen take any stock in, and his pictures are displayed in nearly all the laundry shops in New York. A wealthy Chinese merchant in Mott street presented him on Monday last with a pair of gorgeously embroidered shoes. The presentation was made in Chinese, and Mr. Harrison replied in the same language.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must see the will. They try the safe. 'Grimes, remember the bell.' Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory "Good-bye."

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

John E. Murphy, formerly of Murphy & Mack, died in Stockton on the 13th inst., at the age of 33 years. The deceased was a native of Portsmouth, Va., and was universally esteemed in the profession. He has suffered long from aberration of the mind, and has been looked after by his former partner with a brother's care. The funeral will take place tomorrow, at 11 A. M., from 946 Mission street. Members of the Elks and visiting members are invited to be present.

Alf. Ellinghouse is a rancher now. He has five acres of land in the Western Addition with large gangs of workingmen planting things for the suburban production of the military spectacle of the Seige of Sebastopol.

Manager Walterstein, of the Eureka, left for an extended trip to Europe, taking in the Paris Exposition, Thursday, and had many friends to wish him bon voyage. His Brother will hold the managerial reins of the Eureka during his absence.

Raymon Moore, the tenor vocalist, will be missed from our stage for several months. He is taking a trip across the Atlantic.

Johnson & Slavin's Great Minstrel Co., very strongly organized, open at the New Bush April 29th.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are coming to California early in the Summer. They will follow the Booth and Barrett season at the California Theatre. Their season on the coast will be for eight weeks, two weeks of which will be given to San Francisco.

The chief attraction at the Wigwam this week will be Prof. Girard Geyer and his Amazon combatists. The ladies go through the short sword combat with the vigor and force of well drilled soldiers.

Nelson's Great World Combination show in Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento this week; take in Salt Lake, Ogden, Laramie and Cheyenne the week of the 22nd. Then to Chicago to reorganize for a Summer tour among the great Northern lakes. "Coming to California again next year, and don't you forget it," says Nelson's energetic business manager, Harrie Pierce.

Harry Fisher, it is said, will leave Ed. Harrigan's company after this season.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show have dates for Fresno, 19th; Pasadena, 20th, and Los Angeles for week of 21st.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society held its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on Sunday. The attendance was large.

The Burke Bros. (James and Daniel) will come with Mr. Harrigan's company to San Francisco.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will catch you. It travels a la Haverly with its brass band and street parades, etc. It only gives this week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The new toy, Pigs in Clover, which is at present amusing full grown people in Gotham, has cost the rank and file of the profession a great deal of money, as the majority of them try to drive the pigs in the pen behind the scenes, forget their cues, and are consequently fined. Keller, the magician, gets the pigs in the pen in one second. He turns the box three times and in they go.

Alexandre Dumas and Victorien Sardou are at work upon a society drama. The first deposit necessary to purchase their consent to work together on a play, is said to reach six figures—in francs of course.

Mrs. E. Marcy Raymond, one of McAllister's New York Four Hundred, and a member of the swellest Fifth Avenue gilt-edge coterie, has composed a comic opera called Dovetts, which is to be seen for the first time at the Standard Theatre, April 22d. Miss Betsy Bancker has written the book. A great deal of money is to be spent on its production.

Robert Grau proposes to begin a Summer [illegible] New York.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The prevailing colors of the newly decorated Grand Opera House will be maroon and old gold. This will give the auditorium a richer and more compact appearance than the former pale drab and light blue decorations.

The Little Tycoon will be at the Oakland Theatre 18th and 19th. Manager Rosenthal has been in town paving its way.

Frank Mayo resumes the coon cap, buckskin suit and dialect in Davy Crockett next season.

In a New York dispatch of the 12th inst., Edwin Booth is credited with saying: "I feel almost well. I shall start on Sunday morning to rejoin the company in Cleveland. I wanted rest, for I have now been working pretty steadily for several years. It is less acting than constant traveling that affects me." He speaks of his coming to California as a settled thing.

E. M. Hall, the well known banjo player, is an inmate of the Kankakee, Ill., lunatic asylum.

Mr. Coates, an actor of the Alone in London Co. has just obtained a verdict at La Crosse, Wis., for $1,400 against Jas. Bigelow, of that city. Coates claims that Bigelow ran a faro bank where he lost that sum a year ago.

Almost a riot occurred when the doors of the Globe Theatre, London, were open recently at Richard Mansfield's first performance of Richard III. because four people were already seated in the pit. This was regarded as an undue interference by the manager with the rights of the public, hence the serious row.

James Owen O'Coner, the well known tragedian, is already burnishing up his armor for the ensuing season. O'Coner is regarded as a "draw" by managers of combination theatres.

Bobby Gaylor has been engaged to do his specialty in the Webster-Brady After Dark next season.

Kitty has nine lives. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell have started out on the road with her for another trial.

M. B. Leavitt will shortly have a magnificent new theatre in Denver. He is also negotiating for one in St. Louis and another in Chicago. He has made a big offer for a well known house in New York, which has not yet been accepted. His object is to acquire a complete chain of theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and what he undertakes he generally accomplishes.

Frank Mordaunt plays the role of the Baron de Montrichard in A Woman's Stratagem in support of Helen Barry at the Union Square Theatre, N. Y.

Modjeska is a grandma
And Edwin Booth's a grandpa,
Though on the stage they seem quite youthful yet;
But won't it cause a cackle
When these old people tackle
The play of "Romeo and Juliet"?
—Dramatic News.

Sol Smith Russell will appear at Augustin Daly's Theatre, N. Y., August 26th. He and Miss Rosina Vokes are the only persons to whom Mr. Daly will rent this year, although the house could readily be kept open for the whole Summer.

James Pain—of James Pain & Sons, of London and New York, originators and managers of out-door spectacles—arrived Friday with seven car-loads of scenery, military appointments, cannon, mechanical effects, etc., for the Seige of Sebastopol. Mr. Pain comes here to supervise the mounting of this grand spectacle, which will be produced April 23d on the block bounded by Hayes, Fell, Baker and Lyon streets. For further particulars read notice in our amusement columns.

Mary Anderson has arrived in England with her health much improved.

McCaull's latest opera, The May Queen, has made a tremendous hit at Palmer's Theatre, N. Y., and will have a long and profitable career. The score is equal, if not superior, to the best comic opera music, and the book, brightened up by Harry B. Smith, is very lively and interesting.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the exponents of American humor and eccentric literature, will give their first lecture at the Metropolitan Temple in this city on May 6th.

Mr. E. H. Sothern left New York on Sunday with his company for San Francisco direct. They open at the Baldwin Easter Monday.

A Chinese dramatic company will be one of the novelties in New York next season.

Hallen and Hart have closed their season owing to the illness of Mr. Hart.

Richard Mansfield has eight weeks held for next season at the Union Square Theatre, New York, but as yet no contracts have been signed.

Effie Ellsler made a great success in a new play by E. J. Schwartz, entitled The Governess. When do we get The Governess?

Charles Reed and Lavinia Shannon will play parts in Sol. Berliner's production of A Noble Son, at Niblos, New York, May 13th.

Herbert Hall Winslow, the author of Town Lots is writing a play for J. B. Polk. Mixed Pickles is to be shelved after the present season.

Albani and her company give concerts April 22nd, 24th and 27th at the Grand Opera House. The latter concert is a matinee.

The consensus of dramatic criticism in the matter of Helen Barry is that, while the lady may be most divinely tall, she is too divinely fair to look for much success in any other walk of life than that which made her the idol of belated smokers on the Haymarket.

Barry and Fay will travel next season under the management of William Dunleavie in a new comedy called Little Lord [illegible]

THE NEW AMERICAN PRIMA DONNA.

The most pronounced American success for many months, if not years, has been that of Miss Emma Eames, a Boston girl, in her recent debut in Gounod's Romeo et Juliett at the Grand Opera House, Paris. She had been a pupil of Mme. Marchesi for three years and graduated for Italian and French grand opera. A correspondent of the New York Dramatic News says:

"They tell me she is twenty years of age, and I shall not dispute it. She is tall without being thin, elegant, even distingue in appearance, has a pure oval face, that is lit up by expressive eyes, a delicate nose, good throat, and a graceful figure; but I cannot say for the life of me whether she is blonde or brunette. Her arms are beautiful. She is charming, and in appearance she is indeed an ideal Juliet. There was a sort of bloom about her beauty, and a poetry in her motions which is indescribable. She was the very impersonation of the character which Shakespeare created, but she was hardly up to Gounod's ideal. I freely admit all her charms and graces as a woman, but I am not willing to cry aloud from housetops that she is as yet a perfect artist, like some others. She is, however, an excellent actress, and it is true, too, that she sang without apparent effort, taking her notes with facility (her voice goes easily through two octaves), but it is uncertain and not so flexible as it might be. Her fault is she does not understand the art of shading, but, as she is highly intelligent, she will be able to acquire it with experience. Her faults may be set down solely to youth and experience, and I look to her overcoming them, particularly as she seems to have that calm and serene temperament which is sometimes spoken of as assurance, even as aplomb."

Old San Francisco theatre-goers will remember Mrs. John Wood during her budding out at Maguire's old Opera House, on Washington street, as one of the most charming burlesque actresses and comediennes on the stage. She afterwards went to New York, thence to London, where she has been a reigning favorite and manageress for nearly twenty years. The New York Truth goes behind her professional life in its revelations, and says: "Mrs. John Wood was well taken care of by two ancient gentlemen of very different qualities and dispositions, agreeing only in admiration for the clever woman who had, at different times, and in different countries, attracted them. One was the great drygoods merchant, A. T. Stewart, who settled upon Mrs. Wood a valuable house in New York, so tied up that the speculative lady was prevented from selling, mortgaging, or otherwise alienating it forever. The other was the philanthropist and merchant prince, George Peabody, who did likewise with a handsome residence in Gordon Square, London. The consequence of these prudent proceedings on the part of her ancient adorers, is that Mrs. Wood, despite her losses in the St. James Theatre and other ventures, matrimonial and dramatic is still very comfortably off in her old age.'

One of the fads of the season is the whistling girl, and anything more uninteresting than a pretty girl puckering her pretty lips into a whistle is hard to imagine. Lord Byron said something about not liking to see a pretty woman eat. What would he have said if he had seen a pretty woman whistle?

The new American opera to be produced at the Union Square Theatre, New York, June 3d, is called Adrielle.

Hoyt's A Brass Monkey has made as big a hit in Boston as it did in New York.

EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....APRIL 15, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be this week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. There are but two of the former members of the company in the cast. The new people are most acceptably clever in the characterizations, according to the Eastern press.

Baldwin Theatre.

This is the last week of Little Lord Fauntleroy, and the programme for its last performances is arranged so as to give it the change of novelty.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Wallie Eddinger appears as the little lord.

At Wednesday matinee the girl, Flossie Ethyl, plays Lord Fauntleroy.

Thursday evening there will be two Lords Fauntleroy, the boy and girl both appearing.

Friday evening, benefit of Master Wallie Eddinger, who will play the Lord's role, with Flossie Ethyl helping him, and also appear as Dick, the Bootblack, in the third act of the play.

Saturday afternoon and evening, last performances of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity. The child actors are talented and precocious and the company render very efficient support.

Monday, E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Elisler produces for her second week Frank Harvey's play of "Judge Not," which had a run of six weeks at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, and is booked for return dates this season. She plays the part of Katherine Chase, an actress, who marries an artist, is estranged from her husband, and reunited with loving bonds again in the end. The play is emotional and gives fine scope for acting.

Grand Opera House McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels give their only week in this city at the Grand this week. They come across the continent, a la Haverly, with a big show, including a full brass band for street parades, etc.

These minstels introduce here for the first time the elegantly character costumed Shakespearean First Part; the European novelties, Ramza & Arno, the greatest of pantomime comedians; Leopold & Fortune, famed comedy and musical duo; the Great Kurts, champion $10,000 equilibrist; and their great success the Baseball Tableau Clog, costumed, arranged especially for this company. Besides, there is McNish's Silence and Fun act; the comedians, Spencer, Donnelly and others, in humorous minstrel acts; artistic songs and dances, the best of minstrel vocal talent, and all that goes to make up a first-class minstrel entertainment.

Popular prices: 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

See programme announcement on first page.

FIGARO furnishes the programme, of course.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18th, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and those tarrying within our city. The Actors' Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be this week's attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on the ceiling of the house every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes,

The famed Horseshoe Four, J. J. Quinlan, bell, Mons. Cheveral and King Kalkaa are all artists with original ideas and they present a strong bill of great attractions.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here this week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice, Scott Cooper that of Mons. Durome, the rich banker, and John Armstrong for Marcel.

The Red Pocket Book is a long play, a prologue and five acts, and is one of the most sensational of French dramas and calls for a strong cast.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history. Descriptive lectures of the battle every hour.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, is almost ready. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

James Pain, the manager, arrived Friday with seven car-loads of material, fireworks, etc, for this great exhibition.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Morton & Goldie, Edwin Barry (vocalist), Prof. La Bondas and Conlon & Dougherty are the new faces.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akerman. Ned Barry's original extravaganza, The Moonlight Coterie, is the leading attraction and it is full of musical specialties.

The versatile artists, the Cummings and Jas. Tenbrooke, are the new people for the week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Big Bertha appears in conjunction with Johnnie Cain in an original and beautiful comedy. This will positively be her last week. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Ambitious Agitators in specialties, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Mischief Makers, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Rather, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Miss Pearl Iola and Miss Maggie Gordon, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites with the Eureka's patrons.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "Turning the Table," and Geo. C. Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P. M

Sunday, April 21st, picnic of the Eureka Athletic Club.

Miss Adelaide Moore, who comes to this country next season in a play called The Love Story, will probably be supported during her tour by an English company.

Minna K. Gale will have the leading female part in Ganelon, William Young's new play which Lawrence Barrett is to produce October 7th in Chicago.

Louis Harrison is the only American actor that Chinamen take any stock in, and his pictures are displayed in nearly all the laundry shops in New York. A wealthy Chinese merchant in Mott street presented him on Monday last with a pair of gorgeously embroidered shoes. The presentation was made in Chinese, and Mr. Harrison replied in the same language.

Rudolph Aronson has re-engaged W. S. Daboll for the Casino, New York, next season.

Robert Elsmere has proven an unexpected success. The play is a dramatization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's famous novel, beginning in the rectory of Murewell, where Robert Elsmere has begun to think, study and reason, and has come to the point where he can no longer preach the old beliefs and remain true to himself, and ends at that point in the story where Rose, his wife and he are reconciled. In the play Robert Elsmere is the same personage as in the book, and Newcome remains also the same unbending old-fashioned Calvinist. Langham, a rather disagreeable full-fledged agnostic, is in the play a very noble character who is made to marry Rose Leyburn. For the comedy in the play, the horse-loving Albern Wynnstay and the aristocratic Hugh Flaxman are made to do capital service. During the present week Robert Elsmere has been attracting large audiences at Washington, but it will next week be moved to Boston, and then to the Union Square Theatre in New York for a run. Mr. Charles Frohman has secured a very strong cast for the play which will undoubtedly cause a great deal of controversy and make a great deal of money.

The corner-stone of the German Theatre in Portland, Oregon, was laid with imposing ceremonies lately. Among the articles deposited in the box were pretzels and a big slice of fragrant limberger, for luck.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must see the will. They try the safe. "Grimes, remember the bell." Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

San Francisco

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....APRIL 16, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Harry Williams' Specialty Company arrived on Sunday and attended the Bush in a body on Sunday night to see Reilly & Wood's Big Show. They had "a night off," and, professional-like, went to see the show. Their applause was given sparingly and with the critical acumen of experts.

Little May Brandon, the versatile child song and dance and specialty artiste, is playing a most success-ful engagement at the Washington Theatre, San Antonio, Texas.

Cort's Standard, Portland, April 15th Last week of the Stirk Family. First appearance of Glenn & Weston, Zola Vera, Thorne & Carlton, Gibbons & Ford and the Miranda Sisters.

Capt. Robinson and quite a numbe of the California League took in McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels at the Grand last evening, to see the Baseball Tableau Clog. Manager De Vivo was there, humming an opera air. Manager Frank Hall of human racing fame also took in the performance.

John Moore, theatrical agent and manager, of Denver, is in town with McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

Alf. Ellinghouse is a rancher now. He has five acres of land in the Western Addition with large gangs of workingmen planting things for the suburban production of the military spectacle of the Seige of Sebastopol.

Manager Walterstein, of the Eureka, left for an extended trip to Europe, taking in the Paris Exposition, Thursday, and had many friends to wish him bon voyage. His Brother will hold the managerial reins of the Eureka during his absence.

Raymon Moore, the tenor vocalist, will be missed from our stage for several months. He is taking a trip across the Atlantic.

Johnson & Slavin's Great Minstrel Co., very strongly organized, open at the New Bush April 29th.

Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels are coming to California early in the Summer. They will follow the Booth and Barrett season at the California Theatre. Their season on the coast will be for eight weeks, two weeks of which will be given to San Francisco.

The chief attraction at the Wigwam this week will be Prof. Girard Gyer and his Amazon combatists. The ladies go through the short sword combat with the vigor and force of well drilled soldiers.

Nelson's Great World Combination show in Oakland, Stockton and Sacramento this week; take in Salt Lake, Ogden, Laramie and Cheyenne the week of the 22nd. Then to Chicago to reorganize for a Summer tour among the great Northern lakes. "Coming to California again next year, and don't you forget it," says Nelson's energetic business manager, Harrie Pierce.

Harry Fisher, it is said, will leave Ed. Harrigan's company after this season.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show have dates for Fresno, 19th; Pasadena, 20th, and Los Angeles for week of 21st.

The Cremorne Benevolent Society held its annual picnic and entertainment at Seaside Gardens on Sunday. The attendance was large.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels will catch you. It travels a la Haverly with its brass band and street parades, etc. It only gives this week to San Francisco, at the Grand Opera House.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Travers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

The new toy, Pigs in Clover, which is at present amusing full-grown people in Gotham, has cost the rank and file of the profession a great deal of money, as the majority of them try to drive the pigs in the pen behind the scenes, forget their cues, and are consequently fined. Keller, the magician, gets the pigs in the pen in one second. He turns the box three times and in they go.

Barry and Fay will travel next season

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Wilson & Cameron, Jas. Tenbrooke, H. F. Orndorff, Phil Mack and Irving T. Bush have been secured by Perry Bros., the Los Angeles managers, for their comedy company. They start out on their interior season on the 22nd.

Nat Goodwin opens at the New Bush Street Theatre May 13th in his new comedy.

James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their reappearance April 22nd at Morosco's in Handy Andy.

Edwin Booth resumed his dates at Cleveland on the 15th, playing Iago to Barrett's Othello.

What a house A Bunch of Keys had at the Bush last night. All three of the circles were packed, and when the whole audience broke into laughter, as was frequently the case, there was a sort of a closely-connected concentrated audiencenic vibration of laughter like to the shaking of a bowl of jelly. They enjoyed themselves hughly though.

The prevailing colors of the newly decorated Grand Opera House are maroon and old gold. They give to the auditorium a richer and more compact appearance than the former pale drab and light blue decorations.

The Little Tycoon will be at the Oakland Theatre 18th and 19th. Manager Rosenthal has been in town paving its way.

Frank Mayo resumes the coon esp. buckskin suit and dialect in Davy Crockett next season.

E. M. Hall, the well known banjo player, is an inmate of the Kankakee, Ill., lunatic asylum.

Mr. Coates, an actor of the Alone in London Co. has just obtained a verdict at La Crosse, Wis., for $1,400 against Jas. Bigelow, of that city. Coates claims that Bigelow ran a faro bank where he lost that sum a year ago

Almost a riot occurred when the doors of the Globe Theatre, London, were open recently at Richard Mansfield's first performance of Richard III. because four people were already seated in the pit. This was regarded as an undue interference by the manager with the rights of the public, hence the serious row.

James Owen O'Conor, the well known tragedian, is already burnishing up his armor for the ensuing season. O'Conor is regarded as a "draw" by managers of combination theatres.

Bobby Gaylor has been engaged to do his specialty in the Webster-Brady After Dark next season.

Kitty has nine lives. George Lauri and Harry B. Bell have started out on the road with her for another trial.

M. B. Leavitt will shortly have a magnificent new theatre in Denver. He is also negotiating for one in St. Louis and another in Chicago. He has made a big offer for a well known house in New York, which has not yet been accepted. His object is to acquire a complete chain of theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and what he undertakes he generally accomplishes.

Frank Mordaunt plays the role of the Baron de Montrichard in A Woman's Stratagem in support of Helen Barry at the Union Square Theatre, N. Y.

Sol Smith Russell will appear at Augustin Daly's Theatre, N. Y., August 26th. He and Miss Rosina Vokes are the only persons to whom Mr. Daly will rent this year, although the house could readily be kept open for the whole Summer.

James Pain—of James Pain & Sons, of London and New York, originators and managers of out-door spectacles—arrived Friday with seven car-loads of scenery, military appointments, cannon, mechanical effects, etc., for the Seige of Sebastopol. Mr. Pain comes here to supervise the mounting of this grand spectacle, which will be produced April 23d on the block bounded by Hayes, Fell, Baker and Lyon streets. For further particulars read notice in our amusement columns.

Mary Anderson has arrived in England with her health much improved.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the exponents of American humor and eccentric literature, will give their first lecture at the Metropolitan Temple in this city on May 6th.

Mr. E. H. Sothern left New York on Sunday with his company for San Francisco direct. They open at the Baldwin Easter Monday.

One of the fads of the season is the whistling girl, and anything more uninteresting than a pretty girl puckering her pretty lips into a whistle is hard to imagine. Lord Byron said something about not liking to see a pretty woman eat. What would he have said if he had seen a pretty woman whistle?

The new American opera to be produced at the Union Square Theatre, New York, June 3d, is called Adrielle.

Hoyt's A Brass Monkey has made as big a hit in Boston as it did in New York.

Alexandre Dumas and Victorien Sardou are at work upon a society drama. The first deposit necessary to purchase their consent to work together on a play, is said to reach six figures—in francs of course.

Mrs. E. Marcy Raymond, one of McAllister's New York Four Hundred, and a member of the swellest Fifth Avenue gilt-edge coterie, has composed a comic opera called Dovetts, which is to be seen for the first time at the Standard Theatre, April 22d. Miss Betsy Bancker has written the book. A great deal of money is to be spent on its production.

Robert Grau proposes to begin a Summer season at the Theatre Comique, New York, May 20 with Boccaccio.

The Emperors of Russia and Germany, in imitation of the late crazy king of Bavaria, propose to have special representations

CHARLES VIVIAN.

Thousands in San Francisco remember gifted, educated, gentlemanly Charles Vivian, who was the best and most versatile vocalist of the English concert hall style that ever visited here. His monologue entertainment drew crowds at what is now known as the Bush Street Theatre during the Maguire management of the house. He not only excelled in sentimental songs and ballads, but was inimitable in his comic character songs, such as "Ten Thousand Miles Away," and in his character sketches and stories.

In social circles Vivian's fund of humor and drollery seemed inexhaustable. He was the most entertaining raconteur, and his company was sought for on every side. It was his social tendencies and companionship that undermined him at last and became his bane and his downfall.

Charles Vivian had another claim besides the pleasure that his gifts bestowed to have his memory kept green. He was the founder of the Benevolent Order of Elks in this country, a society that has done a world of good to the professional brotherhood. Dying in Leadville several years ago his remains were interred there. A Denver dispatch says that Allen O. Meyer, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, was in that city on his way to Leadville for the purpose of disinterring Vivian's remains and have them removed to Boston for re-interment. If the mentality of the whole souled, convivial Vivian could have any voice in the matter, we think he would prefer Leadville to Boston as his resting place.

A Chinese dramatic company will be one of the novelties in New York next season.

Hallen and Hart have closed their season owing to the illness of Mr. Hart.

Richard Mansfield has eight weeks held for next season at the Union Square Theatre, New York, but as yet no contracts have been signed.

Charles Reed and Lavinia Shannon will play parts in Sol. Berliner's production of A Noble Son, at Niblos, New York, May 13th.

Herbert Hall Winslow, the author of Town Lots is writing a play for J. B. Polk. Mixed Pickles is to be shelved after the present season.

Albani and her company give concerts April 22nd, 24th and 27th at the Grand Opera House. The latter concert is a matinee.

The consensus of dramatic criticism in the matter of Helen Barry is that, while the lady may be most divinely tall, she is too divinely fair to look for much success in any other walk of life than that which made her the idol of belated smokers on the Haymarket.

The Grand View Hotel in A Bunch of Keys is the largest hotel of its size in the country.

John F. Bragg is manager of some strong coming attractions, among others The Siege of Sebastopol. Alfred Ellinghouse is the business man.

It is rumored that Manager Leavitt is making some fine bookings ahead for the Bush, and local manager Gottlob when boned about them says "you shall see what you shall see"—and no more.

Henry Miller goes out on the road next season as young Mrs. Blaine's leading man.

Harrigan's plays during his Alcazar engagement will be limited to one week each.

It is probable that E. J. Buckley will be leading man at the Alcazar during the stock season.

A Bunch of Keys contains one of the

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....APRIL 16, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be this week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. There are but two of the former members of the company in the cast. The new people are most acceptably clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, and their new coloring of character they give a new and really a more palatable flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's swinging dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snaggs keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Harry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Razzel - Dazzell" song are emphatic numbers.

"A Bunch of Keys" is an assured success. The Call says, "the piece is a go. The 'Bunch of Keys' will do a good business for its engagement." The Chronicle also predicts that, "There is fun and go enough to the 'Bunch of Keys' to warrant full houses during the engagement," and adds: "The audience was quite a fashionable one, and appeared to enjoy Hoyt's nonsense quite as much as though the play had been of a more substantial kind." Quite likely they enjoyed it better. If we can take their laughter and applause as evidence of enjoyment they certainly did.

The theatre was full from orchestra to third tier.

Baldwin Theatre.

This is the last week of Little Lord Fauntleroy, and the programme for its last performances is arranged so as to give it the change of novelty.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Wallie Eddinger appears as the little lord.

At Wednesday matinee the girl, Flossie Ethyl, plays Lord Fauntleroy.

Thursday evening there will be two Lords Fauntleroy, the boy and girl both appearing.

Friday evening, benefit of Master Wallie Eddinger, who will play the Lord's role, with Flossie Ethyl helping him, and also appear as Dick, the Bootblack, in the third act of the play.

Saturday afternoon and evening, last performances of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity. The child actors are talented and precocious and the company render very efficient support.

Monday, E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler produces for her second week Frank Harvey's play of "Judge Not," which had a run of six weeks at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, and is booked for return dates this season. She plays the part of Katherine Chase, an actress, who marries an artist, is estranged from her husband, and reunited with loving bonds again in the end, with emotional feeling, charming grace and in a well sustained manner all through.

Mr. Weston makes a pleasing impression in his character, and Mr. Johnson is duly stately and unyielding at first, but yields to the impulse of honest love in the last scene very gracefully.

It is a pleasure to see Fanny Young's genial face again. She plays the part of Lady Moreland with ability, and invests it with much interest.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, is underlined for next week.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Monday evening, April 22nd, by Mr. E. H. Sothern. The Actors' Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be this week's attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on a platformed ceiling every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes.

The famed Horseshoe Four, J. J. Quinlan, Geo. H. Turner, Josie Love and Nellie Russell; Smith & Lord, sketch artists; Larry and Lizzie Smith, German comedy duo; the American Traveler, Sam Dearin; Prof. Harry F. Campbell, Mons. Cheveral and King Kalkasa are all artists with original ideas and they present a strong bill of great attractions.

The company is deservedly drawing crowded houses. The Austin Sisters' feats on the trapeze are daring and more hazardous than usual. Aimee walks head down, way up aloft, with apparent ease for fifty feet. Kalkasa does a fine top-spinning act, and Sam Dearin furnishes a lot of fun. The Smiths are a good German duo.

Prof. Campbell takes his audience around the world in twenty minutes by means of dissolving views, presenting prominent cities, places, noted views and works of art and other objects of interest in the Old and New Worlds.

Mons. Chevriel furnishes a taking musical act and the company is a good one.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Grand Opera House—McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels are giving their only week in this city at the Grand this week. They come across the continent, a la Haverly, with their Eastern show, including a full brass band for street parades, etc.

These minstels introduce here for the first time the elegantly character costumed Shakespearean First Part, a novel and picturesque stage setting; the great European novelties, Ramza & Arno, the greatest of acrobatic comedians; Leopold & Fortune, famed comedy and musical duo; the Great Kurtz, champion $10,000 equilibrist; and their great success the Baseball Tableau Clog, costumed, arranged especially for this company. Besides, there is McNish's Silence and Fun act; the comedians, Spencer, Donnelly and others, in humorous minstrel acts; artistic songs and dances, the best of minstrel vocal talent, and all that goes to make up a first-class minstrel entertainment.

The programme introduces a number of notable specialty features. Ramza & Arno's bar act is distinctly original and first-class; Leopold & Aortune do a quaint and novel musical act; the Baseball Tableau Clog is elegantly costumed, gracefully done, and full of "striking" and "catching" positions that catch the audience. The Silence and Fun act is a wonder of neat suppleness; Sully O'Dell's specialty is well received, and Spencer and Donnelly in first part, olio act and afterpiece, are capital fun dispensers.

The Chronicle says: "McNish, Ramza and Arno's Minstrels began a week's engagement at the Grand Opera House last night. The house was fair, and judging from the applause the company gave great satisfaction. The Shakespearean first part was new and effective, Ramza & Arno were recalled several times Lew Spencer and Donnelly, the Baseball Tableau Clog and the closing farce went especially well with the audience. There is a good deal of clever variety in the entertainment."

Popular prices: 25, 50 and 75 cents.
Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.
See programme announcement on first page.
FIGARO furnishes the programme, of course.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here this week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice, Scott Cooper that of Mons. Durome, the rich banker, and John Armstrong for Marcel.

The Red Pocket Book is a long play, a prologue and five acts, and is one of the most sensational of French dramas and calls for a strong cast.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Next week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot fence, and the entrance is on Hayes street, between Baker and Lyon. Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, is almost ready. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

James Pain, the manager, arrived Friday with seven car-loads of material, fireworks, etc, for this great exhibition.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

See announce programme on another page of FIGARO.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Morton & Goldie, Edwin Barry (vocalist), Prof. La Bondas and Conlon & Dougherty are the new faces.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akerman. Ned Barry's original extravaganza, The Moonlight Coterie, is the leading attraction and it is full of musical specialties.

The versatile artists, the Cummings and Jas. Tenbrooke, are the new people for the week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Big Bertha appears in conjunction with Johnnie Cain in an original and beautiful comedy. This will positively be her last week. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Franks & O'Dell continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Ambitious Agitators in specialties, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Mischief Makers, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Rather, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must save the will. They try the safe. 'Grimes, remember the bell." Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Mr. Neil Litchfield, the talented monologue artist and "man of many faces," made up his mind it was not good for man to live alone, and he has taken unto himself a charming wife, nee Miss Hattie M. Trask. The happy couple will take up their residence at 510 Jones street, this city. A happy life and unbounded prosperity, friend Litchfield, in your new character of Benedict.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

Smith's Bijou, Seattle, April 15th: The Phoites, Reese & Clifton, Vernie Vernell, Beasley and Florence Wood, new people.

The Siege of Sebastopol has an announce programme in FIGARO. It will be a big show.

The training quarters for the pedestrians entered for the six days' go-as-you-please race to commence at the Pavilion May 6th, are at the Lyceum Theatre on Market street.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, April 15th: Filson & Errol, Alice Hamilton, Hughes & Oxford, Musical Fletcher, the Emersons, Minnie Pierce, Geo. R. Brooks, Ace Levoy, Kittie Buckley, Ollie Singleton and Bertha Sanger all new.

The Independent Old Friends will hold a picnic at Wildwood Glen, Sausalito, on Sunday, April 21st. Music will be furnished by the 1st Regiment Band. The tickets have been placed at 25 cents.

Cort's Standard, Portland, April 15th Last week of the Stirk Family. First appearance of Glenn & Weston, Zola Vera, Thorne & Carlton, Gibbons & Ford and the Miranda Sisters.

Capt. Robinson and quite a number of the California League took in McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels at the Grand last evening, to see the Baseball Tableau Clog. Manager De Vivo was there, humming an opera air. Manager Frank Hall of human racing fame also took in the performance.

John Moore, theatrical agent and manager, of Denver, is in town with McNish, Ramza & Arno's Minstrels.

Johnson & Slavin's Great Minstrel Co., very strongly organized, open at the New Bush April 29th.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

CHARLES VIVIAN.

Thousands in San Francisco remember gifted, educated, gentlemanly Charles Vivian, who was the best and most versatile vocalist of the English concert hall style that ever visited here. His monologue entertainment drew crowds at what is now known as the Bush Street Theatre during the Maguire management of the house. He not only excelled in sentimental songs and ballads, but was inimitable in his comic character songs, such as "Ten Thousand Miles Away," and in his character sketches and stories.

In social circles Vivian's fund of humor and drollery seemed inexhaustable. He was the most entertaining raconteur, and his company was sought for on every side. It was his social tendencies and companionship that undermined him at last and became his bane and his downfall.

Charles Vivian had another claim besides the pleasure that his gifts bestowed to have his memory kept green. He was the founder of the Benevolent Order of Elks in this country, a society that has done a world of good to the professional brotherhood. Dying in Leadville several years ago his remains were interred there. A Denver dispatch says that Allen O. Meyer, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, was in that city on his way to Leadville for the purpose of disinterring Vivian's remains and have them removed to Boston

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The Grand Opera House has been renovated and re-decorated throughout, and supplied with a new stage, with all modern improvements, new carpets in every part of the house, including even the third-tier lobbies and aisles, at a cost of $7,500. The prevailing colors are maroon and old gold. The imposing theatre looks handsomer than ever now. Since Mr. L. C. Fraser has taken the management of the Grand activity and improvement have been the rule. The Grand now has a fine list of bookings to follow the Albani concert season that opens next week.

A Paris dispatch of April 16th says that Bernhardt produced Lena, a French adaptation of "As in a Looking-Glass," at the Varieties Theatre on the 15th, and made a great hit.

Manager H. C. Wyatt is in town organizing his opera company for his Los Angeles Theatre, the new one. He has engaged Harry De Lorme, W. H. Fitzgerald (who played the King's Fool in the Conried Opera Co.). Miss Padelford (one of the prima sopranos of the same company) and some of the principals and auxiliary supports of the Conried Co. Mr. Wyatt will remain in town for a few days. He is stopping at the Baldwin Hotel. The opera season will commence on the second week in June.

There is an immense demand for seats for the Actors' Fund benefit at the Baldwin Thursday afternoon. A handsome sum will undoubtedly be added to the fund.

Wilson & Cameron, Jas. Tenbrooke, H. F. Orndorff, Phil Mack and Irving T. Bush have been secured by Perry Bros., the Los Angeles managers, for their comedy company. They start out on their interior season on the 22nd.

Nat Goodwin opens at the New Bush Street Theatre May 13th in his new comedy.

James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their reappearance April 22nd at Morosco's in Handy Andy.

Edwin Booth resumed his dates at Cleveland on the 15th, playing Iago to Barrett's Othello.

What a house A Bunch of Keys had at the Bush Monday. All three of the circles were packed, and when the whole audience broke into laughter, as was frequently the case, there was a sort of a closely-connected concentrated audiencenic vibration of laughter like to the shaking of a bowl of jelly. They enjoyed themselves hugbly though.

Bobby Gaylor has been engaged to do his specialty in the Webster-Brady After Dark next season.

M. B. Leavitt will shortly have a magnificent new theatre in Denver. He is also negotiating for one in St. Louis and another in Chicago. He has made a big offer for a well known house in New York, which has not yet been accepted. His object is to acquire a complete chain of theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and what he undertakes he generally accomplishes.

Sol Smith Russell will appear at Augustin Daly's Theatre, N. Y., August 26th. He and Miss Rosina Vokes are the only persons to whom Mr. Daly will rent this year, although the house could readily be kept open for the whole Summer.

Mary Anderson has arrived in England with her health much improved.

Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley, the exponents of American humor and eccentric literature, will give their first lecture at the Metropolitan Temple in this city on May 6th.

Albani and her company give concerts April 22nd, 24th and 27th at the Grand Opera House. The latter concert is a matinee.

Robert Hilliard was engaged some time ago to accompany N. C. Goodwin on his tour to California. E. J. Buckley now retires from the cast of A Gold Mine, and Mr. Hilliard will commence his engagement at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, N. Y.

William Gill has signed a contract to write a new piece for Henry E. Dixey.

Otis Skinner's five years' contract with Augustin Daly comes to a conclusion in two weeks. Mr. Skinner will not renew it.

King Cole II., the thirty thousand-dollar production that will be seen for the first time at Herrmann's Theatre, Philadelphia, on April 22nd, is booked for a ten weeks' summer engagement at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, after which it will be put on for a run in New York.

William Gilbert, of Daly's Theatre, New York, is threatened with blindness. All his parts are read to him.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal will open their season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, N. Y., October next, with a play entitled "The Weaker Sex."

Edwin Stevens has been engaged by Rudolph Aronson.

Bob Hilliard did tell a newspaper man recently that he does not wish to be written up further as a dude.

It is stated that W. J. Gilmore will commission Geo. H Murray to go to Australia this summer, with a view to giving a season of The Twelve Temptations and The Devil's Auction, at the antipodes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leighton (Fannie G. Bernard) are engaged for the Louis James company of '89-'90. Mr. Leighton has been doing excellent work with the James-Wainwright company for the past two seasons.

Effy Coghlan, sister of Rose, has returned from England.

Sylvia Gerrish has signed with Rudolph Aronson for next season.

It seems to be a fact that The Case Vidal, Rhea's new piece, is a success.

H. B. Conway, a contract English actor, will support Mrs. Jas. G. Blaine, Jr., next season.

SPORTING EVENT OF THE SPRING.

The Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association meetings commence on Saturday, April 20th, at the Bay District Track. An important change made at the last meeting, and one that will be welcomed by the public, and particularly by the reporters, is the numbering of the jockeys. There are at present on the track three stables that carry blue of different shades. Those three stables will start horses in the same race on Saturday, and to tell which horse is first at the three-quarter pole is an impossibility without the aid of a field-glass. This has been a source of complaint for years, and was particularly so at the late San Jose meeting. The directors decided that in future each jockey must wear a number on each arm, the number to be painted clearly in black and be six inches square.

Another innovation, and for which the public will also be thankful, is the order for the distribution of a free programme issued by the Breeder and Sportsman. At former meetings it was a nuisance, and kept people busy hunting for the boys who had them for sale. It will be distributed at the entrance.

Several other improvements were ordered and the track superintendent was directed not to spare expense, but have everything in first-class order.

The position of starter was tendered to Thomas Francis Meagher, which office he accepted.

PORTER, THE SCENIC ARTIST'S UNFORTUNATE MISTAKE.

Wm. T. Porter, the well-known scenic artist, met with a very painful and serious accident at his home, 507 Mason street, last night. He had been suffering from some disarrangement of the stomach, and a friend brought him last evening a bottle of what was supposed to be Hunyadi Janos water—a harmless mineral water. Just before going to bed Mr. Porter resolved to take a glass of it. At the first swallow he cried out that he was poisoned and went into convulsions of agony, and then became insensible. Assistance was summoned, and then it was found that the bottle, though labeled Hunyadi Janos water, contained ammonia.

The physicians administered internal remedies, and also put the patient, who by this time was vomiting blood, under the influence of strong opiates. His lips and mouth were sadly burned and swollen, and it was easy to imagine what the condition of his throat and stomach must be.

Mr. Porter was more or less under the influence of the opiates all last night, but got no sleep, and his condition showed but little change for the better to-day.

The new American opera to be produced at the Union Square Theatre, New York, June 3d, is called Adrielle.

Hallen and Hart have closed their season owing to the illness of Mr. Hart.

Charles Reed and Lavinia Shannon will play parts in Sol. Berliner's production of A Noble Son, at Niblos, New York, May 13 h.

The Grand View Hotel in A Bunch of Keys is the largest hotel of its size in the country.

John F. Bragg is manager of some strong coming attractions, among others The Siege of Sebastopol. Alfred Ellinghouse is the business man.

Eben Plympton will play Charles Surface at the Arch St. Theatre, Philadelphia.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be this week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. There are but two of the former members of the company in the cast. The new people are most acceptably clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, and their new coloring of character they give a new and really a more palatable flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's swinging dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snaggs keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Harry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Razzel - Dazzell" song are emphatic numbers.

"A Bunch of Keys" is an assured success. The Call says, "the piece is a go. The 'Bunch of Keys' will do a good business for its engagement." The Chronicle also predicts that, "There is fun and go enough to the 'Bunch of Keys' to warrant full houses during the engagement," and adds: "The audience was quite a fashionable one, and appeared to enjoy Hoyt's nonsense quite as much as though the play had been of a more substantial kind." Quite likely they enjoyed it better. If we can take their laughter and applause as evidence of enjoyment they certainly did.

The theatre was full from orchestra to third tier.

Baldwin Theatre.

This is the last week of Little Lord Fauntleroy, and the programme for its last performances is arranged so as to give it the change of novelty.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Wallie Eddinger appears as the little lord.

Thursday evening there will be two Lords Fauntleroy, the boy and girl both appearing.

Friday evening, benefit of Master Wallie Eddinger, who will play the Lord's role, with Flossie Ethyl helping him, and also appear as Dick, the Bootblack, in the third act of the play.

Saturday afternoon and evening, last performances of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity. The child actors are talented and precocious and the company render very efficient support.

Monday, April 22d, Mr. E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley; this will be Mr. Sothern's first appearance in California as a star.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler produces for her second week Frank Harvey's play of "Judge Not," which had a run of six weeks at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, and is booked for return dates this season. She plays the part of Katherine Chase, an actress, who marries an artist, is estranged from her husband, and reunited with loving bonds again in the end, with emotional feeling, charming grace and in a well sustained manner all through.

Mr. Weston makes a pleasing impression in his character, and Mr. Johnson is duly stately and unyielding at first, but yields to the impulse of honest love in the last scene very gracefully.

It is a pleasure to see Fanny Young's genial face again. She plays the part of Lady Moreland with ability, and invests it with much interest.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, is underlined for next week.

Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

A grand benefit will be given to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre on Thursday afternoon, April 18 b, tendered jointly by the managers and profession, local, and Fund is doing a noble work in sustaining the aged and helpless of the profession, and this will be California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession will be represented. See programme announcement in FIGARO.

Orpheum Opera House.

H. W Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be this week's attraction headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on a platformed ceiling every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes,

The famed Horseshoe Four, J. J. Quinlan, Geo H. Turner, Josie Love and Nellie Russell; Smith & Lord, sketch artists; Larry and Lizzie Smith, German comedy duo; the American Traveler, Sam Dearin; Prof. Harry F. Campbell, Mons. Chevreul and King Kalkaa are all artists with original ideas and they present a strong bill of great attractions.

The company is deservedly drawing crowded houses. The Austin Sisters' feats on the trapeze are daring and more hazardous than usual. Aimee walks head down, way up aloft, with apparent ease for fifty feet. Kalkaa does a fine top-spinning act, and Sam Dearin furnishes a lot of fun. The Smiths are a good German duo.

Prof. Campbell takes his audience around the world in twenty minutes by means of dissolving views, presenting prominent cities, places, noted views and works of art and other objects of interest in the Old and New Worlds.

Mons. Chevriel furnishes a taking musical act and the company is a good one.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here this week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice, Scott Cooper that of Mons. Durome, the rich banker, and John Armstrong for Marcel.

The Red Pocket Book is a long play, a prologue and five acts, and is one of the most sensational of French dramas and calls for a strong cast.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Next week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A M to 6 P. M.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, is almost ready. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

James Pain, the manager, arrived Friday with seven car-loads of material, fireworks, etc, for this great exhibition.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

See announce programme on another page of FIGARO.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Morton & Goldie, Edwin Barry (vocalist), Prof. La Bondas and Conlon & Dougherty are the new faces.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's original extravaganza, The Moonlight Coterie, is the leading attraction and it is full of musical specialties.

The versatile artists, the Cummings and Jas. Tenbrooke, are the new people for the week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Big Bertha appears in conjunction with Johnnie Cain in an original and beautiful comedy. This will positively be her last week. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Franks & O'Dell continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Ambitious Agitators in specialties, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Mischief Makers, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Bather, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coolest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Miss Pearl Iola and Miss Maggie Gordon, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites with the Eureka's patrons.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "Turning the Table," and Geo. C Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P M

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must save the will. They try the safe. 'Grimes, remember the bell." Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

The Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association meetings commence on Saturday, April 20th, at the Bay District Track. This year each jockey will be numbered, and will wear their numbers, six inches square, fastened on each arm. This will clearly identify horse and rider by the number. Free programmes of the races will also be distributed at the entrance. For list of races, purses, etc., see notice in our amusement column.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

Smith's Bijou, Seattle, April 15th: The Phoites, Reese & Clifton, Vernie Vernell, Beasley and Florence Wood, new people.

The Siege of Sebastopol has an announce programme in FIGARO. It will be a big show.

The training quarters for the pedestrians entered for the six days' go-as-you-please race to commence at the Pavilion May 6th, are at the Lyceum Theatre on Market street.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, April 15th: Filson & Errol, Alice Hamilton, Hughes & Oxford, Musical Fletcher, the Emersons, Minnie Pierce, Geo. R. Brooks, Ace Levoy, Kittie Buckley, Ollie Singleton and Bertha Sanger all new.

The Independent Old Friends will hold a picnic at Woodwood Glen, Sausalito, on Sunday, April 21st. Music will be furnished by the 1st Regiment Band. The tickets have been placed at 25 cents.

Cort's Standard, Portland, April 15th Last week of the Stirk Family. First appearance of Glenn & Weston, Zola Vera, Thorne & Carlton, Gibbons & Ford and the Miranda Sisters.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

N. C. Goodwin will be managed by J. C. Duff next season.

La Mexicana will be produced at the Casino May 6th.

The scenes of Uncle Joe, J. K. Emmet's new play, are laid in Australia.

The Old Homestead closes its present run at the Academy Saturday, June 1.

An Iron Creed made a fiasco at the Fourteenth Street Theatre.

Clay M. Greene has written a play of New England life called Blackberry Farm.

It is said that manager F. F. Proctor has made $500,000 in the theatrical business

Last week Lawrence Barrett was playing engagements in Toledo, Ohio, and Detroit, Mich.

Robert Downing is rapidly recovering his health and will resume his tour Easter Monday.

Enid Hart, the wife of Fred Hallen, died in New York, April 7th after a lingering illness.

Edward Harrigan closes Saturday night the most unsatisfactory season that he has ever known.

Alexander Comstock is back from his vacation and is again booming The Old Homestead.

Herrmann's Transatlantic Vaudeville company begin their tour August 26th in New York at the Bijou Theatre.

Laura Burt leaves the Hanlons' Fantasma company after next week to play the soubrette part in The Still Alarm.

Edwin Harrigan has not yet secured a site for his new theatre. What's the matter with his remaining where he now is.

A. M. Palmer's Madison Square Theatre Company begin an engagement in Boston May 6th, appearing in Captain Swift.

Manager Proctor has sold to Mason and Gardner the right to play Over the Garden Wall for the remainder of the season.

John F. Donnelly is to manage the new Mount Morris Theatre in Harlem next season. He will conduct it as a Vaudeville house.

Miss Fanny Davenport will not be seen in New York again until next season when

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The returns from the Actors' Fund benefit at the Baldwin this afternoon footed up $961—a very handsome sum for a matinee performance. Manager French set the ball in motion and all our local managers and members of the profession joined in rolling it along.

Wilson Barrett is in luck at the Princess Theatre, London. His new play, Nowadays, is filling the house in the afternoons, and Good Old Times, which many people think should be called Bad Old Times, on account of the satirical way in which old times are shown up, is drawing well at night. Grace Hawthorne has found her place in this play and is extremely well spoken of. By the way, Miss Hawthorne's success as an actress and manageress in London is somewhat remarkable, considering her non-success in this country. She first essayed footlight fame as Camille some ten years ago at Elgin, Ill., and subsequently played all through the United States from Maine to Texas, via. California and back, and through every cross section of the Union, posing as a star but never recognized as such. But she is coming back in the Fall under the management (always) of Mr. Hustler W. W. Kelly a full-fledged English star, with chances in favor of her London stellar endorsement being accepted in New York. She has pluck and in some things she can act.

Miss Leona Dare, a native of New Orleans and the most daring of aerial artists, will astound Paris and Parisians during the approaching Exposition by daily jumping from the top of the Eiffel Tower, swung to a parachute, a la Van Tassel, made with an American flag which once waved over Fort Sumpter. The drapeau was presented to Miss Dare by an ex-Rebel Colonel who "went wrong with his State," but gladly wheeled back into line when the Big Bubble collapsed.

Stephen Massett recited Patrick Gilmore's stirring verses, "Ireland to England," recently at the New York Broadway Theatre for the benefit to John Leon Vincent, who is dangerously ill. Well, Massett must be getting to be a veteran. He was a member of Mitchell's Olympic Theatre, that was then "up town," 444 Broadway, N. Y., in the early 'forties. He was the "Jeems Pipes," California correspondent to the New York papers in 1849; and gave the first entertainment in English in San Francisco, for charity. $5 a ticket. He founded Pipesville, on the new Mission road, away out among the sand hills the other side of the marshes that then came up to near what is now Market street, in 1852, and yet is in the field in active service for benefits. Steve is a stayer.

The Grand Opera House has been renovated and re-decorated throughout, and supplied with a new stage, with all modern improvements, new carpets in every part of the house, including even the third-tier lobbies and aisles, at a cost of $7 500. The prevailing colors are maroon and old gold. The imposing theatre looks handsomer than ever now. Since Mr. L. C. Fraser has taken the management of the Grand activity and improvement have been the rule. The Grand now has a fine list of bookings to follow the Abani concert season that opens next week

A Paris dispatch of April 16th says that Bernhardt produced Lena, a French imitation of "As in a Looking Glass," at the Varieties Theatre on the 15th, and made a great hit.

Manager H. C. Wyatt is in town organizing his opera company for his Los Angeles Theatre, the new one. He has engaged Harry De Lorme, W. H. Fitzgerald (who played the King's Fool in the Conried Opera Co.) Miss Padelford (one of the prima sopranos of the same company) and some of the principals and auxiliary supports of the Conried Co. Mr. Wyatt will remain in town for a few days. He is stopping at the Baldwin Hotel. The opera season will commence on the second week in June.

Nat Goodwin opens at the New Bush Street Theatre May 13th in his new comedy.

James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their reappearance April 22nd at Morosco's in Handy Andy.

Edwin Booth resumed his dates at Cleveland on the 15th, playing Iago to Barrett's Othello.

What a house A Bunch of Keys had at the Bush Monday. All three of the circles were packed, and when the whole audience broke into laughter, as was frequently the case, there was a sort of a closely-connected concentrated audiscenic vibration of laughter like to the shaking of a bowl of jelly. They enjoyed themselves hugely though.

M. B. Leavitt will shortly have a magnificent new theatre in Denver. He is also negotiating for one in St Louis and another in Chicago He has made a big offer for a well known house in New York, which has not yet been accepted. His object is to acquire a complete chain of theatres from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and what he undertakes he generally accomplishes.

Charles Reed and Lavinia Shannon will play parts in Sol Berliner's production of A Noble Son, at Niblos, New York, May 13th.

The Grand View Hotel in A Bunch of Keys is the largest hotel of its size in the country.

John F. Bragg is managing some strong coming attractions, among others The Siege of Sebastopol. Alfred Ehinghouse is the business man

Robert Hilliard was engaged some time ago to accompany N. C. Goodwin on his tour to California. E. J. Buckley now retires from the cast of A Gold Mine, and Mr. Hilliard will commence his engagement at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, N. Y.

ILLUSTRATED BOSTON.

The Pacific Coast Amateur Photographic Association exhibited at Pioneer Hall last evening a number of views prepared by the Boston Camera Club. Among the many choice pictures thrown upon the canvas were those of the old South Church, the old State House, Faneuil Hall, Quincy Hall, the home of Paul Revere, King's Chapel, Christ's Church, City Hall, State House, Post Office and the Custom House. The home of Longfellow, Harvard College, Mount Auburn and Forrest Hill Cemeteries were also shown. But the most charming of all, to the writer, were the scenes on Charles River, the river loved by the poet Lowell and on which we have rowed and sailed in Summer and skated and fished in the Winter. The club had a large and deeply interested audience. They were not loud in their applause; their hearts were too full of recollections of conflicting feeling, and the sturdy New Englander is not demonstrative when he is most moved. Every son and daughter of Massachusetts went home last night with the feeling that if Boston was not the Hub of the Universe it was a real nice place to hail from.

The pictures were of the highest excellence, so far as composition, lighting, etc., go, and were much admired by the critical audience. S. M. Smith, a Boston boy, acted as lecturer, and as each picture was thrown on the screen he explained all about it. The lantern was operated by H. L. Jones. After the Boston slides a number sent from the West of Scotland Photographic Association were exhibited and elicited many encomiums.

The Pacific Coast Association is preparing a similar collection of views, to be accompanied by a lecture, which they intend calling "Glimpses of California." Some of the most beautiful pictures ever taken by local amateurs will be included in the series.

A Bunch of Keys contains one of the several versions of razzle-dazzle. If you go and see it you will find out which one it is.

Hallen and Hart have closed their season owing to the illness of Mr. Hart.

William Gilbert, of Daly's Theatre, New York, is threatened with blindness. All his parts are read to him.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendal will open their season at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, N. Y., October next, with a play entitled "The Weaker Sex."

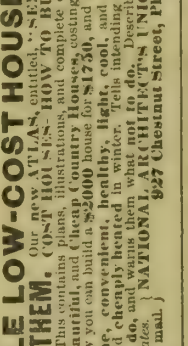
Edwin Stevens has been engaged by Rudolph Aronson.

Bob Hilliard did tell a newspaper man recently that he does not wish to be written up further as a dude

It is stated that W. J. Gilmore will commission Geo. H. Murray to go to Australia this summer, with a view to giving a season of The Twelve Temptations and The Devil's Auction, at the antipodes.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leighton (Fannie G. Bernard) are engaged for the Louis James company of '89-'90 Mr. Leighton has been doing excellent work with the James-Wainwright company for the past two seasons.

Eily Coghlan, sister of Rose, has returned from England.



Sylvia Gerrish has signed with Rudolph Aronson for next season.

It seems to be a fact that The Cass Vidal, Rhea's new piece, is a success.

H. B. Conway, a contract English actor, will support Mrs. Jas G. Blaine, Jr., next season.

It is rumored that Manager Leavitt is making some fine bookings ahead for the Bush, and local manager Gottlob when boned about them says, "you shall see what

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....APRIL 18, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be this week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. There are but two of the former members of the company in the cast. The new people are most acceptably clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, and their new coloring of character they give a new and really a more palatable flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's singing, dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snaggs keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Harry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Razzle-Dazzle" song are emphatic numbers.

"A Bunch of Keys" is an assured success. The Call says, "the piece is a go. The 'Bunch of Keys' will do a good business for its engagement." The Chronicle also predicts that, "There is fun and go enough to the 'Bunch of Keys' to warrant full houses during the engagement," and adds: "The audience was quite a fashionable one, and appeared to enjoy Hoyt's nonsense quite as much as though the play had been of a more substantial kind." Quite likely they enjoyed it better. If we can take their laughter and applause as evidence of enjoyment they certainly did.

The theatre was full from orchestra to third tier.

Baldwin Theatre.

This is the last week of Little Lord Fauntleroy, and the programme for its last performances is arranged so as to give it the change of novelty.

This evening there will be two Lords Fauntleroy, the boy and girl both appearing.

Friday evening, benefit of Master Wallie Eddinger, who will play the Lord's role, with Flossie Ejbyl helping him, and also appear as Dick, the Bootblack, in the third act of the play.

Saturday afternoon and evening, last performances of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable die of great popularity. The child actors are talented and precocious and the company render very efficient support.

Monday, April 22d, E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. Mr. Sothern has made a great reputation in the Eastern cities for his finished presentation of the title role of this new play.

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre

Miss Effie Ellsler produces for her second week Frank Harvey's play of "Judge Not," which had a run of six weeks at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, and is booked for return dates this season. She plays the part of Katherine Chase, an actress, who marries an artist, is estranged from her husband, and reunited with loving bonds again in the end, with emotional feeling, charming grace and in a well sustained manner all through.

Mr. Weston makes a pleasing impression in his character, and Mr. Johnson is duly stately and unyielding at first, but yields to the impulse of honest love in the last scene very gracefully.

It is a pleasure to see Fanny Young's genial face again. She plays the part of Lady Moreland with ability, and invests it with much interest.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, is underlined for next week.

The Benefit for the Actors' Fund.

The benefit to the Actors' Fund of America at the Baldwin Theatre this afternoon, tendered those tarrying within our city, netted $961. It was California's first contribution to the Fund. All the leading theatres and most every line of the profession were represented.

Orpheum Opera House.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be this week's attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on a platformed ceiling every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes.

The famed Horseshoe Four, J. J. Quinlan, Geo. H. Turner, Josie Love and Nellie Russell; Smith & Lord, sketch artists; Larry and Lizzie Smith, German comedy duo; the American Traveler, Sam Dearin; Prof. Harry F. Campbell, Mons. Cheveral and King Kalkasa are all artists with original ideas and they present a strong bill of great attractions.

The company is deservedly drawing crowded houses. The Austin Sisters' feats on the trapeze are daring and more hazardous than usual. Aimee walks head down, way up aloft, with apparent ease for fifty feet. Kalkasa does a fine top-spinning act, and Sam Dearin furnishes a lot of fun. The Smiths are a good German duo.

Prof. Campbell takes his audience around the world in twenty minutes by means of dissolving views, presenting prominent cities, places, noted views and works of art and other objects of interest in the Old and New Worlds.

Mons. Chevriel furnishes a taking musical act and the company is a good one.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here this week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice, Scott Cooper that of Mons. Durome, the rich banker, and John Armstrong for Marcel.

The Red Pocket Book is a long play, a prologue and five acts, and is one of the most sensational of French dramas and calls for a strong cast.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Next week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, is almost ready. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

James Pain, the manager, arrived Friday with seven car-loads of material, fireworks, etc, for this great exhibition.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

See announce programme on another page of FIGARO.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Morton & Goldie, Edwin Barry (vocalist), Prof. La Bondas and Conlon & Dougherty are the new faces.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akerman. Ned Barry's original extravaganza, The Moonlight Coterie, is the leading attraction and it is full of musical specialties.

The versatile artists, the Cummings and Jas. Tenbrooke, are the new people for the week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Big Bertha appears in conjunction with Johnnie Cain in an original and beautiful comedy. This will positively be her last week. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Franks & O'Dell continue this week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Ambitious gitators in specialties, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Mischief Makers, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morins, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Rather, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Miss Pearl Iola and Miss Maggie Gordon, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites with the Eureka's patrons.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "Turning the Table," and Geo. C. Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P. M

Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association Races.

The Spring Meeting of the leading Race-horse Association of California commences on Saturday. The races will be run on the Bay District Track, adjoining the Golden Gate Park. The facilities for reaching the course are unrivaled. The cars of the Geary-street, McAllister-street and Powell-street system of cable lines run to the track.

There are four events on the opening day a mile and a sixteenth race, all ages, 20 entries; among which is Al Farrow, the horse that made a mile in the phenomenal time of 1 40 at San Jose a week ago. And yet the posted ones claim there is a horse entered that can beat him. It may be. California stock are famed for coming to the front as record-smashers.

Next will follow a half mile race for two-year-olds for a $300 purse, with 30 entries; and a nine-sixteenth dash for three-year-olds and upwards, with 18 entries.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must settle the will. They try the safe. 'Grimes, remember the bell!" Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive, Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

Fashion Theatre, San Antonio, Texas, April 15th: Lou Durand, Jennette Lewis, Atkinson Sisters, Minnie Bickett, Francis Silver, Clark & Silver, the Bickets and Dan Creelan. All the old favorites retained.

Cort's Standard Theatre, Port Townsend, April 15th: Prof. Klein, Durell Twin Boys, Dot Melville, Fitz & Devine, Annie Raynor, Leonzo and Flora Story new. Mlle. Garretta's troupe of trained birds is underlined for the week of the 22nd.

Theatre Comique, Tacoma, April 15th: The Geary Sisters, Drummond & Rowe, the great Wellington, Florence Clayton, and McCoy & McEvoy new; Kittie O'Niel Sanford & West and Laura Ashby still on the bill.

We would call the attention of novelty and specialty performers to the ad. of Manager Max Samuels' Fashion Theatre, San Antonio, in FIGARO. Mr. Samuels is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and that means a great deal now-a-days.

Fountain Theatre, Kansas City, April 15th: Alf. Christie, Jennie Pearl, Freddie Spencer, Willard & Hall, Leonard & Hart, Baker & West, Johnson, Gentry, the Osbornes, Nelson & Margrett, Benton & Linday and Geo. H. Diamond.

Frank McNish, the minstrel, sailed for Europe April 9th.

The Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association meetings commence on Saturday, April 20th, at the Bay District Track. This year each jockey will be numbered, and will wear their numbers, six inches square, fastened on each arm. This will clearly identify horse and rider by the number. Free programmes of the races will also be distributed at the entrance. For list of races, purses, etc., see notice in our amusement column.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

Smith's Bijou, Seattle, April 15th: The Phorites, Reese & Clifton, Vernie Vernell, Beasley and Florence Wood, new people.

The Siege of Sebastopol has an announce programme in FIGARO. It will be a big show.

The training quarters for the pedestrians entered for the six days' go-as-you-please race to commence at the Pavilion May 6th, are at the Lyceum Theatre on Market street.

Miss Leona Dare, a native of New Orleans and the most daring of aerial artists, will astound Paris and Parisians during the approaching Exposition by daily jumping from the top of the Eiffel Tower, swung to a parachute, a la Van Tassel, made with an American flag which once waved over Fort Sumpter. The drapeau was presented to Miss Dare by an ex-Rebel Colonel who "went wrong with his State," but gladly wheeled back into line when the Big Bubble collapsed.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, April 15th: Filson & Errol, Alice Hamilton, Hughes & Oxford, Musical Fletcher, the Emersons, Minnie Pierce, Geo. R. Brooks, Ace Levoy, Kittie Buckley, Ollie Singleton and Bertha Sanger all new.

The Independent Old Friends will hold a picnic at Redwood Glen, Sausalito, on Sunday, April 21st. Music will be furnished by the 1st Regiment Band. The tickets have been placed at 25 cents.

Cort's Standard, Portland, April 15th: Last week of the Stirk Family. First appearance of Glenn & Weston, Zola Vera, Thorne & Carlton, Gibbons & Ford and the Miranda Sisters.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Travers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique' bill.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Chas. Durant, Jr. a gilded New York youth, inherited $350 000 from his father three years ago. He was examined in supplementary proceedings for insolvency and testified to his total loss of his fortune. One item was $100 000 spent upon pretty Estelle Clayton, the actress, who failed as a star as Barbara in the "Quick or the Dead." It was a quick investment, but a dead loss.

Adolph Neundorff, the well known conductor, has been compelled to resign from the Boston Ideals owing to ill health.

Mae St. John (Alice Lawe), formerly of the Casino Company, was lately married in New York to A. Dudley Bramhall, of the drygoods commission house of Bramhall Bros. & Co., after which the newly wedded pair sailed for Europe.

The roofs of the Opera House and Masonic Temple were blown off in a storm at Norfolk, Va., recently.

Manager A. M. Palmer and family will sail for Europe June 6th.

George Fortescue will star next season under Ted Marks' management in a new Hebrew comedy, Mrs. Moses Meyer.

Thatcher, Primrose & West own a musical comedy, Up to the Times, which will have its first representation on the 22nd under Ed. Marble's management.

Philip Simmonds will manage Rose Coghlan's business during Augustus Pitou's absence in Europe with W. J. Scanlan.

Leon J. Vincent, the veteran and popular stage manager who has been ill for some time past, had a rousing benefit at the Broadway, N. Y. Among the volunteers were P. S. Gilmore, Campanini, Mlle. De Vere, Julia Rive-King, Wm. Lunwig, Nahan Franko, Ella Russell, Eugene Weiner, Signor Ferrari and M. Feitlinger.

The returns from the Actors' Fund benefit at the Baldwin on Thursday footed up $961—a very handsome sum for a matinee performance. Manager French set the ball in motion and all our local managers and members of the profession joined in rolling it along.

Wilson Barrett is in luck at the Princess Theatre, London. His new play, Nowadays, is filling the house in the afternoons, and Good Old Times, which many people think should be called Bad Old Times, on account of the satirical way in which old times are shown up, is drawing well at night. Grace Hawthorne has found her place in this play and is extremely well spoken of. By the way, Miss Hawthorne's success as an actress and manageress in London is somewhat remarkable, considering her non-success in this country. She first essayed footlight fame as Camille some ten years ago at Elgin, Ill., and subsequently played all through the United States from Maine to Texas, via. California and back, and through every cross section of the Union, posing as a star but never recognized as such. But she is coming back in the Fall under the management (always) of Mr. Hustler W. W. Kelly a full-fledged English star, with chances in favor of her London stellar endorsement being accepted in New York. She has pluck and in some things she can act.

Stephen Massett recited Patrick Gilmore's stirring verses, "Ireland to England," recently at the New York Broadway Theatre for the benefit to John Leon Vincent, who is dangerously ill. Well, Massett must be getting to be a veteran. He was a member of Mitchell's Olympic Theatre, that was then "up town," 444 Broadway, N. Y., in the early 'forties. He was the "Jeems Pipes," California correspondent to the New York papers in 1849; and gave the first entertainment in English in San Francisco, for charity $5 a ticket. He founded Pipesville, on the new Mission road, away out among the sand hills the other side of the marshes that then came up to near what is now Market street, in 1852, and yet is in the field in active service for benefits. Steve is a stayer.

The Grand Opera House has been renovated and re-decorated throughout, and supplied with a new stage, with all modern improvements, new carpets in every part of the house, including even the third-tier lobbies and aisles, at a cost of $7 500. The prevailing colors are maroon and old gold. The imposing theatre looks handsomer than ever now. Since Mr. L. C. Fraser has taken the management of the Grand activity and improvement have been the rule. The Grand now has a fine list of bookings to follow the Abbi concert season that opens next week.

Nat Goodwin opens at the New Bush Street Theatre May 13th in his new comedy.

James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their reappearance next week at Morosco's in Handy Andy.

The New York Truth says of pretty, womanly Minnie Palmer—"Miss Palmer's performances entitle her to the favor with which they are received. There is an absolute absence of vulgarity, a desire to please with refinement, and a conception of true humor that no other American actress has apparently been able to grasp. To Minnie Palmer certainly belongs the distinction of having inaugurated a new era in ingenue work. Her entertainments are clever and bright, her singing is coquettish and quaint, her dancing is new and captivating but with it all you have the reminder of the drawing room. The hand of refinement brushes aside the rough edges, and while you are being amused you are also being educated."

Miss Marion Manola is a very pretty soubrette, the choristers are neatly undressed, and the comedians clever. Ergo the May Queen is drawing like pitch-fire at Palmer's.

A FRAGMENT.

There is no life but has its phantom grim,
No heart but aches with some remembered pain,
No pleasure offers life without alloy
And grief is ever stranger unto joy.
For from the past some hunting memory springs,
Waking to life, as 'twere, the pulseless dead.
So grow and quiver in a worldless pain,
As does the moth consumed by ardent flame.

There is no life unstemped in deep regret
For deed undone, or done beyond recall,
For wasted time that never will come back
Tho' tortured by remorse as on the rack.
Little has life, save deep regret and woe;
All that we hold most dear and sacred dies,
And yet we wait, and hope, because we know
God's future holds some plan, where promise lies.

Preparations have already commenced for the appearance of Charles T. Ellis in New York next season in an elaborate production of a new musical comedy called Count Casper.

This week the Hanlons' Fantasma company are appearing in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Detroit, Mich. Next Monday night this successful spectacle will be presented in New Haven.

Maude Granger returns to New York this week at the Windsor Theatre appearing in a melodrama called Two Lives. Miss Granger will be followed at that house on Easter Monday by Mrs. Potter.

Miss Ulis Akerstrom, who makes her debut in New York next month at the Star Theatre, has just published a book of original poems which show unusual literary ability on the part of that young actress.

Young Miss Mowbray who attracted so much attention in the part of Olympe when Mrs. Potter played Camille, is to have responsible parts next season. She is a girl of unusually good education, and distinct dramatic ability. She is a protege of Mrs. Henry E. Abbey.

Ullie Akerstrom, the versatile little actress, is described as "a fairy whose winsome smile and natural grace wins all hearts. She has a face full of life and expression; her songs catch the ears of her hearers and her dances are a sunbeam and a delight to the eye.

A Bunch of Keys contains one of the several versions of razzle-dazzle. If you go and see it you will find out which one it is.

William Gilbert, of Daly's Theatre, New York, is threatened with blindness. All his parts are read to him.

Edwin Stevens has been engaged by Rudolph Aronson.

It is stated that W. J. Gilmore will commission Geo. H. Murray to go to Australia this summer, with a view to giving a season of The Twelve Temptations and The Devil's Auction, at the antipodes.

It is rumored that Manager Leavitt is making some fine bookings ahead for the Bush, and local manager Gottlob when buttonholed about them says "you shall see what you shall see"—and no more.

Enid Hart, the wife of Fred Hallen, died in New York, April 7th after a lingering illness.

Edward Harrigan closes Saturday night the most unsatisfactory season that he has ever known.

Alexander Comstock is back from his vacation and is again booming The Old Homestead.

Herrmann's Transatlantic Vaudeville company begin their tour August 26th in New York at the Bijou Theatre.

Laura Burt leaves the Hanlons' Fantasma company after next week to play the soubrette part in The Still Alarm.

Edwin Harrigan has not yet secured a site for his new theatre. What's the matter with his remaining where he now is.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" will be this week's attraction at the Bush, its first production here in three years. It is witty, breezy and humorous, and one of the most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is especially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. There are but two of the former members of the company in the cast. The new people are most acceptably clever in their characterizations, and with new specialties, songs and dances, and their new coloring of character they give a new and really a more palatable flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's singing, dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snagge keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Harry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Razzle-Dazzle" song are emphatic numbers.

"A Bunch of Keys" is an assured success. The Call says, "the piece is a go. The 'Bunch of Keys' will do a good business for its engagement." The Chronicle also predicts that, "There is fun and go enough to the 'Bunch of Keys' to warrant full houses during the engagement," and adds: "The audience was quite a fashionable one, and appeared to enjoy Hoyt's nonsense quite as much as though the play had been of a more substantial kind." Quite likely they enjoyed it better. If we can take their laughter and applause as evidence of enjoyment they certainly did.

The theatre was full from orchestra to third tier.

Baldwin Theatre.

This is the last week of Little Lord Fauntleroy, and the programme for its last performances is arranged so as to give it the change of novelty.

This evening, benefit of Master Wallie Eddinger, who will play the Lord's role, with Flossie Ethyl helping him, and also appear as Dick, the Bootblack, in the third act of the play.

Saturday afternoon and evening, last performances of Little Lord Fauntleroy.

The play is full of pretty fancies and charming sentiments, and, more than all, its touching appeals to every mother's heart, have stamped it with the enviable ids of great popularity. The child actors are talented and precocious and the company render very efficient support.

Monday, April 22d, E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. Mr. Sothern has made a great reputation in the Eastern cities for his finished presentation of the title role of this new play.

Seats now on sale.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler produces for her second week Frank Harvey's play of "Judge Not," which had a run of six weeks at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, and is booked for return dates this season. She plays the part of Katherine Chase, an actress, who marries an artist, is estranged from her husband, and reunited with loving bonds again in the end, with emotional feeling, charming grace and in a well sustained manner all through.

Mr. Weston makes a pleasing impression in his character, and Mr. Johnson is duly stately and unyielding at first, but yields to the impulse of honest love in the last scene very gracefully.

It is a pleasure to see Fanny Young's genial face again. She plays the part of Lady Moreland with ability, and invests it with much interest.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, is underlined for next week.

Orpheum Opera House.

H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, will be this week's attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself [illegible] ceiling every evening, and the famed Horseshoe Four, J. J. Quinlan, Geo. H. Turner, Josie Love and Nellie Russell; Smith & Lord, sketch artists; Larry and Lizzie Smith, German comedy duo; the American Traveler, Sam Dearin, Prof. Harry F. Campbell, Mons. Cheveral and King Kalkasa are all artists with original ideas and they present a strong bill of great attractions.

The company is deservedly drawing crowded houses. The Austin Sisters' feats on the trapeze are daring and more hazardous than usual. Aimee walks head down, way up aloft, with apparent ease for fifty feet. Kalkasa does a fine top-spinning act, and Sam Dearin furnishes a lot of fun. The Smiths are a good German duo.

Prof. Campbell takes his audience around the world in twenty minutes by means of dissolving views, presenting prominent cities, places, noted views and works of art and other objects of interest in the Old and New Worlds.

Mons. Chevril furnishes a taking musical act and the company is a good one.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Morosco's Ampalitheatre.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Mr. E. J. Holden will close a four weeks' engagement here this week in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook, sustaining the important role of Mons. Flobert. Darrell Vinton has been specially engaged to play the companion part of Maurice, Scott Cooper that of Mons. Durome, the rich banker, and John Armstrong for Marcel.

The Red Pocket Book is a long play, a prologue and five acts, and is one of the most sensational of French dramas and calls for a strong cast.

When Morosco's returned to the drama, last June, the management expressed themselves as intending to put on only first-class plays in the very best manner, and they are carrying out the intention to the letter, and they are meeting with well merited returns.

Next week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M to 6 P. M.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, is almost ready. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

James Pain, the manager, arrived Friday with seven car-loads of material, fireworks, etc, for this great exhibition.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

See announce programme on another page of FIGARO.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Morton & Goldie, Edwin Barry (vocalist), Prof. La Bondas and Conlon & Dougherty are the new faces.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the front with the following attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's original extravaganza, The Moonlight Coterie, is the leading attraction and it is full of musical specialties.

The versatile artists, the Cummings and Jas. Tenbrooke, are the new people for the week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Big Bertha appears in conjunction with Johnnie Cain in an original and beautiful comedy. This will positively be her last week. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Miss Kittie Lillian, Frankie Russell, Dwyer & Buckley and Offty-Gofty are the new faces this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Franks & O'Dell continue this week.

Miss Frankie Russell (the midget) has been specially engaged to appear with Big Bertha.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Ambitious gitators in specialties, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Mischief Makers, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Rather, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coolest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Miss Pearl Iola and Miss Maggie Gordon, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites with the Eureka's patrons.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "Turning the Table," and Geo. C Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P M

Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association Races.

The Spring Meeting of the leading Race-horse Association of California commences on Saturday. The races will be run on the Bay District Track, adjoining the Golden Gate Park. The facilities for reaching the course are unrivaled. The cars of the Geary-street, McAllister-street and Powell-street system of cable lines run to the track.

There are four events on the opening day a mile and a sixteenth race, all ages, 20 entries; among which is Al Farrow, the horse that made a mile in the phenomenal time of 1 40 at San Jose a week ago. And yet the posted ones claim there is a horse entered that can beat him. It may be. California stock are famed for coming to the front as record-smashers.

Next will follow a half mile race for two-year-olds for a $ 00 purse, with 20 entries; and a nine-sixteenth dash for three-year-olds and

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must open the will. They try the safe. "Grimes, remember the bill." Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Sells Bros. & Barrett's Circus has finished its circuit in the Southern part of the state and is getting near us. It shows in San Jose on the 22nd and opens in this city on the 26th.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show played at Fiske's Fresno Opera House April 19. They had a large audience.

The Spring Meeting of the St. Louis Jockey Club commences June 1st. The Palo Alto, Santa Anita, Theo. Winters and J. M. Simpson stables are among the entries. Santa Anita has the largest showing, entering for every race. The meeting closes June 15th.

A 10-mile foot-race comes off Sunday at the Seaside Gardens between Gus Brown Frank Cohen, Billy Armstrong and Jack King. "Old Sport" Campanna runs a six mile race against time. Joe Cocynski will act as starter.

It's a great comedy sketch, The Early Bird, in which Big Bertha and Johnnie Cain appear at the Cremorne every night.

Recently the municipal authorities at Canton, Ohio, ordered the picture posters of Rose Hill's Folly Co. to be covered.

We would call the attention of novelty and specialty performers to the ad. of Manager Max Samuels' Fashion Theatre, San Antonio, in FIGARO, Mr. Samuels is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and that means a great deal now-a days.

Frank McNish, the minstrel, sailed for Europe April 9th.

The Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association meetings commence this Saturday, April 20th, at the Bay District Track This year each jockey will be numbered, and will wear their numbers, six inches square, fastened on each arm. This will clearly identify horse and rider by the number. Free programmes of the races will also be distributed at the entrance. For list of races, purses, etc., see notice in our amusement column.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Siege of Sebastopol has an announce programme in FIGARO. It will be a big show.

Miss Leona Dare, a native of New Orleans and the most daring of aerial artists, will astound Paris and Parisians during the approaching Exposition by daily jumping from the top of the Eiffel Tower, swung to a parachute, a la Van Tassel, made with an American flag which once waved over Fort Sumpter. The drapeau was presented to Miss Dare by an ex-Rebel Colonel who "went wrong with his State," but gladly wheeled back into line when the Big Bubble collapsed.

The Independent Old Friends will hold a picnic at Wildwood Glen, Sausalito, tomorrow, Sunday. Music will be furnished by the 1st Regiment Band. The tickets have been placed at 25 cents.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

Ullie Akerstrom, the versatile little actress, is described as "a fairy whose winsome smile and natural grace wins all hearts. She has a face full of life and expression; her songs catch the ears of her hearers and her dances are a sunbeam and a delight to the eye.

Edwin Stevens has been engaged by Rudolph Aronson.

It is stated that W. J. Gilmore will commission Geo. H. Murray to go to Australia this summer, with a view to giving a season of The Twelve Temptations and The Devil's Auction, at the antipodes.

It is rumored that Manager Leavitt is making some fine bookings ahead for the Bush, and local manager Gottlob when buried about them says "you shall see what you shall see"—and no more.

Laura Burt leaves the Hanlons' Fantasma company after next week to play the soubrette part in The Still Alarm.

Clay M. Greene has written a play of New England life called Blackberry Farm

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Dan McCullough will engineer the box-office of the Grand during the Albani season.

C. B. Bishop (Doc.) returns to this coast with the Lord Chumley Co. after several years absence. Mr. Bishop plays the part of Adam Butterworth. Herbert Archer, of the same company, and H. B. Warner, its business manager, are also former well acclimated Californians.

George Wessells and Lillian Owen have struck New York. Wessells has been engaged to do the "heavy" in After Dark in the Webster-Brady Co. W. A. Brady is in Boston superintending the production of Lewis Morrison's Faust, April 22nd, at the Boston Theatre.

St. Paul, Minn., is building a new opera house for next season.

On April 11th a benefit for St. Peter's Church, Bay Shore, L. I., was given at the Lyceum, N. Y., when A Wild Flea, by Mrs. Doremus, and Miss Marbury in A Dead Shot and a recitation by Helen Barry constituted the programme.

P. S. Gilmore has organized a two months' jubilee concert tour before beginning his Coney Island season June 30.

Mlle. Nikita, under M. Strakosch's management, has just made great hits as Zerlina in Fra Diavolo at Warsaw and Vienna.

Lotta was about twelve years old when she sang and danced on a mining camp tour in California in 1856. In 1862 she acted at Gilbert's Melodeon, San Francisco, simultaneously with the Worrell Sisters and Joe Murphy, and then gave her age as seventeen.

Brooson Howard's Young Mrs. Winthrop was given at a matinee in London for copyright purposes.

Signor Varesi, a noted baritone and the original Rigoletto and also the first to sing Germont in La Traviata, is dead.

Hereafter Mrs. McKee Rankin will star as Kitty Blanchard.

The very clever musical comedy, Hans the Boatman, has been secured by Simmonds & Brown, who have specially engaged Charles Arnold, the famous comedian, for the stellar role. The author, Clay Greene, is especially gratified with Mr. Arnold's engagement for the leading character.

Nearly all the boxes are sold for the coming Italian opera season in Drury Lane, London, when Albani, Scalchi, Ella Russell, the De Rezkes and La Salle will sing.

Chas. Durant, Jr., a gilded New York youth, inherited $350 000 from his father three years ago. He was examined in supplementary proceedings for insolvency and testified to his total loss of his fortune. One item was $100,000 spent upon pretty Estelle Clayton, the actress, who failed as a star as Barbara in the "Quick or the Dead." It was a quick investment and a dead loss.

Adolph Neundorff, the well known conductor, has been compelled to resign from the Boston Ideals owing to ill health.

Mae St. John (Alice Lawr), formerly of the Casino Company, was lately married in New York to A. Dudley Bramhall, of the drygoods commission house of Bramhall Bros. & Co., after which the newly wedded pair sailed for Europe.

The roofs of the Opera House and Masonic Temple were blown off in a storm at Norfolk, Va., recently.

Manager A. M. Palmer and family will sail for Europe June 6th.

George Fortescue will star next season under Ted Marks' management in a new Hebrew comedy, Mrs. Moses Meyer.

Thatcher, Primrose & West own a musical comedy, Up to the Times, which will have its first representation on the 22nd under Ed. Marble's management.

Philip Simmonds will manage Rose Coghlan's business during Augustus Pitou's absence in Europe with W. J. Scanlan.

Leon J. Vincent, the veteran and popular stage manager who has been ill for some time past, had a rousing benefit at the Broadway, N. Y. Among the volunteers were P. S. Gilmore, Campanini, Mlle. De Vere, Julia Rive-King, Wm. Ludwig, Nahan Franko, Ella Russell, Eugene Weiner, Signor Ferrari and M. Feithinger.

The returns from the Actors' Fund benefit at the Baldwin on Thursday footed up $961—a very handsome sum for a matinee performance. Manager French set the ball in motion and all our local managers and members of the profession joined in rolling it along.

Nat Goodwin opens at the New Bush Street Theatre May 13th in his new comedy.

James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their reappearance next week at Morosco's in Handy Andy.

The New York Truth says of pretty, womanly Minnie Palmer—"Miss Palmer's performances entitle her to the favor with which they are received. There is an absolute absence of vulgarity, a desire to please with refinement, and a conception of true humor that no other American actress has apparently been able to grasp To Minnie Palmer certainly belongs the distinction of having inaugurated a new era in ingenue work. Her entertainments are clever and bright, her singing is coquettish and quaint, her dancing is new and captivating but with it all you have the reminder of the drawing room. The hand of refinement brushes aside the rough edges, and while you are being amused you are also being educated."

Hans, the Boatman, the play written for Charles Arnold and produced by him in London, England, with success, has been secured by Simmonds and Brown for next season, and will be seen in New York at their own theatre.

Edward Harrigan closes Saturday night the most unsatisfactory season that he has ever known.

AD FINEM.

The act is drawing to an end;
The lights are growing dimmer;
Farewell to sad and joyous friends,
Life's glamor and its glimmer!
We've done our best to play aright,
And wend a path uncertain;
The stage is fading from our sight—
Ring down, ring down the curtain!

How joyous was the morning scene,
With all its songs and laughter!
Its smiles—perhaps a tear between—
To sweeten gladness after!
There comes a part that all must play,
'Tis read with eyes uncertain—
A new stage waits, we cannot stay—
Ring down, ring down the curtain!

So long we've stood beside the wings,
To do the part that called us—
The triumph that its acting brings
In memory's oft enthralled us;
But now farewell the passing show,
The pageant, wild, uncertain!
Another way our feet must go—
Ring down, ring down the curtain!

What matters it, if, rich or poor,
We've trod the boards before us,
The grand, the meek, the prince, the boor
Must join in Death's final chorus—
One scene, one act, one cue, one call
Brings out the lines uncertain.
One muffled bell for one and all—
Ring down the final curtain!

—[NEW YORK CLIPPER.

Sophie Eyre proposes to act in Paris during the coming Exposition.

Robert Ranson and Alice Newton, of the Winnipeg (Canada) Theatre stock company, were lately married in that city.

J. W. Webb and the Orion Trio have sailed for England.

A Theatre of Actuality is to be established in London after the model of the French Theatre Libre. The idea is that authors may have the chance to produce their own plays without the intervention of the hated manager.

George S. Knight has fully recovered his health, and will begin a Spring tour at Elmira on the 22d in A Circus Ride, in which his wife, Sophie Worrell, will appear.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic De Belleville will sail for England next month.

Kitty K. Keating, one of the De Eata sisters of East Saginaw, Mich., was recently married to Frank G. Harrison, of Denver, Col.

Ruth McCann (Mrs. William E. Fales), a well known soubrette, died at her home in Steubenville, O., on Wednesday.

John Murray, a veteran actor and ex-husband of Grace Hawthorne, died lately at Marshalltown, Ia.

Preparations have already commenced for the appearance of Charles T. Ellis in New York next season in an elaborate production of a new musical comedy called Count Casper.

Maude Granger returns to New York this week at the Windsor Theatre appearing in a melodrama called Two Lives. Miss Granger will be followed at that house on Easter Monday by Mrs. Potter.

Miss Ullie Akerstrom, who makes her debut in New York next month at the Star Theatre, has just published a book of original poems which show unusual literary ability on the part of that young actress.

Young Miss Mowbray who attracted so much attention in the part of Olympe when Mrs. Potter played Camille, is to have a responsible part next season. She is a girl of unusually good education, and distinct dramatic ability. She is a protege of Mrs. Henry E. Abbey.

It is reported that Maggie Mitchell proposes to sail for Europe next month for the Summer, and that she will bring a bridal robe in her trunk when she returns next Fall.

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" keeps the fun alive at the Bush. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. There are but two of the former members of the company in the cast. The new people are most acceptably clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, and their new coloring of character they give a new and really a more palatable flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's singing, dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snaggs keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Barry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Dazzle-Dazzle" song are emphatic numbers.

"A Bunch of Keys" is an assured success. The Call says, "the piece is a go. The 'Bunch of Keys' will do a good business for its engagement." The Chronicle also predicts that, "There is fun and go enough to the 'Bunch of Keys' to warrant full houses during the engagement," and adds: "The audience was quite a fashionable one, and appeared to enjoy Hoyt's nonsense quite as much as though the play had been of a more substantial kind." Quite likely they enjoyed it better. If we can take their laughter and applause as evidence of enjoyment they certainly did.

Baldwin Theatre.

This is the last night of Little Lord Fauntleroy. Its season has been a very successful one. Both of the Little Lords appear to-night.

Monday, April 22d, E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. Mr Sothern has made a great reputation in the Eastern cities for his finished presentation of the title role of this new play. The piece has the stamp of public approval. Sturdy, worthy O. B. Bishop, of the old California company, comes back to us in the cast as Adam Butterworth, retired. The very name savors of his fitness for the part.

Alcazar Theatre.

Miss Effie Ellsler produced for her second week Frank Harvey's play of "Judge Not," which had a run of six weeks at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, and is booked for return dates this season. She plays the part of Katherine Chase, an actress, who marries an artist, is estranged from her husband, and reunited with loving bonds again in the end, and was well supported by Frank Weston and her company. "Judge Not" must give way next week to a stronger card.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, will be the magnet at the Alcazar next week with Effie Ellsler, the original Hazel, in the part that she created and made famous. Frank Weston plays the impetuous old father, Dunstan Kirke, and Ethel Brandon makes her reappearance as the jolly Dolly Dutton.

Orpheum Opera House.

H. W Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, have been this week's attraction headed by M'lle Aimee, "the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on a platformed ceiling every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze artistes.

The famed Horseshoe Four, J. J. Quinlan, Geo. H. Turner, Josie Love and Nellie Russell; Smith & Lord, sketch artists; Larry and Lizzie Smith, German comedy duo; the American Traveler, Sam Dearin; Prof. Harry F. Campbell, Mons. Cheveral and King Kalkasa are all artists with original ideas and they present a strong bill of great attractions.

The company is deservedly drawing crowded houses. The Austin Sisters' feats on the trapeze are daring and more hazardous than [illegible] walks head down, way up aloft,

Prof. Campbell takes his audience around the world in twenty minutes by means of dissolving views, presenting prominent cities, places, noted views and works of art and other objects of interest in the Old and New Worlds.

Mons. Cheveriel furnishes a taking musical act and the company is a good one.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings, on both sides of the studding 3049 feet of iron laths covered with three coatings of plaster. The proscenium arch has also been reconstructed with iron, and a new wire-wove drop will now entirely shut off the stage from the audience in case of fire. New dressing-rooms have been constructed. Improvements have been made in auditorium and in exits, etc., and a general renovation has been made in the theatre that adds to its comfort and makes it absolutely safe.

Mr. E. J. Holden closes a four weeks' engagement here Sunday night in the picturesque play of The Red Pocketbook.

Next week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy, a dramatization of Chas. Lever's popular novel detailing Andy's numerous blunders and their comical effects. The Wards are fine exponents of Irish character and will give Andy and Oonah excellent representations.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for the East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M to 6 P. M.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city on April 23rd on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside all is activity. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, has been created. On this the bombarding allied fleet will be placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side will be an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

See announce programme on another page of FIGARO.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Morton & Goldie, Edwin Barry (vocalist), Prof. La Bondas and Conlon & Dougherty are the new faces.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The Bella Union this week comes to the fron with the following attractions: Bill Devere, author and vocalist; The Mauri Sisters, burlesque artists; Conchita, the inimitable; Baker & Reed, comedians; Bursell, and the old time favorite Billy Akarman. Ned Barry's original extravagenza, The Moonlight Coterie, is the leading attraction and it is full of musical specialties.

The versatile artists, the Cummings and Jas. Tenbrooke, are the new people for the week.

Ned Barry still retains his strong hold. His fund of novelties appears to be inexhaustible. Thatcher & Drew work in double harness as fine as four-year-olds, That's All and That's Enough.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

The new people for next week are: Miss

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Big Bertha appears in conjunction with Johnnie Cain in an original and beautiful comedy. This will positively be her last week. In addition to the comedy, the famous ex-Confidence Queen poses as "Rebecca at the Well," "Throwing the Quoit," "The Dancing Apollo," and in other tableaux. Bertha has only consented to appear on the boards of the Cremorne as a means of getting some money together to embark in business afterwards.

Miss Kittie Lillian, Frankie Russell, Dwyer & Buckley and Offy-Goffy are the new faces this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, an Eastern artiste of unusual ability, in choice selections of song and dance, and Franks & O'Dell continue this week.

Miss Frankie Russell (the midget) has been specially engaged to appear with Big Bertha.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Ambitious gitators in specialties, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme; the laughable comedy, Mischief Makers, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Marie Morina, with a musical finale.

The laughable farce, Rather, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coziest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Miss Pearl Iola and Miss Maggie Gordon, vocalists, are the new claimants for a portion of the popular favor this week.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franke, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites with the Eureka's patrons.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled "Turning the Table," and Geo. C Dunham in a new sketch.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday at 2 P. M

Sunday, April 21st, picnic of the Eureka Athletic Club.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must see the will. They try the safe. "Grimes, remember the bell." Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Mr. E. E. Schultz, manager of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, is in town as advance courier of the best minstrel company now in the field.

The Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association meetings Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, at the Bay District Track. This year each jockey is numbered and wears the number of his horse fastened on each arm. This will clearly identify horse and rider by the number. Free programmes of the races are distributed at the entrance giving the number of each horse running. For list of races, purses, etc, see notice in our amusement column.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. See programme in FIGARO. It will be a big show.

The Independent Old Friends held a social picnic at Wildwood Glen, Sausalito, Sunday. Music was furnished by the 1st Regiment Band.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show opens at the Orpheum next week. J. D Hopkins, its manager, has returned to the city to look out for the return season of this big specialty combination here.

Sells Bros. & Barrett's Circus has finished its circuit in the Southern part of the state and is getting near us. It shows in San Jose on the 22nd and opens in this city on the 26th.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show played at Fiske's Fresno Opera House April 19. They had a large audience.

The Spring Meeting of the St. Louis Jockey Club commences June 1st. The Palo Alto, Santa Anita, Theo. Winters and J. M. Simpson stables are among the entries. Santa Anita has the largest showing, entering for every race. The meeting closes June 15th.

Recently the municipal authorities at Canton, Ohio, ordered the picture posters of Rose Hill's Folly Co. to be covered.

Thatcher, Primrose & West own a musical comedy, Up to the Times, which will have its first representation this week under Ed. Marble's management.

We would call the attention of novelty and specialty performers to the ad. of Manager Max Samuels' Fashion Theatre, San Antonio, in FIGARO. Mr. Samuels is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and that means a great deal now-a days.

Frank McNish, the minstrel, sailed for Europe April 9th.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

Miss Leona Dare, a native of New Orleans and the most daring of aerial artists, will astound Paris and Parisians during the approaching Exposition by daily jumping from the top of the Eiffel Tower, swung to a parachute, a la Van Tassel, made with an American flag which once waved over Fort Sumpter. The drapeau was presented to Miss Dare by an ex-Rebel Colonel who "went wrong with his State," but gladly wheeled back into line when the Big Bubble collapsed.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

Ullie Akerstrom, the versatile little actress, is described as "a fairy whose winsome smile and natural grace wins all hearts. She has a face full of life and expression; her songs catch the ears of her hearers and her dances are a sunbeam and a delight to the eye.

Edwin Stevens has been engaged by Rudolph Aronson.

It is stated that W. J. Gilmore will commission Geo. H. Murray to go to Australia this summer, with a view to giving a season of The Twelve Temptations and The Devil's Auction, at the antipodes.

It is rumored that Manager Leavitt is making some fine bookings ahead for the

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

C. B. Bishop (Doc.) returns to this coast with the Lord Chumley Co. after several years absence. Mr. Bishop plays the part of Adam Butterworth. Herbert Archer, of the same company, and H. B. Warner, its business manager, are also former well acclimated Californians.

George Wessells and Lillian Owen have struck New York. Wessells has been engaged to do the "heavy" in After Dark in the Webster-Brady Co. W. A. Brady is in Boston superintending the production of Lewis Morrison's Faust, April 22nd, at the Boston Theatre.

St. Paul, Minn., is building a new opera house for next season.

On April 11th a benefit for St. Peter's Church, Bay Shore, L. I., was given at the Lyceum, N. Y., when A Wild Idea, by Mrs. Doremus, and Miss Marbury in A Dead Shot and a recitation by Helen Barry constituted the programme.

Dan McCullough will engineer the box-office of the Grand during the Albani season.

P. S. Gilmore has organized a two months' jubilee concert tour before beginning his Coney Island season June 30.

Mlle. Nikita, under M. Strakosch's management, has just made great hits as Zerlina in Fra Diavolo at Warsaw and Vienna.

Lotta was about twelve years old when she sang and danced on a mining camp tour in California in 1856. In 1862 she acted at Gilbert's Melodeon, San Francisco, simultaneously with the Worrell Sisters and Joe Murphy, and then gave her age as seventeen.

Bronson Howard's Young Mrs. Winthrop was given at a matinee in London for copyright purposes.

Signor Varesi, a noted baritone and the original Rigoletto and also the first to sing Germont in La Traviata, is dead.

Hereafter Mrs. McKee Rankin will star as Kitty Blanchard.

The very clever musical comedy, Hans the Boatman, has been secured by Simmonde & Brown, who have specially engaged Charles Arnold, the famous comedian, for the stellar role. The author, Clay Greene, is especially gratified with Mr. Arnold's engagement for the leading character.

Nearly all the boxes are sold for the coming Italian opera season in Drury Lane, London, when Albani, Scalchi, Ella Russell, the De Rezkes and La Salle will sing.

Chas. Durant, Jr. a gilded New York youth, inherited $350 000 from his father three years ago. He was examined in supplementary proceedings for insolvency and testified to his total loss of his fortune. One item was $100,000 spent upon pretty Estelle Clayton, the actress, who failed as a star as Barbara in the "Quick or the Dead." It was a quick investment and a dead loss.

Adolph Neundorff, the well known conductor, has been compelled to resign from the Boston Ideals owing to ill health.

Mae St. John (Alice Lawe), formerly of the Casino Company, was lately married in New York to A. Dudley Bramhall, of the drygoods commission house of Bramhall Bros. & Co., after which the newly wedded pair sailed for Europe.

The roofs of the Opera House and Masonic Temple were blown off in a storm at Norfolk, Va., recently.

Manager A. M. Palmer and family will sail for Europe June 6th.

George Fortescue will star next season under Ted Marks' management in a new Hebrew comedy, Mrs. Moses Meyer.

Philip Simmonds will manage Rose Coghlan's business during Augustus Pitou's absence in Europe with W. J. Scanlan.

Leon J. Vincent, the veteran and popular stage manager who has been ill for some time past, had a rousing benefit at the Broadway, N. Y. Among the volunteers were P. S. Gilmore, Campanini, Mlle. De Vere, Julia Rive-King, Wm. Ludwig, Nahan Franko, Ella Russell, Eugene Weiner, Signor Ferrari and M. Feitlinger.

Nat Goodwin opens at the New Bush Street Theatre May 13th in his new comedy.

James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their reappearance this week at Morosco's in Handy Andy.

Hans, the Boatman, the play written for Charles Arnold and produced by him in London, England, with success, has been secured by Simmonds and Brown for next season, and will be seen in New York at an up town theatre.

Emma Juch, of the Juch-Perotti Company, is ill, and Manager Charles E. Locke was compelled to cancel his musical festival at Buffalo on the ninth inst.

Helen Dauvray, having made up with her husband, Shortstop Ward, has abandoned her contemplated theatrical tour for next season.

Warder's Grand Opera House, Kansas City, Mo., was damaged by lightning April 7th. Managers often have their houses struck by lightning figuratively, but this Kansas manager got it in reality. We are never struck by lightning in California.

Clay M. Greene has written a play of New England life called Blackberry Farm.

Herrmann's Trans-Atlantic Vaudeville will open its inaugural American tour at the New York Bijou Theatre, August 26.

Manager John Russell has engaged the following cast for the production of Paul Potter's City Directory, which will be produced at the Chicago Opera House in May: Alice Harrison, Jennie Saterlee, May Yohe, Josie Sadler, Sadie Kerby, Maud Wilson, Jennie Pierce, Mark Sullivan, W. J. Mack, Harry Standish, Joseph Jackson, Albert Riddle, and W. S. Mullaly, who has composed the music. Eddie Girard plays the part of an all-around athlete in the new

THE RACES.

Perfect weather, immense attendance, splendid track and spirited races were the characteristics of the opening day (Saturday) of the Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association's races at Bay District course.

The talent suffered heavily by Al. Farrow's unexpected let down on the home stretch. They fell. The favorites capturing the other events boosted them up again, though in a damaged condition.

Geraldine is among the entries for the first event (a three-quarters of a mile dash) on Tuesday.

In the Select Stakes, five furlongs, for two-year-olds on Tuesday, Palo Alto will have two colts, Shippee two, Santa Anita stables two and Winters two. Great things are told of Winters' El Rio Rey, who debuts in this race.

The main race to-morrow will be the Pacific Derby for three-year-olds, mile and a half. There will be a big field, including some of the fastest horses and best stayers in the state.

Al Farrow and Geraldine are matched to run a mile for $1 000 a side on Saturday. A forfeit of $250 a side has been posted. Farrow was to have run against time for a record, but this race will probably do away with the trial. The majority of turfmen think that Al Farrow should win, judging from his performance at San Jose. Geraldine is considered the fastest for a half or five-eighths, but it is questioned if she keep up her speed for a mile.

Sophie Eyre proposes to act in Paris during the coming Exposition.

J. W. Webb and the Orion Trio have sailed for England.

A Theatre of Actuality is to be established in London after the model of the French Theatre Libre. The idea is that authors may have the chance to produce their own plays without the intervention of the hated manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic De Belleville will sail for England next month.

Young Miss Mowbray who attracted so much attention in the part of Olympe when Mrs. Potter played Camille, is to have responsible parts next season. She is a girl of unusually good education, and distinct dramatic ability. She is a protege of Mrs. Henry E. Abbey.

It is reported that Maggie Mitchell proposes to sail for Europe next month for the Summer, and that she will bring a bridal robe in her trunk when she returns next Fall.

Laura Burt leaves the Hanlons' Fantasma company after next week to play the soubrette part in The Still Alarm.

Zeffie Tilbury, Lydia Thompson's daughter, proposes to star in a new play next season.

Mr. James H. Meade, who is in London at the present time, in the interest of Bluebeard Jr. the coming summer spectacle in Coicago, will arrive in New York about the 27th. He has ordered the armor for Bluebeard Jr. which will be furnished by Kennedy of Birmingham England. Mr James H. Meade writes that they are marvels of novelty in design and beauty of coloring.

George W. Lederer will sail for Europe by the City of Paris, May 15 h.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic de Bellville will next season star through the country in the London success, Hands Across the Sea.

The palace scene in King Cole II, the $30,000 production which Professor Herrmann puts on at his Broad Street Theatre, Philadelphia, this week, for a run, will be painted by Goatcher, and will be the most gorgeous affair ever seen in this country.

EVENING EDITION

MONDAY.....APRIL 22, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" keeps the fun alive at the Bush. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. There are but two of the former members of the company in the cast. The new people are most acceptably clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, and their new coloring of character, they give a new and really a more palatable flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's singing, dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snaggs keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Harry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Razzle-Dazzle" song are emphatic numbers.

The Call says, "the piece is a go. The 'Bunch of Keys' will do a good business for its engagement." The Chronicle also predicts that, "There is fun and go enough to the 'Bunch of Keys' to warrant full houses during the engagement," and adds: "The audience was quite a fashionable one, and appeared to enjoy Hoyt's nonsense quite as much as though the play had been of a more substantial kind." Quite likely they enjoyed it better. If we can take their laughter and applause as evidence of enjoyment they certainly did.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, a strong minstrel organization, commence their season here next week.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. Mr. Sothern has made a great reputation in the Eastern cities for his finished presentation of the title role of this new play. The piece has the stamp of public approval. Sturdy, worthy C. B. Bishop, of the old California company, comes back to us in the cast as Adam Butterworth, retired. The very name savors of his fitness for the part.

Alcazar Theatre

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, will be the magnet at the Alcazar this week with Effie Ellsler, the original Hazel, in the part that she created and made famous. Frank Weston plays the impetuous old father, Dunstan Kirke, and Ethel Brandon makes her reappearance as the jolly Dolly Dutton.

Grand Opera House.

Mme. Albani's first grand concert comes off at the Grand this evening. The renowned prima donna sings three selections: an aria from Traviata, "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" and "Sweet Bird." The other artists of her company round out a full and well selected programme.

Next concert Wednesday evening

Orpheum Opera House.

His Majesty, King Kalakaua's Na Lani Ehiku Club, an organization of Honolulu musicians, vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers—all natives—have been specially engaged by Managers Walter & Co. for the Orpheum, and put in appearances this week. They are six in number and certainly present a novelty as an attraction. The Orpheum gives us novelties from the four quarters of the globe, with one from a mid-ocean island occasionally thrown in.

In conjunction with this Royal Hawaiian musical club will be presented H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, as an additional attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on a platformed ceiling, way up aloft, head downward, every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze performers. The company possesses a variety of specialty talent, including the famed Horse-artists; Larry and Lizzie Smith, German comedy duo; the American Traveler, Sam Dearin; Prof. Harry F. Campbell, Mons. Cheveral and King Kalkasa.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, commence an engagement at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding, 30,049 feet of iron laths covered with three coatings of plaster. The proscenium arch has also been reconstructed with iron, and a new wire-wove drop will now entirely shut off the stage from the audience in case of fire. New dressing-rooms have been constructed. Improvements have been made in auditorium and in exits, etc., and a general renovation has been made in the theatre that adds to its comfort and makes it absolutely safe.

This week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy, a dramatization of Chas. Lever's popular novel detailing Andy's numerous blunders and their comical effects. The Wards are fine exponents of Irish character and will give Andy and Oonah excellent representations.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M to 6 P. M.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city to-morrow night on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside is a novel sight. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, has been created. On this the bombarding allied fleet are placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side is an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front will be built the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Mercedes, the flying trapeze artiste, and Earl Tilla are the new faces this week.

The latest Eastern terpsichorean craze, entitled "Les Clodoche Automate," participated in by La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving, introduced by the old wirilding, Geo. H. Wood, concludes the performance.

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Miss Sadie Fairfield, Foster & Fowler, Billy Parent and Rose Sidell.

Dick Cummings' laughable absurdity, "Confusion," opens the bill.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ned Barry, Effie Hull and the Cummings are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

A great show at the Cremorne this week. Frankie Russell, the smallest woman on earth, appears in a comedy sketch with Offty Goffty.

Della Turner, the Mauri Sisters and Kittie Lillian are the new faces.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, [illegible], Jennie Haywood and May

Special engagement has been made and Big Bertha remains another week.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publico, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable comedy, That's All, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Lottie Gardner, with a musical finale.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The laughable farce, The Whatnot, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and coolest little theatres in the city, and good management has made it one of the most popular of our minor theatres for years past. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites with the Eureka's patrons.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled Rosey, the Pretzel Girl, and Geo. C. Dunham in a new sketch.

Chas. Moreland's version of the Parisian Can-Can is a big feature of the bill.

Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association Races.

The Spring Meeting of the leading Race-horse Association of California opened on Saturday and was every way successful. All the town was at the races. The track was in excellent condition and the races were spirited and hotly contested ones.

There are four events for the second race day to-morrow: a three-quarters of a mile race, all ages, 17 entries, with the fastest short-distance flyers on the coast in it. This will be followed by a five furlong dash for 2 year-olds the Select Stakes, with Winter's El Rio Rey and the Palo Alto, Santa Anita and other stables represented.

Next will come the Selling Purse for 3-year-olds and upward, with 14 entries.

The last event of the day will be the Pacific Derby for three-year-olds: purse $750, with forfeited entries up to Jan. 1, 1889, of $450 added; one mile and a half. The principal contestants will be Wild Oats, Nerva, Tiburon, Sorento, Geoffrey, Joe Hooker, the Czar and Don Jose. This will be a great race, and no man can call the winner where all are so fleet.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must see the will. They try the safe. 'Grimes, remember the bell." Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

EVENING EDITION

TUESDAY.....APRIL 23, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Mr. E. E. Schultz, manager of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, is in town as advance courier of the best minstrel company now in the field. They open at the Bush on Monday next. See announce programme.

Have you heard King Kalakau's Honolulu Musical Club. If you haven't, take them in when go and hear Albani, and you will appreciate her.

Cort's Standard Theatre, Portland, April 22nd: Big Days, Lorenz, McCoy & Mackay, Sam Devere, Sherwood & Meredith and Jessie Reed new.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. See programme in FIGARO. It will be a big show.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, April 22nd: Donaldson Bros., the Zinfretta Family, Bertha Sanger, Talbot & Cunningham, James Gray and Effie Heuston.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show opens at the Orpheum next week. J. D Hopkins, its manager, has returned to the city to look out for the return season of this big specialty combination here.

Arion Theatre, Butte City, April 15th: Ripley & Earle, Oscar and Sallie Kherns, Healey Bros., Everett & Stanley, Kittie Loreine, Whitney & McCree, May Adams, Steve Martin, Dollie Weston, Kittie Chapman, Lottie Bell, Williams & Brannon, Nellie Wilson, Minnie Flynn, Kittie Williams, Ella Summerton and Frank Binney.

WANTED—A good serio-comic vocalist and three box women. Apply FIGARO Office.

Theatre Comique, Spokane Falls, April 22nd: Bessie Bell, Emery & Russell, May Madison, Ford Bros. and Gardner & Bernard new. First production of Gardner's musical comedy, Joliet Convicts.

Sells Bros. & Barrett's Circus has finished its circuit in the Southern part of the state and is getting near us. It showed in San Jose on the 22nd and opens in this city on the 26th.

Club Theatre, Los Angeles, April 27th: The Newcomb Family, Wm. Gilbert, Wilson & Cameron, Mack & Medley, White & Orndorff, May Cameron, Sheldon & Ross, Tenbrooke & Leonard and Bush & Perry.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show played at Fiske's Fresno Opera House April 19. They had a large audience.

Thatcher, Primrose & West own a musical comedy, Up to the Times, which will have its first representation this week under Ed. Marble's management.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

Sophie Eyre proposes to act in Paris during the coming Exposition.

J. W. Webb and the Orion Trio have sailed for England.

A Theatre of Actuality is to be established in London after the model of the French Theatre Libre. The idea is that authors may have the chance to produce their own plays without the intervention of the hated manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic De Belleville will sail for England next month.

It is reported that Maggie Mitchell proposes to sail for Europe next month for the Summer, and that she will bring a bridal gown in her trunk when she returns next Fall.

Laura Burt leaves the Hanlons' Fantasma company after next week to play the soubrette part in The Still Alarm.

Harry Mann left New York for San Francisco on the 22d to take the management of the New California Theatre, which opens May 13th with Booth and Barrett.

George Floyd, who has managed the affairs of Keller, will leave him after this season to pilot Wilson Barrett during his tour of America.

Max Freeman, who has for some time been on the road with the Casino companies, is in New York, again rehearsing The Brigands, which will be produced at the Casino, May 6th. Mr. Freeman is a strict stage manager, but one of the best in the country.

Mr. C. W. Allison, who plays Uncle Parker in Minnie Palmer's My Brother's Sister at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, this week, played old men's parts when Burton had his theatre in Chamber Street. He looks like a man of forty and

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The centennial of the inauguration of the first President of the United States will be celebrated at Woodward's Gardens on April 30th, day and evening. The exercises will consist of tableaux from Washington's life, concluding with the Inauguration; followed by May Queen festivities, dancing and other divertisements by hundreds of children, schooled in their exercises by Prof. Rufus Love. This will be particularly adapted to the participation of children, and have the zest of enjoyment to grown-up people made happy in their pleasures.

Kittie Wilson, a San Francisco born girl, returns with the Lord Chumley party after several years absence. She was formerly the wife of Ed Marble and the soubrette of Maguire's Opera House.

Mme. Albani's toilet was a marvel of beauty. She wore a magnificent robe of white. The train was of brocaded satin and the skirt was of plain, rich satin, completely covered with pearl and chenille embroidery, finished at the foot with a ruffle of lace. Up one side of the skirt was a cascade of lace, caught up with ostrich feathers. Her slippers were of lace and satin, embroidered with pearls; and she fairly shone with diamonds and other precious stones. On her head she wore a diadem of over one thousand diamonds, the gift from the Queen of England. Her neck, arms and right shoulder were covered with precious jewels, and magnificent orders from Victoria, King William of Germany, the King of Denmark and the King of the Sandwich Islands.

J. R. Wilkins' new act drop at the Grand represents the City and Bay of Naples from the heights overlooking both, with Vesuvius in the background. The picture is realistic and impressive and does the artist great credit. The Grand, by the way, looks very fine with its new curtain and its new dress of rich maroon trimmed with old gold.

C. B. Bishop (Doc.) returns to this coast with the Lord Chumley Co. after several years absence. Mr. Bishop plays the part of Adam Butterworth. Herbert Archer, of the same company, and H. B Warner, its business manager, are also former well acclimated Californians.

George Wessells and Lillian Owen have struck New York. Wessells has been engaged to do the "heavy" in After Dark in the Webster-Brady Co. W. A. Brady is in Boston superintending the production of Lewis Morrison's Faust, April 22nd, at the Boston Theatre.

St. Paul, Minn., is building a new opera house for next season.

Dan McCullough will engineer the box-office of the Grand during the Albani season.

P. S. Gilmore has organized a two months' jubilee concert tour before beginning his Coney Island season June 30.

Lotta was about twelve years old when she sang and danced on a mining camp tour in California in 1856. In 1862 she acted at Gilbert's Melodeon, San Francisco, simultaneously with the Worrell Sisters and Joe Murphy, and then gave her age as seventeen.

Nearly all the boxes are sold for the coming Italian opera season in Drury Lane, London, when Albani, Scalchi, Ella Russell, the De Rezkes and La Salle will sing.

Adolph Neundorff, the well known conductor, has been compelled to resign from the Boston Ideals owing to ill health.

Nat Goodwin opens at the New Bush Street Theatre May 13th in his new comedy.

James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their reappearance this week at Morosco's in Handy Andy.

Helen Dauvray, having made up with her husband, Shortstop Ward, has abandoned her contemplated theatrical tour for next season.

Little Harry Tich has been engaged by Manager David Henderson to play the part of a servant in Bluebeard, Jr. The part is largely an acrobatic one. Mr. Henderson will probably also close this week with Miss Lena Merville and Miss Topsy Venn, both of whom will play rollicking boys' parts. Mr. Fred J. Eustis and Mr. Richard Madden have arranged the music of Bluebeard, Jr. A great deal has been selected from the newest music, but considerable has been written expressly for the piece.

The Brigands, which Manager Rudolph Aronson is getting ready to produce at the Casino, New York, during the months when the roses bloom, and Gotham is filled with strangers, has never been seen in America, but in its French form. The late Colonel Jim Fisk produced it at the Grand Opera House in 1870, with Montaland and Silly. Every one of the popular Casino stars will be needed for the large cast, and in addition there will be some new faces, among which will be Miss Blanche Marsden.

Frank Blair, who has made a great success throughout the country in parts formerly played by Nate Salsbury, will sever his connection with the Salsbury Troubadours at the end of the season. Mr. Blair will summer in Europe, and on his return will appear as the comedian of one of the best known comic opera companies.

CLAY M. GREENE'S NEW PLAY, HANS, THE BOATMAN.

One of the strongest attractions that will be placed before the American public next season will be Chas. Arnold in Clay M. Greene's American play, Hans, the Boatman, produced for the first time on any stage at Sheffield, England, March 7 1887.

Mr. Arnold has been secured by Simmonds & Brown for an American tour, and will probably open at a leading city theatre. Simmonds & Brown will secure first-class support for their star, and Col. T. Allston Brown will accompany him as manager. One of the strongest points of the play are its musical features, Mr. Arnold singing several melodies with great pathos and expression. The soubrette is also said to be an exceedingly strong role, quite equal to the star. There is a large Newfoundland dog who plays an important role, as he leads Hans about after the latter is stricken blind. There are several children required in the cast, ranging from 3 to 6 years of age, one of whom is said to be only equalled by Little Lord Fauntleroy. The play is pronounced bright, sparkling and eminently attractive, and will, it is promised, remain a pleasing memory to the play-goer when many more ambitious characters than Hans, the Boatman, have utterly disappeared from remembrance.—[New York Sun.

THE RACES.

Perfect weather, immense attendance, splendid track and spirited races were the characteristics of the opening day (Saturday) of the Pacific Coast Blood-Horse Association's races at Bay District course, and to-day's meeting promises to be a repetition of conditions and races.

Thursday's races are important ones. The opening race will be the Selling Purse, for all ages, three-quarters of a mile, with numerous entries of noted horses. In the So So Stakes, which follow, three-quarters of a mile, for two-year-olds, a very large field has entered with most every stable represented with their best untried youngsters.

The third race is for a $400 purse for horses that have started at this meeting and not won. The last race will be the Sequel Stakes for all ages, a mile and three-eighths, with a fine list of fast horses entered.

It is rumored in racing circles that Al Farrow and Geraldine are matched to run a mile for $1 000 a side on Saturday. A forfeit of $250 a side has been posted. Farrow was to have run against time for a record, but this race will probably do away with the trial. The majority of turfmen think that Al Farrow should win, judging from his performance at San Jose. Geraldine is considered the fastest for a half or five-eighths, but it is questioned if she keep up her speed for a mile.

George W. Lederer will sail for Europe by the City of Paris, May 15 h.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic de Bellville will next season star through the country in the London success, Hands Across the Sea.

The palace scene in King Cole II, the $30,000 production which Professor Herrmann puts on at his Broad Street Theatre, Philadelphia, this week, for a run, will be painted by Gentcher, and will be the most

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" keeps the fun alive at the Bush. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. They are very clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, they give a new flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's singing, dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snaggs keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Harry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Razzle-Dazzle" song are emphatic numbers.

—o—

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, pronounced the best minstrel organization in the field by the press of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, where they have played recent engagements, commence their season at the Bush next week.

Carroll Johnson, in versatility, ability and finish, is well known here as one of the best minstrels on the stage. Bob Slavin is distinctively quaint and humorous, a great fan-maker; Burt Haverly and Jay Quigley are deservedly popular comedians. There are eight endmen, eight vocalists and a score or more of first-class minstrel, sketch and specialty performers that form a company that the New York Herald claims "cannot be too highly commended;" the New York Star pronounced the "best," and the Boston Globe declared that "Boston has never seen its equal."

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels comes to us so liberally indorsed by the Eastern press that we feel assured that their season will be an eminently successful one in this city.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. The play is carefully constructed and sustains its interest well. So hern plays the title-role somewhat as his father did Lord Dundreary, and wins many a point by his affected drawl. He makes the part fit him to a nicety. It is the neatest of dramatic studies. Mr. Bishop is warmly welcomed, and he plays the part of Adam Butterworth, who is very like Perkeyn Middlewyck, as only Bishop can play it.

Mr. Southern's support is good, and the piece bids fair to run the two weeks allotted to it to large houses.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, will be the magnet at the Alcazar this week with Effie Ellsler, the original Hazel, in the part that she created and made famous.

It is hardly necessary to say that Miss Ellsler plays the part in the same charming way that has made it the ideal Hazel of the stage. Frank Weston gives a very strong impersonation of Dunstan Kirke, the old miller. Pittacus Green and Dolly Dutton are agreeably done by Mr. Wallis and Miss Brandon. Fanny Young gives good support as Mercy Kirke. Hazel Kirke is for this week only. It will be followed by The Sea of Ice on Monday

The favorite comedian, L. R. Stockwell, also makes his reappearance on Monday night.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit on Monday, May 6th, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles.

Grand Opera House.

Mme. Albani's first grand concert at the Grand confirmed her success. The renowned prima donna gave three selections: an aria from Traviata, "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" and "Sweet Bird." It was in the last that she made her triumph, and secured a complete [illegible] Albani is a great

Her concert company is a strong one. Miss Damian, the contralto, and Mr. Foote, basso, have notable fine voices.

Next concert Wednesday evening.

Orpheum Opera House.

His Majesty, King Kalakaua's Na Lani Ehiku Club, an organization of Honolulu musicians, vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers—all natives—have been specially engaged by Managers Walter & Co. for the Orpheum, and put in appearances this week. They are six in number and certainly present a novelty as an attraction. The Orpheum gives us novelties from the four quarters of the globe, with one from a mid-ocean island occasionally thrown in.

The Honolulu musicians have made a hit and prove a strong card. Their musical numbers are quaint and pleasing, and they give many of the native songs in an excellent manner.

In conjunction with this Royal Hawaiian musical club will be presented H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, as an additional attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on a platformed ceiling, way up aloft, head downward, every evening; and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze performers. The company possesses a variety of specialty talent, including the famed Horse-shoe Four, J. J. Quinlan, Geo. H. Turner, Josie Love and Nellie Russell; Smith & Lord, sketch artists; Larry and Lizzie Smith, German comedy duo; the American Traveler, Sam Dearin; Prof. Harry F. Campbell, Mons. Cheveral and King Kalkasa.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, commence an engagement at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding, 30,040 feet of iron laths covered with three coatings of plaster. The proscenium arch has also been reconstructed with iron, and a new wire-wove drop will now entirely shut off the stage from the audience in case of fire. New dressing rooms have been constructed. Improvements have been made in auditorium and in exits etc., and a general renovation has been made in the theatre that adds to its comfort and makes it absolutely safe.

This week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearance in Handy Andy, a dramatization of Chas. Lever's popular novel detailing Andy's numerous blunders and their comical effects. The Wards are our best exponents of Irish character and give Andy and Oonah excellent representations.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

We are not likely to have a war about Samoa; but we are to have a grand spectacle of a war in Pain's Siege of Sebastopol, that commences operations in this city this evening on the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The whole block is enclosed with a twenty-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office.

Inside is a novel sight. An artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol, has been created. On this the bombarding allied fleet are placed, supplied with real guns and gunners. On the far side is an immense stage that takes in the greater portion of the block, with a landscape background 90 feet high. In the front are seen the forts, the main one over 50 feet in height. Here is where the battle will rage, and at times 500 people will be massed on this stage during the attacks and repulses.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience will have a raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting the lake.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment, as $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics will be used at every performance. The 2d Regiment Military Band will furnish the music.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Olay & Co's music store.

See announce programme on another page of FIGARO.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Mercedes, the flying trapeze artiste, and Earl Tilla are the new faces this week.

The latest Eastern terpsichorean craze, entitled "Les Clodoche Automate," participated

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Miss Sadie Fairfield, Foster & Fowler, Billy Parent and Rose Sidell.

Dick Cummings' laughable absurdity, "Confusion," opens the bill; but there is no confusion about the old reliable's popularity. Manager Foster caters so successfully that its steady run of good biz. never falters.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Bursell, Ned Barry, Effie Hull and the Cummings are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

A great show at the Cremorne this week, Frankie Russell, the smallest woman on earth, appears in a comedy sketch with Offty Goffty. Both scored a success. Offy Goffty really creates a deal of enjoyable fun.

Della Turner, the Mauri Sisters and Kittie Lillian are the new faces.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, Dwyer & Buckley, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

All the company in Cupid's Eye Glass.

Special engagement has been made and Big Bertha remains another week.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publico, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable comedy, That's All, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Lottie Gardner, with a musical finale.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The laughable farce, The Whatnot, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franke, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must see the will. They try the safe. "Grimes, remember the bell." Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

George Wood has got up an act in which he puts on Mlle. La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving at the Vienna this week. It is very funny.

Mr. E. E. Schultz, manager of Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, is in town as advance courier of the best minstrel company now in the field. They open at the Bush on Monday next. See announce programme.

Have you heard King Kalakau's Honolulu Musical Club. If you haven't, take them in—then go and hear Albani, and you will appreciate her.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. See programme in FIGARO. It will be a big show.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show opens at the Orpheum next week. J. D. Hopkins, its manager, has returned to the city to look out for the return season of this big specialty combination here.

WANTED—A good serio-comic vocalist and three box women. Apply FIGARO Office.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

THE RACES.

The Czar won the Blood Horse Association's Derby on Tuesday in the fastest mile and a half Derby beat ever made—2:36. The record smashed—2:36½—was made by C. H. Todd at Chicago in 1887. Sorrento, C. H. Todd's brother, hung at White Cloud's neck at the finish. The race was very exciting. The other notable event was the three-year-old six furlong dash. White Cloud in the straggling start had a dozen lengths the best of the favorites, Emotion and Geraldine. He won in the fast time of 1:14 with Emotion second. Emotion was timed at 1:12, which would have lowered the record if his start had permitted him to have won.

Thursday's races are important ones. The opening race will be the Selling Purse, for all ages, three-quarters of a mile, with numerous entries of noted horses. In the So So Stakes, which follow, three-quarters of a mile, for two-year-olds, a very large field has entered with most every stable represented with their best untried youngsters.

The third race is for a $400 purse for horses that have started at this meeting and not won. The last race will be the Sequel Stakes for all ages, a mile and three-eighths, with a fine list of fast horses in it.

Al Farrow and Geraldine are matched to run a mile for $1 000 a side on Tuesday. A forfeit of $250 a side has been posted. Farrow was to have run against time for a record, but this race will probably do away with the trial. The majority of turfmen think that Al Farrow should win, judging from his performance at San Jose. Geraldine is considered the fastest for a half or five-eighths, but it is questioned if she keep up her speed for a mile.

December and May.

A marriage license was issued in Pittsburg on the 11th to Samuel R. Welser, aged 72, and Edith P. Wilson, aged 15 years. Mr. Welser is perhaps the oldest circus clown now living, and is well preserved, looking much younger than 72. Years ago he married a wealthy lady of McKeesport, Pa., and retired from the circus business; at one time he had a circus of his own. When his wife died he was left a fortune.

George Floyd, who has managed the affairs of N. C. Goodwin for seven years,

Monday Night—Uncle Tom's Cabin (new to New Britain people). Booth as Uncle Tom; Barrett as Eva. With Songs and Dances.
Bill for balance of week will be announced later. Special trains to Trant's Park, Black Rock and Cemetery at close of performance.

For this bit of fun Mr. W. W. Hanna will probably be sued.

Alvin Joslyn Davis threatens to retire from the stage and build a theatre in Philadelphia. He offered to buy a half interest in Fleishman's new theatre, but the offer was declined without thanks.

The Duke of Devonshire has consented to the production of an American comic opera, composed by an American named Bobert Goldbeck, in the grand drawing-room of Devonshire House, in Piccadilly, London. The opera is called New York, and the production will take place during the present month.

Mr. Conried denies with emphasis that his big opera company playing The King's Fool out West has been in difficulties. He affirms, on the other hand, that the enterprise is a winner from Wintown.

The latest report is that Mary Anderson will marry Charles Abud, her business manager. Mr. Abud is an extremely good fellow and an able business man, but the marriage story is highly improbable.

Maurice Barrymore has bought a dog which he insists is a genuine Dandie Dinmont. It looks more like a long, low-studded and austere doormat, and never permits itself to lose sight of the fact that the dinner hour has arrived.

Horace Frail, late of Dixey's Adonis Company, died at his home at Hopkinton, Mass., a week or so ago. He used to sing in Adonis a snatch of a song, "In the Chorus Still I Be," that always evoked rounds. It was the plaint of an ambitious but crushed singer, and in it Mr. Frail revealed traces of what had once been a fine voice.

Lewis Morrison's recent production of Faust at the Brooklyn Opera House scored the hit so confidently predicted. A great deal of surprise and admiration was evoked by the superb mounting, the unique electrical effects and wonderfully ingenious mechanical devices which go to make the presentation so admirable in all its details. The cast was generally effective, yet seemed to be much less so because their efforts were dwarfed by the superb impersonation of his Satanic Majesty by Mr. Morrison.—[Dramatic News.

The centennial of the inauguration of the first President of the United States will be celebrated at Woodward's Gardens on April 30th, day and evening. The exercises will consist of tableaux from Washington's life, concluding with the Inauguration; followed by May Queen festivities, dancing and other divertisements by hundreds of children, schooled in their exercises by Prof. Rufus Love. This will be particularly adapted to the participation of children, and have the zest of enjoyment to grown-up people made happy in their pleasures.

Kittie Wilson, a San Francisco born girl, returns with the Lord Chumley party after several years absence. She was formerly the wife of Ed Marble and the soubrette of Maguire's Opera House.

Mme. Albani's toilet was a marvel of beauty. She wore a magnificent robe of white. The train was of brocaded satin and the skirt was of plain, rich satin, completely covered with pearl and chenille embroidery, finished at the foot with a ruffle of lace. Up one side of the skirt was a cascade of lace, caught up with ostrich feathers. Her slippers were of lace and satin, embroidered with pearls; and she fairly shone with diamonds and other precious stones. On her head she wore a diadem of over one thousand diamonds, the gift from the Queen of England. Her neck, arms and right shoulder were covered with precious jewels, and magnificent orders from Victoria, King William of Germany, the King of Denmark and the King of the Sandwich Islands.

J. R. Wilkins' new act drop at the Grand represents the City and Bay of Naples from the heights overlooking both, with Vesuvius in the background. The picture is realistic and impressive and does the artist great credit. The Grand, by the way, looks very fine with its new curtain and its new dress of rich maroon trimmed with old gold.

C. B. Bishop (Doc.) returns to this coast with the Lord Chumley Co. after several years absence. Mr. Bishop plays the part of Adam Butterworth. Herbert Archer, of the same company, and H. B. Warner, its business manager, are also former well acclimated Californians.

The Brigands, which Manager Rudolph Aronson is getting ready to produce at the Casino, New York, during the months when the roses bloom, and Gotham is filled with strangers, has never been seen in America, but in its French form. The late Colonel Jim Fisk produced it at the Grand Opera House in 1870, with Montaland and Silly. Every one of the popular Casino stars will be needed for the large cast, and in addition there will be some new faces, among which will be Miss Blanche Marsden.

Max Freeman, who has for some time been on the road with the Casino companies, is in New York, again rehearsing The Brigands, which will be produced at the Casino May 6th. Mr. Freeman is a strict Little Harry Tighe has been engaged by Manager David Henderson to play the part of a servant in Bluebeard, Jr. The part is largely an acrobatic one. Mr. Henderson will probably also close this week with Miss Lena Merville and Miss Topsy Venn, both of whom will play rollicking boys' parts. Mr. Fred J. Eustis and Mr. Richard Madden have arranged the music of Bluebeard, Jr. A great deal has been selected from the newest music, but considerable has been written expressly for the piece.

Harry Mann left New York for San Francisco on the 22d to take the management of the New California Theatre, which opens May 13th with Booth and Barrett.

Charles Reed leaves Hoyt and Thomas after the present season.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets. The whole block is enclosed with a 20-foot high board-fence that will be impregnable to all outsiders, without they get in in the regular way, via the ticket office on Hayes street.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience has a fine, raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, with a row of twenty family boxes in front. In front of the boxes is a twenty-foot wide promenade fronting an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited. When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting. You are besieged with the villainous smell of burnt powder, and grim-visaged war and its horrid din is all around you. You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you feel like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the flames and explosions continue for some time, representing the blowing up of forts and the burning of the city, comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming altogether the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

Sells Brothers and S. H. Barrett's United Circus.

Sells Brothers' Circus is the best one that ever visited us, but as he has this season consolidated S. H. Barrett's establishment with his own we may expect an arenic and menagerie exhibition that will eclipse all former ones entirely. Its great features are enumerated in the performance announcement elsewhere in FIGARO.

Sells Brothers enter the city with a grand parade on Friday and give their first performance in the same evening at Central Park, Market street, corner of Eighth. Performances at 2 and 8 P. M. every day. Season closes Sunday night, May 5th.

Admission 50 cents. Reserved seats 50 cents

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" keeps the fun alive at the Bush. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. They are very clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, they give a new flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life. Miss Sanford's singing, dancing and male impersonation cannot be improved upon. Jas. B. Mackie as Grimes and Charles Burke as Snaggs keep the fun a-boiling all through their scenes. Harry Booker is very good as Spooner, and Miss Emily Edwards gives a comical eccentricity to Matilda Jenkins.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls. The operatic scene, concerted pieces, and "Razzle-Dazzle" song are emphatic numbers.

—o—

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, pronounced the best minstrel organization in the field by the press of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, where they have played recent engagements, commence their season at the Bush next week.

Carroll Johnson, in versatility, ability and finish, is well known here as one of the best minstrels on the stage. Bob Slavin is distinctively quaint and humorous, a great fun-maker; Burt Haverly and Jay Quigley are deservedly popular comedians. There are eight endmen, eight vocalists and a score or more of first-class minstrel, sketch and specialty performers that form a company that the New York Herald claims "cannot be too highly commended;" the New York Star pronounced the "best," and the Boston Globe declared that "Boston has never seen its equal."

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels comes to us so liberally indorsed by the Eastern press that we feel assured that their season will be an eminently successful one in this city.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. The play is carefully constructed and sustains its interest well. Sothern plays the title-role somewhat as his father did Lord Dundreary, and wins many a point by his affected drawl. He makes the part fit him to a nicety. It is the neatest of dramatic studies. Mr. Bishop is warmly welcomed, and he plays the part of Adam Butterworth, who is very like Perkeyn Middlewych, as only Bishop can play it.

Mr. Sothern's support is good, and the piece bids fair to run the two weeks allotted to it to large houses.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, will be the magnet at the Alcazar this week with Effie Ellsler, the original Hazel, in the part that she created and made famous.

It is hardly necessary to say that Miss Ellsler plays the part in the same charming way that has made it the ideal Hazel of the stage. Frank Weston gives a very strong impersonation of Dunstan Kirke, the old miller. Pittacus Green and Dolly Dutton are agreeably done by Mr. Wallis and Miss Brandon. Fanny Young gives good support as Mercy Kirke. Hazel Kirke is for this week only. It will be followed by The Sea of Ice on Monday

The favorite comedian, L. R. Stockwell, also makes his reappearance on Monday night.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit on Monday, May 6th, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles.

Grand Opera House.

Mme. Albani gives her second grand concert to-night with a new repertory of musical gems

Orpheum Opera House.

His Majesty, King Kalakaua's Na Lani Ehiku Club, an organization of Honolulu musicians, vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers—all natives—have been specially engaged by Managers Walter & Co. for the Orpheum, and put number and certainly present a novelty as an attraction. The Orpheum gives us novelties from the four quarters of the globe, with one from a mid-ocean island occasionally thrown in.

The Honolulu musicians have made a hit and prove a strong card. Their musical numbers are quaint and pleasing, and they give many of the native songs in an excellent manner.

In conjunction with this Royal Hawaiian musical club will be presented H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, as an additional attraction, headed by M'lle Aimee, the human fly," who takes a social little walk all alone by herself on a platformed ceiling, way up aloft, head downward, every evening, and the Austin Sisters, famed as flying trapeze performers. The company possesses a variety of specialty talent, and are in their last week.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, commence an engagement at the Orpheum next week.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding, 30,049 feet of iron lathe covered with three coatings of plaster. The proscenium arch has been reconstructed with iron, and a new wire-worked drop will now entirely shut off the stage from the audience in case of fire. New dressing rooms have been constructed. Improvements have been made in auditorium and in exits etc., and a general renovation has been made in the theatre that adds to its comfort and makes it absolutely safe.

This week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy, a dramatization of Chas. Lever's popular novel detailing Andy's numerous blunders and their comical effects. The Wards are our best exponents of Irish character and give Andy and Oonah excellent representations.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Mercedes, the flying trapeze artiste, and Earl Tilla are the new faces this week.

The latest Eastern terpsichorean craze, entitled "Les Clodoche Automate," participated in by La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving, introduced by the old wirilding, Geo. H. Wood, concludes the performance, and is a great "go,"

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Miss Sadie Fairfield, Foster & Fowler, Billy Parent and Rose Sidell.

Dick Cummings' laughable absurdity, "Confusion," opens the bill; but there is no confusion about the old reliable's popularity. Manager Foster caters so successfully that its steady run of good biz. never falters.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Bursell, Ned Barry, Effie Hull and the Cummings are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

A great show at the Cremorne this week, Frankie Bussell, the smallest woman on earth, appears in a comedy sketch with Offy Goffty. Both scored a success. Offy Goffty really creates a deal of enjoyable fun.

Della Turner, the Mauri Sisters and Kittie Lillian are the new faces.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, Dwyer & Buckley, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

All the company in Cupid's Eye Glass.

Special engagement has been made and Big Bertha remains another week.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Oslin, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publico, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of of the programme. The laughable comedy, That's All, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Lottie Gardner, with a musical finale.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The laughable farce, The Whatnot, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites at the Eureka.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled Rosey, the Pretzel Girl, and Geo. C Dunham in a new sketch.

Chas. Moreland's version of the Parisian Can-Can is a big feature of the bill.

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....APRIL 25, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Big Bertha and Oofty Goofty are great in the balcony scene from Romeo and Suliet. The Cremorne has full houses.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels open at the Bush on Monday next. See announce programme.

George Wood has got up an act in which he puts on Mlle. La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving at the Vienna this week. It is very funny.

Have you heard King Kalakau's Honolulu Musical Club. If you haven't, take them in—then go and hear Albani, and you will appreciate her.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. See programme in FIGARO. It is a big show.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show opens at the Orpheum next week. J. D. Hopkins, its manager, has returned to the city to look out for the return season of this big specialty combination here.

WANTED—A good serio-comic vocalist and three box women. Apply FIGARO Office.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

George Floyd, who has managed the affairs of N. C. Goodwin for seven years, leaves him at the end of his San Francisco engagement. Mr. Floyd will have an enterprise of his own next season.

The Silent Partner is the name of Joseph Polk's new comedy.

Clifton W. Tayleure finds editing the Long Branch News more profitable than play-writing.

W. S. Daboll has signed with the Casino, New York, for next season.

Ghastly Manor and A Lord in Livery are the titles of two of Rosina Vokes' new plays.

Clara Morris is improving in health. She does not fall ill half so frequently under her own management as when Frank Goodwin had her in charge.

Emma Gilbert has joined the London Gaiety company. She has been engaged by David Henderson for the summer.

Ed. S. Grant has been engaged for comedy parts by Jules Grau.

Walter S. Mathews, of Louisville, will probably be a member of one of the most prominent organizations on the road next season.

Mrs. Marsden, the widow of the late dramatist, complains of the great difficulty she experiences in collecting royalities. Other people have been known to remark a similar condition of affairs.

Georgia Drew-Barrymore has signed with W. H. Crane for next season.

Still Waters Run Deep is in active rehearsal at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, with Mrs Booth as Mrs. Sternhold, Maude Harrison as Mrs. Meldmay, Louis Massen as Mr. Meldmay, and Maurice Barrymore as Captain Hawkins.

Hart Conway has been engaged for the forthcoming production of The Tempest at McVicker's in Chicago.

Lillie Grubb will reappear on the stage next season.

The report about Edwin Booth's stroke of paralysis is all bosh. He is well again having only suffered from an attack of vertigo, caused by smoking too many strong cigars. Lawrence Barrett's fourth speech at Rochester shows that he lacks common sense. He has been lifted into eminence by the greatest American actor—into acceptance by audiences which he could never have reached, and who now do not care for him. That Mr. Barrett's egotism leads him into the belief that he will fill Mr. Booth's shoes is apparent, but it he possess s the sense which his absurd and injurious remarks at Rochester seem to deny him, Mr.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

John A. Stevens, whose new play, Mask of Life, made such a distinct success in Brooklyn, has already arranged a ten weeks' tour of the Pacific Slope, opening at the Bush Street Theatre July 1st. After this the Oregon circuit will be visited; then Southern California, New Mexico, Texas, New Orleans and the Southern circuit. Mask of Life is now booked up to Christmas. It is not Mr. Stevens' intentions to act in it after the Western and Southern tour, but to direct it and give it a high-class company, headed by a starring sensational actress, experience having shown that Mask of Life is essentially a woman's play.

William Gill is a busy man these days. He has four new plays on hand, the most important being the latest Dixey burlesque.

Emily Soldene has an offer from W. A. Mestayer for next season, and will probably accept it. By the way, Mr. Mestayer will have one of the very strongest companies on the road next season.

It was a melancholy failure that was scored by Mr. Chas. Stow and his play, called An Iron Creed, at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, N. Y.

Marion Manola, the prima donna of the McCaull Opera Co., has begun suit for divorce from her husband, who is known on the stage as Carl Irving. His real name is Mould.

Visalia boasts of the handsomest theatre between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The dedicatory services took place April 24th.

Special matinee performances will be given at the Bush and Alcazar, April 20th, Centennial Day, at 2:30 P. M.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Lewis Morrison has secured the Southern and far Western rights in The Dark Secret, and will send out a company with it next season, besides playing his regular Faust tour.

Helen Barry is still drawing well in A Woman's Stratagem at the Union Square, New York.

The McCaull Opera Company are actively rehearsing The Clover, which is to follow The May Queen at Palmer's, N. Y., about May 1st. Carrie Burton and Marion Manola will have the two leading female parts.

"What's the matter?" asked the manager of a burlesque show of the captain on a Sound steamer. "One of the lady members of your company has just fallen overboard." "Great heavens! There's no hope; she had her make-up on." "Her make-up?" "Yes, she had it on so heavy she has sunk to the bottom by this time."

Monday Night—Uncle Tom's Cabin (new to New Britain people). Booth as Uncle Tom; Barrett as Eva. With Songs and Dances.
Bill for balance of week will be announced later. Special trains to Trant's Park, Black Rock and Cemetery at close of performance.

For this bit of fun Mr. W. W. Hanna will probably be sued.

Alvin Joslyn Davis threatens to retire from the stage and build a theatre in Philadelphia. He offered to buy a half interest in Fleishman's new theatre, but the offer was declined without thanks.

Mr. Conried denies with emphasis that his big opera company playing The King's Fool out West has been in difficulties. He affirms, on the other hand, that the enterprise is a winner from Wintown.

The latest report is that Mary Anderson will marry Charles Abud, her business manager. Mr. Abud is an extremely good fellow and an able business man, but the marriage story is highly improbable.

Maurice Barrymore has bought a dog which he insists is a genuine Dandie Dinmont. It looks more like a long, low-studded and austere doormat, and never permits itself to lose sight of the fact that the dinner hour has arrived.

Horace Frail, late of Dixey's Adonis Company, died at his home at Hopkinton, Mass., a week or so ago. He used to sing in Adonis a snatch of a song, "In the Chorus Still I Be," that always evoked rounds. It was the plaint of an ambitious but crushed singer, and in it Mr. Frail revealed traces of what had once been a fine voice.

Lewis Morrison's recent production of Faust at the Brooklyn Opera House scored the hit so confidently predicted. A great deal of surprise and admiration was evoked by the superb mounting, the unique electrical effects and wonderfully ingenious mechanical devices which go to make the presentation so admirable in all its details. The cast was generally effective, yet seemed to be much less so because their efforts were dwarfed by the superb impersonation of his Satanic Majesty by Mr. Morrison.—[Dramatic News.

Kittie Wilson, a San Francisco born girl, returns with the Lord Coumley party after several years absence. She was formerly the wife of Ed Marble and the soubrette of Maguire's Opera House.

J. R. Wilkins' new act drop at the Grand represents the City and Bay of Naples from the heights overlooking both, with Vesuvius in the background. The picture is realistic and impressive and

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....APRIL 25, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" keeps the fun alive at the Bush. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. They are very clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, they give a new flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls.

Saturday and Sunday last "Bunch of Keys" nights.

—o—

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, pronounced the best minstrel organization in the field by the press of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, where they have played recent engagements, commence their season at the Bush next week.

Carroll Johnson, in versatility, ability and finish, is well known here as one of the best minstrels on the stage. Bob Slavin is distinctively quaint and humorous, a great fun-maker; Burt Haverly and Jay Quigley are deservedly popular comedians. There are eight endmen, eight vocalists and a score or more of first-class minstrel, sketch and specialty performers that form a company that the New York Herald claims "cannot be too highly commended;" the New York Star pronounced the "best," and the Boston Globe declared that "Boston has never seen its equal."

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels comes to us so liberally indorsed by the Eastern press that we feel assured that their season will be an eminently successful one in this city

A Special matinee at 2.30 P. M., April 30th, Centennial Day.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. The play is carefully constructed and sustains its interest well. Sothern plays the title-role somewhat as his father did Lord Dundreary, and wins many a point by his affected drawl. He makes the part fit him to a nicety. It is the neatest of dramatic studies. Mr. Bishop is warmly welcomed, and he plays the part of Adam Butterworth, who is very like Perkeyn Middlewyck, as only Bishop can play it.

Mr. Sothern's support is good, and the piece bids fair to run the two weeks allotted to it to large houses.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, will be the magnet at the Alcazar this week with Effie Ellsler, the original Hazel, in the part that she created and made famous.

It is hardly necessary to say that Miss Ellsler plays the part in the same charming way that has made it the ideal Hazel of the stage. Frank Weston gives a very strong impersonation of Dunstan Kirke, the old miller. Pittacus Green and Dolly Dutton are agreeably done by Mr. Wallis and Miss Brandon. Fanny Young gives good support as Mercy Kirke. Hazel Kirke is for this week only. It will be followed by The Sea of Ice on Monday.

The favorite comedian, L. R. Stockwell, also makes his reappearance on Monday night.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit on Monday, May 6th, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles.

Special matinee at 2.30 P. M., April 30th, Centennial Day.

Orpheum Opera House.

His Majesty, King Kalakaua's Na Lani Ehiku Club, an organization of Honolulu musicians, vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers—all natives—have been specially engaged by Manager Walter & Co. for the Orpheum, and put in appearances this week. They are six in number and certainly present a novelty as an attraction. The musical numbers are a study. The Orpheum gives us novelties from the four quarters of the globe, with one from a mid-ocean island occasionally thrown in.

In conjunction with this Royal Hawaiian [illegible] H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, headed by M'lle Aimee, the Austin Sisters and others in their last nights here.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

—o—

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, commence an engagement at the Orpheum next week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists.

Morosco's Ampnitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding, 30,049 feet of iron laths covered with three coatings of plaster. Many other improvements have been made in auditorium and in exits, etc., and a general renovation has been made in the theatre that adds to its comfort and makes it absolutely safe.

This week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy, a dramatization of Chas. Lever's popular novel detailing Andy's numerous blunders and their comical effects. The Wards are our best exponents of Irish character and give Andy and Oonah excellent representations.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Mercedes, the flying trapeze artiste, and Earl Tilla are the new faces this week.

The latest Eastern terpsichorean craze, entitled "Les Clodoche Automate," participated in by La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving, introduced by the old wirdling, Geo. H. Wood, concludes the performance, and is a great "go."

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Manager Wood promises a nine-days' sensation next week.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Miss Sadie Fairfield, Foster & Fowler, Billy Perent and Rose Sidell.

Dick Cummings' laughable absurdity, "Confusion," opens the bill; but there is no confusion about the old reliable's popularity. Manager Foster caters so successfully that its steady run of good biz. never falters.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Bursell, Ned Barry, Effie Hull and the Cummings are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

The programme concludes with Spiritual Investigations.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

A great show at the Cremorne this week, Frankie Russell, the smallest woman on earth, appears in a comedy sketch with Offy Goffty. Both scored a success. Offy Goffty really creates a deal of enjoyable fun.

Della Turner, the Mauri Sisters and Kittie Lillian are the new faces.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, Dwyer & Buckley, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

All the company in Cupid's Eye Glass.

Special engagement has been made and Big Bertha remains another week.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publico, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable comedy, That's All, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Lottie Gardner, with a musical finale.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The laughable farce, The Whatnot, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites at the Eureka.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled Rosey, the Pretzel Girl, and Geo. C Dunham in a new sketch.

Chas. Moreland's version of the Parisian Can-Can is a big feature of the bill.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, April 28th, picnic of the Arcade Social Club at Seaside Garden.

Sells Brothers and S. H. Barrett's United Circus.

Sells Brothers' Circus is the best one that ever visited us, but as he has this season consolidated S. H. Barrett's establishment with his own we may expect an arenic and menagerie exhibition that will eclipse all former ones entirely. Its great features are ennumerated in the performance announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we particularly call the attention of the reader to them.

Sells Brothers enter the city with a grand parade on Friday and give their first performance in the same evening at Central Park, Market street, corner of Eighth. Performances at 2 and 8 P. M. every day. Season closes Sunday night, May 5th.

Admission 50 cents. Reserved seats 50 cents extra; to be had for any performance at Sherman, Clay & Co's music store.

A BUNCH OF KEYS

By Chas. H. Hoyt.

The people who risk their lives, limbs and reputation in presenting the piece and the characters they are alleged to assume, may be learned by a careful study of the following table:

INDIVIDUALS IN ACT I.

Teddy Keys, a wild rosebud with accompanying thorns.....Louise Sanford
Rose Keys, her sister, also of the rose variety.....Ada Stanhope Pothner
May Keys, also a sister of Teddy, the third Keys.....Nellie L. Bowers
Dolly Dobbs, a singular domestic—that is, "she breaks no crockery"
.....Bertie Conway
Matilda Jenkins, searching for her lost one.....Emily Edwards
Gilly Spooner, a rural masher, engaged to Rose.....Harry Booker
Jonas Grimes, a brakeman, who is one of Nature's noblemen. This is the author's ideal of a perfect man. Watch him.....Jas. B. Mackie
Tom Harding, May's lover.....P. H. Clarke
Sam Foss looking for a job and gets one.....William Smith
Littleton Snaggs, Esq., a legal gentleman, who knows as much of running a hotel as a good many in that business do.....Charles Burke

DISGUISES ASSUMED IN ACTS II AND III

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must see the will. They try the safe. 'Grimes, remember the bell!" Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....APRIL 26, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show gives a special holiday matinee at the Orpheum on Tuesday at 2.

The Pleasure Theatre, Butte City, kept by Frank Monroe, closed in a collapsed condition on the 20th.

The Vienna gives a Washington anniversary matinee on Tuesday at 2 P. M.

The circus parade to-day took the cake. Sells Bros. and Barrett can be credited with giving us the best circus parade we ever had.

Fountain Theatre, Kansas City, April 22nd: The Victorellis, Jennie Pearl, the Stone Bros., Lee the Juggler, Cummings & O'Brien, Emile Grofe Graffe, Leonard & Hart, Hassall & Queen, Houlehan & Hayter and Geo. H. Diamond.

Mme. Louis Terme, the costumer, wants to retire from business and offers her well appointed establishment for sale in an entirety, or in portions. See advertisement.

Big Bertha and Oofty Goofty are great in the balcony scene from Romeo and Suliet. The Cremorne has full houses.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels open at the Bush on Monday next. See announce programme.

George Wood has got up an act in which he puts on Mlle. La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving at the Vienna this week. It is very funny.

Have you heard King Kalakau's Honolulu Musical Club. If you haven't, take them in—then go and hear Albani, and you will appreciate her.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. See programme in FIGARO. It is a big show.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show opens at the Orpheum next week. J. D. Hopkins, its manager, has returned to the city to look out for the return season of this big specialty combination here.

WANTED—A good serio-comic vocalist and three box women. Apply FIGARO Office.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

AN OVERLAND FLYER.

On May 5th a new overland train, via. Central and Union Pacific, will be put on, leaving San Francisco daily at 6:30 P. M. It will be the fastest train ever run between this city and the East. Passengers by it will be landed in Omaha in three days, in Chicago in three days and nineteen hours, and in New York in four days and twenty-one hours. The run to New York will be twenty-six hours shorter than it is made at present by the overland train. When this train goes on the line there will be a double daily service, as the old train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will continue to run as at present. The new train will be a limited affair, like the fast Eastern trains, and will carry only first-class passengers. The train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will be run on the same time as now. The vestibule overland train will be withdrawn, and give way to the continental flyer.

Add Weaver, the veteran minstrel, is seen about Union Square, New York, these spring days. He carries himself jauntly, and looks as young as ever.

Still Waters Run Deep is in active rehearsal at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, with Mrs. Booth as Mrs. Sternhold, Maude Harrison as Mrs. Mildmay, Louis Massen as Mr. Mildmay, and Maurice Barrymore as Captain Hawkins.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The New York Truth says: "Bob Hilliard has made a distinct hit with Nat Goodwin in The Gold Mine. I am glad to know that beneath the glare and glitter of the Broadway lounger there exists in Bob Hilliard's case a good heart and a kindly disposition. Some poor fellow was killed on one of the avenues last Saturday by a runaway horse. A couple of children were in the way, and the brave man jumped in between them and danger. He saved their lives and he lost his own, and that night he was carried to his home, where his loss was mourned by a loving wife and a number of little children. The story was told in Sunday's Press (and well told, too), and it caught the eye of Bob Hilliard. Before the afternoon he had waded through numerous dusty alleys and brushed his fashionable clothes all full of cobwebs in his search for the dead man's room. He found it at last and placed in the hands of the widow nearly seventy-five dollars he had collected from his companions. It was the first money that had come to her and she thanked Hilliard with a sob of mingled grief and gratitude. Queer people these actors, improvident, careless, utterly devoid of the meaning of commercial integrity, but sympathetic, generous and warm-hearted. Strangely enough you will always find the actor first in the field in behalf of charity, even when his own pockets sadly need a stitch or two."

At a recent concert of the Mendelssohn Society of New York the duet, "Sunset," by Stephen Massett, was so charmingly sung by the soprano and tenor that it was enthusiastically encored, being the only vocal piece on the programme that received this compliment. The duet is a very pretty one, melodious and vocal.

John A. Stevens, whose new play, Mask of Life, made such a distinct success in Brooklyn, has already arranged a ten weeks' tour of the Pacific Slope, opening at the Bush Street Theatre July 1st. After this the Oregon circuit will be visited; then Southern California, New Mexico, Texas, New Orleans and the Southern circuit. Mask of Life is now booked up to Christmas. It is not Mr. Stevens' intentions to act in it after the Western and Southern tour, but to direct it and give it a high-class company, headed by a starring sensational actress, experience having shown that Mask of Life is essentially a woman's play.

William Gill is a busy man these days. He has four new plays on hand, the most important being the latest Dixey burlesque.

Emily Soldene has an offer from W. A. Mestayer for next season, and will probably accept it. By the way, Mr. Mestayer will have one of the very strongest companies on the road next season.

Marion Manola, the prima donna of the McCaull Opera Co., has begun suit for divorce from her husband, who is known on the stage as Carl Irving. His real name is Mould.

Visalia boasts of the handsomest theatre between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The dedicatory services took place April 24th.

Special matinee performances will be given at the Bush and Alcazar, April 30th, Centennial Day, at 2:30 P. M.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Lewis Morrison has secured the Southern and far Western rights in The Dark Secret, and will send out a company with it next season, besides playing his regular Faust tour.

Helen Barry is still drawing well in A Woman's Stratagem at the Union Square, New York.

The McCaull Opera Company are actively rehearsing The Clover, which is to follow The May Queen at Palmer's, N. Y., about May 1st. Carrie Burton and Marion Manola will have the two leading female parts.

"What's the matter?" asked the manager of a burlesque show of the captain on a Sound steamer. "One of the lady members of your company has just fallen overboard." "Great heavens! There's no hope; she had her make-up on." "Her make-up?" "Yes, she had it on so heavy she has sunk to the bottom by this time."

Maurice Barrymore has bought a dog which he insists is a genuine Dandie Dinmont. It looks more like a long, low-studded and austere doormat, and never permits itself to lose sight of the fact that the dinner hour has arrived.

Show Your Tickets is the title of a new comedy to be produced next season.

Mantell's season will close May 5th.

Daniel Frohman will have seven companies under his management next season.

The Fairy's Well will be produced at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, Sept. 9th.

Adelaide Moore is preparing for her American tour.

Louise Montague will shortly return to America. She has had enough of Europe.

Lillian Conway is still seriously ill in the hospital with rheumatism.

Lydia Thompson intends making her home in New York.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience has a fine, raised seating capacity for 12,000 persons, fronting on an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, cutlass drills, cavalry battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting. You are besieged with the villainous smell of burnt powder, and grim-visaged war and its horrid din is all around you. You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you feel like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces forming altogether the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyro-

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....APRIL 26, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" keeps the fun alive at the Bush. It is witty, brainy and humorous, and one of most popular of Hoyt's successes. The company is specially selected to bring out its points with the best effect. They are very clever in their characterizations, and with new witticisms, songs and dances, they give a new flavor to Hoyt's comedy favorite.

The Keys—Teddy, Rose and May—have very vivacious and pleasing representatives in Misses Louise Sanborn, Ada Stanhope Bothner and Nellie Bowers, and Dolly Dobbs, played by Bertie Conway, is full of life.

There is plenty of light, catchy music in the piece that is notably well sung, and wins frequent deserved recalls.

Saturday and Sunday last "Bunch of Keys" nights.

—o—

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, pronounced the best minstrel organization in the field by the press of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, where they have played recent engagements, commence their season at the Bush next week.

Carroll Johnson, in versatility, ability and finish, is well known here as one of the best minstrels on the stage. Bob Slavin is distinctively quaint and humorous, a great fun-maker; Burt Haverly and Jay Quigley are deservedly popular comedians. There are eight endmen, eight vocalists and a score or more of first-class minstrel, sketch and specialty performers that form a company that the New York Herald claims "cannot be too highly commended;" the New York Star pronounced the "best," and the Boston Globe declared that "Boston has never seen its equal."

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels comes to us so liberally indorsed by the Eastern press that we feel assured that their season will be an eminently successful one in this city

Special matinee at 2 30 P.M., April 30th, Centennial Day.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. The play is carefully constructed and sustains its interest well. Sothern plays the title-role somewhat as his father did Lord Dundreary, and wins many a point by his affected drawl. He makes the part fit him to a nicety. It is the neatest of dramatic studies. Mr. Bishop is warmly welcomed, and he plays the part of Adam Butterworth, who is very like Perkeyn Middlewyck, as only Bishop can play it.

Mr. Sothern's support is good, and the piece bids fair to run the two weeks allotted to it to large houses.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Hazel Kirke," one of the most popular of all domestic songs in dramatic form, will be the magnet at the Alcazar this week with Effie Ellsler, the original Hazel, in the part that she created and made famous.

It is hardly necessary to say that Miss Ellsler plays the part in the same charming way that has made it the ideal Hazel of the stage. Frank Weston gives a very strong impersonation of Dunstan Kirke, the old miller. Pittacus Green and Dolly Dutton are agreeably done by Mr. Wallis and Miss Brandon. Fanny Young gives good support as Mercy Kirke. Hazel Kirke is for this week only. It will be followed by The Sea of Ice on Monday.

The favorite comedian, L. R. Stockwell, also makes his reappearance on Monday night.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit on Monday, May 6th, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles.

Special matinee at 2.30 P.M., April 30th, Centennial Day.

Orpheum Opera House.

His Majesty, King Kalakaua's Na Lani Ehiku Club, an organization of Honolulu musicians, vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers—all natives—have been specially engaged by Managers Walter & Co. for the Orpheum, and put in appearances this week. They are six in number and certainly present a novelty as an attraction. The musical numbers are a study. The Orpheum gives us novelties from the four quarters of the globe, with one from a mid-ocean island occasionally thrown in.

Slin corruption with this Royal Hawaiian Aimee, the Austin Sisters and others in their last nights here.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

—o—

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Valdis Twin Sisters, commence an engagement at the Orpheum next week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

A special matinee will be given on Tuesday, Centennial Day, at 2:30.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding, 30,049 feet of iron laths covered with three coatings of plaster. Many other improvements have been made in auditorium and in exits, etc., and a general renovation has been made in the theatre that adds to its comfort and makes it absolutely safe.

This week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward make their re-appearances in Handy Andy, a dramatization of Chas. Lever's popular novel detailing Andy's numerous blunders and their comical effects. The Wards are our best exponents of Irish character and give Andy and Oonah excellent representations.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week, the second and last week of the Wards' engagement, Hector O'Halloran; or, Marriage is Not a Failure, written expressly for the stars, will be the attraction.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels are the attraction this week. The troupe is composed of artists all strong in their various specialties and the programme is replete with amusing features.

Mercedes, the flying trapeze artiste, and Earl Tilla are the new faces this week.

The latest Eastern terpsichorean craze, entitled "Les Clodoche Automate," participated in by La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving, introduced by the old wirldling, Geo. H. Wood, concludes the performance, and is a great "go."

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Manager Wood promises a nine-days' sensation next week. The new people are Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon, the Gottlobs, Edwin Barry Alfred Roncovieric, Brown & Mason, Franke & O'Dell, Binton and Nellie Hephard.

A special matinee will be given Tuesday, April 30th, Centennial Day, at 2 P. M.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Miss Sadie Fairfield, Foster & Fowler, Billy Parent and Rose Sidell.

Dick Cummings' laughable absurdity, "Confusion," opens the bill; but there is no confusion about the old reliable's popularity. Manager Foster caters so successfully that its steady run of good biz. never falters.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ned Barry, Effie Hull and the Cummings are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

The programme concludes with Spiritual Investigations.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

A great show at the Cremorne this week, Frankie Russell, the smallest woman on earth, appears in a comedy sketch with Offy Goffy. Both scored a success. Offy Goffy really creates a deal of enjoyable fun.

Della Turner, the Mauri Sisters and Kittie Lillian are the new faces.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, Dwyer & Buckley, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

All the company in Cupid's Eye Glass.

Special engagement has been made and Big Bertha remains another week.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publicos, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable comedy, That's All, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Lottie Gardner, with a musical finale.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The laughable farce, The Whatnot, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Moreland & Nixon continue to hold their place as great favorites at the Eureka.

Franks & Morrison produce another pleasing specialty, entitled Rosey, the Pretzel Girl, and Geo. C Dunham in a new sketch.

Chas. Moreland's version of the Parisian Can-Can is a big feature of the bill.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sells Brothers and S. H. Barrett's United Circus.

Sells Brothers' Circus is the best one that ever visited us, but as he has this season consolidated S. H. Barrett's establishment with his own we may expect an arenic and menagerie exhibition that will eclipse all former ones entirely. Its great features are ennumerated in the performance announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we particularly call the attention of the reader to them.

Sells Brothers enter the city with a grand parade on Friday and give their first performance in the same evening at Central Park, Market street, corner of Eighth. Performances at 2 and 8 P. M. every day. Season closes Sunday night, May 5th.

Admission 50 cents. Reserved seats 50 cents

A BUNCH OF KEYS

By Chas. H. Hoyt.

The people who risk their lives, limbs and reputation in presenting the piece and the characters they are alleged to assume, may be learned by a careful study of the following table:

INDIVIDUALS IN ACT I.

Teddy Keys, a wild rosebud with accompanying thorns.....Louise Sanford
Rose Keys, her sister, also of the rose variety.....Ada Stanhope Pothner
May Keys, also a sister of Teddy, the third Keys.....Nellie L. Bowers
Dolly Dobbs, a singular domestic—that is, "she breaks no crockery".....Bertie Conway
Matilda Jenkins, searching for her lost one.....Emily Edwards
Gilly Spooner, a rural masher, engaged to Rose.....Harry Booker
Jonas Grimes, a brakeman, who is one of Nature's noblemen. This is the author's ideal of a perfect man. Watch him.....Jas. B. Mackie
Tom Harding, May's lover.....P. H. Clarke
Sam Foss looking for a job and gets one.....William Smith
Littleton Snaggs, Esq., a legal gentleman, who knows as much of running a hotel as a good many in that business do.....Charles Burke

DISGUISES ASSUMED IN ACTS II AND III

Col. St. Clair Bray, a politician } Rose Keys } .....Gilly Spooner
Miss Emma Poughkeepsie, operatic artiste.....Rose Keys
Signorina Jerseicity, operatic artiste.....May Keys
St. Lawrence Jenkins, a drummer.....Teddy Keys
Plug Muldoon, a Sullivanite.....Sam Foss

SYNOPSIS OF SCENERY AND INCIDENTS.

ACT I—The Will. Anxiety of the Keys Family. Arrival of Littleton Snaggs. Reading of the will. Concealment of the codicil. Snaggs opens the Grand View Hotel, as possession is nine points of the law. Teddy volunteers to assist, much to the disgust of the Keys family.

ACT II—The Hotel. The funniest of funny scenes. Hotel opens. Enough provisions for a regiment. "I'll run it according to law." We must see the will. They try the safe. 'Grimes, remember the bell.' Teddy's desire to give a ball. Guests arrive. Opera Singers, Politician, Lightning-Rod Agent. "Have a drink?" Matilda's search. The proposal. Snaggs not drunk, but sleepy. The suicide.

ACT III—Hotel after a storm. More guests. "He's a Pugilist." Arrival of a supposed drummer. The plot exposed. Success of the Keys family. Recovery of the codicil. Arrival of the real drummer. The decision. Consternation of Snaggs. Matilda's victory. "Good-bye."

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Tom Avery, a well known local sparrer, fell dead last night on the stage at the Cremorne Theatre while engaged in a six round contest with Ed. Cuffe, a recent arrival from the East. Paralysis of the heart is ascribed as the cause of death. Avery was the sole support of an aged mother. He was greatly esteemed by his associates.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show gives a special holiday matinee at the Orpheum on Tuesday at 2.

The Pleasure Theatre, Butte City, kept by Frank Monroe, closed in a collapsed condition on the 20th.

The Vienna gives a Washington anniversary matinee on Tuesday at 2 P. M.

Mme. Louis Terme, the costumer, wants to retire from business and offers her well appointed establishment for sale in an entirety, or in portions. See advertisement.

Big Bertha and Oofty Gooftv are great in the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet. The Cremorne has full houses.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels open at the Bush on Monday next. See announce programme.

George Wood has got up an act in which he puts on Mlle. La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving at the Vienna this week. It is very funny.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show opens at the Orpheum next week. J. D. Hopkins, its manager, has returned to the city to look out for the return season of this big specialty combination here.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

AN OVERLAND FLYER.

On May 5th a new overland train, via. Central and Union Pacific, will be put on, leaving San Francisco daily at 6:30 P. M. It will be the fastest train ever run between this city and the East. Passengers by it will be landed in Omaha in three days, in Chicago in three days and nineteen hours, and in New York in four days and twenty-one hours. The run to New York will be twenty-six hours shorter than it is made at present by the overland train. When this train goes on the line there will be a double daily service, as the old train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will continue to run as at present. The new train will be a limited affair, like the fast Eastern trains, and will carry only first-class passengers. The train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will be run on the same time as now. The vestibule overland train will be withdrawn, and give way to the continental flyer.

Add Weaver, the veteran minstrel, is seen about Union Square, New York, these spring days. He carries himself jauntly, and looks as young as ever.

Still Waters Run Deep is in active rehearsal at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, with Mrs. Booth as Mrs. Steinhold Maude Harrison as Mrs. Meldway, Louis Massen as Mr. Meldway, and Maurice Barrymore as Captain Hawkins.

Show Your Ticket is the title of a new comedy to be produced next season.

Mantell's season will close May 5th.

Daniel Frohman will have seven companies under his management next season.

Louise Montague will shortly return to America. She has had enough of Europe.

Lillian Conway is still seriously ill in the hospital with rheumatism.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Visalia boasts of the handsomest theatre between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The dedicatory services took place April 24th.

Special matinee performances will be given at the Bush and Alcazar, April 30th, Centennial Day, at 2:30 P. M.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Lewis Morrison has secured the Southern and far Western rights in The Dark Secret, and will send out a company with it next season, besides playing his regular Faust tour.

Carrie Burton joins the McCaull Opera Company May 1.

Charles Schroeder a former Californian, will manage Mrs. Potter next season.

Imre Kiralfy is going to Europe shortly in search of novelties.

Kate Clayton re-appears in New York May 6th, at the Windsor Theatre.

Kate Forsythe has decided to produce The Tigress in London in August.

Edward Harrigan will probably not be seen in New York again within two years.

Isabelle Coe will be the leading lady of Nat. Goodwin's company next season.

The Dark Secret drew $5,500 at Proctor's Hartford Opera House the week of April 1

Tony Pastor and his excellent Vaudeville company are now making their annual spring tour.

Miss Fanny Davenport played La Tosca to an average of $1,400 a performance in Denver.

Stage Manager Ben Teal has completed his new acting version of Twelfth Night for Miss Marie Wainwright.

There will be six or seven comic opera companies bidding for the patronage of New York theatre-goers this summer.

A new comic opera will be given at the Union Square Theatre, New York, June 3. Its title is Adrielle. The composer's name is Adahms.

Tony Pastor has engaged the pet of the London theatres, Bessie Bonehill, who is said to be a marvel of beauty and talent.

Prince and Pauper is the name of the play in which little Elsie Leslie will star next season under the management of Daniel Frohman.

John T. Sullivan, who went to London with Richard Mansfield, will be the leading man of Rose Coghlan's company next season, replacing Wilton Lackaye.

The three St. Felix sisters will return from a two years' tour of England in July.

Marie Wainwright will sail for Liverpool on the 30th.

Manager J. M. Hill has discovered a new dramatic luminary in Gladys Orme, a pretty fifteen-year-old girl.

Fanny Davenport will be married to Melbourne McDowell at the Little Church Around the Corner early in May.

Gertrude Coghlan the sixteen year old daughter of Charles Coghlan, will make her debut as a star within the next two years, she will be seen as Rosalind.

T. Henry French, owns all the plays in the country and some out of it, and draws royalty from all the theatres. He is said to have collected a royalty from a prize-fight from force of habit.

A famous London critic says that The Love Story in which Adelaide Moore is to make a starring tour of the United States next season tells in an unconventional manner a powerful and interesting story.

Loyalty a new war drama by H. Wayne Ellis will be produced at Harrigan's Park Theatre, New York, Saturday evening April 27th for a run. The cast will include E. J. Henley, John E. Kellard, James F. Jackson, Charles Stanley, S. R. Butler, Miss Lisle Leigh, Henrietta Irving and Lillie La Verde.

The McCaull Opera Company are actively rehearsing The Clover, which is to follow The May Queen at Palmer's, N. Y., about May 1st. Carrie Burton and Marion Manola will have the two leading female parts.

The New York Truth says: "Bob Hilliard has made a distinct hit with Nat Goodwin in The Gold Mine. I am glad to know that beneath the glare and glitter of the Broadway lounger there exists in Bob Hilliard's case a good heart and a kindly disposition. Some poor fellow was killed on one of the avenues last Saturday by a runaway horse. A couple of children were in the way, and the brave man jumped in between them and danger. He saved their lives and he lost his own, and that night he was carried to his home, where his loss was mourned by a loving wife and a number of little children. The story was told in Sunday's Press (and well told, too), and it caught the eye of Bob Hilliard. Before the afternoon he had waded through numerous dusty alleys and brushed his fashionable clothes all full of cobwebs in his search for the dead man's room. He found it at last and placed in the hands of the widow nearly seventy-five dollars he had collected from his companions. It was the first money that had come to her and she thanked Hilliard with a sob of mingled grief and gratitude. Queer people those actors, improvident, careless, utterly devoid of the meaning of commercial integrity, but sympathetic, generous and warm-hearted. Strangely enough you will always find the actor first in the field in behalf of charity, even when his own pockets sadly need a stitch or two."

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The portion of the block reserved for the audience has a fine, raised seating capacity for 12 000 persons, fronting on an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, cutlass drills, cavalry battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting. You are besieged with the villainous smell of burnt powder, and grim-visaged war and its horrid din is all around you. You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you feel like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces forming altogether the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyro-

EVENING EDITION

SATURDAY.....APRIL 27, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Chas. H. Hoyt's farcical comedy of "A Bunch of Keys" has kept the fun alive at the Bush and done a two weeks' good business. Those who would take it in before its departure have but two more nights to do so.

Saturday and Sunday last "Bunch of Keys" nights.

—o—

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels, pronounced the best minstrel organization in the field by the press of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, where they have played recent engagements, commence their season at the Bush next week.

Carroll Johnson, in versatility, ability and finish, is well known here as one of the best minstrels on the stage. Bob Slavin is distinctively quaint and humorous, a great fun-maker; Burt Haverly and Jay Quigley are deservedly popular comedians. There are eight endmen, eight vocalists and a score or more of first-class minstrel, sketch and specialty performers that form a company that the New York Herald claims "cannot be too highly commended;" the New York Star pronounced the "best," and the Boston Globe declared that "Boston has never seen its equal."

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels comes to us so liberally indorsed by the Eastern press that we feel assured that their season will be an eminently successful one in this city.

Special matinee at 2 30 P M., April 30th, Centennial Day.

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company. The play is carefully constructed and sustains its interest well. Sothern plays the title-role somewhat as his father did Lord Dundreary, and wins many a point by his affected drawl. He makes the part fit him to a nicety. It is the greatest of dramatic studies. Mr. Bishop is warmly welcomed, and he plays the part of Adam Butterworth, who is very like Perkeyn Middlewyck, as only Bishop can play it.

Mr. Sothern's support is good, and the piece bids fair to run the two weeks allotted to it to large houses.

Alcazar Theatre.

"Hazel Kirke" will have its last representation at the Alcazar Sunday night, with Effie Ellsler, the original Hazel, in the part that she created and made famous. It has drawn deservedly large houses.

The richly picturesque drama of the Sea of Ice is the Alcazar's card for next week, with its pictures of the wreck at sea, the castaways on a sea of ice in the Polar regions, its scenes in tropical Mexico, and its subsequent change of action to Parisian life. Miss Effie Ellsler plays the romantic role of Louise de Lascours and Miss Ethel Brandon Diane de Lascours. Frank Weston plays Raoul, and the favorite comedian, L. F. Stockwell, makes his reappearance as Barabbe, the sailor.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit on Monday, May 6th, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles.

Special matinee at 2 30 P M., April 30th, Centennial Day.

Orpheum Opera House.

His Majesty, King Kalakaua's Na Lani Ehiku Club, an organization of Honolulu musicians, vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers—all natives—put in their last appearances Sunday night. H. W. Williams' Own Specialty Company, from the East, headed by M'lle Aimee, the Austin Sisters and others, close here at the same time.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page.

—o—

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Valdis Twin Sisters, commence an engagement at the Orpheum next week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been indorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists.

Morosco's Ampaitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding, 30,049 feet of iron laths covered with three coatings of plaster. Many other improvements have been made in auditorium and in exits, etc., and a general renovation has been made in the theatre that adds to its comfort and makes it absolutely safe.

This week, James M. and Carrie Clark Ward sustained their popularity in Handy Andy. The Wards are our best exponents of Irish character and gave Andy and Oonah excellent representations.

Manager Morosco caters most popularly for this East-side house—his years of success attest that—and is indefatigable in his efforts to present his immense patronage with the best available dramatic attractions.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

Next week, the last week of the Wards' engagement, Hector O'Halloran; or, Marriage is Not a Failure, written expressly for the stars, will be the attraction, with James M. Ward in the title character and Carrie Clarke Ward as Kitty O'Leary. Besides the fun the Wards make, Timothy McCarthy, the Irish piper, livens up the play with the stirring music of his pipes as Norman Daly, the Irish Piper.

The Battles of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of Battle of Vicksburg is drawing crowds at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets. It gives a grand view of both battles, the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river; with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the iron-clads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre.

Mr. A. Larsen, assisted by the able management of Mr. George H. Wood, the somewhat different comedian, has placed the Vienna in the front ranks of our popular family theatres.

Geo. H. Wood's Melbourne Minstrels have given a programme replete with amusing features.

The latest Eastern terpsichorean craze, entitled "Les Clodoche Automate," participated in by La Tosca Bernhardt, Lillie Langtry, Adonis Dixey and Henry Irving, introduced by the old wirilding, Geo. H. Wood, concludes the performance, and is a great "go."

See programme announcement on this page.

Business is getting from good to better and big houses rule.

Manager Wood promises a nine-days' sensation next week. The new people are Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon, the Gottlobs, Edwin Barry, Alfred Roncovierie, Brown & Mason, Franks & O'Dell, Binten and Nellie Hephard.

A special matinee will be given Tuesday, April 30th, Centennial Day, at 2 P. M.

Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people for this week are: Miss Sadie Fairfield, Foster & Fowler, Billy Parent and Rose Sidell.

Dick Cummings' laughable absurdity, "Confusion," opens the bill; but there is no confusion about the old reliable's popularity. Manager Foster caters so successfully that its steady run of good biz. never falters.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Bursell, Ned Barry, Effie Hull and the Cummings are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

The programme concludes with Spiritual Investigations.

Amateur night every Friday.

The Bella Union is playing a large company, and they present a bill full of infinite variety.

The new people next week are Leo, Lang's Comiques, Antonio Martinez and Paul La Drew. The old favorites retained. E. R. Lang's version of Dan Mason's comedy, entitled A Bunch of Jays, opens the evening's entertainment.

Matinees every Sunday.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

A great show at the Cremorne this week, Frankie Russell, the smallest woman on earth, appears in a comedy sketch with Offty Goffty. Both scored a success. Offty Goffty really creates a deal of enjoyable fun.

Della Turner, the Mauri Sisters and Kittie Lillian are the new faces.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Sadie Denway, Dwyer & Buckley, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

All the company in Cupid's Eye Glass.

Special engagement has been made and Big Bertha remains another week.

Grand eight-round glove contest every Friday evening.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publico, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme. The laughable comedy, That's All, follows after, the leading characters impersonated by Morrell, Morris, Matt Trayers and Lottie Gardner, with a musical finale.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The laughable farce, The Whatnot, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Walton, Lillie Mason, Charles Franke, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialties

Sells Brothers and S. H. Barrett's United Circus.

Sells Brothers' Circus is the best one that ever visited us, but they have this season consolidated S. H. Barrett's establishment with their own, which makes an arenic and menag-

It takes two elevated stages and two equestrian rings to accommodate the arenic and specialty talent, and the trained wonders from its great storehouse of the double menagerie, including trained dwarf and monster elephants, hippopotami, etc., with exhibitions going on each stage all through the performance.

Sells Bros. are trustworthy, conscientious and most liberal managers, and they keep their promises with the public better than any circus men in the business. They announce a great show and they give it. Its features are enumerated in the programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we particularly call the attention of the reader to them.

For the first time in twenty-five years FIGARO was pied to-day. While on the way to Francis, Valentine & Co.'s steam pressrooms, at 5 P. M., one form was jolted from the carrier's wagon and completely pied in Montgomery street. The other two pages are "all right." We have had our Centennial pi

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show gives a special holiday matinee at the Orpheum on Tuesday at 2.

The Pleasure Theatre, Butte City, kept by Frank Monroe, closed in a collapsed condition on the 20th.

The Vienna gives a Washington anniversary matinee on Tuesday at 2 P. M.

Mme. Louis Terme, the costumer, wants to retire from business and offers her well appointed establishment for sale in an entirety, or in portions. See advertisement.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a great bill at the Bush this week.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show opens at the Orpheum this week.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

AN OVERLAND FLYER.

On May 5th a new overland train, via. Central and Union Pacific, will be put on, leaving San Francisco daily at 6:30 P. M. It will be the fastest train ever run between this city and the East. Passengers by it will be landed in Omaha in three days, in Chicago in three days and nineteen hours, and in New York in four days and twenty-one hours. The run to New York will be twenty-six hours shorter than it is made at present by the overland train. When this train goes on the line there will be a double daily service, as the old train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will continue to run as at present. The new train will be a limited affair, like the fast Eastern trains, and will carry only first-class passengers. The train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will be run on the same time as now. The vestibule overland train will be withdrawn, and give way to the continental flyer.

One of the highest compliments Edwin Booth, ever received was paid him by an old negro woman a family servant, who went to see a performance of Richelieu during Booth's visit to Savannah. Giving her impressions of the play to her mistress next day, she expressed the greatest concern for the health of the actor. "Poor old man," said she, "he can't last long; dat cough'll carry him to his grave shab."

Nellie Leonard was lately married at Brixton, England, to George Beauchamp.

Herr Brumbach, a Bavarian circus acrobat, lately wrote to the Emperor of Germany inviting that fiery young potentate to adopt his views in regard to government. Herr Brumbach's excellent penmanship has secured for him two years of ample physical exercise in an imperial fortress.

Charles F. Reynolds, a singing comedian, who as Mr. Reymond has traveled with the Hanlons, and a Brass Monkey, was lately arrested on the charge of giving worthless checks for small amounts.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

De Vivo, Albani's advance manager, left for the East to-day.

The opening night seats of the New California Theatre will be disposed of at auction. It is the only way to keep the speculators from gobbling them all up ahead, as they intended to.

Visalia boasts of the handsomest theatre between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The dedicatory services took place April 24th.

Special matinee performances will be given at the Bush and Alcazar, April 30th, Centennial Day, at 2:30 P. M.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Lewis Morrison has secured the Southern and far Western rights in The Dark Secret, and will send out a company with it next season, besides playing his regular Faust tour.

Kate Claxton re-appears in New York May 6th, at the Windsor Theatre.

Kate Forsythe has decided to produce The Tigress in London in August.

Edward Harrigan will probably not be seen in New York again within two years.

Isabelle Coe will be the leading lady of Nat. Goodwin's company next season.

The Dark Secret drew $5,500 at Proctor's Hartford Opera House the week of April 15.

Stage Manager Ben Teal has completed his new acting version of Twelfth Night for Miss Marie Wainwright.

There will be six or seven comic opera companies bidding for the patronage of New York theatre-goers this summer.

Tony Pastor has engaged the pet of the London theatres, Bessie Bonehill, who is said to be a marvel of beauty and talent.

John T. Sullivan, who went to London with Richard Mansfield, will be the leading man of Rose Coghlan's company next season, replacing Wilton Lackaye.

The three St. Felix sisters will return from a two years' tour of England in July.

Manager J. M. Hill has discovered a new dramatic luminary in Gladys Orme, a pretty fifteen-year-old girl.

Fanny Davenport will be married to Melbourne McDowell at the Little Church Around the Corner early in May.

Gertrude Coghlan the sixteen year old daughter of Charles Coghlan, will make her debut as a star witoin the next two years, she will be seen as Rosalind.

T. Henry French, owns all the plays in the country and some out of it, and draws royalty from all the theatres. He is said to have collected a royalty from a prize-fight from force of habit.

A famous London critic says that The Love Story in which Adelaide Moore is to make a starring tour of the United States next season tells in an unconventional manner a powerful and interesting story.

Loyalty a new war drama by H. Wayne Ellis was produced at Harrigan's Park Theatre, New York, Saturday evening April 27th for a run. The cast includes F. J. Henley, John F. Kellard, James E. Jackson, Charles Stanley, S. F. Butler, Miss Lisle Leigh, Henrietta Irving and Lillie La Verde.

The McCaull Opera Company are actively rehearsing The Clover, which is to follow The May Queen at Palmer's, N. Y., about May 1st. Carrie Burton and Marion Manola will have the two leading female parts.

Louise Montague will shortly return to America. She has had enough of Europe.

Lillian Conway is still seriously ill in the hospital with rheumatism.

Lydia Thompson intends making her home in New York.

Daniel Frohman will have seven companies under his management next season.

Laura Virgil Mainhall the divorced wife of Harry Mainhall, died at Colorado Springs April 20th, of Consumption. Laura Virgil was born at Troy, New York, in 1862. She early evinced a remarkable dramatic talent, and at the age of fifteen went upon the stage. On the 26th of March, 1880, Miss Virgil married Harry Mainhall, who was then leading man in a Chicago stock company. Her married life was not a happy one. Two years and seven months ago Mrs. Mainhall resumed her maiden name. Shortly afterwards she appeared at the Alcazar in Gus Williams' comedy, Oh What a Night. She then joined Harris'n Over the Garden Wall troupe, and traveled with it through Southern California, establishing herself as a footlight favorite by conscientious work, together with unusual natural ability as a soubrette actress. Her health began to fail and she was compelled to retire from the stage. She spent the months of May and June last year in Denver and returned to this city in July. She continued to grow worse and, as a last resort, went to Colorado Springs, where she died.

The New York Truth says: "Bob Hilliard has made a distinct hit with Nat Goodwin in The Gold Mine. I am glad to know that beneath the glare and glitter of the Broadway lounger there exists in Bob Hilliard's case a good heart and a kindly disposition. Some poor fellow was killed on one of the avenues last Saturday by a runaway horse. A couple of children were in the way, and the brave man jumped in between them and danger. He saved their lives and he lost his own, and that night he was carried to his home, where his loss was mourned by a loving wife and a number of little children. The story was told in Sunday's Press (and well told, too), and it caught the eye of Bob Hilliard. Before the afternoon he had waded through numerous dusty alleys and brushed his fashionable clothes all full of cobwebs in his search for the dead man's room. He found it at last and placed in the hands of the widow nearly seventy-five dollars he had collected from his companions. It was the first money that had come to her and she thanked Hilliard with a sob of mingled grief and gratitude. Queer people these actors, improvident, careless, utterly devoid of the meaning of commercial integrity, but sympathetic, generous and warm-hearted. Strangely enough you will always find the actor first in the field in behalf of charity,

EVENING EDITION

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 1, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PIED

For the first time in twenty-five years FIGARO was pied yesterday. While on the way to Francis, Valentine & Co.'s steam pressrooms, at 5 P. M., one form was jolted from the carrier's wagon and completely pied in Montgomery street. The other two pages are "all right." We have had our Centennial pi, and have not got through with it yet.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Call opines that "Carroll Johnson is a very clever minstrel, has a fine voice, is a neat dancer and has plenty of genuine humor. He deserves to rank with Billy Emerson, the king of minstrels," but Bob Slavin's monologue specialty takes the cake in quaint humor.

Big Bertha is re-engaged at the Cremorne, appearing y have "Pigs in Clover" at the Cremorne. Bertha's benefit to-morrow night.

Ned Nestell returned from Oregon today, and will shortly make his re-appearance here.

To drop into Sells Bros. & Barrett's big tent one would think that some Presidential nominating convention was in session there by the thousands present. There is a circus boom in the town.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns as Joe Blood, in Little Lord Chumpy, deserves mention.

James Hoover, the officer at the Bush, mourns the loss of his mother, who died in Rochester at the age of 70.

The Bella Union has an excellent bill this week. The opening piece, A Bunch of Jays, and the Parisian Can-Can are the main features of the bill.

We are sorry to chronicle the derth of Miss Rose Clifford's son. The little one died last Saturday of heart disease. The remains were embalmed here and shipped to San Francisco, Miss Clifford accompanying the same. She will return in about two weeks.—[Butte City Miner.

The many friends of Miss Clifford will sympathise with her in her bereavement. Her devotion to her boy was deep and strong, and young as he was she had many hopes and plans for his future. Now the grave covers all.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon, give a three-round boxing contest every night that are so warm that the Vienna's audiences "bile" over with excitement.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show is drawing big houses at the Orpheum.

Mme. Louis Terme, the costumer, wants to retire from business and offers her well appointed establishment for sale in an entirety, or in portions. See advertisement.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a great bill at the Bush this week. The town is taking the minstrels in.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

Herr Brumbach, a Bavarian circus acro- [illegible] lately wrote to the Emperor of G[illegible]

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Miss Ethel Brandon has a testimonial benefit at the Alcazar Monday night, when the Two Orphans will be produced.

Sothern's Lord Chumley at the Baldwin will be withdrawn after this week. Next week he appears in his comedy success of The Highest Bidder.

The Windsor Theatre, Chicago, on the North side, was burned April 30th. Loss, $75,000

The Sea of Ice, with its pictures of Arctic, Mexican and Paris life, with Effie Ellsler, Ethel Brandon, L. R. Stockwell and Frank Weston in the leading parts, is drawing as it ought to at the Alcazar.

Carl Rosa, the well known musical director, is dead. He went to Paris on the 29th of April to attend the Italian Opera performance. In crossing the channel he was attacked by a chill. Peretonitis set in and death soon followed. Carl Rosa was born in Hamburg forty-two years ago. His first wife was Mme. Parepa, whom he married during his first tour of the United States.

De Vivo, Albani's advance manager, left for Denver on Monday.

The opening night seats of the New California Theatre will be disposed of at auction. It is the only way to keep the speculators from gobbling them all up ahead, as they intended to.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Lewis Morrison has secured the Southern and far Western rights in The Dark Secret, and will send out a company with it next season, besides playing his regular Faust tour.

Kate Claxton re-appears in New York, May 6th, at the Windsor Theatre.

Kate Forsythe has decided to produce The Tigress in London in August.

Isabelle Coe will be the leading lady of Nat. Goodwin's company next season.

Stage Manager Ben Teal has completed his new acting version of Twelfth Night for Miss Marie Wainwright.

There will be six or seven comic opera companies bidding for the patronage of New York theatre-goers this summer.

Tony Pastor has engaged the pet of the London theatres, Bessie Bonehill, who is said to be a marvel of beauty and talent.

John T. Sullivan, who went to London with Richard Mansfield, will be the leading man of Rose Coghlan's company next season, replacing Wilton Lackaye.

The three St. Felix sisters will return from a two years' tour of England in July.

Manager J. M. Hill has discovered a new dramatic luminary in Gladys Orme, a pretty fifteen-year-old girl.

Fanny Davenport will be married to Melbourne McDowell at the Little Church Around the Corner early in May.

Gertrude Coghlan the sixteen year old daughter of Charles Coghlan, will make her debut as a star within the next two years, she will be seen as Rosalind.

Loyalty a new war drama by H. Wayne Ellis was produced at Harrigan's Park Theatre, New York, Saturday evening April 27th for a run. The cast includes E. J. Henley, John E. Kellard, James E. Jackson, Charles Stanley, S. B. Butler, Miss Lisle Leigh, Henrietta Irving and Lillie La Verde.

Louise Montague will shortly return to America. She has had enough of Europe.

Lillian Conway is still seriously ill in the hospital with rheumatism.

Lydia Thompson intends making her home in New York.

Daniel Frohman will have seven companies under his management next season.

Laura Virgil Mainhall the divorced wife of Harry Mainhall, died at Colorado Springs April 20th, of Consumption. Laura Virgil was born at Troy, New York, in 1862. She early evinced a remarkable dramatic talent, and at the age of fifteen went upon the stage. On the 26th of March, 1880, Miss Virgil married Harry Mainhall, who was then leading man in a Chicago stock company. Her married life was not a happy one. Two years and seven months ago Mrs. Mainhall resumed her maiden name. Shortly afterwards she appeared at the Alcazar in Gus Williams' comedy, Oh What a Night. She then joined Harris-n's Over the Garden Wall troupe, and traveled with it through Southern California, establishing herself as a footlight favorite by conscientious work, together with unusual natural ability as a soubrette actress. Her health began to fail and she was compelled to retire from the stage. She spent the months of May and June last year in Denver and returned to this city in July. She continued to grow worse and, as a last resort, went to Colorado Springs, where she died.

One of the highest compliments Edwin Booth, ever received was paid him by an old negro woman a family servant, who went to see a performance of Richelieu during Booth's visit to Savannah. Giving her impressions of the play to her mistress next day, she expressed the greatest concern for the health of the actor. "Poor old man," said she, "he can't last long; dat cough'll carry him to his grave soah."

Digby Bell and his wife, Laura Joyce, have resigned from the McCaull Opera Company, to take effect May 1.

Add Weaver, the veteran minstrel, is seen about Union Square, New York, these spring days. He carries himself jauntily, and looks as young as ever.

Still Waters Run Deep is in active rehearsal at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, with Mrs. Booth as Mrs. Sternhold, Maude Harrison as Mrs. Mildmay, Louis Massen as Mr. Mildmay, and Maurice Barrymore as Captain Hawkins.

Show Your Tickets is the title of a new comedy to be produced next season.

AN OVERLAND FLYER.

On May 5th a new overland train, via. Central and Union Pacific, will be put on, leaving San Francisco daily at 6:30 P. M. It will be the fastest train ever run between this city and the East. Passengers by it will be landed in Omaha in three days, in Chicago in three days and nineteen hours, and in New York in four days and twenty-one hours. The run to New York will be twenty-six hours shorter than it is made at present by the overland train. When this train goes on the line there will be a double daily service, as the old train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will continue to run as at present. The new train will be a limited affair, like the fast Eastern trains, and will carry only first-class passengers. The train leaving at 3:30 P. M. will be run on the same time as now. The vestibule overland train

EVENING EDITION

THURSDAY.....MAY 2, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

PIED

Our pied form was the worst on record—there was not a line of it left standing' and the type was brought back to us in a bucket; but we have it distributed, and will come out with our full four-page edition to-morrow.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

The Call opines that 'Carroll Johnson is a very clever minstrel, has a fine voice, is a neat dancer and has plenty of genuine humor. He deserves to rank with Billy Emerson, the king of minstrels," but Bob Slavin's monologue specialty takes the cake in quaint humor.

Big Bertha is re-engaged at the Cremorne, appearing every night. They have "Pigs in Clover" at the Cremorne Bertha's benefit to-night.

Ned Nestell has returned from Oregon and will shortly make his re-appearance here.

To drop into Sells Bros. & Barrett's big tent one would think that some Presidential nominating convention was in session there by the thousands present. There is a circus boom in the town.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns as Joe Blood, in Little Lord Chumpy, deserves mention.

James Hoover, the officer at the Bush, mourns the loss of his mother, who died in Rochester at the age of 70.

The Bella Ueion has an excellent bill this week. The opening piece, A Bunch of Jays, and the Parisian Can-Can are the main features of the bill.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon, give a three-round boxing contest every night that are so warm that the Vienna's audiences "bile" over with excitement.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show is drawing big houses at the Orpheum.

Mme. Louis Terme, the costumer, wants to retire from business and offers her well appointed establishment for sale in an entirety, or in portions. See advertisement.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a great bill at the Bush this week. The town is taking the minstrels in.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Morina and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

Add Weaver, the veteran minstrel, is seen about Union Square, New York, these spring days. He carries himself jauntly, and looks as young as ever.

Still Waters Run Deep is in active rehearsal at the Madison Square Theatre, New York, with Mrs. Booth as Mrs. Sternhold, Maude Harrison as Mrs. Mildmay, Louis Massen as Mr. Mildmay, and Maurice Barrymore as Captain Hawkins.

Nellie Lingard was lately married at Brixton, England, to George Beauchamy.

A famous London critic says that The Love Story in which Adelaide Moore is to make a starring tour of the United States next season tells in an unconventional manner a powerful and interesting story.

Charles F. Reynolds, a singing comedian, is seen about Union Square, New York, these spring days. He carries himself jauntly, and looks as young as ever.

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Harry Mann has arrived from New York—to stay, this time. He is to be the acting manager of the New California Theatre.

Miss Ethel Brandon has a testimonial benefit at the Alcazar Monday night, when the Two Orphans will be produced.

Sothern's Lord Chumley at the Baldwin will be withdrawn after this week. Next week he appears in his comedy success of The Highest Bidder.

Arthur B. Chase, manager for Booth & Barrett, is in town.

The Windsor Theatre, Chicago, on the North side, was burned April 30th. Loss, $75,000.

The Sea of Ice, with its pictures of Arctic, Mexican and Paris life, with Effie Ellsler, Ethel Brandon, L. R. Stockwell and Frank Weston in the leading parts, is drawing as it ought to at the Alcazar.

Mr. Holloway, manager of Mattie Vickers, arrived to-day.

The New California Theatre opens on Monday week with the Booth & Barrett Company in Othello, which will keep the stage the week out. Booth as Othello and Barrett as Iago Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. On Wednesday and Saturday nights they will change characters.

Carl Rosa, the well known musical director, is dead. He went to Paris on the 29th of April to attend the Italian Opera performance. In crossing the channel he was attacked by a chill. Peretonitis set in and death soon followed. Carl Rosa was born in Hamburg forty-two years ago. His first wife was Mme. Parepa, whom he married during his first tour of the United States.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Lewis Morrison has secured the Southern and far Western rights in The Dark Secret, and will send out a company with it next season, besides playing his regular Faust tour.

Sothern's next week's comedy, "The Highest Bidder," has no reference to the auction sale of seats for the New California Theatre next Tuesday.

Kate Claxton re-appears in New York, May 6th, at the Windsor Theatre.

Kate Forsythe has decided to produce The Tigress in London in August.

Isabelle Coe will be the leading lady of Nat. Goodwin's company next season.

Stage Manager Ben Teal has completed his new acting version of Twelfth Night for Miss Marie Wainwright.

There will be six or seven comic opera companies bidding for the patronage of New York theatre-goers this summer.

The opening night seats of the New California Theatre will be disposed of at auction. It is the only way to keep the speculators from gobbling them all up ahead, as they intended to. The sale will take place at the Baldwin Theatre on Tuesday, at 11 A. M., by Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., the choice of boxes being sold first. After, the seats in the circles will be sold. Booth and Barrett open in Othello.

Tony Pastor has engaged the pet of the London theatres, Bessie Bonehill, who is said to be a marvel of beauty and talent.

John T. Sullivan, who went to London with Richard Mansfield, will be the leading man of Rose Coghlan's company next season, replacing Wilton Lackaye.

The three St. Felix sisters will return from a two years' tour of England in July.

Manager J. M. Hill has discovered a new dramatic luminary in Gladys Orme, a pretty fifteen-year-old girl.

Fanny Davenport will be married to Melbourne McDowell at the Little Church Around the Corner early in May.

Gertrude Coghlan the sixteen year old daughter of Charles Coghlan, will make her debut as a star within the next two years, she will be seen as Rosalind.

Loyalty a new war drama by H. Wayne Ellis was produced at Harrigan's Park Theatre, New York, Saturday evening April 27th for a run. The cast includes E. J. Henley, John E. Kellard, James E. Jackson, Charles Stanley, S. B. Butler, Miss Lisle Leigh, Henrietta Irving and Lillie La Verde.

Louise Montague will shortly return to America. She has had enough of Europe.

Lillian Conway is still seriously ill in the hospital with rheumatism.

Lydia Thompson intends making her home in New York.

Daniel Frohman will have seven companies under his management next season.

One of the highest compliments Edwin Booth, ever received was paid him by an old negro woman a family servant, who went to see a performance of Richelieu during Booth's visit to Savannah. Giving her impressions of the play to her mistress next day, she expressed the greatest concern for the health of the actor. "Poor old man," said she, "he can't last long; dat cough'll carry him to his grave suah."

Digby Bell and his wife, Laura Joyce, have resigned from the McCaull Opera Company, to take effect May 1.

Show Your Tickets is the title of a new comedy to be produced next season.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand to hand conflicts, and the dying and

EVENING EDITION

FRIDAY.....MAY 3, 1889

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

Our "pi" has been assorted and thrown in the cases again, re-set, and is in the regular four page issue of FIGARO to-day. When it was brought home to us in a bucket, it was the most demoralized lot of type we ever looked upon. But we have got it straightened out again in the pain of duty, and trust it will not carry any of its demoralized condition into our columns.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

It will be a special night at the Siege of Sebastopol on Saturday when Gov. Waterman will attend. For this occasion new set pieces of fireworks, specialties, novelties and a mammoth firework portrait of Gov. Waterman.

They have a lightning driller at the Siege of Sebastopol that knocks out old lightning himself in quickness of movement. When he gives his rifle a twirl it makes the stars blink.

The poor player of the present times is the local baseball player. The Call says: "The game at the Haight street Park yesterday (Thursday) afternoon was poorly attended, and the exhibition was in keeping with the size of the audience. The Sacramentos and Oaklands played one of the most tiresome games of this season. The Oaklands earned but three of the nineteen runs made for their side, while all the scoring of the Capital City boys resulted through errors." The score was 19 to 10. The public are losing interest in baseball, very naturally, with such poor playing.

L. DeGrean, a well-known trapeze performer, was seriously injured, on May Day, at the New Pleasure Gardens on Temple St., Los Angeles, by the giving away of the ropes that held the trapeze. D Grean was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to the hospital.

The Call opines that 'Carroll Johnson is a very clever minstrel, has a fine voice, is a neat dancer and has plenty of genuine humor. He deserves to rank with Billy Emerson, the king of minstrels," but Bob Slavin's monologue specialty takes the cake in quaint humor.

Big Bertha is re-engaged at the Cremorne, appearing every night. They have "Pigs in Clover" at the Cremorne.

Ned Nestell has returned from Oregon and will shortly make his re-appearance here.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns as Joe Blood, in Little Lord Chumpy, deserves mention.

The Bella Ueion has an excellent bill this week. The opening piece, A Bunch of Jays, and the Parisian Can-Can are the main features of the bill.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon, give a three-round boxing contest every night that are so warm that the Vienna's audiences "bile" over with excitement.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show is drawing big houses at the Orpheum.

Mme. Louis Terme, the costumer, wants to retire from business and offers her well appointed establishment for sale in an entirety, or in portions. See advertisement.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a great bill at the Bush this week. The town is taking the minstrels in.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Travers' fine tenor and Miss Bradden and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Buffalo Bill (Col. Cody) will commence his Wild West season in Paris, May 16. After the Parisian season ends, the exhibition will proceed to London, where entertainments will be given in a building, much the same as those given in the Madison Square Garden two winters ago. Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, and possibly Madrid, will be visited in turn. The return to this country will be in about three years.

Manager M. B. Leavitt has booked He, She, Him, Her, for a summer engagement at the Bush Street Theatre.

The following letter explains itself:

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20, 1889.

MISS ETHEL BRANDON,
Alcazar Theatre:

In appreciation of your versatility and earnest endeavors to please and entertain the public professionally, also of your social qualities, we, the undersigned, tender a testimonial. The management of the Alaczar have kindly named Monday evening, the 6 th of May. Trusting you may accept, with best wishes and respect, we subscribe ourselves,

Yours cordially,

WALTER H. LEVY,	W. S. WOOD,
F. W. LAWLER,	R. B. MITCHELL,
J. F. SULLIVAN.	CRITTENDEN HORNTON.
GEORGE K GARBER,	JOSEPH M. NOUGUES,
W. W. FOOTE,	W. H. L. BARNES,
O. O'CONNOR,	LOUIS SLOSS,
JOHN H. DICKINSON,	T. J. CLUNIE

C. D. Bennett has been engaged by J. K. Emmet to create the leading juvenile part in his new play, Uncle Joe. Mr. Bennet is a clever, intelligent and handsome young actor who is sure to make his mark. Next season Mr. Bennet will star in a new play by a well-known author.

Mr. Henry F. Hoyt, (not the comedy writer) is designing one of the big ballet scenes for the coming spectacular production at the Chicago Opera House, of Blue-beard Jr., or Fatima and the Fairy. Miss Edith Murilla, the soubrette in the Still Alarm, will play the part of Fatima during the coming summer. Miss Murilla is one of the best and most original dancers upon the stage.

The partnership between Robson and Crane comes to an end May 11th, which will be the date of their last performance at the Star Theatre.

To drop into Sells Bros. & Barrett's big tent one would think that some Presidential nominating convention was in session there by the thousands present. There is a circus boom in the town.

Harry Mann has arrived from New York—to stay, this time. He is to be the acting manager of the New California Theatre.

Miss Ethel Brandon has a testimonial benefit at the Alcazar Monday night, when the Two Orphans will be produced.

Sothern's Lord Chumley at the Baldwin will be withdrawn after this week. Next week he appears in his comedy success of The Highest Bidder.

Arthur B. Chase, manager for Booth & Barrett, is in town.

The Windsor Theatre, Chicago, on the North side, was burned April 30th. Loss, $75,000

The Sea of Ice, with its pictures of Arctic, Mexican and Paris life, with Effie Ellsler, Ethel Brandon, L. R. Stockwell and Frank Weston in the leading parts, is drawing as it ought to at the Alcazar.

Mr. Holloway, manager of Mattie Vickers, arrived Thursday.

The New California Theatre opens on Monday week with the Booth & Barrett Company in Othello, which will keep the stage the week out. Booth as Othello and Barrett as Iago Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. On Wednesday and Saturday nights they will change characters.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Lewis Morrison has secured the Southern and far Western rights in The Dark Secret, and will send out a company with it next season, besides playing his regular Faust tour.

Sothern's next week's comedy, "The Highest Bidder," has no reference to the auction sale of seats for the New California Theatre next Tuesday.

Kate Clayton re-appears in New York, May 6th, at the Windsor Theatre.

Kate Forsythe has decided to produce The Tigress in London in August.

Isabelle Coe will be the leading lady of Nat. Goodwin's company next season.

Stage Manager Ben Teal has completed his new acting version of Twelfth Night for Miss Marie Wainwright.

There will be six or seven comic opera companies bidding for the patronage of New York theatre-goers this summer.

The opening night seats of the New California Theatre will be disposed of at auction. It is the only way to keep the speculators from gobbling them all up ahead, as they intended to. The sale will take place at the Baldwin Theatre on Tuesday, at 11 A. M., by Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., the choice of boxes being sold first. After, the seats in the circles will be sold. Booth and Barrett open in Othello.

Tony Pastor has engaged the pet of the London theatres, Bessie Bonehill, who is said to be a marvel of beauty and talent.

John T. Sullivan, who went to London with Richard Mansfield, will be the leading man of Rose Coghlan's company next season, replacing Wilton Lackaye.

Manager J. M. Hill has discovered a new dramatic luminary in Gladys Orme, a pretty fifteen-year-old girl.

Imre Kiralfy produced The Black Crook at the Brooklyn Academy of Music April 22 with renewed magnificence of scenery, costumes and grand ballets. Upward of 300 people were employed in the represen-

EVENING EDITION.

FRIDAY.....MAY 3, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Lehvitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's minstrel season is limited to two weeks at the Bush. In speaking of this company the New York Herald claims that they "cannot be too highly commended," the New York Star pronounces them "the best," and the Boston Globe declares that "Boston has never seen their equal."

Of their performance at the Bush the Chronicle says: "A minstrel performance with anything novel in it is almost as rare as a white blackbird, and yet the modern miracle was presented last evening by Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels at the Bush Street Theatre. It is an actual fact, incredible though it may seem, that there were new songs, new jokes and new attractions of different kinds, all of which served to take the performance out of that well worn and dreary rut which is known as the minstrel show. The troupe has three very clever minstrels in it, Carroll Johnson, Bob Slavin and Burt Haverly, and a number of lesser lights who add to the interest and fun of the entertainment. Bob Slavin has, or seems to have, a good deal of originality about him, and Carroll Johnson and Burt Haverly do not appear to feel bound to travel in the beaten track all the time. Jay Quigley, too, aids materially in carrying out the fun of the evening, and looks so preternaturally solemn that the contrast with the others is laughable in itself. Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time; and as this kind of entertainment is always popular here when well done, there is no reason why their two weeks' engagement should not fill the Bush Street Theatre every evening."

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company, for his second week. The play is carefully constructed and sustains its interest well. Sothern plays the title role somewhat as his father did Lord Dundreary. He makes the part fit him to a nicety. It is the neatest of dramatic studies. Mr. Bishop makes a strong part of Adam Butterworth.

Mr. Sothern's support is good. Herbert Archer gives a finished characterization of the French villain, Le Sage, and all the cast act their parts acceptably.

Mr. Sothern produces his comedy successt The Highest Bidder, on Monday for his last week at the Baldwin.

Alcazar Theater.

The richly picturesque drama of the Sea of Ice, with Miss Effie Ellsler as Louise de Lascours Miss Ethel Brandon as Diane de Lascours. Frank Weston as Raoul, and the favorite comedian L. R Stockwell, as Barabas, the sailor, has drawn largely at the Alcazar this week.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit on Monday night, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles. The beneficiary is an attractive and a popular actress, and has many friends in society.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman definitely announces the opening of the New California Theatre for Monday evening, May 13th, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece. Seats for the first night will be sold at public auction on Tuesday at 11 A. M. in the auditorium of the Baldwin Theatre; Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., auctioneers. The regular sale of seats for all the performances will commence on Wednesday at Sherman & Clay's music store.

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are playing a good engagement at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announce-

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, the last week of the Wards' engagement, Hector O'Halloran; or, Marriage is Not a Failure, with James M. Ward in the title character and Carrie Clark Ward as Kitty O'Leary. Besides the fun the Wards make Timothy McCarthy, the Irish piper, livens up the play with the stirring music.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements. Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

Manager Wood gives us a genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon. The new specialty people are the Gottlobs, Edwin Barry, Alfred Roncovierie, Brown & Mason, Franks & O'Dell, Binten and Nellie Hephard.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people this week are Leo, Lang's Comiques, Antonio Martinez and Paul La Drew. The old favorites are retained. E. R. Lang's version of Dan Mason's comedy, entitled A Bunch of Jays, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast and not a "jay" among them—but a clever set of performers who create a deal of fun in it.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Billy Parent, Effie Hull and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Tommy Donnelly, Dick and Ida Cummings, Martin & Rushton and the original Eclipse Quartette are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Della Turner, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Big Bertha has been re-engaged and appears every night.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publicos with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Little Lord Chumpy, is the interlude act.

The laughable farce, Waiting for the Good Time, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Merriam, Lillie Mason, Pearl Iola, Bob McDonald, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable

Franks & Morrison give another of their original Hebrew specialties. The Disgusted Pawnbroker, and Geo. C. Dunham is down for a neat turn.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 5th, a grand picnic and ball at Seaside Gardens.

Sells Brothers & S. H. Barrett's United Circus.

The great exhibition given by this three-ring double circus and menagerie closes on Sunday night. The display of equestrian, arenic and specialty talent is immense, and its menagerie is the most complete ever exhibited here.

The managers announce a great show and they give it. Its features are enumerated in the programme announcement elsewhere in FIGARO, and we particularly call the attention of the reader to them. Take in the circus before it leaves, for you will not see another one like it here very soon.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering, before you on the assaulting like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Cort's Standard, Portland, Oregon, April 29. Mlle. Garretta, Mason, Miller & Mason, Edward Barnell, Carrie Bridgley, Musical Fletcher, new, old favorites retained. McSorley's Picnic concludes the performance.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, April 29. The Tredors, Carrie Delmar, The Fredetts and Leonzo, the Juggler new, all the old favorites retained.

Clinton's Theatre, Royal, Portland Or., April 29. The Phoites, Jennie Fowler, Riely, Stanley & Hayes, new.

Arion Theatre, Butte City, week of April 29: Hadley Bros., Everett & Stanley, Minnie Flynn, Morrissey & Rich, Kittie Loreine, Fisher & Wall, Allen & Forrest, Dollie Weston, Kittie Chapman, Stanley & Sedley, Ward & Lee, Nellie Wilson, Nora Milton, Lottie Bell and Frank Binney.

The poor player of the present times is the local baseball player. The Call says: "The game at the Haight street Park yesterday (Thursday) afternoon was poorly attended, and the exhibition was in keeping with the size of the audience. The Sacramentos and Oaklands played one of the most tiresome games of this season. The Chronicle burned them up in this way: "If there had been during the game one single redeeming feature, the burlesque might have been in a measure overlooked, but there was not, and the players and managers deserved the guying they received, and it is impossible to censure them too highly." The score was 19 to 10 The public are losing interest in baseball, very naturally, with such playing.

They have a lightning driller at the Siege of Sebastopol that knocks out old lightning himself in quickness of movement. When he gives his rifle a twirl it makes the stars blink.

L. DeGrean, a well-known trapeze performer, was seriously injured, on May Day at the New Pleasure Gardens on Temple St., Los Angeles, by the giving away of the ropes that held the trapeze. DeGrean was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to the hospital.

The Call opines that "Carroll Johnson is a very clever minstrel, has a fine voice, is a neat dancer and has plenty of genuine humor. He deserves to rank with Billy Emerson, the king of minstrels," but Bob Slavin's monologue specialty takes the cake in quaint humor.

Big Bertha is re-engaged at the Cremorne, appearing every night. They have "Pigs in Clover" at the Cremorne.

Ned Nestell has returned from Oregon and will shortly make his re-appearance here.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns as Joe Blood, in Little Lord Chumpy, deserves mention.

The Bella Union has an excellent bill this week. The opening piece, A Bunch of Jays, and the Parisian Can-Can are the main features of the bill.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon, give a three-round boxing contest every night that are so warm that the Vienna's audiences "bile" over with excitement.

Reilly & Wood's New Big Show is drawing big houses at the Orpheum.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a great bill at the Bush this week. The town is taking the minstrels in.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Trayers' fine tenor and Miss Braddon and Miss Mayfield's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has [illegible]. The ladies are

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

Hattie Delano-Barnes, was in the cast of Donetta, the new comic opera, when it was produced at the Standard, N. Y. April 22. The opera has not proved the success expected.

Mrs. Potter will play Rosalind next season.

Mr. Charles Frohman will come to California this summer, with the Lyceum Theatre company, in the road business of which he is heavily interested.

Viola Allen will be a member of the Jefferson-Florence Co. next season.

Rose Thorne has secured a divorce from her husband, Edwin F. Thorne, the actor. Mrs. Thorne was the divorced wife of Sam Harrison at the time of her marriage with Thorne. With the fair Rose marriage is evidently a bitter failure.

Sothern appears in his comedy success of The Highest Bidder at the Baldwin next week.

The Sea of Ice, with its pictures of Arctic, Mexican and Paris life, with Effie Ellsler, Ethel Brandon, L. R. Stockwell and Frank Weston in the leading parts, will be given for the last time Sunday night at the Alcazar.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Buffalo Bill (Col. Cody) will commence his Wild West season in Paris, May 16. After the Parisian season ends, the exhibition will proceed to London, where entertainments will be given in a building, much the same as those given in the Madison Square Garden two winters ago. Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, and possibly Madrid, will be visited in turn. The return to this country will be in about three years.

It will be a special night at the Siege of Sebastopol this evening when Gov. Waterman will attend. For this occasion new set pieces of fireworks, specialties, novelties and a mammoth firework portrait of Gov. Waterman.

Manager M. B. Leavitt has booked He, She, Him, Her, for a summer engagement at the Bush Street Theatre.

The following letter explains itself:

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20, 1889.

MISS ETHEL BRANDON,
Alcazar Theatre:

In appreciation of your versatility and earnest endeavors to please and entertain the public professionally, also of your social qualities, we, the undersigned, tender a testimonial.' The management of the Alcazar have kindly named Monday evening, the 6 th of May. Trusting you may accept, with best wishes and respect, we subscribe ourselves,

Yours cordially,

WALTER H. LEVY.	W. S. WOOD.
F. W. LAWLER	R. B. MITCHELL.
J. F. SULLIVAN	CRITTENDEN THORNTON.
GEORGE H. GARBER.	JOSEPH M. NOUGUES.
W. W. FOOTE	W. H. L. BARNES.
C. O'CONNOR.	LOUIS SLOSS.
JOHN H. DICKINSON.	T. J. CLUNIE

C. D. Bennett has been engaged by J. K. Emmet to create the leading juvenile part in his new play, Uncle Joe. Mr. Bennett is a clever, intelligent and handsome young actor who is sure to make his mark. Next season Mr. Bennett will star in a new play by a well-known author.

Mr. Henry E. Hoyt, (not the comedy writer) is designing one of the big ballet scenes for the coming spectacular production at the Chicago Opera House, of Bluebeard Jr., or Fatima and the Fairy. Miss Edith Murilla, the soubrette in the Still Alarm, will play the part of Fatima during the coming summer. Miss Murilla is one of the best and most original dancers upon the stage.

The partnership between Robson and Crane comes to an end May 11th, which will be the date of their last performance at the Star Theatre.

Harry Mann has arrived from New York—to stay, this time. He is to be the acting manager of the New California Theatre.

Miss Ethel Brandon has a testimonial benefit at the Alcazar Monday night, when the Two Orphans will be produced.

Arthur B. Chase, manager for Booth & Barrett, is in town.

Mr. Holloway, manager of Mattie Vickers, arrived Thursday.

The New California Theatre opens on Monday week with the Booth & Barrett Company in Othello, which will keep the stage the week out. Booth as Othello and Barrett as Iago Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. On Wednesday and Saturday nights they will change characters.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Sothern's next week's comedy, "The Highest Bidder," has no reference to the auction sale of seats for the New California Theatre next Tuesday.

Kate Claxton re-appears in New York, May 6th, at the Windsor Theatre.

Kate Forsythe has decided to produce The Tigress in London in August.

The opening night seats of the New California Theatre will be disposed of at auction. It is the only way to keep the speculators from gobbling them all up ahead, as they intended to. The sale will take place at the Baldwin Theatre on Tuesday, at 11 A. M., by Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., the choice of boxes being sold first. After, the seats in the circles will be sold. Booth and Barrett open in Othello.

Imre Kiralfy produced The Black Crook at the Brooklyn Academy of Music April 22 with renewed magnificence of scenery, costumes and grand ballets. Upward of 300 people were employed in the representation, including the Onger sisters, who made a hit in their wonderful aerial performance.

The religious observances of "Holy week" had no effect on the business of Edwin [illegible] and Lawrence Barrett their re

A Midnight Bell is in its eighth week at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y. where it will easily make a run of 100 nights. The attendance continues to be very large at every performance and the Bell is ringing as merrily as it did on the first night of its production.

Mlle. Rhea as a land speculator is in luck. Sometime since, at the instance of a friend, she purchased lots in Seattle for which she paid $5 000. A number of capitalists bought land all around her's which has so increased in value that it is worth today $60,000.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's minstrel season is limited to two weeks at the Bush. In speaking of this company the New York Herald claims that they "cannot be too highly commended," the New York Star pronounces them "the best," and the Boston Globe declares that "Boston has never seen their equal."

Of their performance at the Bush the Chronicle says: "A minstrel performance with anything novel in it is almost as rare as a white blackbird, and yet the modern miracle was presented last evening by Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels at the Bush Street Theatre. It is an actual fact, incredible though it may seem, but there were new songs, new jokes and new attractions of different kinds, all of which served to take the performance out of that well worn and dreary rut which is known as the minstrel show. The troupe has three very clever minstrels in it, Carroll Johnson, Bob Slavin and Burt Haverly, and a number of lesser lights who add to the interest and fun of the entertainment. Bob Slavin has, or seems to have, a good deal of originality about him, and Carroll Johnson and Burt Haverly do not appear to feel bound to travel in the beaten track all the time. Jay Quigley, too, aids materially in carrying out the fun of the evening, and looks so preternaturally solemn that the contrast with the others is laughable in itself. Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time; and as this kind of entertainment is always popular here when well done, there is no reason why their two weeks' engagement should not fill the Bush Street Theatre every evening."

Baldwin Theatre.

The Baldwin presents E. H. Sothern in Lord Chumley, supported by his own company, for his second week. The play is carefully constructed and sustains its interest well. Sothern plays the title role somewhat as his father did Lord Dundreary. He makes the part fit him to a nicety. It is the neatest of dramatic studies. Mr. Bishop makes a strong part of Adam Butterworth.

Mr. Sothern's support is good. Herbert Archer gives a finished characterization of the French villain, Le Sage, and all the cast act their parts acceptably.

Mr. Sothern produces his comedy success The Highest Bidder, on Monday for his last week at the Baldwin.

Alcazar Theater.

The richly picturesque drama of the Sea of Ice, with Miss Effie Ellsler as Louise de Lascours Miss Ethel Brandon as Diane de Lascours. Frank Weston as Raoul, and the favorite comedian L. R. Stockwell, as Barabas, the sailor, has drawn largely at the Alcazar this week.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit on Monday night, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles. The beneficiary is an attractive and a popular actress, and has many friends in society.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman definitely announces the opening of the New California Theatre for Monday evening, May 13th, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece. Seats for the first night will be sold at public auction on Tuesday at 11 A. M. in the auditorium of the Baldwin Theatre; Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., auctioneers. The regular sale of seats for all the performances will commence on Wednesday at Sherman & Clay's music store.

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are playing a good engagement at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announce

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

This week, the last week of the Wards' engagement, Hector O'Halloran; or, Marriage is Not a Failure, with James M. Ward in the title character and Carrie Clark Ward as Kitty.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here next week as Tom Trunnion in the five-act drama of The Yankee Sailor in Brazil. Mr. Darrell Vinton re-appears in the strong part of Palmedo, Mr. Dale as Manuel.

The play gives pictures of the social and slave life in Brazil and abounds in dramatic incidents.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

Manager Wood gives us a genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Mitchell and Billy Shannon. The new specialty people are the Gottlobs, Edwin Barry, Alfred Roncovierie, Brown & Mason, Franks & O'Dell, Binten and Nellie Hephard.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The new people for next week are Young Whistler, Prof. Pasco, Rosina Evans, Sadie Fairfield, Minnie Ellsworth, Amy Walters and Billy Watson.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new people this week are Leo, Lang's Comiques, Antonio Martinez and Paul La Drew. The old favorites are retained. E. R. Lang's version of Dan Mason's comedy, entitled A Bunch of Jays, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast and not a "jay" among them—but a clever set of performers who create a deal of fun in it.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Bursell, Billy Parent, Effie Hull and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

The new faces next week are Dolly Sharpe, Sam Lang, Campbell & Nibbe and John Mortell.

Hallinan's Cremorne Theatre.

Tommy Donnelly, Dick and Ida Cummings, Martin & Rushton and the original Eclipse Quartette are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Della Turner, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Big Bertha has been re-engaged and appears every night.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from the Primary Pro Bono Publico, with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Little Lord Chumpy is the intervening act.

The laughable farce, Waiting for the Good Time, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Merriam, Lillie Mason, Pearl Iola, Bob McDonald, Charles Franks, Geo. O. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Franks & Morrison give another of their original Hebrew specialties. The Disgusted Pawnbroker, and Geo. O. Dunham is down for a neat turn.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 5th, a grand picnic and ball at Seaside Gardens.

Sells Brothers & S. H. Barrett's United Circus.

The great exhibition given by this three-ring double circus and menagerie closes on Sunday night. The display of equestrian, arenic and specialty talent is immense, and its menagerie is the most complete ever exhibited here.

There is a matinee given Sunday. Take in the circus before it leaves, for you will not see another one like it here very soon.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Pain's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills, cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along the line, and as the battle rages the noise of explosives, the blowing up of forts and the great flashes of flames become thrillingly exciting.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver: the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

FULL PROGRAMMES of all the Leading Theatre in San Francisco can be found in FIGARO—the only paper that has them.

SPECIALTY SQUIBS.

Harry W. Robinson, the minstrel and minstrel manager, "the man with the silver horns," suicided by morphine at Bloomington, Ill., on the 5th inst. He was poor and a sufferer from paralysis.

They are having a six days' go-as-you-please race at Madison Square Garden, New York, which started at midnight on Saturday. We will not be afraid to compare the time records of our race, which starts in the Mechanics' Pavilion on the 9th, with the New York one. We have the most noted pedestrians in our race.

They have a lightning driller at the Siege of Sebastopol that knocks out old lightning himself in quickness of movement. When he gives his rifle a twirl it makes the stars blink.

L. DeGrean, a well-known trapeze performer, was seriously injured, on May Day at the New Pleasure Gardens on Temple St., Los Angeles, by the giving away of the ropes that held the trapeze. DeGrean was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken to the hospital.

The Call opines that "Carroll Johnson is a very clever minstrel, has a fine voice, is a neat dancer and has plenty of genuine humor. He deserves to rank with Billy Emerson, the king of minstrels," but Bob Slavin's monologue specialty takes the cake in quaint humor.

Manager George H. Wood of the Vienna Garden Theatre has by his able management made his house a popular resort. The house is crowded to overflowing at every performance, and the programme is an excellent one.

The poor player of the present times is the local baseball player. The Call says: "The game at the Haight street Park yesterday (Thursday) afternoon was poorly attended, and the exhibition was in keeping with the size of the audience. The Sacramentos and Oaklands played one of the most tiresome games of this season. The Chronicle burned them up in this way: "If there had been during the game one single redeeming feature, the burlesque might have been in a measure overlooked, but there was not, and the players and managers deserved the guying they received, and it is impossible to censure them too highly." The score was 19 to 10. The public are losing interest in baseball, very naturally, with such playing.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week. Charley Morrell and Tommy Morris contribute excellent specialty turns, and J. H. Burns is good in character parts.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Whistler and Prof. Pisco, give a three-round boxing contest every night that makes so warm that the Vienna's audiences "boil" over with excitement.

Reilly & Woods' New Big Show is drawing big houses at the Opera.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a new programme at the Bush this week. The town is taking the minstrels in.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

The Comique's bill is very strong in its musical features. Matt Travers' fine tenor and Miss Braddon and Miss Morina's voices are heard in medleys and concerted pieces with fine effect. It is a very popular feature of the Comique's bill.

The bill at the Eureka this week has met with great favor. The ladies are heard to good advantage in well selected songs in the olio.

Cort's Standard, Portland, Oregon, April 29. Mlle. Gonetta, Dixon, Miller & Mason, Edward Bond, Carrie Bolgley, Musical Fletcher, new, old favorites retained. McSorley's Picnic concludes the performance.

Cort's Standard, Seattle, April 29. The Tredors, Carrie Delmar, The Fremonts and Lenzo, the Juggler new, all the old favorites retained.

Clinton's Theatre, Royal, Portland Or., April 29. The Phoites, Jennie Fowler, J. G. Rialy, Stanley & Hayes, new.

Arion Theatre, Butte City, week of April 29: Heeley Bros., Everett & Stanley, Minnie Flynn, Morrissey & Rich, Kittie Loreine, Fisher & Wall, Allen & Forrest, Dollie Weston, Kittie Chapman,

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

S. Bonnet, the French actor and vocalist, a resident of San Francisco for nearly forty years, died in Oakland on the 4th inst., at the age of 63 years, of chronic gout, which has made him an invalid for several years. In the days when they had regular Sunday night dramatic performances in French in this city, Bonnet at times acted as manager of the season and was always a most popular member and the main reliance of the French company. He was held in high esteem, and was warm-hearted in tendering his aid in any charitable cause. He made his last appearance in public at the French celebration on the 14th of July three years ago.

The Two Orphans, with Effie Ellsler and Ethel Brandon as the parentless heroines, with L. R. Stockwell and Frank Weston in the leading supports, will be given for the last week of Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar.

Sothern appears in his comedy success of The Highest Bidder at the Baldwin this week.

Harry Mann has arrived from New York—to stay, this time. He is to be the acting manager of the New California Theatre.

Hattie Delano-Barnes, was in the cast of Donetta, the new comic opera, when it was produced at the Standard, N. Y. April 22. The opera has not proved the success expected.

Mrs. Potter will play Rosalind next season.

Mr. Charles Frohman will come to California this summer, with the Lyceum Theatre company, in the road business of which he is heavily interested.

Viola Allen will be a member of the Jefferson-Florence Co. next season.

The New California Theatre opens on Monday night with the Booth & Barrett Company in Othello, which will keep the stage the week out. Booth as Othello and Barrett as Iago Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. On Wednesday and Saturday nights they will change characters.

Rose Thorne has secured a divorce from her husband, Edwin F. Thorne, the actor. Mrs. Thorne was the divorced wife of Sam Harrison at the time of her marriage with Thorne. With the fair Rose marriage is evidently a bitter failure.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Buffalo Bill (Col. Cody) will commence his Wild West season in Paris, May 16. After the Parisian season ends, the exhibition will proceed to London, where entertainments will be given in a building, much the same as those given in the Madison Square Garden two winters ago. Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, and possibly Madrid, will be visited in turn. The return to this country will be in about three years.

Manager M. B. Leavitt has booked He, She, Him and Her for a summer engagement at the Bush Street Theatre.

The following letter explains itself:

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20, 1889.

MISS ETHEL BRANDON,
Alcazar Theatre:

In appreciation of your versatility and earnest endeavors to please and entertain the public professionally, also of your social qualities, we, the undersigned, tender a testimonial. The management of the Alaczar have kindly named Monday evening, the 6th of May. Trusting you may accept, with best wishes and respect, we subscribe ourselves,

Yours cordially,

WALTER H. LEVY,	W. S. WOOD.
F. W. LAWLER.	R. B. MITCHELL.
J. F. SULLIVAN	CRITTENDEN THORNTON.
GEORGE R. GARBER.	JOSEPH M. NOUGUES.
W. W. FOOTE	W. H. L. BARNES.
C. O'CONNOR.	LOUIS SLOSS.
JOHN H. DICKINSON.	T. J. CLUNIE

C. D. Bennett has been engaged by J. K. Emmet to create the leading juvenile part in his new play, Uncle Joe. Mr. Bennet is a clever, intelligent and handsome young actor who is sure to make his mark. Next season Mr. Bennet will star in a new play by a well known author.

Mr. Henry E. Hoyt, (not the comedy writer) is designing one of the big ballet scenes for the coming spectacular production at the Chicago Opera House, of Bluebeard Jr., or Fatima and the Fairy. Miss Edith Murilla, the soubrette in the Sid Alarm, will play the part of Fatima during the coming summer. Miss Murilla is one of the best and most original dancers up on the stage.

The partnership between Robson and Crane comes to an end May 11th, which will be the date of their last performance at the Star Theatre.

Miss Ethel Brandon has a testimonial benefit at the Alcazar this evening, when the Two Orphans will be produced.

Arthur B. Chase, manager for Booth & Barrett, is in town.

C. W. Holloway, manager of Mattie Vickers, arrived Thursday.

High Tide is the title of Miles & Barton's new play.

Sothern's this week's comedy, "The Highest Bidder" has no reference to the auction sale of seats for the New California Theatre on Tuesday.

Kate Claxton re-appears in New York, this week, at the Windsor Theatre.

The opening night seats of the New California Theatre will be disposed of at auction. It is the only way to keep the speculators from gobbling them all up ahead, as they intended to. The sale will take place at the Baldwin Theatre on Tuesday, at 11 A. M., by Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., the choice of boxes being sold first. After, the seats in the circles will be sold. Booth and Barrett open in Othello.

Kate Forsythe has decided to produce The Tigress in London in August.

The three St. Felix sisters will return from a two years' tour of England in July.

A Midnight Bell is in its eighth week at the Bijou Theatre, N. Y. where it will easily make a run of 100 nights. The attendance continues to be very large at every performance and the Bell is ringing as merrily as it did on the first night of its production.

Mlle. Rhea as a land speculator is in luck. Sometime since, at the instance of a friend, she purchased lots in Seattle for which she paid $5 000. A number of capitalists bought land all around her's which has so increased in value that it is worth today $60,000.

The Silent Partner is the name of Joseph Polk's new comedy.

EVENING EDITION.

MONDAY.....APRIL 6, 1889

FIGARO is the Official Journal of all the Leading Theatres in San Francisco, and the only paper that publishes their full programmes.

AMUSEMENTS, ETC.

Leavitt's New Bush Street Theatre.

Johnson & Slavin's minstrels introduce several new acts for their last week here. In speaking of this company the New York Herald claims that they "cannot be too highly commended," the New York Star pronounces them "the best," and the Boston Globe declares that "Boston has never seen their equal."

Of their performance at the Bush the Chronicle says: "A minstrel performance with anything novel in it is almost as rare as a white blackbird, and yet the modern miracle was presented last evening by Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels at the Bush Street Theatre. It is an actual fact, incredible though it may seem, that there were new songs, new jokes and new attractions of different kinds, all of which served to take the performance out of that well worn and dreary rut which is known as the minstrel show. The troupe has three very clever minstrels in it, Carroll Johnson, Bob Slavin and Burt Haverly, and a number of lesser lights who add to the interest and fun of the entertainment. Bob Slavin has, or seems to have, a good deal of originality about him, and Carroll Johnson and Burt Haverly do not appear to feel bound to travel in the beaten track all the time. Jay Quigley, too, aids materially in carrying out the fun of the evening, and looks so preternaturally solemn that the contrast with the others is laughable in itself. Taking it all in all, singing, dancing and acting, the Johnson & Slavin Minstrels are the best that have been in San Francisco for a long time; and as this kind of entertainment is always popular here when well done, there is no reason why they should not fill the Bush Street Theatre every evening."

That favorite comedian, Nat C. Goodwin, puts in his appearance next week, supported by his own company, among whom is Bob Hilliard, one of New York's former idols of dudedom.

Baldwin Theatre.

Mr. Sothern produces his comedy success The Highest Bidder, for his last week at the Baldwin. It is in this piece that he achieved his reputation, and chronicled a run of over 100 nights at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, on its first production.

Alcazar Theater.

Miss Ethel Brandon, the talented stock star of the Alcazar company, will be a worthy recipient of a testimonial benefit this Monday night, when The Two Orphans will be produced with Miss Effie Ellsler and Miss Ethel Brandon in the leading roles. The beneficiary is an attractive and a popular actress, and has many friends in society. The play is a remarkable melodrama and presents a strong round of characters and picturesque dramatic situations.

New California Theatre.

Manager Hayman definitely announces the opening of the New California Theatre for Monday evening, May 13th, with Booth and Barrett as the inaugural attraction. They have chosen Othello as their opening piece. Seats for the first night will be sold at public auction on Tuesday at 11 A. M. in the auditorium of the Baldwin Theatre; Shainwald, Buckbee & Co., auctioneers. The regular sale of seats for all the performances will commence on Wednesday at Sherman & Clay's music store. The rush for the opening will be an immense one.

Orpheum Opera House.

Reilly & Wood's Big Show, headed by the famed Vaidis Twin Sisters, are in their goodby week at the Orpheum this week. This is a specialty company of acknowledged first-class talent in its every department—a company of artists whose acts in finish and style have been endorsed by the press everywhere.

The company embraces such names as Delaur & Debrimont, Melville & Stetson, Napier & Marzello, John G. Sparks, to say nothing of Pat Reilly, the best of Irish character specialists and comedians.

See list of company in programme announcement elsewhere on this page

The Big Show is drawing houses.

Morosco's Amphitheatre.

Managers Morosco & Byrnes have put in a most complete fireproof partition between the stage and the auditorium, from wall to wall of their big theatre. It is constructed of iron lathings on both sides of the studding. The decorators are just finishing the immense ceiling of the theatre with harmonious panels.

George Turner, a young and popular character actor, appears here this week as Tom Trunnion in the five-act drama of The Yankee Sailor in Brazil. Mr. Darrell Vinton re-appears in the strong part of Palmedo. Mr. Dale plays Manuel.

The play gives pictures of the social and slave life in Brazil and abounds in dramatic incidents.

Time nor seasons have no influence on Morosco's business—it is always good.

Matinees Sundays, at 2 P. M. Admission, 10 cents. Front reserved seats 10 cents extra.

The Battle of Vicksburg.

The grand panorama of the Battle of Vicksburg at the Panorama Building, corner of Eddy and Mason streets, is one that no American should fail to see. It gives a grand view of the battle with the conflict at its height on the land and the bombardment from the river with the correct positions of the engaging forces and the proper placement of the ironclads in the bombardment. It is a great painting, and excels the Battle of Waterloo in graphic power and vivid reality. Destruction reigns on every side. The burning buildings, the bursting shells, the desperate charges, the hand-to-hand conflicts, and the dying and wounded, all depict with startling realism one of the hottest conflicts in history.

Open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Vienna Garden Theatre

Not to take in the Vienna is to miss seeing one of the prettiest rural places in the city, and one that by the good management of Mr. A. Larsen, ably assisted by his director of amusements, Mr. Geo. H. Wood, "the somewhat different comedian," has become one of our most popular family resorts.

The new people for this week are Young Whistler, Prof. Pasco, Rosina Evans, Sadie Fairfield, Minnie Ellsworth, Amy Walters and Billy Wetson.

Manager Wood gives us another genuine sensation this week in the scientific exhibitions of Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco. Edwin Barry, the Gottlobs, Jos. D. Green and Bob Harrison introduce new specialties this week.

Business is steadily good at this commodious gothic cottage embosomed among the trees. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Bella Union Theatre.

The new faces this week are Dolly Sharpe, Sam Lang, Campbell & Nibbe and John Mortell.

Campbell & Nibbe's laughable satire, entitled Scenes in Stockton, opens the evening's entertainment, with all the company in the cast.

Wm. Devere, Conchita, George Drew, Burnell, Ida Howell, Rose Sidell and the Stanley Sisters are still ahead as favorites.

The ladies of the company come in for a full share of the applause and crowd the male contingent very closely.

Hallman's Cremorne Theatre.

John D. Linden, Gibbons & Ford and Judd London are the new people for this week.

Hayes & Marion, the black stars, in another of their specialties; Miss Flora Hastings, Ruby Everett, Jennie Haywood and May Morrell continue their success of last week.

Johnnie Cain, the odd and funny comedian, contributes his specialties in a manner that brings down the house, and the Cremorne plays to large patronage every night in the week.

Original Theatre Comique.

The entertainment commences with a few remarks from Frisco's Favorite Funmakers with an original grand finale by the company. Charles Morrell with his gripsack full of fun and Tommy Morris in another of his amusing sketches fill in the middle part of the programme.

The Comique presents an entire new bill this week, with songs and afterpiece.

The comical farce-comedy, Mixtures, is the 1st rtude act.

The laughable farce, The Boomers, with all the company in the cast, concludes the bill and the evening's fun.

The Comique's company is a strong one. It is a neat, compact minor theatre, and for many years has been a popular one.

Eureka Music Hall.

This is one of the neatest and most popular of our minor theatres. Manager Walterstein runs a very strong company.

Edith Morrison, Laura White, Maggie Gordon, Stella Merriam, Stella Walton, Pearl Iola, Chas. Berkeley, Charles Franks, Geo. C. Dunham and others appear in a round of specialties, acts and afterpiece. The specialty people are all good, and do their best to make the evening enjoyable.

Berkeley & Howard, the society sketch artists, make their re-appearance this week in their celebrated international melange, Enlisted.

Franks & Morrison give another of their original musical specialties, Nic-Nacs, and Geo. C. Dunham is down for a neat turn.

The Eureka gives a matinee every Sunday.

Sunday, May 12th, fourth annual picnic of the Societa Operata Italiana Di Mutuo Soccorso at Seaside Gardens.

The Siege of Sebastopol.

Paln's Siege of Sebastopol is a most realistic picture of war. The exhibition occupies the block bounded by Hayes, Baker, Lyon and Fell streets.

The Hayes street cars take you directly to it.

Before the immense auditorium with raised seats for thousands is an artificial lake, 250 by 75 feet, representing the Bay of Sebastopol. On the far side is the fortified city, with built-up counterparts of its forts and towers, with the famed Malokoff in the centre.

Prior to the storming, lightning, rifle drills cutlass drills, cavalry exercises, spy capturing, and other incidents of camp life are exhibited.

When the assault begins fire opens all along

SPECIAL ANNOUNC

In order to prevent speculation, the seats for ths sold at Public Auction by Shainwald, Buckbee & Co. 7th, at 11 A. M., at the Baldwin Theater.

PRICES—Parquet and Parquet Circle, $3; Dress Dress Circle, other rows, $2; Gallery, chairs, $1; Ga Boxes, $25.

THE REGULAR SALE OF SEATS—Will comm 8th, at 9 A. M., at Sherman & Clay's Music Store.

You feel the shock of the explosions and see the walls tottering before you as the assaulting forces charge the great Malokoff, and you fee like raising a cheer as the French flag is raised over its ruins.

After the burning of the city comes the pyrotechnic pean of victory. Here is where Messrs. Pain of London, the getters up of the exhibition, who supply the British Navy with all their signal rockets, bombs, etc., and furnish all the fireworks for the royal celebrations excel. Flights of rockets and bombs fill the air, sending down showers of gold and silver; the lake becomes alive with fiery fountains, and its far shore with meteoric fireworks and standing pieces, forming at every performance the best pyrotechnical display and one of the most bounteous ever given in San Francisco.

Performances given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings. The intervening time will be required to repair the damages of the bombardment and replace the $1,000 worth of pyrotechnics used at every performance.

Numbered reserved seats on sale at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s music store, and at the newsstands in the principal hotels.

Mechanics' Pavilion—The 6 Days' Race.

The six days and six nights' go-as-you-please race commences at the Mechanics' Pavilion Thursday evening at 10 o'clock, and promises from the value of the purses and the class of contestants entered to turn out the greatest event of the pedestrian kind ever on this coast. There is a prize purse of $2,500 in addition to the gate money to be divided among the winners. James Albert, the champion of the world, with a record of 621 miles in six days, has come here to run against Hart, Moore, Howarth, Vint and others. Dan Herty, with a record of 605 miles, is another emigrant from the East with the first purse as his object.

As the walkers have decided that none others than those who cover 525 miles during the six days shall be entitled to any share of the gate receipts, the race will be for blood from the start.

It is sufficient to add that Frank Hall manages the race to warrant that everything will be fair and square.

AD FINEM.

The act is drawing to an end;
The lights are growing dimmer;
Farewell to sad and joyous friends,
Life's glamor and its glimmer!
We've done our best to play aright,
And wend a path uncertain;
The stage is fading from our sight—
Ring down, ring down the curtain!

How joyous was the morning scene,
With all its songs and laughter!
Its smiles—perhaps a tear between—
To sweeten gladness after!
There comes a part that all must play,
'Tis read with eyes uncertain—
A new stage waits, we cannot stay—
Ring down, ring down the curtain!

So long we've stood beside the wings,
To do the part that called us—
The triumph that its acting brings
In memory's oft enthralled us;
But now farewell the passing show,
The pageant, wild, uncertain!
Another way our feet must go—
Ring down, ring down the curtain!

What matters it, if, rich or poor,
We've trod the boards before us,
The fraud, the meek, the prince, the boor
Must join Death's final chorus—
One scene, one act, one cue, one call

The wires tells us that Lotta was acting in Muzette at the Opera House, Easton, Penn., on Saturday night, when, in performing, she fell very heavily to the stage. The audience did not for a moment realize that she was injured, but she left the stage, and a few minutes afterward her stage manager announced that Lotta was in great agony from the effects of the fall and that she could not appear again. The curtain was run down, and the audience dispersed. At a late hour that night Lotta was suffering severely from the injury to her back.

The following pretty fable is going the rounds of the newsy English papers: Colonel McCaull, manager of one of the New York theatres, was not satisfied with the gloomy expression on the countenances of his chorus girls, and proceeded in his usual gruff manner to explain to them the necessity of coming before an audience with a

PROFESSIONAL PICKINGS.

The auction sale of seats to-day for the opening of the New California Theatre was a great success, yielding in aggregate premiums a large amount of money. The first box sold, held at $25, brought $210 premium. The other nine boxes realized from $95 to $17 50 advances. In selling the seats—held at $3—purchasers took their choice in parquette circle and dress circle, and nearly all the seats were sold in these circles at premiums ranging from $13 50 to $5 The regular sale of seats commences to-morrow at Sherman, Clay & Co.'s, the box office of the theatre not being ready yet.

Margaret Mather has a new play which she intends to produce soon.

S. Bonnet, the French actor and vocalist, a resident of San Francisco for nearly forty years, died in Oakland on the 4th inst., at the age of 63 years, of chronic gout, which has made him an invalid for several years. In the days when they had regular Sunday night dramatic performances in French in this city, Bonnet at times acted as manager of the season and was always a most popular member and the main reliance of the French company. He was held in high esteem, and was warm-hearted in tendering his aid in any charitable cause. He made his last appearance in public at the French celebration on the 14th of July three years ago.

The Two Orphans, with Effie Ellsler and Ethel Brandon as the parentless heroines, with L. R. Stockwell and Frank Weston in the leading supports, will be given for the last week of Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar.

Sothern appears in his comedy success of The Highest Bidder at the Baldwin this week.

The Siege of Sebastopol is reproduced every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday night. It is a big show.

The New California Theatre opens on Monday night with the Booth & Barrett Company in Othello, which will keep the stage the week out. Booth as Othello and Barrett as Iago Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights. On Wednesday and Saturday nights they will change characters.

Mattie Vickers, follows Effie Ellsler at the Alcazar Theatre. The engagement is for two weeks.

Buffalo Bill (Col. Cody) will commence his Wild West season in Paris, May 16. After the Parisian season ends, the exhibition will proceed to London, where entertainments will be given in a building, much the same as those given in the Madison Square Garden two winters ago. Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, and possibly Madrid, will be visited in turn. The return to this country will be in about three years.

They have a lightning driller at the Siege of Sebastopol that knocks out old lightning himself in quickness of movement. When he gives his rifle a twirl it makes the stars blink.

Manager M. B. Leavitt has booked He, She, Him and Her for a summer engagement at the Bush Street Theatre.

Mr. Henry E. Hoyt, (not the comedy writer) is designing one of the big ballet scenes for the coming spectacular production at the Chicago Opera House, of Bluebeard Jr., or Fatima and the Fairy. Miss Edith Murilla, the soubrette in the Still Alarm, will play the part of Fatima during the coming summer. Miss Murilla is one of the best and most original dancers upon the stage.

The partnership between Robson and Crane comes to an end May 11th, which will be the date of their last performance at the Star Theatre.

A. C. Wheeler (Nym Crinkle) has written a play for little Tommy Russell in which he will star next season.

Miss May Amber, a young and clever actress will be the leading lady of Louis James' company next season.

Next Monday night at the Gaiety Theatre in Dublin, W. J. Scanlan will make his first appearance in Ireland.

Rose Coghlan opens her next tour in Jocelyn at the Baldwin Theatre in San Francisco in August.

It is stated that Edward Harrigan is trying to secure a lease of Amberg's Theatre on Irving Place, New York, for next season.

Fanny Davenport will continue under

THE DUDES' CIRCUS.

The dude-anointed society "four hundred" of New York have been giving evidences of their intellectuality by showing what they could do as amateur circus performers to an exclusive audience from their own numbers. This ridiculous affair came off in a riding-school building near the country seat of a Mr. Waterbury at Pleasaunce (which is French), in Westchester county, near New York. The swells had been in coaching and training for months for the exhibition, and accounts say that they showed admirable aptitude for certain lines of the circus business.

For instance, Howard Potter played ringmaster, and really cracked his whip the same and appeared as stupid as most ringmasters do. There were other gentlemen "who had often led the german in the best society circles"—Mr. Thomas H. Howard, Washington Kane, Gordon Fellowes, Marion Story, Livingston Beekman, Rawlings Coltinet, V. Sorchow, R. F. Potter, E. R. Potter and Robt. Hargous—who played supers. They toted in and out the ring the spring-boards, mattresses, trapeze nets, etc., held the banners and did other menial work in a very creditable way, and might have passed for real supes if it had not been for a certain awkwardness of manner and confusion occurring at times, notwithstanding their extensive coaching, and for the pronounced expensiveness of their supers' costumes and silk tights—the latter said to have cost $60 a pair (padded).

Other society gentlemen played the clowns to their hearts' content. There were some good exhibitions of horsemanship and gymnasium work, but the hit of the evening was made by Mr. Frederick Beach, "who had sacrificed his moustache," and appeared in abbreviated gauze skirts and flesh colored extremities, made up as a female rider, and went through some monkey-like business on a horse as Mme. Fredericks, the Queen of the Sawdust. This was a howling success, and, to quote from the Examiner's dispatch, "the shouts of laughter and storm of applause that followed every part showed how keenly the audience appreciated his efforts."

The dispatch further tells us that this snob event, this pitiful evidence of the damphoolism of the age, is estimated to have cost Mr. Waterbury, who was the originator of the affair and acted as host for the occasion, about $30,000.

This performance had been in preparation since January last. The riding-school rink had been leased, teachers provided to teach the participants to play circus, and the clowns to sit down suddenly without hurting themselves. The interior of the building had been "converted into a palace" for the event. A special New York train was chartered to bring the elite to the nearest station, where a long line of stages conveyed them to Pleasaunce. After the circus came a grand ball and a costly supper. Then the stages bore the guests to the station, the special train whirled them by early daylight back to New York, and the $30 000 Vanity Fair, worthless as a soap-bubble to all useful purposes, had had its airy existence.

MISS ETHEL BRANDON'S BENEFIT.

The Alcazar held a crowded house last night when The Two Orphans was produced. Its first performance was a special benefit tendered to Miss Brandon, the popular and clever leading lady. It was a flattering testimonial to her, for nobody, since the great operatic prima donna, has had so many or such beautiful floral compliments. There were some score of very handsome and extensive flower pieces of all designs and they represented a great deal of money. In addition she was presented with a diamond ring, the gift of Mrs. Wallenrod, the wife of Mr. George Wallenrod, the lessee of the theatre, the presentation being made by Mr. Carden. Miss Brandon made a most feeling reply and retired amidst the plaudits of the enthusiastic audience. Another compliment to the lady was that the Veteran Gvard, Grand Army of the Republic, marched into the theatre after the first act with fife and drum and occupied several rows.

Miss Brandon has done some excellent work during her connection with the Alcazar Theatre, and has always done her level best, no matter whether the part entrusted to her was a subordinate or a leading one. Her womanly qualities and goodness of disposition have won her many friends. Miss Brandon contemplates an Eastern trip in the near future to visit friends and relatives in Philadelphia and vicinity. We wish her a bon voyage.

J. P. BOGARDUS,

Harry W. Robinson, the minstrel and minstrel manager, "the man with the silver horns," suicided by morphine at Bloomington, Ill., on the 5th inst. He was poor and a sufferer from paralysis.

Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels present a new programme at the Bush this week. The town is taking the minstrels in.

The Call opines that "Carroll Johnson is a very clever minstrel, has a fine voice, is a neat dancer and has plenty of genuine humor. He deserves to rank with Billy Emerson, the king of minstrels," but Bob Slavin's monologue specialty takes the cake in quaint humor.

Besides the vaudeville company at the Vienna, those experts in the manly art, Young Whistler and Prof. Pasco, give a three-round boxing contest every night that are so warm that the Vienna's audiences "bile" over with excitement.

The Comique presents an entire new
